Britain To Build Atom Bomb May Test It In Nevada Desert

Bomb Will Be All-British Minister Tells House

Have Technical Capacity

Start May Have Been Already Made At One Of Four Research Centres; Further Details Expected Next Week

LONDON, March 17. (Reuters)—Britain has decided to produce her first atom bomb, it was authoritatively learned today. It will be built without direct aid from the United States and may be ready in the near future. Supply Minister George Strauss told Parliament last week that Britain has the technical knowledge to produce the bomb. According to unconfirmed reports, Britain will ask the United States Atomic Energy Commission to make a testing site available for the first bomb.

British experts are understood to be anxious that the weapon should be tried out in the Nevada desert, where American atom tests took place last month.

Further details of Britain's new advance in atomic research are expected to be sought from the supply minister in parliament next week, but meanwhile officials refused to commit themselves.

Britain has two atom research centres—at Harwell, Berkshire, and Sellafield, Cumberland — where intensive work has gone on since the end of the war. Thousands of radioactive isotopes have been produced, and in January Britain started large-scale production of plutonium, vital atom component which can be used as an alternative to uranium 235.

The first bomb — work may have been going on for some time under a top-level security net—will be entirely British in planning and manufacture, it was understood. American experts will not be brought in.

Chinese Reds Mass South Of Border Lash Back At Allies

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, March 17. (AP)—More than 200,000 Chinese Communists were massed today in Central Korea south of Chunchon—the base they must hold to stay south of the 38th Parallel. An Allied intelligence officer in Seoul said there were signs the hard-pressed foe may have to pull back soon all the way to that artificial boundary for North and South Korea. Rushing in fresh troops the Reds lashed back with ground arms and artillery from good ridge defences below Chunchon, eight miles south of the 38th Parallel. Their outposts drove off Allied patrols probing the outer defences.

This was the first sign that the Reds had decided to end days of retreat and try to hold along a new defence line.

"However, there are indications that the enemy feels he cannot hold this line in view of our superiority of equipment," an Allied officer said, "and he may withdraw to the 38th parallel."

Allied warships, planes and ground forces have combined to inflict heavy losses on the foe.

170,000 Killed

More than 170,000 Reds have been kiled or wounded in ground action since the Allied offensive began Jan. 25. The Eighth Army claimed 950 for Friday.

A belated naval announcement said 8,000 Reds were killed or wounded Thursday by warship bombardment of barracks near Wonsan, on the northeast coast.

That biggest single day's bag of the war by the navy smashed a base which feeds troops down to the central front.

Although cloudy weather hampered operations today, Allied planes Friday night bombed five trains trying to sneak down to the front. One 35-car train loaded with vehicles was destroyed, pilots said. Six cars of another 10-car train exploded.

The attacking planes helped set a record Friday of 1,123 sorties by the Far East air force. One component, the U.S. Fifth Air Force flew a record 829 sorties. Pilots claimed they killed or wounded 650 Reds.

Allied patrols were beaten back while trying to move north Saturday from recaptured Hongchon in Central Korea toward Chungchon, a distance of 15 miles.

6 Lost In Storm Found In West Blizzard Shifts

By The Canadian Press

Six of seven Alberta persons missing in a storm have been found unharmed in the wake of an unseasonable blizzard which today was moving slowly eastward across the Prairie Provinces. One death has been reported to date.

Five of the missing persons were discovered last night on a farm near Alix. They were identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Pocock, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Purres, all of Lacombe. The five, on their way home yesterday when their car became snowbound, apparently walked to the farm.

A sixth missing person, Norman Nichols, turned up safe in Edmonton last night after leaving his stalled truck stuck in a snowdrift near the city.

Car Abandoned

The only person still unaccounted for early today was Elmer Hiller of the Three Hills district in Central Alberta. He was last seen yesterday as he started for his home, 17 miles distant. His abandoned car was found last night.

Only death to date was reported in Calgary, where a 69-year-old hospital convalescent, Thomas Irvin, was found frozen to death behind a billboard yesterday.

Meanwhile, the storm itself was reported moving slowly eastward, leaving snarled communications and transportation tie-ups in its wake.

The Dominion Weather Office at Edmonton reported late last night that the worst was over for Alberta, although cold air was moving into the province.

Ontario Escapes

The storm at midnight was centred in Southeastern Saskatchewan. It was expected to move further east during the day. but the weather office in Winnipeg said neither Manitoba nor Ontario would feel the full effects of the blow.

Transportation problems were the biggest headache created by the worst March storm to hit the West in a long time.

All highways and side roads in Alberta and Saskatchewan were blocked by huge snowdrifts. Many communities were virtually isolated.

Prince Albert, in Saskatchewan's north, last night was ripped by winds reaching gale velocity of 40 miles an hour. Driving snow strangled all transportation there.

Church Demands Film Banned

TORONTO, March 17 (CP).—A demand for withdrawal of the National Film Board short, "Toronto: Boom Town," is contained in the leading editorial of the United Church Observer, official organ of the United Church of Canada.

The editorial in the current issue of the Observer describes the film as "an offence to church-going people."

"After all, Toronto is more than a stock exchange, a hole in the ground, lewd liquor joints, and games on Sunday," it says.

"It has some churches, too, but perhaps it is too much to ask that a church or two be included."

Rev. A. J. Wilson is the editor of the Observer, which asks Resources Minister Winters, whose portfolio includes responsibility for the Film Board, to have the film withdrawn and the "offending parts" removed.

18 Moslem Terrorists Get Hard Labor Terms

CAIRO, March 17. (Reuters)—Eighteen Egyptians, reported to be members of the outlawed Moslem Brotherhood, today were sentenced to hard labor terms ranging from one year to three years on charges of terrorist activities.

The Moslem Brotherhood was banned in December 1948, after a police drive against political terrorism following the assassination of Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha.

The accused were charged with attempting to seize power by force of arms, political assassinations, exposing the lives of the people to danger and criminal complicity in outrages during the Arab-Jewish war.

Mrs. Pitre To Hang Scores Judge

Third Sentenced For Plane Murder Jury Out Half Hour

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC, March 17. (CP)—Death by hanging July 20 was ordered last night for the woman who delivered a time-bomb to an airliner that bore 23 persons to their doom. Third person convicted of murder in a plot hatched in lowertown haunts, hefty 42-year-old Mrs. Arthur Pitre was found guilty by a French-speaking 12-man jury that deliberated only 29 minutes. Her trial lasted two weeks.

The involved affair led to the destruction of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane at Sault au Cochon, Sept. 9, 1949.

Crowd Cold

A cold, unsympathetic crowd that packed the courtroom, hall and balcony heard her weep through most of crown prosecutor Noel Dorion's plea for a guilty verdict and the judge's instructions to the jury.

But, once the verdict was returned, she met the crowd's glare boldly when she was asked if she had anything to say before sentence was pronounced.

I Am Innocent

"Yes," she said raising her voice above the din of the courtroom, "I have something to say.. for the sake of my children. I am innocent . . ." And she went on to say "Christ was condemned by Pontius Pilate and delivered into the hands of Caiphas."

She turned on the judge: "Now it is your honor. That is all I have to say."

Elderly Mr. Justice Noel Belleau did not rise to put on the customary black tricorn and gloves before passing sentence.

In a soft-spoken voice he told her she had been convicted of a horrible crime. At the words "to be hanged by the neck" the heavy

Wealthy Women Buy Husbands

MIAMI, Fla., March 17 (AP)—The Miami Herald said last night it had uncovered a "fantastic purported plan to auction off unmarried Miami men as husbands for wealthy women tourists."

The paper said it began an investigation of an advertisement offering a unique proposition" for single men after two applicants phoned and said they had been asked frankly if they wanted to "marry for money."

Reporter Richard Rundell wrote that he went to the Miami Beach address in the ad and was told by a man who identified him self as Stan Farber:

"I specialize in handling unique propositions. This is the dilly of them all. I represent an organization which is frankly gathering a group of eligible young men for sale to wealthy women as husbands."

Farber was quoted as saying the "sale" would be in the form of a series of sealed-bid auctions to be held at "a large Miami Beach Hotel in two or three weeks."

The organization would get 10 per cent of the sale price and the happy bridegroom would keep the rest, Farber explained. He added he had received 27 applicants since th ad appeared in the Herald Thursday.

Toronto Milk Drivers Threaten Strike

TORONTO, March 17 (CP).—A strike which would cut off milk deliveries to Toronto homes was threatened today.

Dairies informed the Milk Drivers' Union (AFL) that they cannot put into effect the wage increases recommended by a conciliation board. Reason given was that milk prices have been frozen by the Ontario government.

The union, which represents 1,700 dairy employees, reacted by announcing it would take a strike vote at a membership meeting on Sunday.

J. D. Buchanan, president of the union, said the men might withdraw their services next Monday. However, the union would try to avert a walkout pending a meeting with Labor Minister Daley Mohday.

Dairy employees were due to receive a $3-a-week increase and milk prices were due to rise one cent a quart. But the government froze prices pending establishment of a four-man board to regulate milk sale.

US Investigates Supply Scandal

FRANKFURT, March 17 (AP) American officials today investigated sales of United States army surplus equipment in which big European operators are suspected of reaping fabulous profits.

Some of the American equipment is believed to have gone to help arm Russian satellite countries.

The West German government was asked to freeze all property in the hands of Steg, the German State Corporation set up to dispose of army surplus. Records of one Frankfurt company dealing with Steg were seized yesterday.

District Attorney W. Fred Johnson said the firm was believed connected with George Dawson, a British business man who has dealt heavily in army surplus property. A Congressional investigating committee in Washington has reported "preliminary evidence" that Dawson made $100,000,000 from these dealings.

Johnson said the firm's books will be audited to see whether the company has been shipping army trucks into Soviet-bloc countries, and whether there is any indication of collusion with Steg.

Hunt Stone Of Scone In Scottish Village

INVERASDALE, Scotland, March 17 — (Reuters) — The countrywide police hunt for the missing Coronation Stone hovered today on this tiny village in the Scottish Highlands.

Two English detectives today paid a second visit in 24 hours to a little cottage here. They came first last night, talked behind closed doors for two hours and went away.

The cottage is the home of the mother and a grandmother of Catriona Mathies, 23-year-old school eacher who is said to resemble a woman spotted near Westminster Abbey in London on Christmas Day when the historical Stone vanished. It was removed apparently by Scottish Nationalists.

Police officers questioned Miss Mathies yesterday. She said afterwards that she told them that she was not in London last Christmas.

She is a member of the Glasgow executive committee of the Scottish Convention, a group set up to win Home Rule for Scotland.

Farm Committee To Study Milk Price Ceiling Plan

TORONTO, March 17. (CP)—The Ontario Government's emergency legislation to put ceilings on retail milk prices was given rapid approval in principle by the Legislature yesterday and will be sent to the Agriculture Committee Tuesday for detailed study. Premier Frost told the House he hoped the bill could be given royal assent by Wednesday to allow the revamped four-man Milk Control Board to begin public hearings on retail price ceilings in the province's various milk markets.

A price freeze imposed Thursday will remain in force until the board pegs maximum prices, the Premier said.

Opposition members withheld several objections to the Bill yesterday to permit it to be sent to the Agriculture Committee. Agriculture Minister Kennedy indicated he would permit the committee to amend the Bill after hearing representatives from the farm, dairy and consumer interests.

Consumers

Those three interests will be represented on the new Milk Control Board under Judge A. B. Currey, Manitoulin district judge. Consumers were not represented on the former board which dealt only with wholesale prices.

Judge Currey has also been named sole arbitrator in wholesale price disputes, to replace the present three-man board.

Mr. Frost told the Legislature the Control Bill is aimed at encouraging price competition under the ceilings. Competition, expected when retail controls were dropped in 1948, had not materialized and now "the limited number of distributors under the present arrangements have this matter in their own hands."

Girls Jump Faster If Danger Threatens

LONDON, March 17 (Reuters) —Investigators have knocked another corner off the crumbling defences of the "stronger sex."

They did it with a "jump-to-it meter," which proves to their satisfaction that girls think faster than boys when it comes o getting out of a jam—fast.

The meter was devised by the West London Road Safety Committee. It measures the time the children took to return to the sidewalks of an imitation road after a horn had sounded danger.

Ferry Fails To Reach Dying Woman In Time

KINGSTON, Ont., March 17—(CP)—The story of a futile struggle through thick ice to rescue a stricken woman on nearby Wolfe Island was told yesterday by weary rescue workers.

Crew members of the Wolf Islanders toiled for more than two days to reach Mrs. Edith Bustard, suffering from a serious stomach ailment. She died Thursday before aid could reach her.

The ferry had to turn back because of the thick ice. Some passengers were taken the last half-mile to the island in ice punts.

The Wolfe Islander was being refitted when the rescue call came in. Engineers under Elmer Cain worked for 48 hours before the ferry was able to start the trip.

Catholic Church Ousts Czechs

VATICAN CITY, March 17 — (AP) — The Roman Catholic church today excommunicated all persons who had a part in the banishment of Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague and who participated in other acts against the church in Czechoslovakia.

The excommunication, announced today in a decree of the consistorial congregation, also included priests and prelates who were appointed to church positions by the Czechoslvak government. Presumably this includes Rev. Antonin Stehlik, the parish priest appointed as Archbishop Beran's interim successor last Saturday.

The decree declared that recently in Czechoslovakia many bishops have been impeded in their ministry and many priests have been jailed or deported. It specifically mentioned the action against Archbishop Beran. All who had a part in these acts, it said, are excommunicated and cannot be absolved except by the Pope. Excommunication bars Roman Catholics from the sacraments of their church.

BULLETIN

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., March 17 (CP).—Two persons were killed and one critically injured last night when an automobile in which they were riding collided head-on with a transport truck on a hilltop curve here.

Killed were Mrs. Evelyn Cooke, real estate dealer, of Newcastle, Ont., and George Aubrey Stone, 34, of Newtonville, Ont.

Injured, and in critical condition today in hospital. was Stone's mother, Mrs Linda Stone, 64, of Newcastle, who suffered a skull fracture.

The truck driver, identified by police as Wallace Corlet, 36, of Essex, Ont., was unhurt.

Holland Boosts Defence Money

THE HAGUE, March 17 — (Reuters)—The Netherlands is to spend an extra 2,000,000,000 guilders (about $533,400,000) on Atlantic Pact defence measures in the next four years, Prime Minister Willem Drees announced today.

In a statement of decisions made by the new government, formed Wednesday after a seven-week cabinet crisis, he told the Dutch parliament of new taxes. It was proposed to increase income tax, company tax on profits, turnover taxes on less-essential articles and taxes on motor vehicles. It was also proposed to introduce an excess-profits tax.

Drees said half the extra defence expenditure would be covered by the increased taxes and the other half by loans.

He confirmed the new government's intention to extend the conscription period from 12 to 18 months and to recall demobilized soldiers for refresher courses.

Report Plane Down

PARIS, March 17.—(AP)—The French News Agency said today a plane believed to be an American B-29 was reported to have crashed in the Pyrenees Mountains on the border of France and Spain.

Australia Gov't To Hold General Election

CANBERRA, March 17 (CP).—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that both Houses of Australia's Parliament will be dissolved Monday and a general election held April 28.

Menzies delivered to Governor-General William J. McKell yesterday written reasons to support his request for dissolution of Parliament. Authoritative sources said McKell, first Australian to be appointed governor-general, apparently took the stand that he had to accept the coalition government's advice in the matter.

Menzies is repored to have felt that Parliament is unworkable because the Labor majority in the Senate has consistently battled the House of Representatives where Menzies commands a majority.

A coalition of the Liberal and Country party won a majority in the House in the last general election, but the Labor party, which the coalition defeated in December, 1949, retained a majority in the Senate through hold-over members.

Menzies made the announcement of the double dissolution—the second one in Australian history—on the steps of Government House following his interview with McKell. The new Parliament is expected to assemble in June.

Senators are elected for a six-year term, one-half of the 60 members up for election every three years. However, in the case of prolonged disagreement with the House, the Senate may be dissolved and a new Senate elected.

Canada Delegate To UN Dies

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., March 17 (CP).—R. G. (Gerry) Riddell, head of Canada's permanent delegation to the United Nations, died here yesterday of a sudden heart attack.

The 42-year-old Riddell, held in high regard by U.N. delegates with whom he worked on top international problems, was stricken during a long-deferred week's vacation taken at the persuasion of his superiors.

Burial is expected to be at Ottawa Monday.

His wife, the former Katherine Page Dobson of St. Thomas, Ont., and two children—John, 8, and Susan, 3, were with him when he died at a Virginia Beach hotel.

Riddell, appointed to the U.N. post last June, succeeding Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, had been working under the daily pressure of public and private meetings on the full range of U.N. problems which are topped by the war in Korea.

L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister said of Riddell, formerly his special assistant:

"He asked for only one thing—to be allowed to do a job as a public servant to Canada, and he succeeded in doing that.

Montgomery To Get Pact Appointment

LONDON, March 17 — (AP).—A Defence Ministry spokesman today said appointment is expected soon of Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery to one of the top posts of Gen. Eisenhower's supreme headquarters Atlantic Pact in Europe.

He said Montgomery's command of the five-power Brussels Pact military group is gradually dwindling away, and its function is being taken over by Eisenhower's command.

Private Firms To Develop Alberta Oil

By The Canadian Press

One of the world's great potential sources of oil—the oil sands of Northern Alberta—will be developed under private enterprise.

Premier Manning told the Alberta legislature yesterday that a number of groups have expressed interest in the vast oil-laden sands, but that the government has not yet received any development proposals.

Provnice Welfare

He said the deposits will be developed under private enterprise "but with full safeguards as far as the welfare of the province is concerned."

The province operates a pilot plant in the area, conducting experiments into the problem of extracting the oil from the sands. Chief difficulty has been the high cost of separating the oil from the sand.

While Alberta was discussing its chief industry, legislatures elsewhere were considering matters of importance to the people they represent.

Increase Royalties

In Halifax, Mines Minister MacKinnon said "discussions have taken place and are taking place" regarding increased coal royalties to Nova Scotia coal mines. He indicated the mining companies would be asked for their suggestions on the subject.

In Fredericton, the New Brunswick legislature for the third year in a row unanicously approved a motion asking federal aid for the potato growers of the province. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island plan to present their arguments for the subsidy to the federal government. The New Brunswick legislature adjourned for its Easter recess and will reconvene March 27.

The Newfoundland Legislature argued the local effects of Dominion income taxes, and Supply Minister Philip Forsey agreed with a statement by Frank Fogwill (PC-St. John's East) that Dominion taxes were "completely foreign" to the nature of the new province.

Milk Prices

In Toronto, the Legislature gave quick approval to a bill setting up a milk board with power to set maximum prices to the consumer in all sections of Ontario. Milk prices in the province have been frozen until the board gets around to dealing with applications for increases.

The Saskatchewan Legislature voted unanimously to enter into agreement with the federal government for a plan of old-age pensions of $40 a month without a means test to every Canadian at the age of 70.

Ottawa Said Goat On Debt

OTTAWA, March 1 —(CP)—Canada's chief accountant thinks the Federal government has been the goat long enough on a $2,678,000 obligation, assumed at confederation, which has cost three times that much in interest.

Watson Sellar, auditor-general, has told the public accounts committee it's high time the obligation—representing money Ottawa never got—was paid off to stop the annual payment of five per cent interest to Ontario and Quebec. Ontario gets $71,000 a year, Quebec $62,000.

The committee indicated agreement with him. Members said they would consider a recommendation to the government in their final report.

School Areas

The story of the obligation unfolded by Mr. Sellar was intriguing.

More than 100 years ago 1,000,000 acres were set aside in what now are the western Ontario counties of Huron, Grey, Bruce and Perth for support of schools.

It was allowed to be sold at 10 shillings an acre—currently about $1.50—and at confederation there still remained some to be sold.

It became a great issue between Ontario and Quebec at that time and an arbitration board in 1870 finally had to tell Ottawa to continue as custodian of the money taken in and of the land to be sold. It said distribution would have to wait until the land was all sold.

In the 1890s, it was decided how much each province was entitled to and the fight then swung to the amount of interest Ottawa should pay on the total. This was settled by another arbitration board at five per cent and Ottawa has been paying five per cent ever since, or a total of around $7,500,000 since 1893.

And the greatest catch of all is that Ottawa never got the $2,678,000 obtained for the land—it had been spent by the provinces.

Argentine Paper Critic of Peron Grabbed By Gov't

By REGINALD WOOD

BUENOS AIRES, March 17. (AP)—La Prensa—one of the world's great newspapers—ceased to exist as an independent organ last night. It passed into the control of a congressional committee dominated by supporters of President Juan D. Peron. A resolution ordering a joint senate and house investigating group to seize the newspaper—chief critic of the Peron regime — was whipped through a special session of the Peron-dominated congress yesterday in less than eight hours.

The 81-year-old morning paper —biggest in the Spanish-speaking world—has been silenced for 51 days as the result of a combined boycott and strike by government-controlled unions.

Whether the committee of six deputies and three senators starting work next week will try to reopen La Prensa is a question still unanswered.

Employees' Fate

Also open to speculation is the fate of La Prensa's 1800 employees of whom 1,300 expressed loyalty to editor-publisher Alberto Gainza Paz.

He could not be located for comment today. Gainza Raz has been charged with violating state security — but details of the charges have not been forthcoming and no trial has been set.

The resolution calling on the Congressional Committee to seize La Prensa to probe its affairs, including its financial structure, was seen as a move only one step short of outright expropriation.

Introduced by the ruling Peronista Party, it passed the House of Deputies first, after four hours of tumultuous debate. The vote was 85-14. A small group of opposition radical party leaders fought desperately to have the measure shelved as a violation of press freedom. In the Senate, where the Peronista Party has no opposition, the measure passed 18-0.

Minority leader Arturo Frondizi, a radical, said the La Prensa closure was forced by a phoney labor conflict "hatched high in the official circles of the government."

J. Breckenridge Twp. Clerk 33 Years, Dies

Clerk and treasurer of Asphodel township for 33 years, J. J. Breckenridge, 82, died Friday at his home in Hastings. He had retired from farming 16 years ago.

Born in Otonabee township, he was the son of the late Matthew Breckenridge and Elizabeth Shearer. He attended school in Otonabee and studied at Peterborough Business College, later settling in Asphodel township.

His wife, the former Hannah Shearer, died in 1938.

Mr. Breckenridge is survived by three daughters, Elizabeth at home, Mrs. Eric Merrell, (Helen) of Dartford, Mrs. Grace Kyto of Toronto, one son, William on the homestead, and two brothers, Thomas of Indian River and William of Coldsprings.

The body is resting at the Mather funeral home, Keene, until Saturday, when it will be moved to Mr. Breckenridge's home in Hastings for funeral Monday at 2 p.m. The Rev. N. Cole of Hastings United Church will officiate, and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

600 Will Attend Holstein Dinner

Peterborough Holstein breeders expect to have an assembly of 600 men and women at their annual dinner Wednesday, March 28 at Club Aragon.

They are bringing from Antigonish, N.S., as guest speaker, Monsignor M. M. Coady of the extension department of St. Francis Xavier University who is going to speak on adult education.

It is understood that in the background of his inspiration and narrative has been the actual experience of a large section of the people of the Maritimes, part of the great Canadian family who were compelled by economic distress to put their hands to action for themselves.

The results of their enterprise have been told in lectures and magazine articles. Mons. Coady is bringing this message to Peterborough as the invited speaker of the Holstein-Friesian Association of this country.

This is the main event of the rural commodity groups this season, and it is understood that already quite a number of city people who are interested in the Nova Scotia experiment have already bought tickets.

Occupy Hongchon

Hongchon was pinched off and occupied Thursday. The last pocket of Chinese in the Hongchon area was wiped out Friday.

The Reds fired their most intensive artillery barrage of the Korean war in defence of Chunchon. But Allied guns poured back 50 shells for every one from the Reds.

AP Correspondent Leif Erickson reported from Eighth Army headquarters that four Chinese army corps were believed to be employed southwest and southeast of Chunchon.

Another four were believed to be in reserve to the north.

United Nations troops advanced elsewhere, but the Eighth Army cloaked their positions in secrecy.

20 Miles To Go

The Allies were believed to be less than 20 miles from the 38th Parallel at numerous points.

On the east-central front, an American force pushed north of Yudong against light opposition. This was in the same area where the Americans had to use their bayonets to advance Thursday.

Gen. McArthur returned tonight to Tokyo from his 13th visit to the fighting front and told correspondents it was "just a routine trip to see my old friends, the Marines. I found them in splendid shape, just as always. Everything on the front is going well."

He appeared fresh after a 60-mile jeep trip to the Central Korean front. The general flew to Sunwon, took another plane to Wonju and then went by jeep over rough Korean roads to Hongchon.

Engineer Freed Of Manslaughter

WETASKIWIN, Alta., March 17 —(CP)—Wilfrid J. Gray, 65, former chief engineer for Leduc Utilities Ltd., last night was acquitted on 10 charges of manslaughter and two of criminal negligence.

The 12 counts, heard as one charge, were in connection with an explosion and subsequent fire at the Leduc Hotel in nearby Leduc last Nov. 11. Ten persons died in the disaster and 16 others were injured.

The six-man jury deliberated only 25 minutes in reaching their verdict of not guilty.

The supreme court trial started Feb. 26. About 49 witnesses were called and 108 exhibits were entered as evidence.

Guay Hanged

J. Albert Guay, a young jeweller, was hanged Jan. 12 for organizing the plot to kill his wife Rita, so that he could collect $10,000 insurance on her life and marry a pretty 19-year-old waitress.

Genereux Ruest, Mrs. Pitre's crippled brother, is scheduled to be hanged Sept. 21 for making the detonating device used in the bomb. Hearing of his appeal is scheduled for April.

Mrs. Pitre had been Guay's confidant, giving secret abode to the waitress, Marie-Ange Robitaille, purchasing dynamite for him less than a month before the plane explosion and finally delivering the lethal parcel aboard an airliner, the crown charged in the case.

Testified

She was the only one of the three accused of murder in the plot to testify in her own defence. Her evidence, marked by wisecracks and rilings against police, largely maintained her story that she thought the "parcel" contained a statue.

Mrs. Pitre may be the first woman to go to the gallows in Canada since 1946. If the sentence is carried out, she will be the 11th woman to be hanged in this country since 1867.

Awaits Sentence

COBOURG, March 17 (ENS)—Arrested earlier this week while trying to peddle a pair of stolen trousers, Archibald McDougall, no address, pleaded guilty to theft in court yesterday and was remanded for sentence. McDougall stole the trousers from a local store and 15 minutes later was trying to sell them in a local beverage room. He failed to make a sale there and was picked up by police who spotted him trying to sell the pants to a passerby.

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH NEITHERCUT

The death occurred at Peel Memorial Hospital, Brampton, on Friday of Joseph Neithercut, aged 78, after a few days' illness. He was born in the township of Otonabee, moving with his parents to Dundalk in 1881, settling in the Mayburne district, Melanchton township. About 20 years ago he moved to Brampton. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Nellie Mortimore, also one daughter, Mrs. Gerald Bartlett (Evelyn) and two sons, Frank of Cooksville and Mervin of Hamilton. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon.

Mr. O. S. Matchett, 113 Maude St., is a cousin.

MRS. JOHN ARCHER

Mrs. John Archer died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Bothwell of Springville. She had been ill for only a short time. Mrs. Archer was born in Smith Township, Isabella, daughter of the late Andrew Young and Alice Darling, and except for the last five years in Springville, had spent all her life in Smith Township. Her husband, John Archer, predeceased her.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Harry Bothwell (Ruby) of Springville, and Mrs. Earl Mann (Mildred) of Detroit. There is one son Harold Archer of RR 2, Smith, and one sister Mrs. James Montgomery of Dundalk, and two brothers, Thomas Young, Souris, Man., and James A. Young, Smith Township. Mrs. Archer was a lifelong member of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at 2 p.m. at the Belleghem Funeral Home. The Revs. W. Leaton of Gilmour Memorial and E. F. Linstead of Springville United Church, will officiate, and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Robt. A. Dobbin

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Robert A. Dobbin, of Lots 5 an 6, Concession 11, North Monaghan township, was held on Friday at the Belleghem Funeral Home. Mrs. Dobbin died in hospital on Wednesday at the age of 80, following a short illness. The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church officiated and pallbearers were Clarence Hancock, Harold, John and Gordon Moncrief, Allan Burdett and James Anderson. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Big 4 Try Again For New Agenda

PARIS, March 17 (AP). —The Big Four deputies—seeking to set up an agenda for a foreign ministers' parley—met again today to try to iron out disagreements which have stalemated the sessions up to now.

A French spokesman called the talks "a fencing match" and said the deputies had arrived at "a point of suspension."

However, another western official who had been pessimistic in the past about the chances of success, indicated they might reach a solution next week.

The issues are the same as they were when the deputies began their talks almost two weeks ago. The Russians want the foreign ministers to talk about demilitarizaion of Germany in accordance with the Potsdam Agreement and about reduction of armaments among the four powers. They say these are the most important issues.

Andrei Gromyko, Russian delegate, has not given a final "nyet" (no) to the latest Western version, and there are hopes he might receive new instructions from the Kremlin which would enable him to give a little ground.

London Youth, 19, Given Reform Term

COBOURG, March 17. (ENS)—John Rhyness, 19, of London, Ont., was sentenced to 12 months definite in the reformatory when he appeard for sentence yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering with theft.

He was arrested a week ago by local police who had only the fact that a grocery store robber had blonde bushy hair, as means of identification. Rhyness was seen robbing a store by a passerby at 11:15 at night and from the street lights and a match the robber was holding, the pedestrian noticed his bushy hair.

Next day police saw a youth with a wild-looking hair-do walking along the street and after questioning him charged him with the theft. It was learned that he had only been out of the reformatory a few weeks for a previous store robbery.

Driver Remanded Charge Of Drinking

William Morgan, of 315½ Murray St., was today charged with drunk driving and remanded on $200 bail to Monday. No plea was taken.

Morgan and Pte. Robert Lock, a passenger in the car driven by Morgan, were arrested at 10:20 Friday night by PC's D. M. Stark and Edward Patterson. Lock, charged with being drunk, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Police say that Morgan was driving east on King St., and hit a parked car on the left rear fender. Morgan did not stop the car until he reached George St.

PC Stark placed both men under arrest; Morgan fought and Lock walked away. PC Patterson helped the other constable find Lock, who was caught near a Charlotte St. hotel.

Both men were "in a drunken condition", police say.

Chamber Holds First Dinner

HASTINGS, March 17 (ENS)—The Royal Hotel, Hastings, was the scene of the first Chamber of Commerce dinner on Thursday, with an attendance of 60.

The president, A. Orr, was absent due to illness and the vice-president, Max Humphries, acted in his place. The Rev. J. M. Ritchie pronounced grace.

At the conclusion of the dinner, a toast to the King was proposed. Mr. Humphries opened the meeting with the chairman's address and then called on the guest speaker, Trevor Hammel, of Toronto, special field representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Hammel gave an address outlining the aims and objects of the Chamber of Commerce and the benefits that can be brought to a community.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Hammel answered questions put to him. R. Burnham moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Hammel and the meeting adjourned.

Charge Montreal Man After Welcome Crash

COBOURG, March 17 (ENS)—Two people were taken to Port Hope hospital Friday afternoon following a collision at Welcome between a car driven by Joseph Belisle, age 46 of Montreal, and a transport driven by Russell McCartney of Toronto. Belisle received cuts and bruises and a passenger in his car, Miss Rita Ratte of Montreal, sustained facial lacerations and a possible broken jaw.

Police said the Montreal motorist failed to stop at the Welcome Corners stop-sign and ran into an eastbound truck. He was charged with failing to stop at an intersection. Provincial Constable W. Baluk of Cobourg investigated.

Two Youths Charged In Theft Of Tools

Two city youths appeared in police court today charged in connection with theft of tools from the Nelson Construction Company. Both were remanded to Tuesday on bail of $500.

They are: Claude Johnston, 18, Oxford St., and James Miles, 17, Lansdowne St. No plea was accepted from either youth.

Johnston is charged with receiving stolen goods and Miles is charged with breaking and entering, and theft.

The breakin took place last November and Miles was arrested Friday by Provincial Constable Lorne Stinson.

Gov't Wins In House Fight On Wheat Issue

OTTAWA, March 17—(CP) — The Commons has turned to the job of giving the Indians a new deal after disposing of the controversy-laden wheat issue for the time being.

The involved and acrimonious six-day debate over the government's proposed $65,000,000 payment to wheat growers ended yesterday with the defeat of a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the administration.

It probably will be resumed again when the government puts before the House the actual money vote needed to cover the disbursement it has decided upon to compensate western producers for the outcome of the five-year wheat contract with Britain.

Win Two Votes

Meanwhile, the Liberals whipped the combined Opposition forces yesterday on two wheat votes.

On the Progressive Conservative motion criticizing the government's wheat-handling policies, it won by a vote of 112 to 42.

Later, it defeated by a margin of 51 to 27 a C.C.F. motion that would have made it mandatory to close out each one-year wheat pool two months after the July 31 close of the crop year.

Both Opposition motions were tacked on as amendments to a bill of Trade Minister Howe altering the Wheat Board Act by authorizing the government to transfer unsold grain from one pool to that of the succeeding year.

Mr. Howe said the aim of the measure is to expedite closing out the pools by the transfer of small, unsold remnants at prices designated by the government after consultation with farm organizations. It was not proposed to use it to transfer large quantities.

C.C.F. Motion

The motion by Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) would have made the transfer of all remaining wheat mandatory by Sept. 31, and he said it was aimed at getting all payments out to participants by the end of the calendar year.

During the debate the minister said the question of transferring to the 1951-52 pool the big unsold balance of low-grade wheat harvested in 1950 was one for the option of the government. If there was a fairly stable market for feed wheat, the transfer would probably be made.

Indian Act

With the wheat question out of the way, the House talked late last night to Citizenship Minister Harris' bill amending the Indian Act to give the Indians more control of their affairs.

Mr. Harris told the House the government feels the Indians should be integrated into the community but not assimilated by the whites. They should have the same duties and privileges.

Annual Concert To Feature Four Attraction

The annual Members Concert of the Peterborough Community Concert Association to be given Wednesday night in the Collegiate auditorium promises to be attractive. It includes piano and vocal soloists, a string trio and a vocal quartet specially formed for the occasion.

The young pianist is Faye Schwartz, who is giving two groups, to include Beethoven, Chopin and Grieg. Lorna Stewart will sing two groups also, and her numbers include Tschaikowsky's Pilgrim's Song and Gluck's "O del mio dolce ardor" from Odpheus and Euridice. This contralto has won various festival prizes and appeared on the radio.

The Searles Trios, composed of Cecil Searles, violin, Gabriel Tatrallyay, a 'cellist who has lately come to reside in Peterborough, and Oliva Searles at the piano. They will play the Beethoven Trio Opus 2, number 4.

The Members' Quartet, directed by Christopher Gledhill, is made up of Alicia Langley Perry, soprano Jessie Spencley, contralto, Anthony de Noble, tenor, and Walter Dawson, bass. They will sing Elizabethan madrigals and airs, modern arrangements of Shakespearean lyrics, and two songs, one English, the other French-Canadian, which have been arranged specially by Mr. Gledhill.

H & S Group Holds Father's Night

CAMPBELLFORD, March 17— (ENS).—The Campbellford Home and School Association held their regular meeting on Wednesday evening, and departed from the usual form by including dancing and band music in the program.

Wednesday was Father's Night, and Ross Jewell of the teaching staff of the public school, took the chair. During the business portion of the meeting, a donation of $1 was made to the local Red Cross campaign.

The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church introduced the Rev. F. R. Vanderburg, guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Vandenburg told of the activities at Quin-Molac, a boys' camp in the Moira Lake area. The camp is non-denominational and extends over 300 acres of land. It is hoped this camp will eventually be developed into one of Ontario's finest, but it will be about a 10 year project.

The speaker also told of a recent idea being employed in Ontario to develop boys camps and other youth camps. The camps are termed "work camps," and are operated much the way similar camps are in Europe. Anyone can go to the camp for a period of time for a type of vacation, and pay one dollar per day for their board.

Toward the end of the evening square dancing was enjoyed, and Jim Mackie entertained on his violin. A lunch was served during a social period which followed.

Mrs. E. C. Davey will attend the O. E. A. convention in Toronto during Easter week, as a delegate of the Campbellford club.

Lawyer Disbarred

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)— Frederick George Bourne of Hamilton today was disbarred as a lawyer. The Law Society of Upper Ganada announced its discipline committee had fund him "guilty of professional misconduct and conduct unbecoming a barrister and solicitor."

The committee's report said Mr. Bourne "failed to account for clients' funds in his hands and appropriated them to his own use."

Two New Stamps Honor Borden, Mackenzie King

MONTREAL, March 17—(CP) —Two new stamps, commemorating two Canadian prime ministers —William Lyon Mackenzie King and Sir Robert Borden—will be issued within a few weeks, Postmaster-General Rinfret announced last night at the opening of the sixth philatelic exhibition of the Union Philatelique here.

This will bring to four the number of stamps issued in honor of prime ministers, two having been issued in honor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. Macdonald.

The King stamp will represent the prime minister sitting at his desk in Ottawa and will be a three-cent issue, while the Borden one will be four cents.

Mr. Rinfret also disclosed descriptions of stamps that will be issued to mark the centenarry of Canada's postal department. He said they would be four, five, seven and 15-cent issues, the first three depicting changes in transportation methods in Canada during 100 years. The 15-cent stamp will be a reprint of the first Canadian stamp, showing a beaver surrounded by a scroll.

The stamps will be issued in September.

Ontario's Milk

Something had to be done about milk in this province and something has been done. The price has been frozen and a new four-man milk control board is being set up to regulate the sale of milk. This board will have full authority to set maximum prices and to settle collective bargaining disputes which occur between producers and distributors. Its head is Judge A. B. Currey of Manitoulin Island; others on the board will be representatives of distributors, of producers, and, we are glad to note, of consumers.

* * *

The first Milk Control Board in Ontario was established in 1934 to stabilize prices during the Depression so as to prevent bankruptcy of the farmer. In essence, it was set up to put a floor price under milk. The new Board is being established primarily for the opposite reason: to keep milk prices from soaring beyond consumers' ability to pay, by establishing ceiling prices. In 1934 the farmer needed protection. In 1951 the consumer needs protection. Is it a tribute to the business ability of the distributors (the middle-men between farmers and consumers) that at both times and during the years between they have prospered?

* * *

The rising price of milk is not the basic problem. Milk is high because it is scarce. It is scarce because farmers have found they are better off selling beef than milk. Mr. John Turnbull, president of the National Dairy Council which met in Saskatoon this week said that Canada can now hardly meet home requirements. Yet for a century before 1949 Canada exported very large quantities of dairy products. The dairy cow population now is the lowest it has been in twenty years. There are half a million head less than there were five years ago. This has happened when the population is increasing, and also the individual rate of consumption.

* * *

Who can blame the farmer for killing dairy cows for beef and selling calves and heifers to the packing-houses rather than raising and milking them, if he can get more profit in beef and veal than in milk? Farmers are no more obliged than shop-keepers, manufacturers and wage-earners to accept smaller profits if bigger ones are around the corner. "The supply picture will continue to deteriorate unless present trends are reversed," the President of the Dairy Council warned. The trend can be reversed in only two ways: make beef less profitable or milk more profitable. There is, too, a third basic element: grain. If the price of grain were to fall it would be less profitable to produce grain than beef and dairy cows, and the feed for the animals would be cheaper—an incitement to more dairy production.

* * *

Milk production can be made more profitable in two normal ways: if the cost of production is lowered (lower wages, less labour, cheaper feed) or if the price paid the farmer for raw milk is increased. This latter is the part of the matter most susceptible to government scrutiny and regulation, and most politically important, for the dairies pay the farmer and get their money from the sale of milk to the consumers. In this transaction it is they who provide two profits, one to themselves, the other to the farmers. The farmers and the town householders are the two main voting groups. Thus, the farmer's situation in 1934 brought Government action; as the urban people's situation has done in 1951.

* * *

A Milk Control Board alone cannot reform the conditions, though it can see that profits are brought into line with costs, at both farming and dairy ends, and that the prices the consumers pay are equitable. In these regards, the Kennedy Royal Commission on Milk report in 1947 should be studied again. Its recommendations to reduce distribution costs are important. But fixing prices, putting on ceilings, and adjusting the relations of profits will not increase herds and milk production. The problem is with us yet, even though a new Milk Control Board has been established. Unless artificial changes are made—for instance, through government subsidies—which both the farmers and the consumers pay for in taxes—prices will have to go up unless beef and grain go down.

"Mysterious Tremor Felt Across Europe" says a recent headline. Nonsense. It's only Gromyko clearing his throat in Paris.

Canadian Speech Is Changing

The Montreal Star has been carrying an interesting controversy in its columns of Letters to the Editor. An Englishman began it by writing a letter in which he said he found Canadian speech slovenly, ungrammatical and offensive; several Canadians have replied with indignation, and a few with some show of reason. It has all been very lively and stimulating.

Speech is a subject in which we are keenly interested, and we have observed that most people are insensitive to the kind of bad speech which they hear every day; but when they go elsewhere, they are ready to find fault with the speech of strangers. There is a great deal of bad speech in Britain, among both educated and less educated people. It is, however, a different sort of bad speech from that which may be heard in Canada. Britishers often display an exaggerated sensitivity to our kind of bad speech, as we in our turn do to theirs.

We are of the opinion that speech in Canada has improved noticeably during the past twenty years, or so. Whether this is the influence of radio—for some very good speech may be heard on the radio, though not always where you might expect it—or simply because Canadians are becoming more sensitive on this subject, we cannot say. But we think that radio has something to do with it, and also the development of a small but vigorous native Canadian theatre, and Little Theatre. We may surprise some of our readers, also, by saying that we think that our politicians, whom we may now hear on the radio, have improved our native speech; Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Drew and Mr. Coldwell all speak in a way which is Canadian without being provincial, and we commend a study of their voices to students of speech.

The notion is gaining ground in Canada that to speak carefully is not necessarily to be stand-offish and pernickety. And among people of well-developed social feeling it is recognized that a pleasant voice is a better means of communication than a nasal, monotonous whine. The Ontario whine may still be heard, but not so much among people who are forced to meet great numbers of people professionally or in the way of business. Neatness and good quality in speech, like neatness and good quality in clothes, are recognized as part of an acceptable business personality.

The late Lord Tweedsmuir said that Canadians had the crunching of ice in their voices; he meant it as a compliment, but we may wonder whether the crunching of ice may not become a little monotonous. We need a livelier tune in our speech, and a greater variety of tone. We need, in fact, to be conscious of our speech, and proud of it. The Scots are proud of the way they speak, and some of them speak superbly. The Irish are proud of their speech, and they handle words with a special magic. And the speech of the best sort of English speaker has clarity and nobility not surpassed by any other English-speaking people. Surely we can hope for a little individuality in Canadian speech, and some distinction? Let us melt some of that ice of which John Buchan spoke.

Transportation Plans Important

The Royal Commission on Transportation has tabled its report and it will have to be studied with care both inside and outside of Parliament before its provisions can be adequately assessed. The greatest single factor in the development and maintainence of Canada as a nation is her transportation. This is recognized in history; it is acknowledged by all provincial and Federal governments. The reason is, of course, that rivers, rails, roads and now airways have been the means of Canadian expansion and the threads which bind the vast nation physically together.

In other, smaller countries roads and rails have conspicuous but not all-important places in the national history and economy. In those countries communications need not be extensive; people cannot lose touch with each other, because they live next door to each other. In other big countries, the United States, for instance, roads, rails and airways are numerous and large, but they are not the life-streams of the nation, for the population is sufficiently numerous not to be isolated if communications break down. But in Canada, a land of nearly four million square miles inhabited by only fourteen million people stretched from coast to coast in a thin gappy 5,000-mile line, communications and transportation are as important as life itself. Our communities were established along river, rail or road routes; without these they could not have come into being. When the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada were formed, ministries of roads, rail and canals were among the first established. For the first thirty years of Canada's existence as a nation, governments rose and fell on their communications policies.

It is a measure of the importance of transport to Canadian life that every province has its Department of Highways, and one of the senior Federal Cabinet positions is the Ministry of Transport.

The Royal Commission report is, by reason of its subject alone, of the greatest importance to this country. Parliament must and will give it the prominence which any matters affecting transportation have always had in Canadian

Diary of a Northerner

SUNDAY: This evening listened to a broadcast of "Hamlet" from New York. Or rather, as the broadcast occupied an hour and a half, and "Hamlet" is a five-hour play, perhaps I should say that I heard a bloody and dismembered trunk of that mighty drama. John Gielgud, in the leading role, delivered the lines which were left to him nobly, but several of the actors spoke as though their surgeons, directed to perform a tonsilectomy upon them, had misheard their orders and carelessly completed an orchotomy. Ophelia, played by a Hollywood star, suggested that she was not merely insane, but tone-deaf as well. About a radio play there is always a strange and mystical phoniness, and a feeling that nobody really believes in what they are doing. And, of course, a Hamlet that one cannot see, is as much a ghost as his father,—a shadow of a shade.

MONDAY: A child of my acquaintance was displaying her skill with the yo-yo for my benefit today. She did the Elevator trick, Spank the Baby, Walk the Dog, Round the World, and the whole repertoire. I borrowed her yo-yo and attempted to recapture the skill of my younger days; as I never had any skill whatever with a yo-yo, I suppose I may say that I did so. The truth is, I was a great theorist of the yo-yo, but a poor practitioner. I could explain what made a yo-yo work, but could not persuade one to work for me. I read all the available literature on the subject, "L'Art du Yo-Yo", by Clares Marchand, "Der Yoyokunst" and "Die Yoyoweltanschauung" by Dr. Hermann Wurst, and "The Lives of a Bengal Yoyoist", by Sir Roger Rattlebotham. I formed a collection of historic yo-yos and gave it to the Royal Ontario Museum which promptly put it in the basement. But I could never work a yo-yo. It demands the kind of skill shown by people who can play cat's cradle, and fold pieces of paper into lifelike birds. The mystical relationship between the yoyoist and his yo-yo, which enables him to call forth the best from the apparently inanimate object, is one of the miracles of the World of Unimportant Things.

TUESDAY: Had a letter today from an Englishman who used to live in Canada, and who is homesick for this country. Now this is something of a wonder, for although emigrant Canadians who are anxious to return to their homeland are common enough, and Canadians who wish that they were somewhere else are lamentably common, it is unusual in my experience to find someone who loves Canada better than his homeland ....This country inspires many emotions, but love is not one of them. Pride, ambition, amazement, irritation, boredom—Canada can call forth all of these, but love....? One hears people saying that they must get back to the Highlands, or the South Downs, or the Mountains of Mourne, but who ever says that he wants to get back to the Great Laurentian Shield? This Englishman, who lived here for a few years, is the only example among my acquaintance. Perhaps Canada is too big to be loved, just as some women are too big to inspire the tender passion. And, when one loves something Canadian, one is so apt to find that one is really loving something which originated in the U.S.A., and which our ingenious countrymen have copied.

WEDNESDAY: Visited a fashion show this evening, and as always, I was lost in admiration of the pretence which women put up that dress is a very casual thing with them, and that they really don't care what they wear. The language of fashion is a study in itself; it is as complex and as far remote from ordinary English, as understood by the brothers Fowler, as the lingo of civil servants. Among other things shown was a very elaborate man-catching outfit, which the commentator said was distinguished by its "easeful smartness", and had been "shrugged on". Smart it undoubtedly was, but its easefulness was in some doubt; a couple of easeful rolls on the floor and it would have been in rags. Perhaps that was the idea. And as for being "shrugged on" — well, from where I was sitting I could see into the wings, and the mannequin approached her entrance with two stooges holding up the skirts of her clothes; they all looked as though they were carrying the robes of Sesostris, the Veiled Prophetess of Ecbatana, and if any of them had shrugged, the others would have torn her into strips with their nails.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Untimely spring thaws have released floods of water into my basement, and the usual vernal pool—known to the neighbours as Marchbanks' Swamp—has formed there. Over the years, I have tried everything to prevent this, except the obvious solution, which is to fill the whole cellar up with cinders and forget about it. I suppose that I could make a virtue of necessity by putting a few swans on my cellar pool and setting deckchairs and pretty tables around it; with the aid of photoflood lamps, a pleasing illusion of summer might be achieved. But what really worries me is the notion that some day water will wash away my foundations, and the Towers will collapse inward upon itself, and my body will never be recovered.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Attended an entertainment in a church hall this evening, and during the intervals some little girls sold fudge in aid of their Sunday School. They handed over a large sack of first-class fudge in return for ten cents, and this struck me as typical church economics, for there was at least twenty cents' worth of delicious, fattening sweetmeat in each bag. If these little girls had business instincts, they would reckon their overhead, time, cartage to the church, and materials, and would then sell the fudge at thirty-five cents a bag; but as no one could then afford to eat it, they would lobby for a government subsidy, which would pay them twenty cents on each bag of fudge, allowing them to sell for fifteen cents. As the fudge would still sell very well at that price, there would soon be a glutted market, and then they would get the government to buy their surplus fudge at the full retail price, and sell it to Europe for ten cents a bag. However, I did not explain these things to them, but contented myself with buying two bags of bargain fudge, and stealing another, which somebody, in the seats in front of mine, left behind them at the end of the entertainment.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: There are times, these days, when I receive the impression that I am living in the Deserted Village. Great numbers of people have Gone South for a holiday, and most of those who remain talk about the last time they were South, and wish that they were South now, and this gives a startling impressing that they really are South, and that I alone am North. I have never been South. In fact, New York is the most southerly point I have ever visited. I have no yearning for the South, which I imagine as a waste of sand, with an occasional palm tree, and a lot of Northerners sitting in deck chairs, wearing dark glasses. I suppose that there is really something wrong with me, or I, too, would want to go South. But my simple belief is that if my Creator had meant me to live in the tropics, he would have placed me there, and as He did not see fit to do so, I shall not fly in the face of Providence by shifting my ground. Am I a Negro, that I should hanker to run around in my bare skin under a hot sun? Am I Old Black Sam, that I should laze the hours away on a levee, waiting for the show-boat to round the bend? No. Somebody has to be a Northerner, and it looks as if I were elected.

"CLEAR OUT, YOU LOT! THE COMPOUND IS ROUND THE CORNER"

Letters To The Editor

BOARD SHOULD NOT FAVOUR THEATRE TO SATISFY MAJORITY

Sir: It appears from the mass of correspondence published in your columns that there is a misconception in the minds of some of your correspondents as to the functions of the Peterborough Board of Education in deciding the issues raised as to the use of the Queen Mary School Auditorium.

As I understand the problem, it is not a matter of either complying or contravening any regulation or directive or provision relating to the general zoning of the City of Peterborough. The fact is that at the date of writing this letter, I am informed there is no general zoning bylaw in the City of Peterborough. Consequently the issue cannot be decided on whether or not the use of the hall by the Summer Theatre contravenes or complies with any zoning regulation as indicated by your correspondent, Mr. Hubert Sills, who is a member of the City Planning Board. The problem therefore is reduced to the matter of an alleged nuisance.

When the complaint was brought to the attention of the Board of Education, the complaint was referred to the Board's solicitors for legal advice. Legal advice was received which, among other points, clearly indicated that if the facts complained of were true and correct (and there is no evidence or indication that they were untrue or incorrect) such created an actionable nuisance. Having received that legal advice, the Board as trustees for the ratepayers of the City of Peterborough would be most remiss and careless in its duties if, in the face of this legal advice, it proceeded to lease the school premises to the Summer Theatre group.

It is not a certainty but it is a possibility that litigation would follow if the Board disregarded the complaint in question. In view of the legal opinion, the Board would be unsuccessful in defending its action in such litigation with the result that it might very well be assessed with the costs of such unsuccessful litigation, which I may say in my opinion would be very substantial. It hardly seems to me wise under these circumstances to project the Board into the position of risking unsuccessful litigation at the expense of the ratepayers.

The Board of Education is an administrative body and cannot exercise any judicial functions with a view to determining private rights of ratepayers and especially the rights of the complainant in this particular issue. The Board cannot and should not decide the issue in favour of allowing the Summer Theatre to operate at the Queen Mary Auditorium simply because the majority of people desire the Theatre and a small group, or even a single ratepayer, complains as to the use to which the hall was put, alleging that such use interferes with the quiet enjoyment of his own property. It appears that if this issue developed into litigation that it would be the Court's function to decide on the merits of the complaint.

For the above reason I, as one member of the Board, was motivated in coming to the decision of offering Mr. Sadlier the alternative accommodation at the Collegiate Institute.

I, as one member of the Board, and I am sure the other Board members, in arriving at this decision, were not motivated by intimidation or by appeasement as suggested by some of your correspondents.

Yours truly,
W. B. GORDON.

ANY DISTRICT RESIDENTIAL

Sir: Any district where people live becomes a residential section. If the Summer Theatre is a nuisance in the vicinity of the Queen Mary School it is not likely to become something else around the Collegiate. There are houses in that district too, and people living in them.

If you live beside a large industry you cannot ask to have it moved, or if you live by the river you would not ask to have it moved.

Then let us have the Summer Theatre and in the place that suits it best.

Thank you.

J. HARRYMAN.

QUEEN MARY-RIVERSIDE CONTRASTED

Sir: As a great lover of the Summer Theatre I would like to say a few words. It has brought something cultural to Peterborough, a city of industries, that we otherwise would not have had. It has inspired and helped our local amateur theatricals.

Sure the Board of Education can act and do something about it. They are an elected body and must know the feeling and wishes of the people. But if they feel they cannot proceed alone let them take counsel with the City Council and between them thrash out the matter.

The arena district has its troubles. We very definitely have ours.

Let me give you a picture of the eastern side of the river in summer time and what the people of Ashburnham have to suffer. Here there are far fewer summer cottages owned by the residents than there are in the Queen Mary School vicinity—and most of the people are at home. Tinned music goes on most of the day when the playgrounds are in session during July and August, approximately from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

We hear squeals of delight and laughter from the Lions' pool when they are in session. The water carries all these sounds and they can be heard for quite a distance. Then the drives for money with carnivals are all held by the service clubs in Riverside Park. Add on to this all the ball games, both hard and soft, that are held nearly every evening of the week in this same park for the latter part of the fine summer months. Just think of the cheering that goes on at these games—and what about the floodlights? The whole area is illumined for blocks—and the lights glare in the windows of all these homes on Burnham St. facing the park and also the lower part of Robinson St.

How can these people sleep, between the cheering and the lights and they go on for hours. Only last summer I think I can remember doubleheaders going on at night when we have had a famous team here. But have these people complained—not a bit of it.

And the traffic problem around this same park almost any night of the week is terrific. you can scarcely proceed along Burnham St. for parked cars and those you are meeting, and your fenders are many times in danger as the passage is so narrow. Many times it has been necessary for me to proceed to Mark St. to gain access to the bridge or to my home. The cars are parked literally everywhere for blocks. What about a complaint from some of us.

So if we are to say good-bye to Canada's most successful "Summer Theatre" and it is to be "Gone With the Wind", let us wish it every success possible in its new home. But out of fairness to all citizens we also must close the ball park, the lacrosse grounds and the Civic Arena—and become a city of Puritans. They are all public nuisances.

But on the other hand let us fight for our rights and our theatre. Let the complainer of the west end proceed with his injunction, if he so desires. It will be a costly fight for him. Let us go to court and the supreme court if necessary. Let us bring in big city counsel who specialize in this kind of law—but let us fight for our rights and let justice prevail.

Yours very truly,
ROSAMOND HUYCKE BLAIKLOCK.

"A Commodity Of Good Names"

(Montreal Star)

How many of us have ever stopped to think that one of the main concerns of those hardy pioneers, our ancestors, was to think up names for the innumerable places and things they were continually discovering,—lakes and rivers, capes and bays, peninsulas and islands, mountains and valleys and all the physical features the explorer and earliest settler is bound to find a name for, if only for his own convenience, to help him find his way about.

Over large parts of Ontario they depended upon nostalgic memories of bygone minor statesmen and members of the aristocracy for their place names with dubious results. In the Maritimes and notably in the western provinces a lot of Indian names were preserved, an excellent idea. Regina, is probably a better name than Pile o' Bones and Kenora than Rat Portage, but we hope Moose Jaw and Medicine Hat will go down fighting rather than ever permit an alteration.

Now the government of Saskatchewan (in itself, a first-class name) is in search of no less than 50,000 place names to tag onto an enormous number of rivers and lakes and things located on a mapping survey, and has called for suggestions.

It is going to be a tremendous undertaking. When one remembers that finding a name for one very small baby sometimes disrupts a family, and when one sees the names they paint on ships and sleeping-cars (Mark Twain's suggestion of "Asphyxia" for one of the latter was not accepted) the problem before the authorities at Regina is manifestly staggering. The idea suggested is to use the names of soldiers, explorers, fur-traders, early settlers,—of people, that is, who did something worthwhile for Saskatchewan. We trust they will proceed slowly and carefully. A mountain for instance, is a pretty permanent thing to be named after somebody already three-quarters forgotten, or one whose name survives at all only because a river is saddled with it.

"I would I knew where a commodity of good names were to be bought!" mourned Falstaff. Saskatchewan will no doubt get a flock of suggestions. Some of them will be terrible and some of these will be used. But, looking over a big map of Canada, we pray the Surveys Controller, or whoever it is, be warned by earlier mistakes. Names stick, whether good or bad.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south. And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold....And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents. And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together....

And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be brethren. Is not the whole land before thee? separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto Zoar. Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan: and Lot journeyed east: and they separated themselves the one from the other....

And the Lord said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward: for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever. (Gen. 13: 1, 2, 5, 6, 8-11, 14, 15.)

Equalling the horrible sight of game fishermen posing with strings of fish—the exact number, always—comes word of a stunt pulled off at the recent New York Sportsmen's Show. At a well-stocked tank of trout, visitors, for 50 cents for 12 minutes, were allowed to catch as many fish as they could with tackle supplied by the exhibitor. They could keep the fish, too, in a deep-freeze locker until they went home, IF they caught any. Not content with allowing the trout to rise normally to the bait, it was said that many of the sports?men snagged the fish with their hooks to get their money's worth. Five hundred trout were taken the first day.

A more unsportsmanlike demonstration I've never heard of.

50,000 Lake Herring Eggs Planted

Department of Lands and Forests are planting the waters of Catchacoma Lake this week with 50,000 lake herring or siscoe-eyed eggs through holes in the ice for the purpose of providing additional food or forage for game fish, especially lake trout. This method, the experts claim, will increase size and rate of growth.

Dit Clapper's sportshopmen got all steamed up this week with a report in their mail that pickerel fishing would open April 28th this year. It was by some American outdoor writer who had his wires badly crossed, and if his paper, name unknown, has wide circulation, it is going to be a mighty hard message to correct. I can see a lot of misinformed tourist pickerel fishermen arriving in the Kawarthas come May 1st, lambasting Ontario for issuing false information. It looks as though the writer might have misquoted his info from a Lands and Forests news release. Might I suggest the department repeat the correct dates again in an early release to stop an embarrassing situation from cropping up?

Aerial Patrols Until Rangers Stationed

Fire ranger towermen in the Trent district have heretofore found it impossible to reach their stations early in the season due to dangerous lake ice conditions. Their final arrivals by open water found the spring fire hazard season well advanced and nothing could be done about it, until this spring.

Forests Minister Scott announces that a Beaver floatplane will be based in Toronto Harbor any day now to make aerial patrols over the Trent, Quinte, Simcoe and Haliburton districts until lake travel permits the towermen to reach their posts. This is part of the plane's program of "chasing winter north."

Two promient outdoorsmen died this week and it would be remiss not to mention their passing from the Canadian scene. One was Ba't O'Dette, a master boat builder in Peterborough for the past 53 years. After working for commercial companies, he opened his own shop on the banks of the Otonabee and with two of his sons made watercraft that were second to none. Although Bat'd retired in '34, he was always around the shop and I spent many pleasant hours listenting to his experiences.

The other outdoorsman, whom I never met, was Walter Maguire, Warsaw born and one of the continent's greatest authorities on oology (wildfowl egg study). After a lifetime with the YMCA he finished up at the West Coast and devoted his remaining years to egg collecting in British Columbia and Yukon, often at the insistance of the provincial government.

Canadians are poorer for the passing of men of this type.

Under The Sway of The Ram

If I were Celtic instead of Saxon strain I would plaster this week's column with shamrocks, shillelaghs, clay pipes and Irish wit to the glorification of today, the Sivinteenth. Since this isn't the case I shall swing to the signs of the Zodiac about which I know even less.

The ancients claimed that the course of the constellations, in which they saw 12 symbols, ruled the lives of men and events. ARIES the RAM should therefore affect everyone from March 21st for the next 30 days with his comic capers.

To all sportsmen born under the sign of ARIES, I see a ram-headed few moving heaven and earth around their homes to locate last year's fishing tackle. They will fight with their wives to clip the finest feathers from her Easter hat to tie a fantastic trout fly of their imagination. They will thrash their children who attempt to make like a swordsman with the tip of their favorite fly rod. They will ram their heads mentally against any of their friends' suggestions to try a new stream this spring. They will write nasty letters to farmers who threw them off private lands last year and warn the land owners that they had better lay off this time. In fact, the ARIES-type, which are in the minority, will be all played out before trout season opens on April 28th, but not too exhausted to be on the spot, fouling up the sport for all the good joes. Don't act like ARIES even though your "sign" says you are apt to.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

A Portrait

I am a kind of farthing dip,
Unfriendly to the nose and eyes;
A blue-behinded ape, I skip
Upon the trees of Paradise.

At mankind's feast I take my place
In solemn sanctimonious state,
And have the air of saying grace
While I defile the dinner plate.

I am "the smiler with the knife,"
The battener upon garbage, I—
Dear Heaven, with such a rancid life,
Were it not better far to die?

Yet still, about the human pale,
I love to scamper, love to race,
To swing by my irreverent tail
All over the most holy place;

And when at length, some golden day,
The unfailing sportsman, aiming at,
Shall bag me—all the world shall say:
Thank God, and there's an end of that!

Progress of Peterborough: LXII

Villages In Northern Parts; Haliburton County Created

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The townships which became Haliburton County had 1,073 people in 1861, and 2,676 in 1871; they more than doubled again by 1881; Lutterworth, 586; Anson and Hindon, 371; Cardiff, 497; Monmouth, 426; Snowdon, 807; Glamorgan, 476; Minden, 1,110; Stanhope, Sherborne and McClintock, 551; Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn and Bruton, 1,087. Total, 5911.

Even before 1870 there was discontent in the north at county government from Peterborough and Lindsay over difficult water and road routes. An Ontario Act of March 2, 1872, in an effort to attract more settlers, remitted money due the Crown by bona-fide settlers in Free Grant townships. The next year the Department of Agriculture was advertising free land grants of 200 acres through the Bobcaygeon Road Agency—Jos. Graham, Bobcaygeon, agent—in Anson, Hindon, Minden, Stanhope, Snowdon and Glamorgan; and through the Burleigh Road Agency—Duncan Anderson, Paudash, agent—in Anstruther, Chandos, Monmouth and Cardiff. Anderson also farmed 300 acres in Anstruther and sold insurance, and within a few years moved his Agency office to Apsley. In the year 1873 the assessment rolls of 12 north Peterborough townhips showed 627 ratepayers, 2,504 people, 1,538 cattle, 1,026 sheep, 240 horses, 515 hogs, and 63 dogs.

Incorporated 1874

Haliburton County was incorporated in 1874 being named for Judge T. C. Haliburton of Nova Scotia, historian and author of "Sam Slick," who was also a director of the Canadian Land & Emigration Company which engineered the incorporation of the county. At incorporation, Haliburton had 886 ratepayers, including those taken from Victoria County. The County Council met first June 18, 1874, with Reeves: A. Niven of Dysart, Dudley, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburn and Bruton; Jas. Langton of Minden; Wm. Hartle of Lutterworth, Anson and Hindon; P. Harding of Glamorgan, Monmouth and Cardiff; J. R. Calvert of Snowdon; Jos. Beatty of Stanhope and Sherborne. The first warden was A. Niven, and the first Clerk-Treasurer S. S. Peck.

Wasting no time, on July 2 the Council passed a bylaw granting $55,000 to the Victoria Railway if it built to Haliburton, and this was approved by qualified voters 248 to 60. This debt was so crushing on Haliburton's slender budget that the credit of the county fell very low, payments to the railway were not met, and the sheriff levied on the county. However, within 10 years the county was in fairly sound financial condition again.

Minden

After some rivalry Minden village became the county town, while Haliburton village as the railway terminus from 1878 was more prosperous. Each had 250-350 people by 1880. Minden had two tin works run by Alex McIntosh and J. Pearce, who in 1878 were advertising that they also sold "stoves, groceries, clothing, pork, flour, and salt," and bought "farm produce, hides and furs." The Minden Hotel was owned by David Armstrong. On March 17, 1879, the Anson half of Minden was practically wiped out by fire. One of the leading stores was kept by F. Mason, who had settled on the spot in 1864. John Young, born in Cavan, moved to Minden as a boy with his family, and clerked in the Andrews' store, then as a partner ran their Haliburton store, and in 1880 took over ownership, being also postmaster and township treasurer. Robert McKelvey, who came to Peterborough at age 13 in 1856, and to Minden township in 1860, tried farming in Snowdon township, then gave it up to run a hotel in Minden for several years; he then operated the Dominion Hotel at Haliburton 1872-9, and the Queen's Hotel, Haliburton, 1879-83. Douglas Killatt, born in Smith 1845, moved with his family to Lutterworth four years later, and about 1870 became owner of the Spring Hill Hotel between Minden and Kinmount; he ran the Buck Hotel in Minden 1874-8, and in 1883 took over the Queen's Hotel in Haliburton from his brother-in-law, R. McKelvey. Fred Freeman went to Haliburton village in 1878, taking an oxcart-load of supplies to the Irwin lumber depot; he had been keeping store in the village for 51 years when interviewed in 1934 by The Examiner. Haliburton by 1878 was a lively little place, with an Agricultural Society, a cricket club, and a dramatic club functioning.

Three Snowdon Villages

In Snowdon township, three small villages were created — Lochlin in 1872, Furnace Falls 1874 (near Victoria Iron Mine), and Irondale about the same time, each with a postoffice and a few houses. In Cardiff township, a hamlet named Woods Corners (later Cheddar) grew up where the Monck Road crossed the Burleigh Road, with a postoffice, store, hotel, blacksmith shop and several houses—now abandoned. Deer Lake, another hamlet, was later deserted when all its business moved to Highland Grove after the Irondale-Bancroft railway line was built. Walter Kidd, born in Dummer 1946, taught school in Peterborough for seven years before taking a Cardiff farm 1870; within 14 years he had 500 acres, of which 100 were improved. B. Woods, who first settled in Chandos 1866, moved to Cardiff 1874 onto lot 11, con. 12, where he ran a tavern, general store and postoffice. In Lutterworth township, Moore's Falls was a convenient stopping-place with Leary's Hotel and a postoffice, until abandoned after the Victoria Railway was built.

In Glamorgan township, J. M. Pickens settled just west of the site of Gooderham, and Chas. Way opened Pine Lake postoffice and a Temperance House nearby. Sam Whitaker kept Pine Lake House, and S. S. Hadley and Richard Davey had stores near the junction of the Monck and Buckhorn Roads. Wm. Ritchie built several houses in the new village. John Hunter came to Gooderham 1875 and built the first saw and gristmills by 1880; he was also reeve of Glamorgan; his father Isaac, who had been storekeeping at Kinmount since 1872, joined him about 1880. In Monmouth township, R. Dunsford built a sawmill on Poverty Lake and the hamlet of Wilberforce grew up, with S. S. Ritchie's store, a cheese factory, a church and a postoffice. Several other ambitious little villages were started in prosperous lumbering times in the surrounding townships, only to be abandoned later.

Eyre, Clyde and Havelock townships were surveyed in 1872 but had no settlers; McClintock was surveyed in 1875, Livingstone and Lawrence in 1877, Nightingale in 1878, but they saw only trappers and lumbermen. Along with the townships of Harburn, Bruton, Harcourt, Dudley, Hindon and Sherborne, they were lumbered over with ruthless inefficiency and abandoned in the course of five to 10 years.

Rhododendra Culture

By HENRY PREE
(NEA Service)

The rhododendron comprises about 2,000 species varieties and hybrids, and this makes it the largest group of any of the ornamental woody plants.

Rhododendrons grow in all parts of the world and have been cultivated in Asia and Europe for centuries. The best species come from the Orient where early English and Dutch plant collectors took them to European gardens.

The home owner, unfortunately, knows little or nothing about their requirements and all too often those he plants seldom prove satisfactory. Be they costly hybrids or the native species, the soil about them must be loose, light and fibrous.

Good drainage is essential and necessary, so that water will not stand about the roots. If the soil is sandy or clayey, it can be improved by adding an equal amount of cow manure and peatmoss, or similar organic material such as compost, woods earth, acid humus or old hardwood sawdust.

And because the soil must be acid, the addition of ½ to 1 pound of aluminum sulphate, or ordinary garden sulphur, to each square yard of soil surface is necessary. This dose should be repeated each spring when the winter's mulch is turned over and some of it cultivated into the soil about the roots.

Rhododendrons should be planted very shallow with practically no soil over the earth-ball and none over the crown of the root. Dig a hole large enough to admit the earth-ball without cramping and press the soil firmly around the roots so there will be no air pockets.

A mulch of two or three inches of peatmoss, compost, cow manure or old hardwood sawdust is very desirable and should be left on throughout the year. During the winter it will prevent frost heaving and in the summer will keep the soil cool and moist.

Many people think rhododendrons require a lot of water. This is not true. They should be watered immediately after planting and several times monthly until they become established, but after that only during dry seasons.

Rhododendrons should be fertilized each year by a very light application of well-rotted cow manure covering the ground to a depth of 1 to 1½ inches. If manure is not available, substitute cottonseed meal, 1 pound per average plant, and work it into the soil.

Rhododendrons will de well in either sunny or shaded locations but must have protection from strong winds.

Gardening Questions

Q—Please advise if caraway seeds, used in rye bread, may be grown in the home garden?—E. K.

A—Caraway is a biennial or annual herb, botanically listed as carum carvi, and easily grown in any garden soil. Seed is sown in early spring where the plants are to remain for two seasons. The seed is slow to germinate—so add a few radish seeds to mark the rows. The young shoots and tender leaves may be used in salads. The seeds are produced the second summer.

SPRING FEVER

News Desk, March 17

Dear Boss:

If I should be missing from our august editorial room for the next three or four weeks, do not be alarmed. I have picked up a most infectious germ which attacks me every year about this time . . . the travel bug.

This is the season when some folks take the flu and others develop spring fever. But it's not spring fever which troubles me. I just yearn for the feel of a train or a plane beneath my feet, heading for the far, open spaces, the farther the better.

For weeks I have crawled miserably from my bed in the mornings, hoping to see a break in the weather. Invariably it has been either so cold that I became an icicle a moment after stepping out the door, or the heavens have pulled out all the stops and are clearing out an excess of water.

Tired and discouraged, I arrive at the office to begin a day's work (well at least look busy at my desk). Then the torture of the poor victim begins. I pick up a paper, and there after the third or fourth page I see the most entrancing descriptions of places I would much rather be, with artfully luring accounts of warm sunshine, flowers and luxury hotels. (Pass me some more cold tablets, please.)

Getting Worse

Every place I go I see the most beautiful pictures and posters telling me where to go and why. (I never could resist them). I would be only too willing to oblige and turn reluctantly away, shivering harder than ever.

I felt my first symptoms a few weeks ago when one of the staff announced she thought she'd take a little jaunt to Florida in March. Just like that . . . drive down for a few days. The more I contemplated such a delightful rhapsody, the faster the disease developed.

What attraction is there here for me, struggling with stories dealing with the rising cost of living, reduction of luxuries, heavier taxes, wrecks and fires, when instead I could perhaps be visiting Machu Picchu?

Now Machu Picchu is quite a place and far enough away to satisfy the wanderlust. This great Incan citadel tucked away in the mountains of Peru with its wonderful temples, palaces and towers, built of huge rocks and chiseled stones, is said worthy of adding to the seven wonders of the world. To be sure, the only way you can get there is by hanging grimly on a mule. But I'll try anything once.

BROTHERS

Thou shal't not kill
They taught at school . .
Load, aim and fire.
Who is the fool?

—Fred Horn,
Beverley St.

If I prefer the gayer touch, why not Paris? Paris celebrating at any time has a gaiety and beauty hard to match. This year, that wonderful city is observing its 2,000th birthday. Think what the enthusiastic French can do with this one.

For fascinating old world customs, there is Mexico. Its scenery is unequalled; the flower jewels of Mexico City are unsurpassed, they say. Just imagine finding orchids and other $5 flowers growing wild or selling for a few cents. Or picture lolling in the quaint town of Taxco where it is forever spring. Founded by Hernan Cortes, the old silver centre has been kept intact as a national monument, a delightful architectural gem.

Of course, there is only one drawback to this strange land. A few other people have also discovered the charm of Old Mexico. It would mean sharing such pleasures with the 1,000 other tourists pouring in every day, and the total still climbing. All the chief hotels are full, and though prices are not yet as high as ours, they have risen 50 per cent over last year. Perhaps after all, I had better cast my eye elsewhere.

There is the attractive Dutch island of Curacao with its old world city of Willemstad, garbed in the gala colors of the West Indies. Or if I want something else a little off the beaten track, there is the village of Eze in Southern France. Only a short distance from glittering Cannes and Nice, it belongs to another world reaching back into the ages. It was a former garrison town for both the Phoenicians and the Greeks. It dates from the 13th century.

Just Page Me

Beautiful pictures and posters of Casablanca, Naples and Tahiti have me hanging on the ropes. Having always had a sneaking desire to be an explorer, I feel a special urge to visit the tiny republic of Andora, tucked away in the mountain region between Spain and France . . . truly a forgotten spot.

Dear Boss, the patient is sinking fast. So if some morning soon I should be a minus quantity at the office, just check the nearest railway station.

Yours truly,
SUZY Q, REPORTER (J. S.).

Village Lady 101 Today Is Not Irish!

WARKWORTH, March 17 — (ENS)—Mrs. Catherine Dingman of this village is today celebrating her 101st birthday at her home.

Mrs. Dingman has very good health. She can read without glasses, but her hearing is impaired. She and her son Will Dingman, a bachelor, live together and keep house together Will is celebrating his 79th birthday also today, March 17th.

Mrs. Dingman's longevity is not the "luck of the Irish." She is not Irish, despite her birthday on March 17th.

Mrs. Dingman's maiden name was Catherine Giroux, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Giroux. She was born in Valleyfield, Quebec, on March 17, 1850, and moved with her parents to Norham, one mile south of Warkworth when she was very young. She has lived in the locality for over 90 years.

When she was twenty years of age she was married to Wallace Dingman, who was a native of Ireland. They farmed on the second concession of Percy township at Oak Heights for many years. They had a family of three sons and three daughters, Stephen, Will and Jim and Mrs. William Lawlor (Jennie), Mrs. Jim Kelly (Kate), and Mrs. G. Macoun (Agnes).

They moved to Warkworth from the farm a few years before Mr. Dingman died, over thirty years ago.

Mrs. Dingman has two daughters living at the present time, Mrs. William Lawlor (Jennie) of Guelph, and Mrs. Jim Kelly (Kate) in Cramahe township, and two sons Will and Jim of Warkworth, the latter one being a barber in the village. Mrs. Dingman is the oldest resident in Percy township.

Nurses-Black's Get Series In Girls' Loop

After heated battles Nurses and Black's emerged victorious Friday night from the first round of the girls' city league basketball playdowns at the YWCA. Tempers flew in the second game when Nurses dropped Lindsay Merchants 43-23 to take their two-games series 68-44. At times the first fray resembled a football game with Black's finally winning out 17-10 to edge the CGE lasses 31-25 in that two-game series. The playdowns resume next Wednesday night.

CGE girls, thanks to three foul shots by Fern Carveth and Pat Nixon, combined with a basket by Barbara Luther, took a 5-2 score against Black's in the first quarter. Black's points came on two foul shots by Marion McKee and Mary Knox.

Foul shots made up the scoring in the second quarter as CGE kept the lead 6-4, Dot Jackson adding the single point and Mary Knox two for Black's. Baskets by Marion McKee and Marg McIlvena combined with foul shots by Rosie McInroy and Reta Naylor gave Black's a one-point lead in the third, 10-9. Fern Carveth and Marj Perrin scored the CGE three points. Reta Naylor was the deciding factor in the fourth quarter when she scored all Black's points, on three field baskets and a foul shot. Betty Barry added the foul shot point for CGE. Reta Naylor easily led the scoring with eight points. Fern Carveth topped CGE with four points.

Nurses Rally

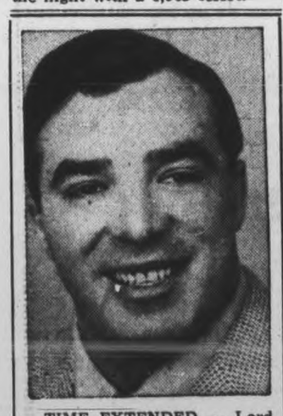
After the Lindsay Merchants kept the lead for half the game, Nurses broke loose on a scoring spree in the second half to sweep the game and series. Marj Owen, D. Copp and Shirley Meath matched five points with points by Nurses' Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle and Anita Davis in the first quarter. Shirley Algar and Marj Owen each added six points for the Merchants in the second quarter when they held the lead 17-15. Bev Pringle, Anita Davis and Pat Martyn totalled the Nurses' 10 points.

Anita Davis sparked the Nurses in the third with four field baskets and two foul shots for 10 points while Pat Marty had two field baskets and Joan Plunkett one to give Nurses the third's lead 31-20. Nurses continued to press in the final session and added 12 points to Lindsay's three on scoring efforts by Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle and Pat Martyn.

Anita Davis' third period spree gave her the top scoring position with 16 points. Teammate Pat Martyn followed up with 12 and Lindsay's Marj Owen with 10.

Lineups:

"A" Game—Lindsay: Meath 1, Algar 6, Owen 10, Copp 3, Cullis, Robertson, Craine, Green 1, Jardine 2, Jordon.



Nurses: Plunkett 8, Pringle 7, Deyell, Davis 16, Martyn 12, Collins, Jaquith, Jex, Jones.

"B" Game—Black's: McInroy 1, Vint, McKee 3, Naylor 8, Laing, Knox 3, McIlvena 2.

CGE: Hodson, Perrin 1, Luther 2, Fletcher, Jackson 1, Carveth 4, Nixon 1.

Aces Get High Single

Competition was keen this week in the Girls' Senior Bowling League of the YMCA, with all wins by two-point margins, Lucky Strikes, Hurricanes, Glengarry's and Aces downing Corvettes, Tigers, Commandos and Bombers in that order. Just two bowlers bettered 600, E. Thorburn with 686 and Mary Morton with 643. Dot Martin had high single of 283, followed by Norma Stanbury 248, Dorothy McArthur 239, E. Thorburn 237, M. Morton 237, A. Merrett 235, W. McCarrell 234 and Addie Jackson with 230. Aces rolled high single game for the night with a 1,043 effort.

TIME EXTENDED — Lord Athol Layton's demand for an extension of the time for next Tuesday's Title match at the Brock Arena has been granted. Whipper Watson today agreed to a 90-minute time limit for the feature match. This new time seems to favor Layton, but Whipper doesn't think so. The semi-final brings together Wee Willie Davis and Sonny Kurgis. Bill Stack (ABOVE) meets Tommy O'Toole in the opener.

Hamblin's Rink Captures Empress Trophy

By HERB. MARTIN.

With the presentation of prizes in the club's parlors, late Friday evening, the week-long open mixed rink bonspiel came to a successful conclusion.

And the honor of winning first place and the Empress Hotel Trophy goes to H. Hamblin's local rink. Ray Best and his rink were runners-up.

The Calvert Trophy was won by George Snyder's rink of Hamilton, with Dr C. Laidley's rink from Lindsay runners-up.

The T. Eaton Trophy was taken by M. Knox's local quartette with Stan Taylor's rink from Keene runners-up.

Skipping for the first time in an open bonspiel Harry Hamblin came through with flying colors, winning six straight games. His rink was a real family affair. Mrs. Hamblin played vice and Mr. and Mrs. E. O'Toole, playing lead and second gave grand support. The final game between Hamblin and the veteran Ray Best was a dandy. It was a great climax to a week of wonderful curling.

As for the bonspiel, it was tops. Dr. Clifford McKee and his committee did a good job in a big way; they took care of every detail, and they are to be congratulated.

Some of the visitors, here for the first time, were loud in their praise. They spoke of the good times and of the hospitality and will be back next year.

One pleasing outcome of the 'spiel was the grand showing made by the Keene boys and girls and we believe we are voicing the sentiments of all when we say it was a very popular win when Stan Taylor's rink came forward to receive their prize. It was a strenuous week but all seemed to enjoy it, and when the prizes had been distributed all went home tired but happy.

South Porcupine Loses Close One

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP). — Inkerman Rocket Juniors last night scored a 4-3 overtime victory before 7,200 fans over South Porcupine Combines in the third game of their opening-round series of the Memorial Cup hockey playoff.

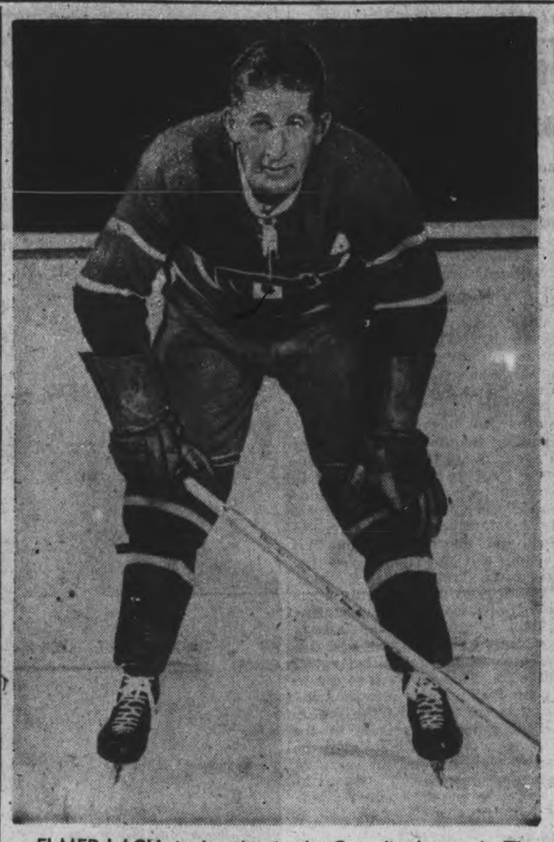
The Rockets will carry a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five test into the fourth game here today. Inkerman took the opening game 3-2 and the Combines the second 9-1.

Brian McFarlane, Cliff Baldwin, Jacques Limoges and Denzil Crowder counted for the winners while Jack Higgins, Darrel McLaughlin and Jerry Labelle sniped for the Combines.

The services of Rick Albert was lost to South Porcupine when he suffered a dislocated right shoulder in a third period crash into the boards.

Penalties proved to be the downfall of the Northern Ontario champions. Crowder scored the pay-off goal at 7:14 of the overtime session on a close-in drive while the Combines Bob McCord and Bill Needham were sitting out tripping penalties.

St. Alphonsus Senior Top Separate Schools



Senior champions in the Separate School hockey league are St Alphonsus, who dropped Sacred Heart 5-2 Friday night. Thursday night, Sacred Heart shut out Immaculate Conception 4-0 to meet undefeated St. Alphonsus.

Sacred Heart juniors took the junior championship with a two-game score of 7-3 over St. Anne's. Sacred Heart won the first Thursday night 6-1, and lost Friday night 2-1, winning on total points.

A return match has been arranged between Whipper Bill Watson and Lord Athol Layton for the main mat bout at the Brock Arena next Tuesday night. Sonny Kurgis faces Wee Willie Davis in the semi-final, while Bill Stack goes against Tommy O'Toole (glad they have one Irisher on there around the 17th) in the prelim. This sounds like quite a pro grapple card, that headliner especially being of wide interest. Another big crowd no doubt to see if Layton can clip the Whip into submission with his judo slashes. Watson is a canny mat champ and no doubt will change his tactics this time, and he might take his ludship this bout after their previous time limit draw. It will be a 90-minute match.

While three PCVS cage teams are in COSSA playoffs at Toronto this aft — and this eve if they make the finals — there's but one hoop tussle here. But an important one, between Church of The Messiah of Toronto and Gord McIntyre's classy Marines. Return game of their OABA intermediate "B" semi-finals, the Toronto team having a seven-point lead to bring here. They may need it, too, when they clash at eight at the "Y" as Marines are tough on their own floor. Results of games played around the basketball circuit last e'en should be in elsewhere. Cage season will soon be over again.

Lacrossers Get Ready

Annual meeting of the PMLA is at eight p.m. Monday at 21 Manning Ave., home of Ken Kingston. The annual OLA session will be in Toronto on Saturday, April 14, at 1.30 p.m. in the Royal York. No dinner this time; just straight business. Nominations must be sent to Secretary Chuck Rowan by April 5, but amendments and bylaws must be sumitted by March 26. The OLA 1951 objective is to increase sponsorship of minor lacrosse clubs—something the Peterborough officers have been doing well for several years. About 500,000 spectators viewed lacrosse games last year, Secretary Rowan reports, indicating that the national game goes over big in this province as a major sport. It's a sizeable thing in this city.

Big hockey attraction tonight is the OHA junior "B" group final, third of the best-of-seven serial, at 8.30, in Civic Arena. Oddfellows won by a goal here to open it, the Bees won by two markers in Oshawa, and both will be fighting hard to get the jump here this eve. Then they're back to the Motor City on Monday. We wouldn't be a bit surprised if the winner of tonight's tilt goes on to clean up the series. Anyway, it'll be a sizzling streamlined junior joust with plenty at stake, and it should draw a real hefty gallery. Time is running out fast now for hockey fans to see their favorite sport in this borough.

But It Isn't Poetry

Faith and it wouldn't be the 17th of Ireland without a bit of a jingle, now would it?

Some Irish hockey players
On this bright St. Patrick's Day,
Are off to maul the Mercurys,
To dunk 'em in Georgian Bay.

But a banshee stopped by to whisper:
There's Irish in Owen Sound, too;
So don't bet too much on the outcome—
That's advice from the O'Perdue.

* * * * * *

Alas, no, it could be all over tonight, unless the Petes really catch fire up there. Last half of the game will be on the air, folks. The squad put up a fine fight here last night before a big crowd, but the Mercurys finished a little stronger to take a 7-4 win—their third in as many starts of the four-in-seven Allan Cup serial. Just had a bit too much, though they certainly knew they were in two stiff scraps here this week. It was crowd-pleasing hockey throughout, except that it didn't end up right. Should the Petes yank out a victory tonight, they play the Sounders there again on Monday eve. But there's that one tonight to see about first.

PCVS Bantams Get First In Hoop Play

Zolton Temesy's PCVS Garnet and Grey bantams seem headed for the lakeshore championship for the second straight year. The beginners from PCVS carried too much offensive power and played too stiff a defensive game Friday night for the Bowmanville High School quintet to take the first game 30-13. The return of the two-game points-to-count series will be Wednesday at PCVS.

Although the PCVS quintet were first stunned by the Bowmanville height, they soon realized the lakeshore team was slow-moving and took advantage with fast breaks. After the slow start the collegians began to click on the small court with the low ceiling. Their zone defence worked well.

Shared Honors

PCVS' Carleton and Bowmanville's Cameron shared the scoring honors with eight points each. Doug Ash followed closely with seven. PCVS' Gallagher, Davis and Baptie turned in fine displays. Doug Ash led the PCVS cagers in their smooth passing attack.

Ash with two baskets and a foul shot for five points, Carleton and Boorman with three points and Davis with a field basket, totalled 13 points for PCVS in the first half. Cameron and Cobwell each scored a basket for Bowmanville as they were held to only four points.

Carleton took over the second half with two baskets and a foul shot while the remainder of the 17 points was divided among Ash, Boorman, Turner, Gallagher and Davis. Cameron dropped in three field baskets for Bowmanville to lead the losers in the second half total of nine points.

Lineups:

PCVS (30)—Ash 7, Carleton 8, Boorman 5, Roberts, Turner 4, Foote, Gallagher 2, Baptie, Davis 4.

BCI (13)—Cobwell 2, Cameron 8, Hooper 1, Markle, Stacey, Abrams, A. Richard, G. Richard, Colverly 2, Vine.

Todd Benedict Wins Dufferin Track Heat

TORONTO, March 17 (CP). — Todd Benedict, owned by F. Plaunt of Brantford, Ont., and driven by Johnny Mullin, and Teedy Chilcoot owned and driven by Theodore Turcotte of Valleyfield, Que., shared victories when they each scored a heat win in the featured fifth race at Dufferin Park yesterday.

In the first heat Teddy Chilcoot attained a good position in the early stages and in the drive for home continued under pressure to hold the fast-closing Todd Bennett safe and finished third.

Todd Benedict moved up steadily while on the outside in the second heat to force the pace at the half-mile pole and won easily.

Scotch Ship, owned by A. Defosse of Trenton, Ont., and driven by George Davis won the fourth and secondary feature in straight heats.

Finalists In Draw

Confederation and King George finalists in the intermediate section of the School Hockey League, battled to a 2-2 tie at Civic Arena. It was to be the final contest for the Kinsmen Cup, won last year by Confederation, but another game will be required to settle the title. It will be played Tuesday. The well-matched teams turned in a fine, fast effort.

Late in the first frame, Jones' shot was deflected into the net, but King George tied it next period when English scored on a penalty shot. Chesney again put Confeds up but English tied it once more on a pass from Grills. Six penalties were handed out to Confederation, Hotston drawing three, while King George drew but one. Both goalies shone. E. English looked foor for King George, as Jones and Parnell stood out for Confederation. The teams:

Confederation— Trotter, Jones, Hotston, Parnell, Chesney, Druery, Kimball, Brown, Moffat, Ferguson, Walling.

King George — Clark, Dixon, Mountney, Harding, Grills, Lamers, Pollard, Baptie, English, Greenley, Dorrington.

Referee—D. Lawless.

Murphy Wins TKO

NEW YORK, March 17 (AP)—Stout-hearted Bob Murphy took everything young Dan Bucceroni could throw last night and then wore down the Philadelphia butcher boy to win on a technical knockout at 51 seconds of the fifth round of a bloody battle in Madison Square Garden. Murphy, a favorite, weighed 177 to Bucceroni's 172.

Owen Sound Defeats Petes To Lead Series By 3 To 0

Defeating the Petes 7-4 here last night, Owen Sound Mercurys took a stranglehold on their best-of-seven Allan Cup playdown series, this being their third win in as many starts. A crowd of nearly 2,000 saw another fine, fast and fairly clean fray, with the Sounders finishing stronger to earn the duke. The series resumes tonight at the northern town and again there Monday, if necessary.

Mercurys got the lone goal of the initial inning. They added two in the second, but the Jopling squad made their bid then to rack up three and force a 3-all draw going into the third. However, they could click for but one more while the fast-stepping northerners banged four pucks into the Peterborough cage, and that was that. It was anybody's game until early in the third, and then the visitors appeared fresher and more dangerous on the attack.

Even On Penalties

While 10 penalties were handed out, all were of a minor nature except a misconduct in the first frame to Ingoldsby for arguing too strenuously when Burlington drew a penalty. Each side was handed five. A few stiff checks were seen, with Davison bounced several times, but both sides stuck to hockey and served the large crowd up with another nifty number. Both goalies made a flock of swell saves, and Gillson had to be good to keep the count down.

Once more, it was Tommy Burlington and Jack Ingoldsby who supplied the scoring punch for Owen Sound. Both scored two goals and Burlington set two more up neatly. Pat McReavy, Doug Gillespie, and Bob Grant tallied singletons, with Buck Forslund aiding on three, as Harry Kazarian and Bukacheski each helped once. For the Petes, Curly Mason led with two markers, Jack Mortimer having a goal and an assist and Gus Leonard the other goal plus an assist. Jack Davison, Chum Fryia, Arn Dugan and Jake Wade each helped once.

Scored First

A Dugan-Mason thrust came close early in the first period as the Petes upt on the pressure. However, Mercurys got the only goal and at the 4.17 mark when McReavy rapped the biscuit by Ray Harding in a close-in scramble after Ray made one save. Allum was gated for holding but no damage was done in his absence. Fryia and Gus Leonard made Gillson hop on one, and then Burlington drew an interference penalty, Ingoldsby getting a misconduct at the time for arguing too much. Horton went over later for holding in the even heat.

Grant made it 2-0 to start the second with a backhander after a play fashioned by Burlington and Forslund. Horton returned then and Mason scored from Dugan and Wade right at the corner of the crease. It was hot and even for a time and Davison was chased for tripping, Hayward following for interference. The latter was still off when the Petes struck hard for two, Gus Leonard combining neatly with Mortimer for one, and the latter then tallying in close from Gus Leonard and Fryia. With all back, Burlington tied the second on fast, clever combination with Forslund. Horton was waved over near the period's close for holding.

Finished Strong

Ron was still away when Burlington took a standing pass inside from Kazarian to open the third and bat it into the twine. Horton returned but Ingoldsby got another from Forslund, his hot angle shot rounding defence beating Harding. Mason got that one back from Davison with nice stickwork by Curly going in on Gillson from the side. It was red-hot for the rest of the period, with each side in turn threatening, but Owen Sound appearing stronger. Ingoldsby made it 6-4 from Burlington as Fryia helped sweep the puck into his cage in a last desperate attempt to check the carrier. Gillespie's screened shot with Bukacheski's pass finished the scoring. The latter was chased for charging, Davison later following for interference and Earl Leonard drawing a tripping penalty near the end of the hard-fought frame. Teams:

Owen Sound — Goal, Gillson; defence, Allum and Kazarian; centre, Burlington; wings, Ingoldsby and Forslund; alternates, Gillespie, McReavy, Bukacheski, Grant, Markle, Macdonald, Hayward, and White.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Tompkins; centre, Dugan; wings, Wade and Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Mortimer, West, Collins, Floyd, E. Leonard and Davison.

Referees—W. Reason and A. Casterton of Kingston.

The summary:

First Period

Owen Sound—McReavy 4:17
Penalties—Allum, Burlington, Ingoldsby, Horton.
Owen Sound—Grant ,Burlington, Forslund) 0:35

Second Period

Petes—Mason (Dugan, Wade) .. 1:55
Petes—G. Leonard (Mortimer) 11:48
Petes—Mortimer ((G. Leonard, Fryia) 12:03
Owen Sound—Burlington (Forslund) 17:14
Penalties—Davison, Hayward, Horton.

Third Period

Owen Sound—Burlington (Kazarian) 0:25
Owen Sound—Ingoldsby (Forslund) 1:32
Petes—Mason (Davison) 5:59
Owen Sound—Ingoldsby (Burlington) 6:20
Owen Sound—Gillespie (Bukacheski) 7:20
Penalties—Bukacheski, Davison, E. Leonard.

TALLIES TWICE — Curly Mason tallied two goals for the Petes here Friday but it was a vain effort as Owen Sound won 7-4 to take a 3-0 lead in their Allan Cup series.

Rosedale Club Wins Burnt River Trophy

LINDSAY, March 17—It took until 2 o'clock in the morning, but Rosedale won the Burnt River hockey trophy here after five hours of play. Sparked by four juniors, Wally Shervington, Doug Powell, Don Sinclair and Dave Walling, the Rosedale club edged Fenelon Falls, 5-3, and nipped Coboconk, 5-4, in the finals.

Coboconk gained the cup final by ousting Burnt River, 6-5, in overtime. Led by Vic Corley, the River boys led, 5-2, after two periods, but Coboconk came back strongly with goals by Jack Lewis, Chuck Faulkner and Bill Griffin. Faulkner shot the winner after four minutes of the extra period.

Rangers Fight Leafs For Playoffs

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It appears that the Cinderellas of the 1950 Stanley Cup playoffs will have to do it all over again.

New York Rangers, who barely made a post-season berth last year but went on to scare the daylights out of Detroit Red Wings in the finals, once again find themselves on the outside of the playoff scramble.

With a tough home-and-home series scheduled with the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs this week-end, Rangers need an even break or better to keep their chances bright.

Tied In Fourth

At the moment they're tied for fourth place with Boston Bruins and a mere point behind the third- place Montreal Canadiens. But—and it's a big but—Boston and Montreal have a game in hand.

The Bruins and Canadiens tangle in another double bill, which could make one or the other club a lead-pipe cinch for one of the playoff spots. The top-ranking Detroit Red Wings and last-place Chicago Black Hawks also have two meetings scheduled.

Rangers, with only a tie to show for their last three games, and unable to beat anyone but the lowly Hawks in more than a month, have only two games to play after the Toronto series—one against the Hawks, but the other against the high-flying Wings.

Of course the other clubs have their troubles too. Canadiens may be unbeaten in their last five games, but they'll have two games with Detroit and one with Toronto after their Boston games—and the opposition couldn't come much tougher. If the Bruins survive the weekend, they'll meet Toronto twice and Chicago once.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Only the old-timers will remember when Lester Patrick won a Stanley Cup for Montreal Wanderers 44 years ago tonight. Wanderers won the first game 9-1 and Ottawa Senators won the second 9-3, Patrick's two goals in the last two minutes of playing giving Wanderers the round by 12-10.

Dussault Side-Lined

MONTREAL, March 17 (CP). — Norm Dussault, Montreal Canadiens' winger, will be out of action for at least three weeks with a small bone broken in his back, it was announced last night.

Dussault went for a short, extra-curricular skate Thursday and apparently collided with a goal post.

The Shadow Of The Cross

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

It would be difficult to conceive of more swiftly moving, crowded events and incidents, marked by intense contrasts of joy and glory against depths of sorrow and tragedy, than are recorded in the Gospel stories of the last few days of the earthly life of Jesus.

The climax of joy and glory was in the triumphal entry into Jerusalem, so vividly portrayed in the acclamation of the people, casting flowers and their garments in the way, hailing the Master, who came riding upon a colt, with their loud Hosannas, and blessings.

Then came so quickly the anti-climax, and the depth of gloom, as the chief priests and scribes, aroused to jealousy and hatred (Matthew 21:15), began the course of events that led so soon to the Cross. The people, too, when Pilate would have sought to save Jesus by releasing Him, cried "Not this man, but Barrabas." They preferred a robber to the King of Kings.

Groups of people, and mobs, are not always the same; and I have often wondered how many, if any, who cried, "Crucify Him, Crucify Him," were among those who not too many hours before had hailed Jesus with their loud "Hosannas."

It is quite possible that none of those who had so rejoiced in His coming were in that mob before Pilate. It would be pleasant to think so, but it might not be true. Popular opinion, unfortunately, is subject to swift and tragic reversals. Very little can sometimes change the multitude, though in the long run the verdict of the common people tends to vindicate their finest moments.

It is so, even in our modern democracies, and it constitutes one of our greatest problems, as is constitutes also one of our strongest hopes.

No president of the United States was more vilified and slandered during the years of his presidency than was Abraham Lincoln. Yet how quickly all that was changed not only here but throughout the world his very name has become a symbol of all that is great and good.

Would those who reviled Jesus have acted so, if they could have foreseen the love and devotion that future generations were to accord Him as Savior and Friend? How differently people would act, if they could see with better vision, and with true perspective!

But the Master was unmoved by praise or hate, "He knew what was in man." The shadow of the Cross was upon Him. He had already told His disciples of His impending suffering and death, though they had but little understood, and Peter had protested, "Be it far from Thee, Lord."

Even the temptation to turn from it all and seek the way of safety had been present in the very sternness of His rebuke to Peter (Matthew 16: 23).

But there was no turning back, even though the agony in Gethsemane, and the prayer that the cup might pass. The triumphant word was, "Nevertheless, not my will, but Thine be done."

The shadow of the Cross became the reality, the tragedy and the glory of Calvary.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CII. No. 65 — SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1951

Jury Orders Dr. Kir To Pay $1000

Find No Alienation Of Affections; Ouf Nearly 3 Hours

TORONTO, March 7—(CP)—Dr. Peter Kir of Peterborough yesterday was ordered to pay $1,000 and court costs for criminal conversation with Mrs. Josephat Neporany.

But an assize court jury which heard a damage suit brought against the Czechoslovakian-born physician by the attractive woman's 49-year-old husband decided that Dr. Kir had not alienated her affections.

During the four-day trial, Neporany, a carpenter, claimed that his wife went to Windsor, Ont., with the doctor, whom she met while he was on the staff of a Toronto clinic. The husband said he was left with his three children, whom he has since placed in a boarding school.

He Beat Her

His wife, Olga, said she left him because he beat her and forced her to keep company with his twin brother, Joseph.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, in summing up the case in his charge to the jury, compared Olga Neporany with an apple on a branch.

"It is for you gentlemen to decide if she fell off the branch because her husband shook the tree or because Dr. Kir shook the tree."

The jury deliberated three hours. Mr. Justice Wells said he considered the verdict "a very proper one."

When the court was adjourned, Neporany advanced toward his wife, who started to cry. His lawyer and his twin brother led him away by the arm.

Value of Wife

The jury was told by his lordship that what it was actually deciding was the value of the wife to her husband in money only. Before completing his charge, he informed the jurors that only 10 of them needed to agree on the verdict as compared with all 12 members hearing a criminal case.

Sydney Harris, counsel for Dr. Kir, suggested to the jury in his address that there was no evidence to show Mrs. Neporany had been enticed away from her husband. He said he believed Mr. Neporany alienated the affections of his wife when he told her he was not the father of her 10-year-old twins, and when he beat her.

The action of Dr. Kir was reasonable, not wrongful, he concluded, remarking: "He did nothing but befriend a woman who was obviously unhappy."

Show Boosts Kawarthas At Cleveland

Display One Of Best At Sportsmen's Show, Ohio People Pleased

Eldon Purvis of Tem Ticket Agency, back from Cleveland Sportsmen's Show this morning, told the Examiner that the Peterborough and district display was one of the finest in the show.

"A lot of people were saying: 'You're back with us this year; we missed you in 1950, where were you?' Jim Fraser of Chamber of Commerce is doing a fine job. I was helping on the booth staff, and I can say that we had a lot of enquiries, and especially those Ohio people who were obviously glad to see a representation from Peterborough."

Many Enquiries

"Mr. Fraser was getting a lot of new enquiries and listing names of people who were asking him to send them more complete information than they could obtain in the rush of the show.

"Peterborough booth excelled all other Canadians and was just as attractive as any others there. These were booths from Belleville, North Bay, Sudbury, Nipissing district, Lake of Bays, Ontario Government and also the Canadian government.

"In my impression of the success of our display I'd say Peterborough deserves a lot of credit, and we certainly met a lot of people who know this part of the province."

ONCE UPON A TIME (Friday) there was a hen (owned by Alex Carlow of Dummer township) that laid a whopping egg. It weighed half an ounce less than half a pound (7½ ounces), measured 3¾ inches in length and 8 inches in circumference. Carlow's housekeeper, Mrs. Minnie Lindsay, located the monstrosity (above) and gazed at it in amazement. The big egg contained a normal one (foreground). Said Mrs. Lindsay: "The poor hen looked mighty sick." Said the hen: "Ouch-h-h-h . . ."

Youth Hit By Car Suffers Broken Leg

Nine-year-old John Dorrington of 262 Westcott St., suffered a broken right leg Friday evening when he was hit by a car driven by William R. Pilling, 239 King George St.

Police say the boy ran out from behind a car parked on Aylmer St. just south of Romaine St. Pilling was driving south on Aylmer, and tried to stop, but hit the boy. There were skidmarks 40 feet long left by Pilling's car.

The boy was taken to Civic hospital by ambulance. PC's D. M. Stark and George Moore-Gough investigated.

Two Cars Damaged On Asphodel Road

A total of $400 damage was the result of a car accident on the 1st concession of Asphodel township, two miles south of Westwood Friday afternoon. The drivers William A. King of Hastings and Fred Tobey of Bobcaygeon escaped uninjured.

King was driving south and Tobey north when the cars met in collision on a bad curve in the road. The left fenders and left section of the grills of both cars were smashed as a result of the impact. Damage to each car was estimated at $200.

Provincial Constable P. H. Fitzpatrick investigated.

W. Neck Heads Electrical Men

Protection of the public in the building trade classification of electrical work is the aim of a group of contractors who met this week. Among the twenty attending, they elected a slate of officers to forward their plans. William C. Neck is president, Peter Dominik vice-president, Irving Moldaver secretary, and Frank Dawson treasurer.

It is the primary aim of the organization to secure municipal licensing under which electrical contractors, both present and future, would have to qualify through examinations set down by an examining board. The board will consist of an electrical engineer, two contractors and one hydro engineer. It was agreed that all costs pertaining to licensing, administration and examinations would be borne by the association under the direct supervision of the city council.

The Electrical Contractors' Association plan to hold monthly meetings as well as educational gatherings to keep their knowledge abreast of the times and enable members to pass on efficient electrical service to the community.

Hen Egg Weighs 7.5 Ounces Normal Weight of 3 Eggs

A Dummer township hen is resting not so comfortably today after an attempt to break a record, or something. She laid a perfectly formed egg that was eight inches in girth and weighed seven and a half ounces. The hen, of Barred Rock and Rhode Island Red parentage, is believed to have set a local record. Local poultrymen say they never heard of a hen's egg that size before.

When the monster was opened it was found to contain a perfectly formed Grade A large egg inside, and it had a yoke and albumen of its own. The contents were sufficient to half fill a soup bowl.

The freak laying occurred on the farm of Alex Carlow, who lives on the first concession of Dummer. And it was observed by Mrs. Minnie Lindsay, the housekeeper.

Hen Seemed Sick

"I was collecting the eggs, as usual, when I noticed there was something wrong with this hen," relates Mrs. Lindsay. "She seemed sick or something. I lifted her up, and there it was."

Mrs. Lindsay brought it into The Examiner Friday and the egg became the topic of the day. It was measured around the middle and came to eight inches; the length was three and three-quarter inches. The official post-office scales recorded that it weighed seven and a half ounces —the normal weight of at least three large eggs.

It was broken into a soup bowl at Babe's Place, and gawking customers saw the contents half fill the bowl. And the shells were put on display in The Examiner window.

After a first exclamation of amazement most of the onlookers would ask Mrs. Lindsay: "How's the hen"?

"Well, she was mighty sick-looking when I saw her last," was the reply. Nobody doubted it.

Board To Hear Deputation

A meeting of the committee of appointments of the Board of Education has been called for Tuesday night to hear a deputation of citizens interested in continuing the Summer Theatre at Queen Mary School. Queen Mary being a public school only the elected representatives of the Board have been notified.

A member of the Board explained the situation today. At present the matter is closed as far as the board is concerned and can only be re-opened at a regular meeting and then by a two-thirds vote. "This is constitutional and democratic procedure and holds true for the Board of Education and for every other civic body governed by rules and regulation which follow those laid down by Bourniot."

The committee is expected to hear the representations of citizens and then should any Board member wish to re-open the question he or she can do so at the April meeting by making a motion and securing a two-third vote.

FIRST AID TRAINING

The use of Prince of Wales school for one night a week, beginning April 1, has been granted to a St. John Ambulance training group. The training has a direct relation to the civic defence program. About 100 are expected to attend, many of them public school teachers.

$7,133 Short Of Objective

A total of $77,866.36 has been collected by the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign at the end of the drive's second week. These figures were reported to the Examiner by headquarters this morning.

An additional $7,133.64 still remains to be collected before the $85,000 objective is reached and the campaign can be closed.

To date the four divisions have collected the following amounts. Special Names $22,500; Industrial $35,341; Retail, $13,067; Women's $6,425. Added to these figures is the Penny-A-Day Drive which netted $533.36.

British Restriction Hampers Canadian West Indies Trade

West Indies are eager for trade with Canada but British restrictions on the amount of dollars that can be spent here is hampering it, George Hunte, managing editor of the Barbados Advocate told the Examiner Friday. Canadian imports from the Barbados rose from approximately $7,000,000 in 1949 to $10,000,000 in 1950, but the value of exports declined from $5,000,000 to less than $3,000,000.

Lack of Dollars

Sugar is the main Canadian import from the Barbados.

The decline in exports is directly due to the lack of dollars in the sterling area. And the United Kingdom rations these dollars which might go to purchasing Canadian goods.

Because of this decline the Barbadians—and the West Indians in general—are worried lest Canadian businessmen shift their trade to other countries where these financial restrictions do not exist.

Watching Cuba

Cuba is a case in point. At present Commonwealth countries can export sugar to Canada under a preferential tariff that is 28 cents a hundredweight less than to other countries. If this is abolished Cuba may replace the West Indies as the major supplier of sugar.

This, Mr. Hunte explained, would be a hard blow as the export of sugar and its by-products is the staple industry of the Barbados.

"Unless the United Kingdom gives the British West Indies a free hand in working out its own economic destiny it may have to subsidize West Indian trade," said Mr. Hunte.

"If the United Kingdom insists on controlling currency in the British West Indies, Canadian manufacturers will turn elsewhere."

Cancelled Codfish Order

Because of the restrictions on dollar purchases Trinidad had already cancelled her usual order of codfish from the fishing grounds of Newfoundland. And Mr. Hunte fears that countries, such as Cuba, may easily step into the vacancy and carry on an enlarged two-way trade with Canada.

Mr. Hunte, whose newspaper in the Barbados has a circulation about the same as the Examiner, was enthusiastic about the tourist resort facilities there.

TCA now has a franchise to operate from the Barbados and businessmen and others are hoping to quadruple the tourist trade and make it a source of national income on a par with the sugar industry. It is a 31-hour trip by TCA from Toronto to the island.

More hotels and modern facilities are needed, he said. Last year hundreds of tourists had to be turned down because of lack of accommodation.

The island—about the size and population of Ottawa—has a favorable climate, excellent beaches, a golf course and the inducement of low rentals and prices to recommend it to tourists, continued Mr. Hunte.

On Friday Mr. Hunte was busy looking over the Examiner and sightseeing in Peterborough. Other Canadian cities in his tour before he returns to the Barbados by TCA include Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

Co-operation Of All Needed In School Administration

"School Administration in Peterborough" was the topic of a very instructive address given by Mr. K. S. Wightman, Superintendent of Schools, at the meeting on Thursday evening at the YWCA of the Civic Affairs Study Group. The chairman, Mrs. W. E. Fanning, presided.

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Wightman outlined the pattern of procedure which has resulted in present day methods of school administration. The year 1871, he said, was most significant, "because it was in that year that Ryerson decided that school inspectors should have certain qualifications. Prior to that time, supervision of instruction, as it was then termed, was done by amateurs such as clergymen or lawyers." Peterborough had its first inspector in 1893. He functioned for one year. The second inspector was drowned. Thereafter, the late Mr. Duncan Walker, appointed in 1897, held the position for ten years, his successor Mr. Alex Mowat, for 30 years, and Mr. Wightman has functioned since.

Latterly, throughout Ontario, inspectors of public schools have become administrators, but methods vary in many of the Provincial cities. Peterborough, Chatham, London and St. Catharines follow practically similar lines, in having a superintendent of schools who is also in charge of the business end.

The Board of Education takes the position of a board of directors in a company, deciding on policy and the ways in which funds shall be expended, then checking on the way its instructions are carried out and on the manner in which the administrator fulfills the details which are left to his judgment. "In all administrative work in the schools, authority is with the Board of Education, and everything is subject to the authority of the Board."

Mr. Wightman listed five main aspects of the duties of administration: supervision of instruction; maintenance; purchasing (in the matter of ordinary school supplies and minor demands with regard to maintenance); secretarial work, and finance. The latter has to do with the tentative estimates which must be prepared first for every committee, in order that the Board may decide on the final estimates and also includes preparation of annual reports.

"The Department of Education gave cities the right to appoint an inspector as an administrative officer, but said he must be someone of whom they approve, which means that all the multitudinous reports for the Department of Education are the work of the city's superintendent or administrator."

Mr. Wightman concluded by saying that administration of a city's school system is not a one-man job, and can be carried out only by the co-operation of all those who work with him and by the co-operation of the Board that employs him.

A brief question and answer period followed. Mr. Wightman, who had been introduced by Mrs. Paige Rowell as "a fundamentalist who also combined the most progressive ideas in education" with his work, was accorded the appreciation of his listeners in an eloquently-worded tribute voiced by Mrs. J. E. Watters and was warmly thanked by Mrs. W. E. Fanning for "a most enlightening address."

CCF DELEGATES

The Peterborough CCF Association has named its delegates to the annual convention in Toronto March 22-24. They are Maurice Ketcheson, J. H. Miles and Russell Williams. Resolutions on internal policy will also be submitted from the Peterborough association.

31 Carriers Get Trip To Toronto

Thirty-one city and rural carriers of the Peterborough Examiner, winners of a recent circulation contest, are being rewarded by the newspaper with a week-end in Toronto. They will attend the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show to-day and a big time hockey game at the Maple Leaf Gardens to-night.

Overnight accommodation will be provided at one of the large city hotels and Sunday will be devoted to sightseeing trips before coming home in the early evening.

The enterprising carriers who earned this holiday are as follows:

Urges Government Control Breeding Stock Slaughter

Control of the slaughter of breeding stock is the subject of a letter to the Examiner from I. G. Sexsmith, of Belleville, Ont.

"We have had control for some time, but unfortunately they have applied to only one section of our economy, viz.—production," Mr. Sexsmith writes.

"It is an open secret that scarcity of most consumer supplies (the scarcity being intentionally created or otherwise) has forced the prices of those supplies sky high. I think it is necessary at this time to enforce a measure of control. They need not be permanent, but should be enforced all across the board, else the present stalemate in which we find ourselves locked will continue to exist.

"It is just as important that production be increased till say, our economic balance has been reached, as it is important that some prices and wages be controlled. So to properly understand this condition we must investigate the fields where these, our problems originate.

"Let us go back to the working-man's dinner pail, and the cost of the meat and bread that it contains. You will find that in a comparatively short period of time these prices have risen and risen so much so, that his wages had to follow, thus creating a spiral. Immediately the production of meat became a factor. It follows that controlled production can create scarcity, and scarcity in turn creates abnormal demand, resulting in more active markets and steadily advancing prices.

"This condition can best be described as UNCONTROLLED CONTROLS, and as such we find them in active operation preying on our economy whether carried on through the back door or not. When one buys direct from the producer and sells to the consumer as I do, you generally become conversant with their many problems, so I assert that idle land and empty stables tell their own story.

"I am told that over 80 p.c. of the beef cows, which comprise a large percentage of the stock now being sent to the markets, are cows heavy in calf. I know that most of the heifers and cows offered to me by the farmers are of the above class. It is also common knowledge that the high prices now being paid for veal has taken, and is taking 5 p.c. of the entire calf crop.

"If the condition is allowed to continue, it can only mean one thing; greater scarcity, plus a vast acreage of land out of production. I think it is only common sense and fair to all concerned, that land should be made to produce relatively the same as labor and industry. This condition needs considerable looking into immediately.

"I would suggest legislation of some sort, to control the slaughter of the aforementioned stock, to such an extent, and till such time, as a proper balance in production has been reached.

"I wish to place special emphasis in respect to the slaughter of heifer calves for veal, (saving an approximate 65 p.c.). This ban to be effective, would need to be applied at the slaughter end, because some farmer's reports might claim no heifer calves at all, or at best a very low percentage of the annual increase.

"Farmers are now selling all the available calves at the age of two months or thereabouts, for $100 or more. This is a short-sighted policy, one which can only add to their present economic difficulties; because, shortly they will have neither stock nor money—only idle land and abnormally high taxes.

"I submit these briefs because they in part explain conditions which I come in contact with day after day. I believe that if the action I suggest were taken, it would largely remedy this condition, nay, go far to start the blood stream of our economic life again flowing in the right direction.

"In closing I would suggest that all social and political organizations that have the economic welfare of our nation at heart, proceed to call their members together, and pass strongly worded resolutions memorializing their representative M.P. at Ottawa to earnestly consider this matter with a view to passing suitable legislation as proposed in this letter.

"I realize this item is only one of our many problems, but nevertheless, it is one needing immediate attention by government, since it has such a direct bearing on our entire national economy. I thank you."

KIDNEY ACIDS
Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

HOUSE No. 481 — Heres' a house carefully designed to meet today's needs. Although the house is small, the plan has incorporated almost all features looked for in a much larger home. First of all there is the big fireplace, the vestibule with its coat closet, and last but not least — a separate dining room! A wide arch is the only separation between this room and the living room, adding a feeling of greater size to both. The kitchen layout—a broken "U"—is good, and there is direct access through the hall to the front door. Both bedrooms are well located and have spacious closets. It has also a full-size basement. For Parents Only

The Baby's First Words

By NANCY CLEAVER

A baby's progress fascinates his parents, and there is no part of his growth more interesting than a child learning to talk. Usually by a year he is saying a few simple words such as "mama" and "bye bye"—often repetitions of one syllable. Of course, he chatters to himself in a jargon which no one can interpret, although his mother can distinguish the meaning of different kinds of crying. At a year and a half he likely uses about a dozen words—and is very proud of his vocabulary. He seems to understand the meaning of a number of words which he does not attempt to say.

There is no one "normal" rate of learning to talk—children vary greatly. Older children in the family who talk to the "baby" often help him master new words. By his second birthday, a child uses short sentences of two or three or even four words. Often he avoids pronouns and refers to himself not as "I" but by his first name, "Donnie sees cho-cho-train." Before another birthday comes around he is showing real delight in this new accomplishment—talking—and by the time he enters school many a child has a vocabulary of over a thousand words.

Question marks punctuate a little boy's or girl's remarks. Some are asked just for the sake of talking—for the pleasure of hearing his own voice. Other questions show that the child really wants to find out something. Mother—and father too—sometimes weary answering so many questions—but this is the child's way of adding to his store of information. Mothers who are "too busy" to answer a little child's questions are indeed too busy! Sometimes it is impossible for a mother to give an immediate answer. As a child grows older and asks difficult questions, (as those about the beginning or the end of his life) if he is not answered at home, the child will seek answers elsewhere.

Child Resents Pressure

If a child is slow in talking, the parents are often worried. Occasionally they make the mistake of nagging at him or trying to force him to speak. The child resents this pressure and the result of this treatment delays his speech still further. Rather mother should try to discover why her child is slow—perhaps he is being waited on too such a degree that he feels no necessity to express his wants. It may be that he sees other children too seldom and the grown-ups in his home talk in long sentences and do not use simple words. Medical experts re-assure parents that slowness in mental development is not always linked with slowness in talking. Many normal children, indeed some especially bright youngsters do not start to talk until much later than other youngsters.

Most parents find it a temptation to "talk baby talk" to their tiny child—particularly if he is their first born. An occasional lapse into "baby talk" does not matter. But if a mother habitually uses baby-talk to a child who is learning his first words, it confuses the youngster. It is difficult to imitate "baby talk" and the parents are the child's first language teachers. It is rather pathetic to hear an older child—or even an adult, taking "baby talk." Mother thinks it "cute," but the neighbors and friends are apt to be bored by this older child's desire to be important and the centre of attention.

Parents should also refrain from repeating to others in the presence of a child his original coined words—such as "the big black dog fraided me!" or cute sayings. These are of special interest only to those who especially love that particular child.

But a mother can make a fascinating Child's Own Book for her own pleasure. In it she should write down the child's first words, first sentences, the words which he made up. In pre-school days the child's cute remarks which a father may get a great kick out of hearing, should be briefly jotted down. These childhood stories are soon forgotten unless a record is kept. They provide "good reading" for fond parents when the children are grown. They bring back happy memories of the days when the sons and daughters were small and said their "First Words."

Rural Teacher Merits Higher Salary

HAVELOCK, March 17 (ENS) —Teachers in rural schools should receive a larger salary than those employed in urban schools because rural teachers have eight grades to teach whereas the teachers in the urban school is required to teach only one grade. That was the opinion expressed at this week's meeting of the Trent River West Farm Forum held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McNutt. The subject under discussion led by Edward Simpson dealt with the training and community activity of the rural teacher.

They also decided that a teacher should not be expected to be a leader in community activities, that more important was keeping up with their work and studies the parents of the children un- and making the acquaintance of der their tuition. Following the discussion a social hour was spent in playing euchre, followed by the service of refreshments by Mrs. McNutt. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simpson.

Donegal Forum

Mr. and Mrs. David Stark opened their home to Donegal Farm Forum. Raymond Begg led discussion period.

It was agreed that the rural teacher of a one room school should have an equal salary with the teacher of the urban school. In Normal school students who expect to teach in the country should be trained so that if need be they can take their place as a teacher in the community, a single teacher is expected to do so, but if however the teacher is married (he or she) should try to help in community affairs only to an extent that it does not overtax his or her home life..

Mr. and Mrs. John Stark conducted the progressive crokinole for the recrectional period. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Roy Leeper, Mrs. John Stark and Mrs. William Begg.

WI Greets Member Back From Hospital

APSLEY, March 17—(ENS)—Members of the Women's Institute met at Mrs. Chesel McColl's home on Monday evening to welcome Mrs. McColl and her baby son Brent home from hospital. The evening was spent in playing games. Mrs. Owen Montgomery in a few well chosen words expressed the group's pleasure at being once again in Mrs. McColl's home and especially on such a happy occasion. She asked her to accept a gift, a blue satin carriage cover and pillow, for use with her young son. Mrs. McColl thanked her fellow-members. A pleasant evening was brought to a close by serving of lunch.

Mrs. J. Huggins and small son Billie, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Prest, of Peterborough, visited relatives in the village this week.

Crows Black As Painted Destroyers of Game, Crops

Written for The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Experts find little to recommend the crow except perhaps that his reappearance at this time of the year indicates spring is just around the corner.

The late Percy A. Taverner, famous Canadian ornithologist and champion of wildlife conservation, in his standard work, "Birds of Canada," refers to the crow as a game destroyer. He says: "It behooves the sportsman to protect his own sport and, to take the burden of controlling one of the worst game destroyers."

Taverner's conclusion followed prolonged personal research and a study of the evidence, for and against, the crow. Everything he could find in favor of the crow is set forth, especially its usefulness in the destruction of grasshoppers in the West.

But, he says, if crows would give other species of insect-eating birds a chance to increase, they would handle the grasshopper pest, and other insect pests, very nicely. That chance is denied them. Egg-robbing, nestling-eating crows destroy so much useful bird-life at its helpless beginning, that this destruction offsets any good they might do at their best.

Other Damage

Nor is that damage all: Examination of thousands of crow stomachs has revealed that no less than 51 per cent. of their food later in the year is corn.

Crows have increased with the spread of agriculture and the retreat of the forest. There are far too many of them; they are a menace to song birds as well as waterfowl and upland game. Damage by the domestic cat, commonly blamed as the worst destroyer of bird-life, has a limited range in most instances; urban and suburban regions being its favorite hunting ground. Crows invade the entire countryside and can locate bird nests more speedily than the cleverest small boy.

Every crow shot by a sportsman rids his community of a pest and is a deed of kindness for robins, bluebirds, game and other useful birds.

Black crows are as black as they are painted, despite their appeal of cleverness to the sentimentalist. They will never be exterminated, their wiliness will take care of that. But their numbers call for radical reduction.

Goldfinch Attractive

"The goldfinch in his pretty coat of many colors, is the most beautiful of all," wrote the famed naturalist W. H. Hudson, in his book on British birds.

This species with crimson patch around the bill, white on sides of head and across throat, and with yellow wings, is familiar to Canadians who visit Bermuda. Introduced there from Britain some years ago, it has prospered and multiplied.

On more than one occasion attempts have been made to establish the species in Canada and the United States, but with no success whatever. About the size of the eastern goldfinch of Canada, the British bird has a much gayer appearance.

See Big Change Since 1945 in List Of Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 17 (AP) Time flies in Hollywood. Not for the town itself, which never seems to change much, but for the actors who try to make their livings here.

In 1945, there were exactly 175 actors under contract to MGM. Today there are 72.

Death has claimed three of the performers — Wallace Beery, Frank Morgan, Rags Ragland. At least one, Mary Astor, has retired. Many others have apparently lapsed into obscurity. There are dozens of names on the 1945 list which mean nothing today.

Several of the actors have left the studio and have done all right. On the list was a Horace McNally, who did not attract a great deal of attention until he changed his name to Stephen. One of the budding young actresses was Linda Christian, now Mrs. Tyrone Power.

Return to Stage

Ray Bolger returned to the stage, where he remains a star. June Lockhart played ingenues and then went to Broadway to score a hit. Gloria Grahame rose to prominence after leaving the studio. Nancy Walker became a stage star.

There was quite a juvenile acting list in those days. The studio schoolhouse contained such scholars as Jane Powell, Elizabeth Taylor, Margaret O'Brien, Jackie (Butch) Jenkins, Sharon McManus, Claude Jarman, Jr., Don Gift and others.

Many another famous name has since left the studio's family. Among them: Irene Dunne, Jean Pierre Aumont, Edward Arnold, Lucille Ball, John Carroll, Larsaine Day, Jimmy Durante, Van Heflin, Katharine Hepburn, Myrna Loy, Ilona Massey, Susan Peters, Robert Young and Hurd Hatfield.

Canadian Gets DFC

LONDON, March 17—(CP)—Award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to Flt Lt. William Begy of Toronto and St. Catharines, Ont., was announced last night.

An Air Ministry announcement said Begy, since 1949 a flight commander with the RAF in Malaya, displayed particular coolness on four occasions—twice when fires started in the aircraft.

Recover Man's Body

LONDON, Ont., March 17 —(CP)—Provincial Police and city firemen today recovered the body of William Gordon Quinn, 56, from beneath White's Bridge over the Thames River. He had been missing since Thursday.

THIS ARCHITECT'S SKETCH illustrates the extent of the enlargement of the greatly crowded Montreal Neurological Institute, one of the world's outstanding centres of neuro-surgery teaching and research. The new north wing is outlined by the dotted line. The building proper is at the right. The south extension, hidden from view, will be added at the immediate right of the institute. The expansion of the hospital has been made possible by grants from the provincial government and donations from individuals ranging from $2 to many thousands.

Magazine Fined Stealing Story

TORONTO, March 17—(CP)—Judge Samuel Factor yesterday ordered Maclean's magazine to pay Lyman B. Jackes of Toronto $75 and court costs, after finding that a 250-word article in the Feb. 1 issue used "basic ideas" copyrighted by Mr. Jackes.

Suing for $250, Mr. Jackes charged "plagiarism, inringfement of copyright, unauthorized publication and theft of original material" in a "Candianecdote" article entitled "How Wolfe Got the Inside Dope."

The Judge ruled the magazine should pay Mr. Jackes as a matter of "equity and good conscience."

Mr. Jackes said the article bore similarities to one by him published in 1931, which told how a British spy got in and out of French-held Quebec in 1758.

Hamilton Mailmen Work 51-Hour Week

HAMILTON, March 17—(CP)—A survey which claims that Hamilton lettercarriers are working an average of 51 hours a week and carrying 1,100 pounds of mail has been completed, Fred Bimson, secretary-treasurer of the Hamilton branch of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, announced yesterday.

He renewed criticism of the recent reduction to one delivery a day in the residential sections of Canadian cities and said the results of the survey would be sent to Hamilton members of parliament.

Thomas Davidson

MARMORA, March 17 (ENS) The funeral of Thomas Nelson Davidson of Millbridge was held on Wednesday afternoon. Service at the Duffin funeral home, Madoc, was conducted by the Rev. T. Harvey Good, rector of Madoc. Burial took place in Fox's cemetery, Eldorado.

HELD BY REDS—Dr. Stewart Allen, of Montreal, director of a Canadian mission hospital at Chungking, China, was arrested recently by Chinese Communist authorities on a charge of selling goods without paying the government stamp duty. Canada has been using the British mission in Peiping to obtain Dr. Allen's release, so far without success.

Utilizing Available Space Important In New Homes

A careful appraisal of your house, whether new or old, will reveal many unsuspected places which might be utilized for storing those odds and ends that inevitably result from today's manner of living.

Homes, like butter, canned goods and sugar, have to be stretched these days. Instead of adding on a new bedroom, putting in another bathroom or adding a garage many of us have to make our present space do for whatever emergency may arise.

That means, for one thing, that you'll have to find new places for storage. There are probably several idle spaces in your home that could be put to work. How about under the stairs? If yours is a two storey house with basement you'll have at least two under-the-stairway possibilities. The main floor area can be used for clothing storage by merely putting rods and hangers in it . . . or it can be used for linen storage by installing shelves. The basement space under the stairs, closed in and fitted with shelves, will hold your Victory-garden canning efforts . . . or it can be the resting place for screens and storm doors.

Ceiling as Storage Space

Ever use the ceiling as storage space? In the basement, for example, you can use it to store the screens and storm windows. Make simple frame rack, large enough to hold the screens you need, and attach it to the cellar joists. Such a rack keeps the screens away from the floor and up in the relatively dry air of the ceiling. Your first floor closet crowded? No place for shoes? Use the basement ceiling again. Cut a hole in the floor of your closet, then build a box between the joists thus exposed. Cover the hole with hinged cover and there's your shoe storage, out of sight, and from under foot. In any crowded room a ceiling shelf or cabinet, like those installed over the sink in the kitchen will save your precious floor space but give you equally precious storage space.

Turned into an Asset

Plumbing sometimes takes odd turns and cuts up otherwise neat wall spaces. You can turn this liability into an asset. Build a wooden covering around the pipe and above or at the side of it provide a cabinet or shelves for storing odds and ends . . . . if it's in the basement you can store paint and brushes here, in a bathroom you can store toilet articles or linens. If you plan your space right, no one need ever know your cabinet or shelving resulted from necessity.

Those ungainly jogs in the foundation can be turned to good use, too. Depending on their size they can be converted into a laundry centre, a storage for home - canned vegetables, for screens and storm windows, for old magazines you want to keep. But we don't mean that these should be just thrown into the space . . . we mean that they should be planned into the space. Cellar floors are often damp, so the first requirement is to get things up and off the floor. Shelving will do the trick in most cases, but some articles call for further protection. Simple cabinets, with fibre-board doors either hinged or sliding are easily made and are worth the time and effort it takes to make them.

Dutch Army Receives Canadian Arms Gift

TAMERSFOORT, Holland, March 17—(CP)—The Dutch Army yesterday staged its first full-dress parade since the war before Queen Juliana. The occasion was the transfer of a gift of arms from Canada.

Canada presented the Netherlands with a full armament of guns, automatic machine guns, artillery and ammunition for one division. The gift was part of the Atlantic Pact's European defence program.

The transfer was effected by Canadian ambassador Pierre Dupuis.

25 Canadian Troops Flown To Tokyo

VANCOUVER, March 17—(CP)—A group of 25 Canadian troops left here earlier this week aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines special Korean airlift flight, bound for Tokyo.

The men, under command of Lieut. Gerald Botting of Moose Jaw, are reinforcements for the contingent of the Princess Patricias now fighting in Korea. They are not a part of the main force of the Patricias which, as announced in Ottawa, will leave shortly for Korea.

The troops are now in Tokyo awaiting disposition.

Canada, France Agree End Double Taxation

OTTAWA, March 17 —(CP)—Canada and France Friday agreed to give relief from double taxation to citizens of each country doing business in the other.

The agreement was signed in Paris by Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, Canadian Ambassador, and Alexandre Parodi, Secretary-General of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

It applies to the fields of income tax and succession duties. Similar agreements already have been entered into by Canada with the United States, the United Kingdom and New Zealand.

Today's agreement binds both countries to the principle that where an income has been taxed in either country once it should not be taxed again. Or, if it is taxed a second time, the amount paid in the first instance shall be deducted from that owing.

Marmora WI Discusses Library Repairs

MARMORA, March 17 (ENS)—The March meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. M. Kouri.

Mrs. Percy Gray presided. After opening exercises, Mrs. E. C. Prentice read a paper prepared by Mrs. P. Eamer on the motto, "He who plants a garden plants a future and he who has a future is alive." The president reported a visit with Mrs. W. D. Lavender as a special committee to the village council with regard to proposed renovation at the public library. The council favored the renovation and in that connection a committee of Institute members comprising Mesdames E. C. Prentice, R. E. Neal and P. Gordon will make further arrangements.

The local chapter of the IODE will also be contacted as to co-operative effort. Miss Jennie Reynolds then played two piano solos, after which Mrs. H. P. Nayler read a paper prepared by Miss Grace Warren on "The St. John Ambulance Brigade."

The nominating committee for officers for the ensuing year will be Mrs. E. C. Prentice and Mrs. H. P. Nayler. Mrs. Eugene Brady, secretary-treasurer, drew the attention of members to the home making program. Following a humorous reading by Mrs. R. E. Neal, Mrs. F. R. Wells gave a talk on the recent trip taken by herself and husband to Florida.

Will Not Import Impure Syrup

QUEBEC, March 17—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Barre of Quebec was told yesterday the United States will apply an embargo on Quebec maple products unless purity standards are maintained.

A delegation representing maple producers told the minister the embargo threat has been raised because impure maple sugar and syrup have been shipped across the border.

Lately, such tricks as adding granulated sugar to maple products have been employed, they claimed. A quarter-century ago, unscrupulous producers sometimes concealed stones in maple sugar blocks to increase their weight.

Foils Bank Robbery

OSHAWA, March 17 —(CP)—Police said Friday an alter officer foiled a pre-dawn attempt to rob the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in nearby Pickering. Constable Gordon Channing said he spotted a man lurking in an alley and gave chase. The man warned his companions and all escaped. An acetylene torch was found in the bank.

Tanker Opens Season

GODERICH, Ont., March 17—(CP)—Imperial Cobourg of the Imperial Oil Company, opened navigation here yesterday when she steamed up the harbor with a cargo of 24,000 barrels of gasoline and fuel oil. The Cobourg is skippered by Capt. C. A. Sloane of Mimico.

Artists Try Fabric Painting Experiment

By VICTOR MORRIS, JR.

MONTREAL, March 17 (CP)—Art by the yard—designs by top Canadian artists on fabrics—is an experiment that may well reach into every home in the country. It's a Canadian idea, the brainchild of Peter Freygood of Regina.

An unemployed graduate of the University of Saskatchewan when he hitch-hiked from Regina to Montreal nearly 20 years ago, Freygood was possessed with the idea of promoting Canadian art.

His effort is strictly commercial. He says so himself. But at the same time he's serving as an outlet for the work of Canada's long-overlooked artists.

The work of the artists he has called upon is considered some of the most original in its field.

Each Artist Specialist

Each artist is different in style and type of art.

Stanley Cosgrave specializes in mural work—especially autumnal trees with falling leaves; Paul-Emile Borduas, an abstract painter, does a fish-like design, strange and dreamy; Maurice Raymond, a professor of design and decoration, designed a rural Canadian scene; Robert LaPalme, Montreal caricaturist, is a specialist in devilish, squiggly little figures on reverse strips; and Jeanne Rheaume, a wife and homemaker who won the 1950 Art Association spring show award, does abstract designs that are living and beautiful.

The chief obstacle in launching a new experiment like this, explains Freygood, is to convince the large department store chains to depart from sales - tested American designs.

Must Be Convinced

"It's difficult to convince the retailers that here is something Canadian and worthwhile," he said. "Also, the Canadian public has to be educated to the fact there is something distinctly our own and just as good as American in Canadian - designed textile patterns."

One of Freygood's biggest boosters is Robert Ryler Davis, American-born director of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts.

Davis says: "As an American, I'm possibly more aware of the value to Canadians of their own art than Canadians are themselves. I'm constantly amazed at the Canadians' lack of confidence in their own power. And home-grown art talent is power."

Canadians, he added, are too modest about the good things they have done in art.

Leading Woman Doctor Has Praise For Civic Hospital

The Peterborough Civic Hospital received high rating Friday afternoon from one of the leading women in the medical profession in the North American continent. Dr. Virginia Apgar took time out from a full schedule of lecturing at the Anaethetists' convention held Friday and today in the city to speak enthusiastic words of praise for Peterborough's new hospital in an interview with the Examiner.

Well known in the medical profession for her outstanding work in anaesthesia, Dr. Apgar has lectured in centres throughout United States and Canada. She was the first woman to hold full professorship at Columbia University, New York.

"Your hospital is well above average as compared with hospitals in cities of comparative size that I have visited," she stated. "Not only have you a fine building in an ideal location, but it has the latest in equipment and what is most important a highly competent staff."

At once, charming, unassuming and enthusiastic Dr. Apgar outlined a few details of her work. In addition to her professorship at Columbia University, she is clinical director of anaesthesia at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Centre which includes 10 hospitals and chairman of the Board of Governors of the American College of Anaesthesiologists.

"My work is one-third research, one-third clinical and one-third teaching," she explained. Research in anaesthesia involves careful study of the patient reaction before, during and after an operation. In addition, anaesthesia as a pain relief is not just putting a patient to sleep and awakening him safely, but also it is utilized to relieve pain in other ways such as intravenous drugs and injection of nerves. Last year we gave a total of 17,000 anaesthesias."

Dr. Apgar flew from New York to Chicago Monday night and on by plane to Toronto Thursday morning, where she visited the new Hospital for Sick Children. She motored to Peterborough Thursday night and is the guest of Dr. Agnes Moffat.

In addition to her professional work, Dr. Apgar is an ardent stamp collector, specializing in stamps from the Netherlands and colonies, plays the viola in an orchestra and gardens at her home in Tenafly, New Jersey.

"I also like to fish," she concluded.

Marmora News

Rural Dean and Mrs. J. M. Brownlee, Mrs. Dave Wellman, S. Kitchener and V. J. Cottrell attended the Hasting--Prince Edward Deaneries Sunday School teachers' meeting in Trenton on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Fleming, of Stirling, visited Mrs. E. Rose, and Mrs. C. Jones on Friday.

Mrs. Jean Fink left on Friday for her home in Sudbury after spending the past five weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Paquet at Deloro.

Thankoffering At Coldsprings

COLDSPRINGS, March 17 — (ENS)—The Easter Thankoffering meeting of the Coldsprings WMS was held in the Sunday school rooms of St. Paul's United Church on Thursday, with an attendance of 35.

Mrs. A. Jamieson, president, was in the chair, Miss Edith Hoskin led in prayer. The roll call was answered with "My favorite Easter hymn."

Quilts were on display which WMS members had quilted. It was decided that from now on the charge to quilt fancy quilts will be $7.50, and plain print ones $3.

Bazaar articles were on sale, for the expense fund, and approximately $25 was raised.

Mrs. John Noble was in charge of the Easter program. The theme was "Peace I leave with you." Readings were given by Mrs. James Rosevear, Mrs. F. Fisher, Mrs. Wm. Dines and Mrs. F. Shier. Easter hymns were sung. Mrs. Noble read a oem, "Easter Bells." Mrs. Shier gave an excellent paper on "Eastertime and the Resurrection."

The meeting concluded with prayer by Mrs. Noble. Lunch was served by Mrs. A. Taylor and group.

Coventry Singers Present Program Art Association

The Coventry Singers under the direction of John Hooper presented a delightful evening's entertainment of madrigal music at the Women's Art Association meeting at the YWCA Friday evening.

Unaccompanied except for two selections, the members of this group sang their program seated informally in a semi-circle facing their director.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president of the Women's Art Association, introduced Mr. Hooper who added to the enjoyment of the audience by a brief discussion of each selection and its composer before its rendition.

The program of 16 selections was divided into five parts, Madrigal and Ballet Group, Purcell Choruses, Modern Religious Music, Elizabethan Part Songs and Folk Songs. Among the composers represented were Thomas Morley, John Wilbye, Orlando Gibbons, Henry Purcell, Dr. Healey Willan and Peter Warlock.

Following the program refreshments were served to the singers and audience.

Marmora Woman 97 On Sunday

MARMORA, March 17 (ENS)—Mrs. Urena Pinner, Marmora's oldest resident, will quietly celebrate her 97th birthday Sunday.

Oldest member of the McWilliam family which has resided in this district for about a century, Mrs. Pinner was born in Springbrook but has lived in Marmora for 85 years. She is the oldest member of the congregation of St. Paul's Anglican Church and in earlier years was an active member of the Ladies' Guild. She is also the oldest member of Marmora Women's Institute, having joined when it was organized. For one of her years, she is in good possession of her faculties. During recent months she has been confined to her home, but when spring comes in its fullness, she enjoys the short walk every day.

Her husband, George Pinner, died in 1915. Three children—Fred at home, Mrs. T. Butler (Pearl) Toronto, and Mrs. George Hartley (Nina), Marmora—will be joined by a host of friends in extending felicitations to one who occupies a enviable niche in the life of the village.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE—A costume juniors will love for evenings this summer is the coat and dress ensemble shown above. Both the coat and dress are fashioned of navy nylon-and-rayon marquisette. The strapless bodice of the dress is filled in with navy net and rhinestone-dotted flowerets of embroidered white pique.

Penny Sale And Tea Held

The Y's Menettes held a tea and Penny Sale at the YMCA Wednesday evening. Mrs. Jack Wilson was convener of the tea and sale and assisted Mrs. Steve Csumrik, president, to receive.

The tea table, laid with a cutwork cloth, had for its centre piece a very unusual arrangement of yellow roses and red tulips. Yellow candles in crystal candelabras completed the table's decoration. Pouring were Mrs. Ralph Honey, Mrs. George Roper and Mrs. Stan Johnston.

Mrs. Harry Powell, was convener of the tea room and had as her servers, Mrs. Cecil Osborne, Mrs. Joseph Rowan, Mrs. Walter Davidson, Mrs. Woodrow Roberts.

While tea was being served, Mrs. H. McGinness entertained at the piano.

The following winners were drawn at the penny sale by Mr. Charles Forsythe, Mrs. Hallick, Mrs. William McFarlane, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. G. E. Church, Mrs. J Dawson, Mrs Gordon Powell, Mrs. H. Powell, Mrs. J. R. White.

Mrs. Walter Davidson won a travelling alarm clock and Mr. W. Watson a watch in two raffle draws.

Mrs. Charles Forsythe, Mrs. D. Harwood and Mrs. Fraser Wade were in charge of the penny sale and tickets.

A table of greens for March 17 such as shamrocks, air fern and novelties was in charge of Mrs. Earl Spencley. A white elephant table with knick-knacks and books was looked after by Mrs. Wilfred Pinn and Mrs. Grant Gillespie. The ex-toggery table was convened by Mrs. Joseph Watson and Mrs. Don Miller. A well supplied bake table was in charge of Mrs. J. Thornton and Mrs. J. Clarke.

The Y's Menettes are planning to make this tea an annual event.

COTTESLOE, March 17—The Cottesloe WMS held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Metcalfe. Mrs. John Gallagher opened the meeting. Mrs. Dave Barr read the scripture. It was decided to quilt two quilts on March 28 in Cottesloe school. Mrs. Tom Webster was in charge of the program. Mrs. Metcalfe served lunch assisted by Mrs. Tom Webster and Mrs. C. McMillan.

Successful St. Patrick's Tea Held At Queen Mary School

Two tea rooms were again featured at the St. PJatrick's tea held by the Queen Mary Home and School Association at the school Friday afternoon. Green and White were the predominating colors in the attractive decorations.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. G. T. Reader, Miss M. Stenton and Miss D. Hooey.

A new convenience was introduced at this year's tea. The kindergarten room was made available as a nursery for small children with girls from grade VIII in charge.

The two tea tables were attractively centred with bouquets of mums, pansies, carnations, roses and snapdragons. Pouring tea were Mrs. Black Bell, Mrs. Ralph Honey, Miss E. Deyell, Mrs. R. Scrutton, Mrs. Paige Rowell, Mrs. W. L. McNeil. Mrs. C. Collins and Mrs. D. Lawless.

Another feature of the tea was a bazaar of five tables. The bazaar and novelty tables were in charge of Mrs. R. Lewis and Mrs. W. L. Hardwicke; Mrs. J. Mayer was in charge of the home-made candy booth; Mrs. Irving Moldaver, the pantry table, and Mrs. H. Cowan, the shamrock table.

Mrs. R. Standish and Mrs. Rishor were in charge of decorations. The tea-room pantries were in charge of Mrs. C. Muir and Mrs. H. Wells. Mrs. C. Northey and Mrs. V. Millen were kitchen supervisors

Serving were Mrs. Max Hutchinson, Mrs. C. Grant, Mrs. E. Westbye, Miss O. Parrington, Miss H. Thurston, Miss MacNab, Miss Mortlock, Miss C. Doughty, Mrs. Max Middleton. Mrs. J. Gilders, Mrs. J. Gatfield, Mrs. S. Moldaver, Mrs. K. C. Dalrymple, Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. W Perks, Mrs T. Doughty, Mrs. McArthur, Mrs. S. Heard, Mrs. H. Bradburn, Mrs. G. Harrison, Mrs. M. Knox, Mrs. R. B. Are you in the know?

Can you remedy cold, red hands with —
☐ Open-air workouts
☐ Mittens
☐ Lotion

If Winter turns your mitts to ley "lobster claws"—chances are, your circulation needs recharging. Get more outdoor exercise. Swap tight gloves for warm, wool mittens that give your fingers wiggle-room. And use hand lotion faithfully. On difficult days, choose Kotex for comfort . . . downy softness that holds its shape. And to top your poise-rating, those flat pressed ends of Kotex prevent revealing outlines!

How to straighten out a feud you started?
☐ Make the first move
☐ Wait for him to call
☐ Try the weeping technique

You blow your top. And you're sorry — even before you hear the door slam. Well, tell him so, in a little note. Or ask the crowd over and include your bitter half. If that doesn't fetch him, why knock yourself out? 'Taint worth it . . . any more than it is to fret over trying days' woes. You needn't, for Kotex gives you the extra protection of an exclusive safety centre. A Kotex feature that guards against accidents; spares you "those" nagging cares.

3 ABSORBENCIES: Regular, Super, Junior
More women choose KOTEX* than all other sanitary napkins!
*T.M. Reg.

How to prepare for "certain" days?
☐ Circle your calendar
☐ Buy a new belt
☐ Perk up your wardrobe

Before "that" time, be ready! All 3 answers above can help. But to assure extra comfort, buy a new Kotex sanitary belt. Made with soft-stretch elastic—light-weight Kotex belt's non-twisting. Stays flat even after many washings. Dries pronto! So don't wash, buy a new Kotex belt now. (Why not buy two — for a change?)

P.S. Have you tried Delsey? Delsey* is the new bathroom tissue that's softer because it's softer. A product so superior to Kotex, a tissue as soft and absorbent as Kleenex*. (We think that's the nicest compliment there is.)

Only Miraculous Love Can Span 31-Year Gap

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old and in love with a man who is 50. I have known him all my life and loved him from the time I was a small child and have always said that when I was grown I would marry him. I have been going around with him to places ever since I was 16 and he has always been good to me. We have talked over marriage and both our families agree to it, but he is afraid that I am too young and that when I am older I may find a younger man and be sorry for having married him. But that will not happen because he fills my heart as as no boy does. When love is this strong and has lasted so long, don't you think we can make a go of it? VENITA

ANSWER: Ordinarily I should say that a gap of thirty-one years between a husband and wife is too much even for love to span, and that there is small chance of happiness for either one in such an unequal marriage.

But your case is such a very peculiar one that the general objections to a May-and-December wedding do not seem as valid as they are in most cases. Your love for this man so much your senior seems an obsession. For a little child to have fallen in love with a man older than her father and for this love to have grown with her growth and strengthened with her strength, and for her never to have faltered in her determination to marry him is an almost uncanny romance.

It Might Work

Evidently you are an old soul, as our theosophical friends would say, or else youth would call to you instead of age. So perhaps your calendar age does not matter.

The danger of an old man marrying a younger girl is very real because, as a general thing, they not only have nothing in common but their point of view is antagonistic.

It is easy to see why a girl of 19 and a man of 50 may find it hard to adjust themselves to each other. Nothing but a great and miraculous love can do it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What questions should be settled between an engaged couple before they get married? X, Y. Z.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: About everything on earth, and then some, because no matter what problems they settle before marriage new ones that they never dreamed of will crop up every day.

But here are some of the things they should talk over in the intervals of telling each other how much they love and how they are never, never going to argue or disagree on any subject as other married people do:

When and where and how they are going to live and whether or not there are to be any in-laws on the premises. Neither one has any right to ring in any of his or her relatives without the other's full consent. Whether the girl is to continue on with her job after marriage, and if so, is she expected to fill a two-time job alone or does husband covenant to help with the dishes and do the vacuum cleaning?

The money problem. The husband's views on this are all-important. Does he agree to give the wife an allowance and, if so, how much? Or is she supposed to work for her board and clothes and panhandle him for carfare? Does the wife agree to give the husband an evening off once a week? Or is he expected never to stir out of his own door without her?

What about amusements? Does the husband think that the wife should emulate the snail and carry her house on her back all the time? Or does he think that she needs to step out two or three times a week and occasionally eat something she didn't cook herself?

What about religion and politics? Do they agree on these two vital questions? Or are they to be fighting words for the next thirty or forty years? And, above all, how about babies? Does one think they are little angels that heaven sends to bless a home and the other regard them as brats that are best avoided? Many a marriage is wrecked on the baby proposition, and no man and woman should marry unless they are in accord on it.

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of Dutch treats? LIL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Fine. It makes for friendship and good feeling when girls go out together for each to pay her own way. And when boys and girls who earn about the same amount of money go Dutch treat, it is nothing but fair and it enables them to have more parties.

LITTLE IODINE by JIMMY HATLO

What's Right

A man, named for his father, has always used junior after his name, but wonders if he should continue to do so after his father's death.

WRONG: He continues to use the name John Robert Smith, Jr.

RIGHT: He drops the junior and becomes John Robert Smith.

Australia has more than 27,000 miles of railway track in its federal and state railways.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: In today's column you asked for suggestions. I never knew anyone to roast brisket. Our family always used sirloin or Porterhouse roasts.

Well we were not fond of stews or made over dishes and a roast lasted too long with just two in family. One day I got some brisket to boil. It looked so good I decided to roast it instead (until tender). With the fat it was most delicious and tender. I have told a lot of people about it.

Then one day I got a knuckle of veal to jelly. But I had the idea of roasting it with dressing. It was as nice as any chicken. A surprise. Perhaps you can use these ideas.

P.S.—You may have to explain how to select the right cut of brisket. I know by the looks. Anyway if it did not come up to expectations one could cut it up and make a curry.—A. W. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Good for you. That is the kind of venturesomeness that creates new dishes. I think I should add something which is obvious to you. All of these meats that are usually boiled require long, slow, covered baking, when done in the oven. Do write again when I can help you.

QUESTION: Here I am again. Who do you hear from more often for help than me? Have you any ideas as to what could be served informally at (card) parties. The ordinary things have been murdered. . . How can one serve things that are and look simple but with a new twist?

You are like a long distance "Mom" to me. So many things come in your column "just in time." I had a box of tasteless apples—harder then bullets. What to do? Your mincemeat suggestion took care of that.

P.S. I did not get the letter closed before I thought of another question. What else could I do with apples that are absolutely tasteless? Maybe I had better make the two bushels of them up into mincemeat and have a ten years' supply on hand. "Goody Two-Shoes"

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I have changed your pen name. Hope you do not mind. I am so sorry I had to delete some of the most comical parts from your letter to preserve your anonymity. I have chuckled over it for twenty-four hours. You give me such a vivid word picture of your setting I can sense the atmosphere.

✧ ✧ ✧

Number One Idea: Did you clip the recipe for Biscuits Supreme? These may be varied endlessly. You may add cheese or make them into folds filled with sugar cubes soaked in orange, or marmalade. Or make them into cinnamon rolls. The recipe will be in the paper ahead of this column some time this week. I have had to repeat it several times.

✧ ✧ ✧

Number Two Idea: Buy a "French stick" loaf of bread. Cut this almost through into one-inch slices. Brush melted butter on the cut surfaces, being very generous with it. Sprinkle grated old cheese between the slices and generously on top. Bake this in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until cheese is melted and crust is crispy and golden and bubbly. Serve at once. Guests pull off the slices. This is very popular with men.

Number Three Idea: Western Pizza. (This is an Italian dish that is proving very popular recently with folks who frequent restaurants.) Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 1 scant cup milk, 1 can condensed tomato soup, ½ lb. diced cheddar cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1 clove garlic very finely chopped.

(Pizza) Prepare a tea biscuit dough from the first five ingredients. Spread this dought on bottom of a buttered 8x2-inch baking pan. Pour over a mixture of the tomato soup, cheese, pepper, parsley, onion and garlic. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Cut in small squares to serve hot.

NOTE: Instead of biscuit dough you may use refrigerator roll yeast dough.

I am sending you a pamphlet by mail Goody.

Polish Painter Fought Nazis In Secret Army

TORONTO — (CP). — A new Canadian artist who was once engaged in sabotage in the Polish secret army has had several of her paintings exhibited in a Toronto gallery.

When the Germans came to Warsaw, the artist, Hanna Gordzialkowsga - Weynerowski, now living on a peach farm at Vineland, Ont., had just finished her studies at the Warsaw Art Academy and was preparing to go to Paris for further study. Instead she became a member of the Polish secret army.

School girls and young boys were an important part of the organization. They were assigned to sabotage—blowing up bridges, and in general undertaking the most effective possible interference with movements of enemy troops. They were thought harmless by the Germans because of their age and allowed to circulate freely. Hanna became known as "Kali" to her associates, a name which she still uses to sign her pointings.

After the Warsaw insurrection in 1944 in which she was wounded and was awarded the Medal of Courage, Kali was sent to a German prison camp. She has a long scar on her hand to testify to the "kindness" of her German captors.

Went To Brussels

Following the liberation, Kali went to Brussels to study at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts. For the next five years she painted in France, Sweden, Switzerland, Luxembourg and England. Her paintings were exhibited in some of the principal cities. In Brussels she married a compatriot and now lives with her husband on his brother's fruit farm in Vineland.

Kali has tried to blot the memories of her wartime experiences from her mind, but to no avail. A critic commenting on one of her paintings, "Still Life," exhibited in Toronto, said: "The artist's personal experience is reflected in a painting of unusual interest in form and color. The hands overlay the great dark eyes, but do not shut out the pictures of terrible things."

6—In Memoriams

CATHCART, Mrs. Harold—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away March 18th, 1949.
Two years have passed, dear mother,
Since you were called away,
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day.
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Ever remembered by husband, all the family and Mildred Brown.

DRUMMOND—In loving memory of Norman Charles Drummond, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Drummond, who passed away March 17, 1950.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked him when He gave him birth,
And took him with a smile.
— Ever remembered by Mommie, Daddy, Sister and Brothers.

DRUMM—In loving memory of my dear mother Alice Drumm, who passed away March 18, 1944.
You are not forgotten, mother dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
I shall remember thee.
—Lovingly remembered by son Ted and family.

GLOVER—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Robert F. Glover, who passed away March 17, 1937.
Take up thy cross and follow Him,
Nor think till death to lay it down:
For only he who bears the cross
May hope to wear the glorious crown.
In that bright Eternal City,
Where no tears ever dim the eye:
In the home of many mansions,
We will meet her bye and bye.
—Lovingly remembered by her son Earl.

HAMILTON—In loving memory of my dear father, Albert R. Hamilton, who passed away March 17, 1943.
The setting of the sun, and in the morning we remember.
—Ever remembered by daughter Shirley and family.

LAVERY—In loving memory of Michael Joseph Lavery, who passed away March 16, 1943.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place,
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
— Always remembered by daughter Lillian, son-in-law Leo McGuire and grandson Larry.

Canada, Sweden Square Off For World Title

PARIS, March 17 (CP).—Canada and Sweden square off tonight in the deciding game of the world amateur hockey championship tournament.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, with a wide goal-average margin and a one-point lead, need only to tie with the sharp-shooting Swedes to retain the world crown for the Dominion.

But before the night is over Dick Gray's Canadians will know they have been in a hockey game. The Swedes—favored to capture the European title from Switzerland—are nobody's pushovers.

Passing Attack

They're big, fast and shifty and can operate a checkerboard attack inside their opponents' blue line which is just about as pretty as anything on view in the world tournament here.

The Andersson twins—Stig and Hans—and the Johansson trio (unrelated) of Rune, Gosta and Erik pass the puck with such speed and accuracy that most opponents just stand and goggle until it's in the net.

They're rough on defence too, and big Rune Johansson throws a body check with the cheerful menace of a Red Horner or a Ching Johnson.

Against this powerhouse, Gray plans to use speed and more speed in an effort to wear the Swedes down as the Leafs last night wore down Switzerland 5-1.

Europe Crown

The loss cost the hurtling highlanders from the Alps their chance at the world title, but they remain in the running to retain their European crown. The latter appears likely to be decided between Sweden and Switzerland on goal average.

Last night's tilt with Switzerland was the Leafs' closest match. The Swiss grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first period with their flashy attack; but failed to stand up under the pressure of the hard-skating Leafs. By the third period they were slowed to almost a walk.

The Leafs, defending the title won last year by Edmonton Mercurys, drew a crowd of 14,000 despite a transport strike that tied up buses and trams all over the city.

After that first-period goal, centre Bill Gibson started the ball rolling at nine minutes of the second. Stan Obodiak clicked from a face-off at the three-quarter mark, then Gibson scored again to give Leafs a 3-1 edge as the period ended.

Obodiak got his second four minutes into the finale and Gibson completed the hat trick with 50 seconds to go.

U.S. Ties Britain

Other group A games yesterday saw Britain and the United States battle to a 6-6 draw while Finland overcame a battered Norwegian outfit 3-0.

Italy clinched the group B consolation championship by whipping Austria 7-2 for her fifth straight win. In the other group B game, the Netherlands edged Belgium 2-1.

In other games today, the United States meets Switzerland and Britain meets Finland in group A competition. In group B Yugoslavia meets Austria, France meets the Netherlands.

Oshawa Scores Upset Win Over Spitfires

Oshawa Generals, a high-scoring team with a porous defence all season, sprang the only upset as the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs began last night.

Generals finished fifth in the regular season standings, thanks largely to the marksmanship of Lou Jankowski and Alex Delvecchio, who ran one-two in the scoring race. But of the eight games that made the playoffs, they had the worst goals-against record — 231 in 54 games.

Underdogs

That made them definite underdogs when they squared off with Windsor Spitfires in the first game of a best-of-five, quarter-final round. Spitfire goalie Glen Hall, with 167 goals against him, was the second-best netminder in the league.

But last night, Hall was the second-best netminder in the game as Oshawa beat Spitfires 4-2. Dick Piatowski blocked 37 shots to Hall's 32. And, naturally Jankowski got two goals and Delvecchio a third.

George Samolenko of Oshawa and Windsor's Elmer Skov and Bob Brown were the other goal-scorers.

Barrie Wins

The other two games were strictly as advertised. The first-place Barrie Flyers disposed of the eighth-place Galt Black Hawks 7-2 while Guelph Biltmores downed St. Catharines Teepees 7-3.

Leo Labine and Jerry Toppazzini scored two goals apiece to lead Flyers to victory. Real Chevrefils, Jack White and Don Emms added one apiece. Don Hogan and Jack Price were Galt marksmen.

At Guelph, Andy Bathgate paced Biltmores with a three-goal performance. Ron Murphy, Ed Kulik, Danny Blair and Dean Prentice completed their total while Skip Teal, Buddy Boone and Frank Martin counted for the losers.

All six teams swap playing sites for their second games tonight while Toronto Marlboros and Stratford Kroehlers open their best-of-five series at Toronto in a Saturday afternoon contest.

On the same Toronto bill, St. Michael's Monarchs and Hamilton Tigers start their best-of-seven final series in the major group.

Church League Game Called By Referee

COBOURG, Ont., March 17 — (CP).—A Church League hockey game was called off here Thursday night by referee Al Fisher when he was jostled, pushed and finally struck by players he was directing to the penalty box after a fight.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Happy Chandler, now baseball's high commissioner, is interested in a similar job in the golf world if anybody offers it.

Chandler, whose bid for a new contract in the baseball post was blocked by major-league club owners Monday, was interviewed by the City of Miami News Bureau.

It quoted Chandler as saying: "I learned through my friend George Jacobus (president of the Professional Golfers' Association from 1933 to 1939) that some of the pros were considering the creation of such a post.

"If they make me the proper offer, I believe I would undertake it, even though I am under pressure from my political friends in Kentucky."

At Jacksonville, Fla., Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., shot a five-under-par 67 for the first-round lead in the $10,000 Jacksonville open golf tournament yesterday.

Worsham 1947 United States open champion, birdied five holes and stuck to par on the other 13 of the 6,508-yard course.

Jim Ferrier of San Fransico, the big Australian who won the Miami Beach open last Sunday and the St. Petersburg open a week earlier, was tied with Jack Shields, 30-year-old professional from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, one stroke behind Worsham with 68.

Latest word from England is that despite injuries, Irish jockey Tim Molony will be fit to ride Jock Witney's Arctic Gold in the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, Liverpool, April 7.

Maloney fell in the first race at Fontwell Park Thursday and it was feared he had cracked his collar-bone.

The trouble, however, was a bruised shoulder.

Arctic Gold is the currrent 8-to-1 favorite for the jumping classic.

At Albany, N.Y., last-minute legislation to impose new licensing system for horse racing in New York State was approved last night by the Senate, 34 to 21.

Under terms of the measure, the licensing of flat-track horse owners, jockeys and trainers would be handled directly by the State Racing Commission. The bill also sets up standards under which such licences must be granted. Such licensing powers now are given by law directly to the Jockey Club, a private corporation.

Moscow radio says the first game in the world championship chess match between Mikhail Botvinnik and David Bronstein ended in a draw on the 29th move yesterday.

The match betwen the Soviet players consists of 24 games or until either player cinches the match.

Murphy Trial For Wife Murder Starts Monday

NORTH BAY, March 17 (CP). —Edward B. Murphy, retired North Bay business executive, goes on trial Monday for the hammer slaying of his 69-year-old wife, Bella.

The former branch manager of a wholesale electrical parts firm is charged with murder in connection with the death last Feb. 5 of his attractive, expensively-dressed wife, whose bludgeoned body was found in a basement store room.

Selection of a jury is scheduled to start Monday afternoon. Hearing of evidence before Mr. Justice G. A. Gale is expected to get under way Tuesday.

Counsel for Murphy will be G. A. Martin, KC, Toronto, and A. Thomas Smith, North Bay. Crown Attorney E. A. Tilley, KC, North Bay, will conduct the prosecution.

Friend Called

Vernon Andrews of North Bay, friend and former business associate of Murphy, testified at a preliminary hearing here Feb. 19 that on Feb. 6 Murphy asked him to come to his home, where Murphy admitted killing Mrs. Murphy.

Andrews testified that Murphy said his wife "took a pass at him, injuring one of his thumbs."

"I am not sure if he said he wrested the hammer from her or picked it up off the floor," continued Andrews. "He said that was all he knew of the occurrence. He had blacked out.

No Details

"He had a plaster on the thumb of one hand, I think the left hand. He went on to explain things to me. I was very upset, and he was sobbing. I never did get the details of what happened."

Later the same day Murphy, accompanied by Andrews, went to police headquarters and reported the death of his wife.

Police found the woman's body in a basement store room, fully dressed, and the battered head covered with a fur coat. What appeared to be blood stains were found in the kitchen, on the stairs leading to the basement, and in the basement.

Hammer Found

Near the body, police found a hammer free of visible blood stains. Police inspector Ivan Thurlow testified that earlier this winter, Murphy asked police to drive him to his home. "He said he felt weak," the officer said. Murphy was said to suffer "dizzy spells."

The couple, both 69, were known as a quiet, respectable couple. They stayed completely out of the social limelight, although Murphy is a former director of the North Bay Chamber of Commerce.

Born at Stroud, Ont., Murphy is well known in northern Ontario. Before coming here 12 years ago, he had worked at Regina and other western Canadian centres.

A TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY watched his father club his mother to death and then hang himself in the kitchen doorway of their Montreal apartment while his sister was attending school. The 9-year-old girl, Maria, returned home from school to find the door locked. With the aid of a neighbor she managed to force the door open only to run out screaming seconds later. Montreal detectives are satisfied it was a clear case of murder and suicide. Wladyslaw Stechmansky, a 32-year-old Ukrainian immigrant, had only lived in Canada for 3 years. The photo above shows nine-year-old Maria Stechmansky and her 2-year-old brother, Bohdana. The children are being cared for by neighbors while attempts are being made to reach the dead woman's brother in Hamilton, Ont.

$51,000,000 To Spare On Gov't Books

OTTAWA, March 17 (CP). — The Commons public accounts committee stumbled across a $51,000,000 enigma today and got a clear-cut explanation for only $1,000 worth of it.

The amount popped up in the auditor-general's report as the value of federal bonds and securities which have matured—that is, no longer bear interest—but which the owners have never bothered to cash.

Watson Sellar, the auditor-general, said some of the amount has been on the books a good long time. "It's a habit," he said, "to be slow to turn in matured bonds and securities."

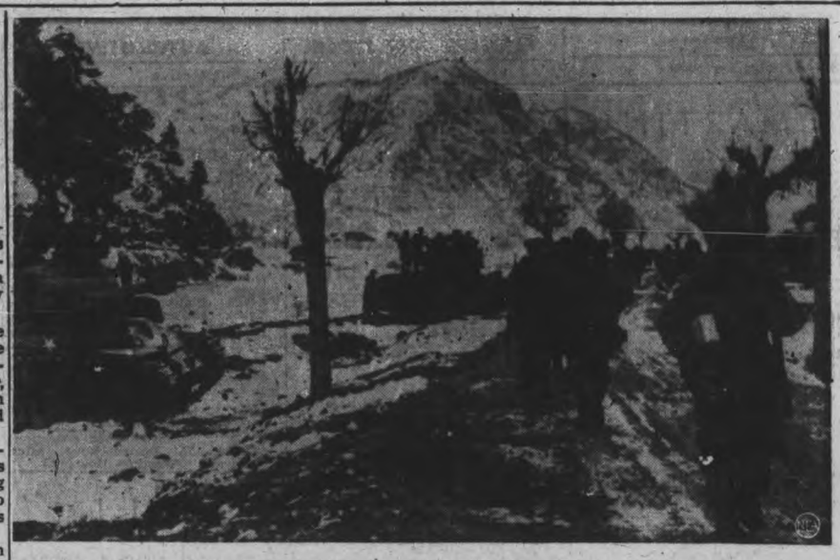
The figures would be kept on the books indefinitely unless the securities showed up to be cashed in.

Gordon Fraser (PC, Peterborough) suggested that some of them might be dug out of mattresses.

Mr. Sellar said he didn't know about mattresses, but he knew the location of one missing security. It was a certificate worth $1,000, framed and hung on a living-room wall.

Murder Thriller Gets Mixed Reception

TORONTO, March 17 (CP).—Ladies in Retirement, a murder thriller presented last night by the North Toronto Theatre Guild, was described by adjudicator Robert G. Newton as the most difficult play he has had to judge at the Central Ontario Drama Festival.



He found the play, directed by W. S. Milne, wanting in its early scenes but said he was delighted to find a vast change taking place until the play reached full effect as it moved towards its dramatic climax.

The Festival ends tonight after a week of performances at Hart House here.

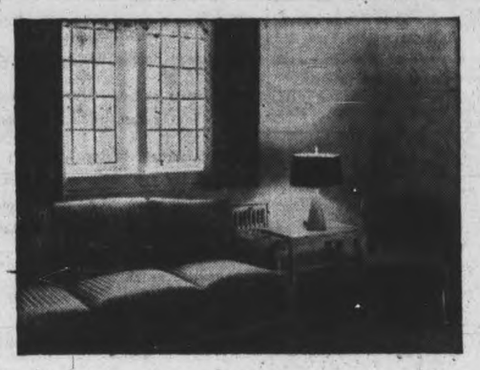
Retired Teachers Ask Cost-of-Living Bonus

TORONTO, March 17 (CP)—The superannuated teachers of Ontario yesterday asked the provincial government to amend two clauses in the Superannuation Act to help them meet the rising cost of living.



In a brief submitted to the Legislature, the group asked that a cost-of-living bonus be granted pensioners who retired before April 1, 1949, and that pensions be paid to dependents of teachers who died prior to April 1.

Members said widows of pensioners who died before April were given no further allowance. Some have to subsist on $604 a year, they said.

Stock Market Gloomy Until Friday

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Rain fell this week on stock markets but by yesterday the sun was shining.

All last week investors had hesitated to get into the market, and prices eased slowly at their quietest pace in six months. Monday the hesitancy turned to nervousness for those who had stock and prices tumbled as support collapsed.

Tuesday the sell-off was completed, but not before prices had gone through their sharpest declines since the end of November when the Chinese entered Korea. They dropped at a greater rate than Monday until just before the close, when enough support developed to enable them to level off.

Mild Advance

On Wednesday, Canadian markets staged a mild advance that fell short as a recovery move. New York was mixed.

Thursday the persistent weakness of the last month was accentuated. Activity on the Toronto market was the quietest since Christmas and prices on all markets slipped slowly most of the day. Just at the close, though, there were signs of advance.

Then yesterday, the long-lost buying came back. Prices opened ahead and continued to roll upward with increasing speed to the final bell. Total gains all markets accounted roughly for one-third of Monday and Tuesday's losses.

Gets Bullish

Yesterday's advance engendered a return of bullish talk. One observer said traders had been watching for a rebound to occur at about this point and they now contend that the reactionary selling — the technical reaction which experts have been predicting for months — has been completed.

But many bears remain, and while the experts are trying to decide when the market is going to go up or down, selective buying seems to be the practice.

From Friday to Friday Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed the following changes:

Industrials down 5.83 at 322.92, golds down 3.61 at 84.90, base metals down 4.00 at 179.46 and Western Oils down 1.25 at 104.31.

In the Montreal averages banks were off 0.44 t 31.27, utilities off 1.1 at 89.1, industrials off 4.1 at 214.7, combined off 3.1 at 172.8, papers up 4.71 at 740.19, and golds off 3.21 at 68.

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $1.80 at $93.50.

No Need To Fear Census Britons Told By Officials

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON — (CP) — That Thing called the census hits Britain with a resounding boom come April 8.

On that day more than 60,000 specially - trained enumerators start their tour of some 15,000,000 households to complete the United Kingdom's first national stock-taking since 1931.

To prepare the public for the ordeal of filling out a question form as long as your arm, the office of the Registrar General has issued an explanatory booklet outlining the purpose of the survey with an appeal for fair play towards the enumerators.

As a starter, the booklet lays the blame for this census business on Canada's doorstep. The first approach to a complete census of the modern type, it says, was first taken in Quebec in 1665.

It was not until 1801 a similar census was introduced in Britain, after violent opposition to the bill making it law.

Regular Thing

At that time, however, enumerators in other lands were still being used for purposes of tax assessment. Others feared the census figures would be used abroad to probe Britain's military position and some denounced it on grounds of impiety and presumption, predicting it would be followed by epidemics and disasters.

Since then a census has been taken at regular 10-year intervals except for the blitz year of 1941.

The pamphlet seeks to assure the millions to be grilled next month they have nothing to fear from the 1951 survey.

Confidential Information

It will have no connection whatever with assessing individuals for taxation, won't pursue them for insurance contributions, nor compel them to perform any other social or national obligation.

"The personal details derived from the returns, it adds, "are treated by all engaged in taking the census in complete and absolute confidence and used for statistical purposes only—never in any circumstances to the detriment of the individual."

Questions on the official form have been confined to matters of fact. Inquiries about such personal things as income or rent are excluded as are questions having any bearing on physical or mental infirmities.

Strict Watch

A few queries are specifically directed to married women under 30. On this point the booklet remarks: "It may be that in some cases there will arise some embarrassment in answering such question; there do exist odd skeletons in cupboards. That is why the strictest watch is kept to ensure there is no leakage of census information."

Heads of households are precluded by law from making improper use of any information given them. If, for instance, Mrs. Smith, who has boarded with the Joneses, and has always passed as a widow, discloses she is in fact a divorcee, Jones is liable to prosecution if he mentions the matter over the half pint at the local pub.

Enumerators also are liable to two years' imprisonment, plus a fine, for making improper disclosures. And punishment is decreed for those who refuse to answer the enumerator's questions or give wrong information.

Prices of Bonds Help Influence Higher Price Battle

By FORBES RHUDE

The price you can get today for a Victory Bond is less than you paid for it in the war years, and you may be wondering why.

Well, it's part of the battle against higher prices. The government's monetary advisers undoubtedly hope that lower current prices for bonds will help put a brake on the rising cost of living.

Also, remember your $100 bond will still be worth $100 when it matures. In the meantime it will pay interest which it promised to pay. It is only when you want to sell now that you will get less than $100; or pay less than $100 if you want to buy one.

To get at the story we must go back to the '30s. When the government embarked upon an "easy" or "cheap" money policy. This simply meant that interest rates were kept low so that it would be easy for people to borrow to build factories and other things which might get prosperity rolling again. At the same time, the government established a central bank, The Bank of Canada.

The easy money policy continued until early 1948. Then, people were building so many things, that they were trying to buy more things than there were to buy, and run-away prices threatened.

So it was decided to make money harder to get. This was done by raising the interest rate on money, making it more expensive to borrow. To illustrate:

When, in the war years, you bought a bond for $100 and it gave you three per cent, or $3 a year, in interest, that meant that the basic cost of borrowing money was three per cent.

Now, say that a year ago you sold that $100 bond for $103. The man who bought it would get only $3 on his $103, whereas you got $3 on your $100. That meant the yield on money was less—it had become cheaper to borrow.

But let us say that today you sell that $100 bond for $97. The man who buys it will get $3 on his $9 whereas it took $100 of your money to get $3. That means the yield of money is more—it has become more expensive to borrow.

Changes in the basic rate of yields on government bonds percolate through all financial dealings and bring changes in rates on all new loans. Why?

Because while you may buy a corporation bond at 3½ per cent while governments are paying three per cent, you will buy the surer government bond when it goes to 3½, and the corporation will have to pay still more to attract you.

How is the change effected in government bond prices, which bring the change in interest rates?

The Bank of Canada, either through its own dealings, or through its close link with chartered banks and financial institutions, can virtually say what a government bond should sell at, by either buying or selling the required amount of bonds.

Perhaps it was with the thought in mind that bond prices would have to fluctuate and perhaps go below par, that the government, after the Victory loans, established the present Canada Savings Bonds aimed at the smaller wage-earner and salary-deduction plans. These don't fluctuate in value—a $100 Canada Savings Bond will always bring $100.

You can buy them only to a maximum of $1,000 per issue.

To get back to the Victory loans, here is the more recent history of a representative long-term bond, the Ninth Victory Loan of 1946, called the Dominion of Canada three per cent of 1966, the year they mature.

In October, 1949, they yielded between $103.25 and $103.50. By June, 1950, they were down to $102 to $102.25. Extraordinary United States buying sent them to $102⅝ to $102.75 by September.

Freeing of the Canadian dollar in October halted this speculation and by December they were dipping below par at $99.75 to $100. They have eased since and yesterday were between $97 and $97.25.

In these changes one sometimes hears such things as "The Bank of Canada is certainly not the only element in the market, but it can be taken that it is always there, ready to step in or out as it things advisable. Incidentally, the current change in Canadian bond prices and interest yields is in line with changes in the United States and Britain.

Will bond prices fall lower at this time? Probably no one knows except in the inmost counsels of central banks and governments. Some think they may have some way to go yet, and certainly it is difficult to say what steps may be required by developments of the future.

Some, on the other hand, think that interest rates may have already gone up too far and that a reversal may be called for before long.

The following is an in-between view of the investment dealer:

The United States will announce March 19 terms of its latest refunding issue. Meantime, the United States bond market, like the Canadian, is in a state of uncertainty. However, there is an expectation that the new bonds will bear 2¾ per cent.

Traditionally, for various reasons, Canadian bonds bring ½ per cent more than US bonds. This would mean that they would draw 3.25 per cent. At 97 they draw 3.17 per cent. So they might drop to around $96.

That, as stated, is the view of one investment dealer. He points out that as the government allows the interest rate to go up, it also raises the interest rate on its own future borrowing. So, it must balance the advantages of checking inflation on one hand, against raising the costs of its own financing on the other.

Investment dealer in question feels, therefore, that the government will hesitate before allowing any drastic drops.

9 Dead, 1 Missing As Aftermath Of Prairie Blizzard

By The Canadian Press

Nine persons are known dead and one was still missing today as the prairie provinces began digging themselves out following one of the wildest March blizzards on record. The storm, now completely spent, lashed the western prairies with hurricane-like winds for two days and dumped thousands of tons of fresh snow on the ground paralyzing traffic and snarling communication lines. An offshoot of the prairie storm hung over Ontario today, causing blizzard conditions around the head of the lakes and the northern part of the province and pelting the southern portion with freezing rain and snow.

Winds with gusts reaching 80 miles an hour swept Calgary during the height of the disturbance. Temperatures, although not far below the zero mark, felt extremely cold as the air was whipped by the stiff breezes.

WINNIPEG, (CP).—A new March storm hit Western Canada today. Striking at areas which escaped the worst of last week's prairie blizzard, the new storm moved slowly northwestward from the Lake Superior area. The weather bureau called the storm "intense" and issued a weather warning for the interlake, Red River and Winnipeg areas.

Dead are: August Samuel, 22, Swift Current, Sask.; Armand Lasauntier, 14, Cadillac, Sask.; Pete Darke, 63, Regina; Thomas Irvin, 69, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Denton, Alta.; Sharon Riep, four months, Trochu, Alta.; Roy Coston, 14, Bentley, Alta.; and Mrs. Polly Taylor, Telfordville, Alta.

Still missing is Antoine Darveau, a 70-year-old farmer of the Dundurn district south of Saskatoon. Search parties are being hampered by snow drifts as deep as 12 feet.

Rescue 38 on Train

Meanwhile, 38 persons aboard a Calgary-bound Canadian National Railways train which became snowbound last Friday near Oyen, Alta., were rescued late Sunday.

Snow plows were forced to forge their way through 15-foot snow drifts to reach the train. Reports indicated none of the passengers suffered any ill effects from their prolonged confinement.

Nine other persons previously unaccounted for in Southern Alberta turned up unharmed at Bassano late Saturday. They had started out in two autos Thursday night but became snowbound shortly after. They managed to reach shelter, however, and returned to Bassano.

Latest storm victims were the three reported in Saskatchewan.

Discover Body

Samuel's frozen body was discovered near Swift Current late Sunday. He had become separated from his brother during the height of the storm as the pair set out to get a small quantity of coal on a toboggan.

Soviet, China Have 8 Million In Armed Forces

LONDON, March 19 (AP) — Britain's War Office Sunday night estimated Russian and Communist Chinese armed forces together at 8,000,000 men. War Minister John Strachey set the Soviet ground army at 2,800,000 soldiers—a "very large" peacetime mobilization but "not the incredibly vast force which some people seem to fear."

Strachey, speaking at Dundee, and a war office release of hitherto-secret intelligence reports in effect refuted a formal Russian note to Britain Feb. 24 in which the Kremlin claimed it had little more than 2,500,000 men under arms.

Instead, Britain estimated, the two major Communist countries each has about 4,000,000 weapon-wielders—including army, navy, air force, and internal security troops. The statement, however, made no reference to the Russian note.

Open Files

The war office opened its files, Strachey explained, to dispel "the dangers of ignorance."

"It is not the case," he said, "that the Russian forces are innumerable and invincible."

The U.S. Senate Foreign Relations armed services committee reported last month that the Atlantic Pact powers have 4,476,000 men under arms and 2,600,000 in the ground forces.

"So far," Strachey said, "the Atlantic Pact countries have not built up their armed forces on as large a scale as the Russians, but if we are forced to do so we can do it without putting any intolerable strain on ourselves."

Trenton Fire Threatens Block

BELLEVILLE, March 19. (CP) —Fire believed to have started from defective wiring in the ceiling of a book shop threatened to destroy a business block on Trenton's main street early today. Early estimates of damage ran from $20,000 to $25,000.

The fire was brought under control by town firemen using four lines of hose after it was discovered about 9 a.m. by the owner of Shaw's Book Shop gutted in the blaze. Threatened for a time were the Boston Cafe, Armstrong's Insurance, Hutton's Barber Shop and the Robert Simpson order office.

Occupants of three apartments on Dundas Street were forced to the street and damage to the block, other than to the book store, was confined to water and smoke.

Traffic along No. 2 Highway was held up for more than an hour.

Doctors Forbid King To Fly In Australia

ADELAIDE, Australia, March 19 (Reuters).—The King's physicians have forbidden him to travel by air during his visit to Australia and New Zealand next year, it was disclosed here today.

The South Australian Premier, Thomas Playford, said the longest auto trip the King will be permitted to make will be 20 miles. No reason for the decision was given.

Playford explained that the ban on air travel and long car trips will mean that the King will not be able to visit rural and outlying centres.

In London, medical experts said the restrictions were probably placed on the King's movement to avoid unnecessary strain and fatigue.

3 Sten Guns Stolen From Barriefield Hall

KINGSTON, March 19. (CP)—Provincial police and Army authorities today are investigating the theft of three Sten guns from a Barriefield drill hall.

The guns were stolen sometime Friday night from Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineer's No. 4 drill hall, police said. Entrance to the hall was gained by smashing a window.

The Army has set up a board of inquiry to investigate.

Milk Strike Averted By Kennedy

Will Have Decision On Milk Prices Within Two Weeks

TORONTO, March 19. (CP) — Threat of a milk strike which would have cut off Toronto area deliveries by Wednesday appeared to have been averted today following an appeal by Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario.

Union leaders said Mr. Kennedy promised to have Ontario's new milk legislation rushed through Tuesday and to set up a new milk board in time to have a decision on milk prices within two weeks.

Heads of the Milk Drivers' and Dairy Employees' Union (AFL), which Sunday voted for a strike to enforce a $3-a-week pay increase, met with Mr. Kennedy today.

Following the meeting with the union leaders, Mr. Kennedy met a delegation of dairy owners to discuss the government's action in freezing the retail price of milk at 20 cents a quart in the Toronto area. It was this freeze which led the dairies to call off the scheduled pay boost recommended by a conciliation board.

Ready at Weekend

A. F. MacArthur, spokesman for the milk drivers and workers, said Mr. Kennedy indicated the new milk board would be set up by the end of this week, with Judge A. B. Currey at its head. The board, when legislation is passed, will have authority to set the price of milk throughout Ontario.

Previously the dairymen had agreed to meet the union's terms and simultaneously planned to increase the price of milk by one cent a quart. They deferred action when the Ontario Legislature passed emergency legislation Friday, pegging retail milk prices.

Says Underworld Has Own Court

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer told the Senate crime committee today the underworld had its own court system that meted out death sentences to violators of the gangland code.

O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico, described it as "a judicial set-up—a kangaroo court where they held trials."

O'Dwyer said in many sections of the country "they had troops under one man who had authority to direct those troops."

"Albert Anastasia was the one who had authority to order the Brooklyn troops," he said.

Anastasia was a suspect in a slaying attributed to Murder, Inc., a Brooklyn crime syndicate. Anastasia escaped prosecution after the death of Abe Reles, a witness, in a mysterious plunge from a hotel window in 1941.

Asked who was chairman of the board of directors in the underworld syndicate, O'Dwyer said:

"It was rather a combination. There was no chief man in charge."

Princess Elizabeth Leaves For Malta

LONDON, March 19—(Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth left by air today to join her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in Malta.

It will be her fourth visit there since the Duke was first posted to the Mediterranean fleet in October, 1949. The Duke—a Lieutenant Commander—commands the Frigate Magpie.

The Princess is to return to Britain next month, spending 13 days in Rome on the way back.

She returned from her last visit with the Duke Feb. 12. She was away 2½ months that time.

20-Foot Drifts Block Passenger Train In Alberta

Written For The Canadian Press By JOHN McGINNIS

CALGARY, March 19 (CP) — FO. Pete Clemens and I headed northeast of Oyen. We followed the Canadian National Railways line across miles of prairie covered by drifts that looked easily 20 feet high. We flew for 1½ hours before we spotted the train about five miles east of Oyen.

About 10 miles west of the town we saw a pair of snow plow trians heading towards the stranded train. The way the snow was flying, they looked like speedboats plowing through still lake water.

The engine, choked with snow, was standing by the water tower. You could see the road that had been gouged out of drifted snow across farmlands leading from Oyen to the train.

Pete circled the train, flying at about 100 feet. Rescue workers waved up to us.

On the south side of the train we could just see the roof tops of the passeinger cars. Huge drifts covered the windows. Towards the engine, we noticed pepple leaving the train and boarding a yellow school bus.

It was apparent that the stranded passengers had to dig their way out of the train.

We circled the train four times flying low over the cars. There was no sign of life in the last five coaches.

On the return trip, you could visualize just how severe Thursday night's blizzard was. There was no movement in any of the small towns and vilages along the rail line. They were all plugged tight with snow. The rail lines were all snowed over. Streets were one big snow drift. You could just see the roofs of automobiles piercing the white blanket of snow.

'SNO GO FOR HIM—Hot bath enjoyed by these girls at Fuessing, Germany, would be sheer suicide for the poor snowman left on the bank. Outdoor swimming in winter is common in this small village in Lower Bavaria, where natural, hot wells warm the water supply.

Two Killed Near Belleville As Cable Car Crashes

BELLEVILLE, March 19.—Two persons died, one of them an hour after he had been rescued, when a home-made cable car crashed Saturday into the swift waters of the Moira River three miles north of here. Carrying Chester Ewing, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ewing, Cannifton, and Raymond Holgate, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holgate, Cannifton, the car was dumped into the river when the cable broke loose from its mooring. Holgate was washed a half mile downstream and onto an island. He was given artificial respiration by local residents until Belleville firemen arrived with an inhalator. Twenty minutes later he was talking to the firemen.

An ambulance took the rescued man to Belleville General Hospital. An hour later he died of shock.

Sunday night the Belleville Fire Department, Provincial Police, and residents of Cannifton were still searching for the body of 10-year-old Chester Ewing.

Blame Heart Attack

Dr. Richard Potter, Mayor of Belleville, who was the second doctor called on the case, said Holgate was dead when he got to him at the hospital. Dr. Potter believed he had died of a heart attack.

Chester Ewing was last seen a few minutes following the accident being swept down the river about a mile below the dam.

Holgate, who worked at his father's sawmill at Cannifton, built the cable car to travel from the mill across the river to a new home he was building. He had taken the Ewing boy with him for a ride.

Holgate was stranded Friday half-way across the river when the car broke down with motor failure. He had to be pulled ashore by mill employees and neighbors.

Another son of the Holgates drowned 20 years ago at almost the same place. They have one other child, a daughter.

An RCAF helicopter of the search and rescue unit at Trenton, piloted by Flying Officer Don Lewis, assisted all day Sunday in the search.

Provincial Police assigned several constables to patrol the three-mile stretch of highway which follows the river shore from Belleville to Cannifton.

The Ewings, who have three other boys under 16, moved to Cannifton six months ago from Hamilton.

Concentration Camps House 89,480 Czechs

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 19. (AP) — Czechoslovakia has 30 principal concentration camps housing 89,480 persons, the International Federation of Free Trade Unions said here today.

The ICFTU magazine, Spotlight, said information from a "confidential network" behind the iron curtain showed there were an additional 16 concentration camps but did not estimate the number of prisoners. Czechoslovakia's total population is about 12,000,000.

Gunman Gets $4,900 At Bank

TORONTO, March 19. (CP)—A lone gunman today held up a suburban branch of the Bank of Montreal and escaped with $4,900.

The teller, Joyce Empey, said she thought the robber was the same man who held up the bank once before.

The branch is on Avenue Road in Armour Heights, north of the Toronto city limits, serving a new suburban residential area.

Passenger Pulls Gun On Conductor

NORTH BAY, March 19 (CP) —Search continued here today for an apparently deranged man who held up an Ontario Northland Railway train conductor at gunpoint Sunday night and later eluded a police search in the North Bay ONR Yards.

The man pulled a gun on Conductor Johnston Peever at Timagami when the conductor ordered him off the train. Then he played a strange game of hide-and-seek with police and trainmen for the 70-mile trip to North Bay.

Train crew members who saw the man believed he was in a mental state. He was described as having a thick European accent, between 25 and 30 years of age, black oily hair, about 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds.

The man boarded the train at Cobalt with a ticket for Timagami. He questioned Conductor Peever about the number of stops before Timagami and later called the conductor over and said he had to get to Toronto to obtain police protection.

Parisians Holding Bag Taxis, Buses On Strike

PARIS, March 19. (Reuters)—Last Thursday Parisians could yell "bus," or "taxi".

From Friday to Sunday they could still yell "taxi."

Today they can just yell.

Company-owned taxis today staged a 24-hour sympathy strike with transportation strikers who have tied up the municipal buses and most of the subway. So did a section of the workers who keep the suburban rail services running.

The capital's transportation now depends on 550 army trucks and a fleet of 250 privately-owned buses, plus taxis owned by their drivers—one-fifth of the total fleet.

The strikers want an across-the-board wage increase of $17. Communist and non-Communist unions are at one in supporting the tie-up.

UN Troops 17 Miles From 38th

S. Korean Soldiers Swim Hongchon In Pursuit of Reds

TOKYO, March 19. (AP) — South Korean troops swam the chilly Hongchon River in Central Korea today in pursuit of Communist forces pulling back toward the 38th Parallel.

The Republic of Korea (ROK) soldiers were spearheading the Central front drive of the US Eighth Army which has set up strong forces in a holding line only 17 miles south of the politically important Parallel.

"There was no stopping those ROK troops," said a military spokesman. "They swam the cold river rather than wait for boats to ferry them across in the northward drive."

The same ROK troops trapped and annihilated a Chinese Communist battalion Sunday.

The South Koreans faded back when they first met the Reds. But they sent strong patrols out in a flanking movement until they were north of the Chinese. Then they smashed the Reds simultaneously from the front and rear.

Bigger Action

American liaison officers with the South Koreans counted 231 dead Chinese after the battle.

It was the first action of any size along the Korean front in 83 hours.

U.S. jet pilots Monday killed or wounded 300 of 1,500 Reds concentrated in the village of Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

On the eastern front, allied patrols probing within a few miles of the 38th parallel moved northward against Red small-arms and mortar fire.

The army, breaking a three-day silence, announced "holding elements" are 17 miles from the 38th Parallel at five points." It did not locate the points and said it would not. Holding elements presumably are capable of holding their ground against heavy attack.

The brief announcement said patrols were operating "miles north" of the five points and in all other sectors. It did not say how many miles.

The Chinese appeared today to have given up their last main military base south of the parallel—Chunchon, eight miles below the line in central Korea.

French President To Address MP's

OTTAWA, March 19. (CP) — President Vincent Auriol of France will address a joint meeting of the House of Commons and Senate during his visit to Canada early next month, it was announced today.

He will also visit Toronto, Quebec City and Montreal.

The External Affairs Department said Foreign Minister Robert Schuman will accompany the president from New York, arriving here April 5.

Western Hemisphere Heads Confer On Defence Strategy

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—Foreign Ministers from the Western hemisphere republics meet here next week for a conference expected to produce a new basic strategy for the defence of Central and South America.

State Secretary Dean Acheson, as United States representative, is expected to urge each of the 21 republics:

1. Not only to prepare its own defences but also, through the inter-American defence board, to join in developing an over-all strategic plan.

2. To increase and speed up its military program with possible U.S. assistance.

3. To designate some units for United Nations service to oppose aggression anywhere in the world, on the theory that the strength of the UN is an essential part of hemisphere security arrangements.

The principles of joint defence and troop contributions to the UN have been adopted in previous inter-American and UN meetings. Acheson and his aides hope practical steps now will be ordered by the foreign ministers to make these principles effective.

This would lessen somewhat U.S. responsibility for defence of the entire hemisphere. During the Second World War, U.S. forces had to be deployed in various Latin American countries despite the need for them in Europe and elsewhere.

While officials here expect approval of the plan, they said foreign ministers from Central and South America undoubtedly will press Acheson on questions of cost and will want to know how much U.S. help can be expected.

Washington's response to this, it is said, will be that the U.S. is prepared to provide equipment and train officers for at least some of its hemisphere neighbors while deferring the question of payment for later discussion.

STRICKEN ILL IN his hotel at Ottawa today, Karl Homuth, P.C. member for Waterloo South, died on his way to hospital.

Waterloo MP Taken Ill At Hotel, Dies

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP). — Karl Homuth, 58, Progressive Conservaive member of Parliament for Waterloo South, died suddenly here today.

In indifferent health for two years, the veteran parliamentarian was stricken in his hotel room and taken to hospital. His associates said he was pronounced dead on being examined there and that death was believed due to a heart attack.

Reg Werlich, Preston, came in on the Toronto train this morning for a business appointment with Mr. Homuth. He called Mr. Homuth's room at the Chateau Laurier about 8 a.m. and Mr. Homuth said: "I'm shaving, come on up." When Mr. Werlich got up there, Mr. Homuth was lying on the bed and saying he had a pain across his chest.

However, Mr. Homuth said "It'll pass and we'll have breakfast together." But about 9 a.m. he said, "You'd better call a doctor."

Ordered to Hospital

The doctor ordered him to hospital. The ambulance left about 9:20 with Mr. Werlich going along. When Mr. Homuth was examined at the Civic Hospital, he was dead.

Burial will take place in Preston.

He had been unable to attend parliament most of this session so far and arrived in the capital only last Thursday.

Associates said Mr. Homuth has recently had influenza and they believe he got up out of a sick bed too early because of the press of business connected with his wool-reclaiming plant at Preston, Ont. He made a business trip to Renfrew, Saturday.

Mr. Homuth, son of one of the pioneer families of Waterloo county, was one of parliament's most colorful figures almost from the time he was elected in a 1938 by-election.

Big, irrespressible and gifted with a rasping voice, he often took on groups of Liberal members in word battles raging as side-issues through Commons debates. Then he would head down to Waterloo county on the weekends to look after his business and to teach Sunday school in the Lutheran church.

However, a throat operation two years ago limited his oratory and his attendance in the Commons.

Expect Year Before Scheme Used

Agreement Reached After 9 Months Of Hard Negotiations

PARIS, March 19. (AP)—Six countries of western Europe today initialled the Schuman Plan for pooling most of their coal and steel. The agreement, coming after nine months of negotiations, constituted one of the most ambitious economic proposals made in Europe in this century.

The plan for an international control of west Europe's major resources was initialled at the French Foreign Ministry by technical experts of France, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands and West Germany.

The French foreign minister, Robert Schuman, proposed last May to put nearly two-thirds of Free Europe's multi-billion-dollar coal and steel industry into a single market.

Work Out Compromise

The first blow to the plan was Britain's refusal to take part.

Last June the six countries began negotiations. The wrangling became so intense, however, that American officials intervened recently in Germany to work out a compromise with the French and West Germans to save the plan.

Today's initialling still leaves the plan a long way from realization. The cabinets of the six countries next must approve it. Then the plan faces its greatest obstacle — ratification by the six national parliaments.

There is still much opposition to the proposal. Negotiators believe it will take months—possible a year—before it can be called finished.

Tough Going, Ship Makes It

CHICAGO, March 19 (AP)—A converted navy landing ship—or what is left of it—Sunday became the first vessel of its type to negotiate the Chicago River.

It took a bit of doing.

The ship left Houston, Tex., 22 days ago for Sturgeon Bay, Wis., there to become a pulp-paper carrier.

All went well until it got to the ship canal of the Chicago River.

From waterline to the tip of the tallest mast the ship was 78 feet—too much height for the river's bridges. Down came the masts.

Then came the real challenge—a railroad bridge in Chicago.

Eighteen feet of cabins were lopped off. The ship still couldn't make it.

Twenty-three feet of water was pumped into the hold. That did it. Drawing 21 feet of water and scraping bottom the ship squeaked through.

Squeaked is right. The channel at the bridge is 50 feet wide, the ship 49 feet 10 inches.

Chinese Reds Arrest Five Canadian Nuns

HONG KONG, March 19 (AP) A Roman Catholic priest today said five nuns at a Canadian orphanage in Canton, blamed by the Chinese Communists for the deaths of 2,116 children, actually had tried to save the abandoned tots.

The Communists announced on Sunday that the nuns had been jailed in Canton. Death is the penalty if they are found guilty.

The priest, who declined use of his name, said:

The nuns years ago had set up a receiving station for abandoned children. Most of the waifs were dying, freezing or so ill of communicable diseases that they could not be taken into the orphanage the nuns operated.

The arrests followed propaganda attacks and unsupported claims of "indescribably-inhuman treatment" resulting in deaths of 2,116 orphans in 18 months at the orphanage run by the Canadian Mission of the Immaculate Conception.

The Red report said Sister Superior Alexander was "most unreasonable and rude" in refusing to confess her responsibility and had claimed instead that "nature is the murderer."

Holstein Breeder Joseph T. Tully Dies Suddenly

Joseph Thomas Tully of Otonabee township, a former director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, and for years a prominent breeder in central Ontario, died suddenly on Sunday after a lingering illness.

Mr. Tully's health had been impaired nearly two years ago by a heart condition. He had gradually recovered to the stage at which he could carry on the work at his farm home, and especially in the supervision of the herd of purebred Holsteins which he had developed.

Born in Otonabee 41 years ago, Mr. Tully was the son of William Tully and his wife, the late Susan Edith Mitchell. He had lived continuously at his farm home, RR 11, on the western side of the township.

Joseph Tully was widely known among the Holstein-Friesian fraternity of this country, and had been for years one of those most successful breeders of the Black and White cattle in the counties of central Ontario.

For five years he was a director of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association. He was a past president of the Peterborough Holstein Club, and was its second secretary for a long term from about 1932 or 1933 until 1944, succeeding in that office Mr. Charles E. Moore of Smith.

Awarded Shield

Three years ago he was awarded the Master Breeder's Shield by the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association, and was the youngest breeder to receive that honor up to that time. He also won the Premier Breeder's Banner five years at the annual Peterborough county Black and White Day. Winner of this distinction last year, he was to have received the 1950 Banner at the club's dinner here next week.

As evidence of his success, Mr. Tully had two All-Canadian selections by the national association, and three Reserve All-Canadians. One of his All-Canadians was the senior yearling bull, Otonabee Pabst Review which he sold to Orvan Chambers of Ontario County, who in turn sold it for $6,000 to a South American buyer.

Mr. Tully is survived by his wife, the former Jean Wilson, one daughter Margaret, and son Alan; and three sisters, Miss Mary Tully of Otonabee; Miss Rosanna Tully of Toronto; and Mrs. Charles Huffman (Jessie) of Peterborough. He was a member of Knox United Church in Peterborough.

The body is resting at the family home until Tuesday morning, and will be taken to the Comstock funeral home, 356 Rubidge St., for the service at 2 p.m., Tuesday, conducted by the Rev. H. G. Douglas, minister of Knox Church. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

"The death of Joseph Tully will be a great shock to all his friends and especially to the members of Peterborough County Holstein Club," said Norman W. McConkey today. "In his quiet, unassuming way, he was a pillar of our club. He had made a broad study of Holstein pedigrees and types, and was regarded as the outstanding authority in that respect in this part of the province. Not only had he knowledge of the breed, but he also applied it successfully in developing his own herd; and beyond that he was always willing to discuss that and similar problems with other breeders.

"Our Holstein members regarded him as a real friend. We cannot estimate the value of his contribution in building up our Club and also in the success of our county Black and White Days. In that project he was true to the ideals of the late Robert Holtby, to see that they were maintained, and Mr. Tully wanted to make our Peterborough Club as good as any other in the province and keep it that way.

Modest Man

"Joe" Tully was so modest that one hesitates to say what we thought about him, our respect for his achievement and the position he attained in the Canadian Holstein breeding industry, and our administration for the consistency of his own success. Our members are all going to be saddened by his death."

Mr. McConkey recalled that Mr. Tully won ten first prize ribbons at the county Black and White Show last fall. His entry "Otonabee Pabst Posch Colla" was awarded senior and grand female championships; and the reserve senior and grand in that division with "Otonabee Supreme Blackie."

The Colla two year heifer was sold to Jack Fraser of Streetsville, and finished fifth or sixth in a big class at the Royal.

"We also remember his Otonabee Supreme Colanthus, an All-Canadian bull, which he bred and sold to Ransom Stock Farm, near Oshawa.

"There were others like Otonabee Pabst Review and his Supreme Pabst Joanne, that reminds us of Mr. Tully's notable success as a breeder. It was a great record of personal accomplishment since he became an active breeder back about 1930."

Caught Cheating Shoots Teacher

TEHRAN, Iran, March 19 (AP) —Dr Abdul Hamid Zanganeh, former education minister and close friend of the late premier Ali Razmara, was shot and wounded today by a student he had caught cheating on an examination. A Communist tie-up with the attack also was sought.

Police arrested the gunman, a young Moslem divinity student at the University of Tehran, and began an investigation to determine whether he was a member of the Communist Tudeh party—the bitter enemy of Zanganeh.

The 46-year-old educationist, president of the university law faculty, had been the target of frequent leftist student demonstrations in the last two years.

The shooting occurred on the university steps.

Police also sought to determine if the student. Nusratullah Abdul Hossein Qumi, was linked with Fadayam Islam, the fanatic Moslem group from whose ranks came the gunman who assassinated premier Razmara March 7.

Zanganeh, however, had not been involved in the oil nationalization dispute which was responsible for the premier's death.

Dollar Up Slightly

MONTREAL, March 19 (CP)— The American dollar opened today at 5⅝ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1-32 higher than Saturday's close. That is, it took $1.04⅝ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92 15-16, down 1-16.

Charge Fraud Of 40 Million

HAVANA, March 19 — (AP) — Ramon Grau San Martin, twice President of Cuba, has been indicted for the principal responsibility in what was alleged to be one of the greatest frauds in this country's history.

He and 10 close followers during his 1944-48 presidential term were accused of criminal responsibility in the theft or misappropriation of more than $40,000,000.

The indictment was handed down by Judge Federico Justiniani, who has been investigating for many months charges that Grau's regime mishandled more than $174,000,000 in government funds.

The indictment, which occupied more than six columns in Sunday's newspapers, referred to wholesale mishandling of funds in the Ministry of Education, and blamed Grau and his late former minister of education, Jose Manuel Aleman, as being chiefly responsible.

Atlantic Pact Has Possibilities

MONTREAL, March 19 (CP)— Common defence is the immediate and urgent goal of the North Atlantic Treaty but it may develop results "which may far exceed our immediate purposes and expectations," A. D. P. Heeney, under-secretary of State for External Affairs, said today.

"May we not these past two years have taken the first steps toward something much greater and more positive—a genuine community of the Atlantic?"

We should not lose sight of the "farther horizon," the ultimate creation in the Atlantic area of a great community of free nations, Mr. Heeney said in talk prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

The external affairs official devoted most of his address to an outline of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

Mr. Heeney said the union affords the only firm basis for the successful defence of the free world.

"For the first time since the crusades, western Christendom has an army made up of forces contributed by various nations committed to a common purpose."

Recreation Group Plans City Meet

Plans were made Friday night by the executive of the East Central zone of the Ontario Recreation Association for a conference in Peterborough on April 14. Recreation directors board members from Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough and Toronto attended the meeting held in the city buildings, Wilfred Langan of Peterborough presiding.

Guest speaker at the conference dinner at the YMCA auditorium will be Dr. J. B. Kirkpatrick, director of the school of physical education at McGill University, Montreal. In the evening the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club will perform in the YMCA pool.

The conference will open at 10 a.m. to recreation directors, board members and anyone interested in recreation from Trenton, Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Ajax, Cobourg and Peterborough. Mayor M. J. Swanston will officially open the conference and a business session will follow immediately.

During the afternoon period the main topic before the representatives will be a panel discussion on summer playgrounds.

Car Forced Off Bridge By Unknown Truck

Forced off the Concession Rd. bridge by an unknown truck, a car driven by Edward J. Waterman, 760 Herman St., crashed through the guard rails and turned upside down in the creek there.

Waterman was not hurt. He was driving east on the bridge Saturday afternoon and intended to turn north on Erskine Ave. A southbound truck crowded him off the bridge.

Constable William G. Scott reported that the day was clear, but the bridge surface was wet and slippery.

Stuck With Needle

Fourteen-year-old Anne Webb, 518 Arndon Ave., accidentally stabbed herself with a needle walking on the floor in her bare feet Sunday. The girl broke the needle in half trying to get it out and Dr. Ralph Clark was called to get the imbedded half out.

Nine Dead

Intensity of the storm is indicated in the death of 14-year-old Armand Lasauntier, who became lost in the back yard of his parents' farm house Friday night. The boy merely went out to empty a pail of swill and never returned. His parents searched frantically all night and day but storm conditions were so severe that little progress was made. His frozen body was found Sunday.

Saskatchewan's third known victim, Peter Darke, was fatally injured Saturday when run over by a truck he was helping to push out of a snowbank in Regina.

The six Alberta victims were found Saturday.

Army Tightens News Censorship

TOKYO, March 19—(AP)—U.S. Army censors announced Sunday they are starting a much closer scrutiny of all stories on the Korean war in order to plug leaks which they said were small but vital.

In announcing the tightening-up the Public Information Office acknowledged that official army communiques themselves broke security several times. Only Saturday a second check was begun in Tokyo of dispatches already censored in the field in Korea.

The censors say they believe it does not matter to a reader whether an allied patrol included, say, 14 or 16 men, or whether an artillery outfit fired 5,000 or 6,000 rounds of ammunition in a given period, but they believe that such specific bits of information are of prime importance to the Communist enemy.

Besides the obvious injunctions, the new security yardstick will prevent general announcement of the identity of UN units, their locations, or the names of their commanders.

Officials say dispatches in the past have often pinpointed UN units so fully that enemy situation maps can be brought up to date as fast as those at UN headquarters.

Fired Gun In City Youth Fined $10

Pleading guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by firing a .22 calibre rifle in the city, Gregory Deck, 16, 754 Walkerfield Ave., was fined $10 and costs in police court today.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, said that Sunday the youth fired the rifle above the head of an 11-year-old youngster playing with a bow and arrow. Marks indicated the bullet had passed a few inches above the head of the boy.

He added that when Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen questioned the boy and his mother and asked for the rifle, they refused to give it up and the mother was very abusive to the officer.

The accused youth said he had fired the rifle at a can and the noise frightened the young boy, who went and told his father.

The magistrate commented that there was a bylaw forbidding guns being fired within the city limits and a law forbidding guns being fired on Sunday.

CGE Benefit Society Paid $374,222 In Year

Total claims paid by the Employees' Mutual Benefit Society of Canadian General Electric Company reached a new high of $374,222 in 1950, an increase of $65,000 over 1949, as reported from Toronto in the recent issue of the Works News.

Since this society began operations in 1946, it has paid 20,914 claims of which 11,641 were for benefit of members and 8,273 for dependents. Total claims paid to date amount to $1,153,385. The average last year was $31,165 a month.

"During 1950 the collection of members' due was suspended for six months, being the equivalent of a 50% dividend on a full year's contribution for members' benefits. A member of the society, therefore, received full protection for the 20 cents a week. This suspension saved the membership about $90,000."

19,708 Members

Total membership last year was 19,708 of whom 6,474 were dependents. Reserves of the society at the end of the year were $146,808, showing a reduction of $10,930 from the $157,738 in 1949 through suspension for members' contributions.

Disability benefit was increased last year from $12.50 a week to $15.

Prices Slip Slowly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 19 (CP). — Prices gradually slipped in inactive trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Prices opened mixed and then eased in dull dealings. Volume for the first three hours of 737,000 shares was about 30,000 shares fewer than the same period last Friday.

Industrials stayed in a narrow price path and were almost mixed. Papers, textiles, banks, refining oils, retail stores showed a majority of losses in the groupings. Constructions and agricultures were higher and utilities, foods, manufacturing companies and liquors were about evenly balanced.

International Nickel dropped $1 in an otherwise slightly lower base metal section. Key issues lower included United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Quemont, Noranda, Consolidated Smelters, and Labrador.

Western oils were mixed with small price changes, Polaris, Pacific Petroleum, Okalta, Colgary, and Edmonton and Federated Petroleum advanced pennies.

Golds weakened quietly. Senior producers eased slightly and a few junior producers dropped pennies.

TRIESTE, March 19 (AP) — A Yugoslav train engineer and his wife fled from Yugoslavia Sunday in a locomotive. Railway authorities said the engineer unhooked the cars of his Ljubljana-Trieste train, hid his wife in the coal tender and drove the locomotive across the border into the free territory of Trieste. The unsuspecting stoker, who claimed he was not in the plot, was sent back to Yugoslavia with the locomotive.

Cash-Carry Plan In Belleville Cuts Milk Cost

BELLEVILLE, March 19 (CP) A "Cash and Carry" dairy where milk will be sold at four to five cents less than prevailing prices is being started here as an experiment to bring this city's residents cheaper milk prices and prove that such a business can be operated profitably.

The venture is being undertaken by 60-year-old George Graham, who has an urge "to make life better for everyone." By elimination of distribution costs — one of the principal reasons for high price of milk— he will sell milk at 15 to 18 cents a quart. The regular price here is 20 to 22 cents.

"Milk is a vital food, particularly for children, yet many people can't afford it at the present prices," says Graham, a farmer, rancher and businessman. He has been in the dairy business for 25 years and owns a herd of 260 Jersey and Ayrshire cows.

His "cash and Carry" dairy will purchase milk from the farm and from other producers at regular prices and sell it directly to consumers, either right at the dairy or from depots established throughout the city. If the response is good, depots may be set up in other communities throughout the district.

Break for Mothers

"I'm in it to see mothers get a break, and to have some fun," Mr. Graham says. "I'm not in it to make money. I operate three other businesses and I could sell out this firm right now for a good sum to someone who would like to kill the idea.

"But I do intend to run it at a profit. I have to prove that it could be done by any dairy in Ontario, not just by someone who has other resources to fall back on."

He got his idea at the time the price of milk was raised here from 18 to 20 cents a quart. He said profits for distributors were high enough and there was no necessity for the boost.

The range in price from 15 to 18 cents a quart that cash and carry customers will pay depends on the amount they buy. Stores or householders buying five or more quarts at a time will get pasteurized or homogenized milk at 15 cents a quart and jersey at 17 cents.

"Anyone who drinks any amount of milk at all should be able to plan to get their milk only three times a week and buy enough to get it at this price, but if they can't they'll still get one to four quarts at 16 or 18 cents, Mr. Graham says.

Lake Air Spoils Cobourg Curling

COBOURG, March 19. (ENS)—Local curlers haven't enjoyed their game in several seasons now, due to the fact that the winters have not been severe enough to maintain god ice in the curling rink. The rink is located about two blocks from Lake Ontario and the tempering effect of its nearness to the water has helped keep the ice soft.

However, a plan is under way by the curling club to enlist 100 curlers to share in the cost of renting the recreational centre's artificial ice rink at the north end of the town for a series of games. Five sheets can be marked out on the rink's ice surface. It is planned to run off a schedule and then hold an invitation bonspiel with outside rinks competing.

Lost Brother In Car Crash

George Aubrey Stone, 34, of Newcastle, brother of Lewis Stone, Wolsley St. Peterborough, was one of two kille dlate Friday night in a head-on collision on the outskirts of Bowmanville. Mrs. Evelyn Cooke, who is believed to have been in the front seat with Stone was also killed. Both died shortly after midnight as the result of injuries.

Critically injured was Mr. Stone's mother, Mrs. Linda Stone, 64, of Newcastle. She was taken to the Bowmanville hospital.

Mr. George Stone was born in Clarke township the son of the late Mr. James Stone. He had lived in Newcastle since November and previously farmed the homestead in Clarke township.

Besides his mother surviving are a sister, Mrs. Douglas Ogden (Helen) of Oshawa, Mr. Stone of Peterborough, and an aunt, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell of Port Hope. His father predeceased him in May, 1950.

The funeral was held from the Luke-McIntosh funeral home in Oshawa, at 3:30 p.m. today, the Rev. John K. Moffat, Simcoe Street United Church, officiating at the services. Burial was at the Bowmanville cemetery.

Waterloo Policemen Get $300 Increase

WATERLOO, March 19 (CP)—Waterloo's policemen got their $300 increas today when it was announced the police commission's recommendation had been accepted by city council.

Earlier some confusion existed as the commission had agreed to a $300 increase while city council passed estimates providing for $200.

With agreement all around, it remains only for council to raise the extra $100 not provided for in the estimates.

Tank Assembly Line

LONDON —(CP)— By assembly-line mass production methods, Britain's new 50-ton Centurion tank takes only four man-hours per pound of its weight to produce.

Boost Totems

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)— A totem society is to be formed here in line with Vancouver. Members were told that in addition to publicizing totem poles, an active part should be taken in preserving native arts generally.

How do the Jones' do it-now that John is gone?

Well, John Jones left a "plan" of Life Insurance—not just "some" Insurance. He had a plan—Dominion Life's "A Plan for Security".

A Dominion Life Representative had shown him that the Dominion Life "Plan for Security" is a scientific, mathematically accurate method of arranging Life Insurance in an orderly and systematic manner.

HERE'S HOW JOHN JONES AND THE DOMINION LIFE MAN PLANNED

To enable his widow to pay John's expenses of dying and to meet emergency obligations, an immediately available fund was established. This "Clean-up" fund is a very important part of modern Life Insurance—as it relieves dependents of possible embarrassment through lack of immedate cash.

John's Insurance Program also provided a continuing monthly income for his widow that enables her to carry on the conduct of the household—meet current expenses until the children are self-supporting. And then, for her, a guaranteed life income so that she will never be dependent upon family or friends.

John made sure the Mortgage on his home would be cleared up, by providing Insurance Money to pay it off, leaving the home clear of debt for the use of his family.

For his children John made certain that when they reached University age, money would be available to pay their tuition and maintenance. He guaranteed them a good start in life.

Like John Jones, you too, can have your Life Insurance programmed to do the things you want it to do for your family, should you die—and to provide a monthly cheque for yourself, if you live to retirement age. There is a Dominion Life representative in your neighbourhood who will be glad to explain Dominion Life's "A Plan for Security," which is a scientific system of programming your Life Insurance to take care of situations similar to the Jones'.

Post Office Profits

The postal system of this country is socialized. It is supposed to be operated for the good and the service of the people, and not for profit. Yet during the last fiscal year, which ended March 31st, 1950, the Post Office department receipts were $84,511,785.82 and the expenditures $82,639,741.21. Thus there was a surplus of $1,872,044.61. We favour the strictest ecenomy in government departments, but economics practised at the expense of the people and which deprive them of the service they have a right to expect (they are paying for it), should be ousted from departmental operations. That is what should happen to the new so-called 'economy' of making only one mail delivery a day.

* * *

It may be objected that the profit-and-loss sheet of the Post Office department does not take into account the cost of the buildings. They are put up by the Department of Public Works, and come under that department's estimates. Thus no exact assessment of real profits can be made. However, we believe that the one-cent increase in postage made at the end of the war, as a tax measure, is still a tax measure, and that therefore one cent on every three- and four-cent stamp sold goes to the Government as tax money and does not show in the surplus of the Post Office. If all the postage paid were used for postal service and a quarter to a third of the letter-rate were not sucked up as tax, the Post Office department would have a very large surplus to report indeed. This would compensate for the exclusion of building costs from the Post Office's financial statements. Postage stamps should be considered payment for service, and not taxes.

* * *

There is no argument at all for the one-mail-a-day delivery on the basis that the Post Office is losing money on its operations and must economize. If the Post Office were losing money and if the single daily delivery would save it money, even then the double delivery should be continued because the service is needed. If the Post Office were losing money on its two deliveries then the remedy would be to increase the postage rates. But the Post Office department is not losing money. It is making money on its operations. As we have pointed out, its surplus in the last fiscal year was $1,872,044.61.

Sitting Froglike On The Rideau?

There is a fable about a frog sitting open-mouthed on the river bank waiting for flies to pop in. It sems to us that civic Ottawa expects to be nurtured the same way, and, wonderful to relate, the flies do come its way through grants to the Federal District Commission wafted from Parliament Hill. Last week one of the estimates given to Parliament was an item of $2,500,000 for the National Capital Fund. It is the fourth consecutive year of such a grant.

We take second place to none in our enthusiasm for a beautiful, appropriate capital city and we believe that Parliament, representing all of Canada, should foot a good part of the bills. It is doing this. The F.D.C. fund now stands at $10,000,000. A slice of this will be taken to pay for the new Mackenzie King bridge now being built to relieve traffic congestion around Confederation Square. Its cost will be about three million dollars. In addition to the annual grants for the F.D.C. the Government pays municipal Ottawa very large sums every year to compensate for its tax-exempt buildings. We have a feeling that civic Ottawa is not taking its share of looking after Ottawa, and that the citizens have the attitude: "Let the Government do it."

Ottawa's parks are managed and paid for by the Federal District Commission. The Driveway, the city's main traffic artery and ornament, was created and is being beautifully kept up by the F.D.C. Even its lighting is not a municipal expense. The Canal is, of course, under Federal jurisdiction and at the public expense. A great share of the improvements which have been made in recent years—such as the Elgin St. boulevard—and of contemplated improvements, are at Federal cost. What does Civic Ottawa do? It has no City Hall. It keeps its side streets in deplorable condition in winter. Its main north-southward business street, Bank Street, looks like the seedy end of the Toronto Danforth, with unsightly overhead wiring, small-town dilapidated buildings hideous to look upon, and a general air of shoddiness. That is Bank Street. Indeed most of Ottawa outside the residential districts and apart from Federal properties and the two chief hotels, looks like a sprawling, second-rate village.

Can Ottawans not afford to help themselves? True, the tax rate has risen and is now high, as it is in every other Canadian city. But the taxes in Ottawa are lower than they are in comparable Ontario cities. The last collected municipal statistics, for 1949, show that the per capita tax in London was $57.13, in Windsor $50.67, in Hamilton $48.57 and in Ottawa $46.77.

We do not attribute the lower tax rate in Ottawa to extraordinarily good civic management. We suggest that the Ottawa civic officials are exceptionally expert in a policy of doing as little as possible, and getting the Government to do as much as possible. We presume that the voters rate the success and efficency of the mayors, controllers and aldermen on their capacity to wait on the Government and get hand-outs.

How do Ottawans get the way they are? Why is the municipal tendency to sponge on the Government and not to rely on themselves? One reason is that they have always done it, ever since the seat of government was established there. It is an environmental disease. Another is that thousands of citizens of the capital are imported to work for the Civil Service. Many never think of Ottawa as their home town, not after even twenty years. The biggest chunk of Ottawa is civil servants. Their thinking and talk is of higher, wider and more handsome things—national, not municipal affairs. Ottawa just happens to be the place they are in. Some no doubt resent having to bother with such parochial matters as civic taxes.

This habitual attitude of civic Ottawa should be watched by the rest of Canada sharply, because parliamentarians and the people who work in government departments are not likely to be worried by it, since all of them are themselves Ottawans. M.P.'s, cabinet ministers, senior officials and even the girl who types out legislation providing millions of dollars in grants to civic Ottawa, live in the city all or part of the year. We do not suggest that there is nepotism in this matter, but every grant to municipal Ottawa means less taxes for the people who live in Ottawa.

It is a paradox that civic Ottawa is a parasite on Federal Ottawa and yet is sufficiently proud to insist on sending its mayor to greet every blessed distinguished visitor. Do they think that visiting foreign princes and premiers go to Ottawa to see the glories of Bank Street?

Peanuts With Addled Eggs

It seems almost unfair that economic planners of the Labour Government of Britain should continue to handicap an Administration already struggling along under loads not all of its own devising. But they are doing just that, and in a manner which seems almost calculated to provide the Opposition with ammunition its members are delighted to use.

The latest example of this occurred in West Africa—an area of painful memories for the Labour Government. It was there that it launched its great groundnuts scheme. Hundreds of millions of dollars were spent to establish a peanut industry, but the Government didn't get many peanuts. The jungle wouldn't co-operate; in fact, the jungle was decidedly hostile. So the great peanut plan was abandoned.

It now seems that the economic planners had decided to go into the poultry business in a big way at about the same time, in nearby Gambia. The general idea seems to have been that cheap native labour could grow and harvest feed for the hens, then collect the eggs, and Britain would have cheaper eggs—and poultry at a neat profit to the Government. In order to make a beginning, the Gambian pens were stocked, and Britain spent dollars for American grain.

It was a well-planned project, in all respects but one. No one bothered beforehand to analyze the soil of Gambia to see whether it would be suitable for the growth of proper chicken feed. It was analyzed somewhat later, when the crops failed to materialize. It was then found altogether unsuitable, and Colonial Secretary James Griffiths announced that the plan would be abandoned. He was asked how the surviving fowl were to be fed for the next few months, whereupon a graceless Conservative, who seemingly had never heard about the old British tradition of not hitting a man when he is down, shouted "On promises and groundnuts!"

It had better be mostly promises. So far the production cost per egg or pound of fowl has been £8, and if large quantities of groundnuts produced at a loss are now fed, some accounting genius may be required to figure out the compounded deficit.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A news item in a contemporary says that in a Rhodesian cave they have found "a painting of a nude girl, 1,000 years old." So far as we are concerned, a girl of that age can keep herself covered.

A man who was admitted to a New York charity hospital had a peculiar lump on his body which, on investigation, was found to be cash amounting to $20,500. That's the kind of lump that hospitals remove permanently.

The publisher of the great Argentine liberal paper, La Prensa, is to be imprisoned for life for "violating the state security laws." The security referred to, of course, being that of Peron and his goons.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

TOO little attention is given to good phrasing by most pianists. Whereas phrasing of some sort or other is a physical necessity for singers, players of stringed instruments and wind instruments (the capacity of their lungs or the length of their bows are the main limiting factors) a pianist can go on strumming away for years without worrying his head about the "shape" of his phrases. And yet, if ever he wishes to make the instrument "sing" he must needs give careful thought to phrasing. I would strongly recommend young pianists to take up the study of singing or of some "singing" instrument such as the violin. It makes one much more phrase-conscious, and improves one's general musicianship. The beneficial result on one's playing of the piano, if the lessons learnt in acquiring a basic technique in singing or violin-playing are applied at the keyboard cannot be overestimated.

* * *

SOME players, on the other hand, go to the other extreme and over-emphasize the phrasing. A particularly irritating mannerism is to refine the last note of a phrase almost out of existence. If there are a number of short groups of slurred notes this type of playing sounds finicky and fragmentary. In all such matters one should be governed by one's taste. Too few, alas, possess good taste. The reason is not far to seek. Good taste in music, as in food, can only be acquired by extensive acquaintance with the very best. It is only in this way that one can form standards of excellence. It is true that more and better concerts are being given each year in Peterborough, but there is still not enough for the formation of good taste, and there are necessarily many gaps, notably in the domain of orchestral music. Apart from the radio and the gramophone, with their obvious imperfections, it is necessary to travel some ninety miles to hear an orchestra of any sort. Added to this is the sad fact that bad taste is rampant everywhere today, from neckties to jazz versions of some of the more hackneyed works of the great composers. One must keep one's critical faculties dormant in self-defence or else one would be a nervous wreck; for at every turn one is confronted with portentous triviality and vulgarity that would make a baboon blush. How can one's sense of beauty and fitness survive these continual outrages? How can the rising generation, fed on a mixture of drooling songhits and the like, avoid having their musical taste permanently warped?

* * *

IT is another unfortunate fact that the children's section of nearly every hymn book that I have ever seen is musically the weakest in the book. In a few books, such as the English Hymnal, a courageous attempt has been made to adapt folksongs as hymn tunes, and this has been on the whole most successful in the case of the children's hymns. When I was young (in pre-radio days, I am glad to say) we were brought up on nursery rhymes which we sang. They were nearly all good tunes. I suppose they will all be forgotten in a few years' time. It seems as though Gresham's Law is working in music: the bad is driving out the good. I do not wish to sound too gloomy, for there are signs of improvement here and there, but facts must be faced, and we are a little too complacent about our "progressive" twentieth century, especially on this continent.

* * *

THE CBC has given us plenty of Britten in the past year, what with "Peter Grimes", the St. Nicholas Cantata, "Albert Herring" and other works; it might almost be the Festival of Britten! But there are other English composers of the same generation as Britten whose works might get more of a hearing, men such as Rubbra, Tippett and Rawstnorne. Of these I find most enjoyment in the latter, but one cannot deny the serious purpose and conscientious craftsmanship in the two former composers. Although I personally find them rather too earnest and austere this may well be the result of imperfect acquaintance with their idiom, and I would welcome an opportunity of hearing more of their output in the hopes that I might find something that evaded me when I last heard them some time ago. Then there is a new crop of names that I notice in the English periodicals, Racine Fricker, Bernard Stevens, and so on. These are so far nothing but names. I would like to hear what is cooking over there.

* * *

THERE are some composers who were so woefully incompetent in the ordinary affairs of life that they would inevitably have lived and died in obscurity but for their one talent which they cultivated so brilliantly. In this connection one inevitably thinks of Schubert. Poor Schubert, one is inclined to say. He was never well off, and he lacked the background of a good education. He was almost totally devoid of all those characteristics that go towards the making of a Successful Man and a Good Citizen. He lived a happy-go-lucky, hand-to-mouth existence, and though the sums paid to him for his compositions may seem ridiculously low it must be remembered that the purchasing power of money was much greater in those days and travellers from the countries such as England were agreed that Vienna in Schubert's day was one of the cheapest places to live in. Perhaps if he had been regular and frugal in his habits Schubert might have been able to "put something by for a rainy day". I am sure that he never worried his head about rainy days but was content to enjoy the sunshine while he could! Yes, judged by Babbit standards Schubert was a Failure, and yet as far as his compositions are concerned he was a brilliant success and a brighter promise cut short by his untimely death. We should be wary, as Tovey says, of judging an artist by his life, which more often than not was a failure, instead of by his art. Schubert was the type of Bohemian artist immortalized by Murger (does anybody read his "Scenes de la Vie de Boheme" nowadays?), and as such he was in advance of a fashion which swept the world of creative art. It was the prerogative of artists to wear their hair long, and to affect a disdain for the ordinary conventions of civilized life. I am afraid this species is rapidly becoming extinct, especially in the musical world. The musician of today usually looks like a farmer, a lawyer, or most often a successful business man. He is as often as not punctual, methodical and neat in his appearance. To all outward appearances art has abandoned the revolt against society led by Byron and has returned to the attitude of conformity which it held during the eighteenth century.

FIRE HAZARD

Letters To The Editor

ARE OWNERS TO BE DENIED USE?

Sir:-It appears that Peterborough is to lose its Summer Theatre because we have one citizen with an exaggerated grievance and a very timid Board of Education.

The Queen Mary Auditorium cost the citizens plenty and if the threat of an injunction casts such fear into the Board of Education that they are going to prevent the owners from using it, I trust that on next election day the voters will show the Board how they feel in the matter. Of course it will take two elections to make a complete job, during which time our Summer Theatre will, no doubt be firmly established in Brockville or some other live city which knows a good thing when it sees it.

By the way, if the Summer Theatre creates such a nuisance as the Board seems to think, why burden the citizens in the neighbourhood of the Collegiate with it? Or is this just an easy way out of the situation?

Yours truly,
GEORGE GREEN.

MONEY FOR LABOUR AND WHEAT

Sir: Can you tell me through your columns how much of the taxpayer's money the government has put into the unemployment insurance fund?

Why is it that no protest is made when that money is given to labour, most of it in Ontario and Quebec, while a howl of anguish goes up when the western wheat farmers get anything?

If the wheat farmers have been "coddled" as much as eastern industry, it is news to most.

As for the rise in the price of butter, that is just the farmers telling you they don't have to produce an article unless they get a price that pays them and what are you going to do about it?

B.H.

R.R. 9, Peterborough, Ont.

FARM EXPENSES

Sir: Those comparative figures from a Cornell University study of 14 farms in New York State, showing the investment, cash receipts and average expenses in 1907 as against 1947, by your County Farm Notes columnist (Harry Theobald), were very interesting—especially to those readers whose working years were in that period. The following paragraph is full of statistical vitamins: "The average investment of these 14 farms had increased from $6,466 to $22,502. Cash receipts in 1907 averaged $1,584, and in 1947 the amount was $12,470. More striking was the increase in average expenses: $562 in 1907 and $9,086 40 years later".

From my viewpoint, and forgetting for the moment the difference in the purchasing power of the 1907 dollar contrasted with its 1947 equivalent, it is thought-provoking to observe that whereas 'average expenses' in 1907 were just 35 per cent of the 'cash receipts', in 1947 the ratio of expenses to receipts had more than doubled, i.e., to almost 73 per cent.

This made strange reading and certainly shows that its costs money to farm, these days? It is very clear to me that, for all the surface merits of the universal trend to mechanical power on North American farms, as the philosopher puts it "every advantage has its tax", and the farmer is no exception to the rule?

Unfortunately the average final consumer up in the city, feeling the increasing pressure from the fact that his (or her) food dollar isn't what is used to be, is inclined to direct all the criticism at the farmer. This is a pity, and is one of the more insidious and damaging consequences of long years of pretty complete isolation and lack of understanding between these two major groups in the population—the primary producers and their urban customers. I liked the forthright assertion in the news the other day credited to a speaker at Washington (Senator Humphrey of Minnesota): "The farmer isn't getting an unfair price for anything he produces", the Senator said; "The trouble is what happens to the price after the stuff leaves the farm". — (Minneapolis Star).

BUSINESSMAN.

TILTING AT WINDMILLS?

Sir: The theatre-going public in Peterborough is far from being the least desirable section of the community. No one could accuse them of rowdiness.

Who is this bogey-man whose dire threats have struck terror in the hearts of our intrepid Board of Education? Has he actually written them or caused a lawyer to write them a threat of injunction if they dare to rent an auditorium, built for the purpose of staging plays?

Is it possible that the people of Peterborough will not rise in their wrath and point the finger of scorn at one who is so palpably out of tune with the times. But perhaps we misjudge this shadowy figure—perhaps the Board of Education is tilting at windmills.

Yours truly,
P.G.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord: look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged....For the Lord shall comfort Zion: he will make her wilderness like Eden, and her desert like the garden of the Lord; joy and gladness shall be found therein, thanksgiving, and the voice of melody.

Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgement to rest for a light of the people. My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust.

Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished. (Isa. 51: 1, 3-6.)

* * *

Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them....But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Gen. 2: 1, 6, 7.)

Army Engineers Near Finish Of Flood Control Project

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Army engineers won't say so flatly but they believe they are well on the way towards whipping one of the biggest jobs man has ever undertaken in the United States —the flood control of the mighty Mississippi river.

The engineers have been making gains on the big stream for 22 years. Although hesitant to say at this moment that the river is boxed in, Maj.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, points out that last spring more water swept down the big trough than in the devastating flood of 1927. The man-made restraining levees held and damage was comparatively minor.

He confidently predicts that when the engineers complete the works now planned "we will have the Mississippi basin under control."

Knows It Well

General Pick is intimately acquainted with the Mississippi river. It drains 41 per cent of the United States. Congress turned the job of halting its rampages over to the army engineers in 1928, the year after the flood that cost 200 lives and $235,000,000 in property damage and inundated 700,000 homes for a month.

Although classed as one project, the job is in reality a multitude of flood control works, chiefly levee building. The project covers the river from the Gulf of Mexico to Cairo, Ill., and all of its tributaries in between, including the Ohio.

Costly Project

To date Congress has authorized $1,292,000,000 for work on this project. Actual appropriations to date total $848,000,000.

Has it been worth it?

General Pick's reply is that the floods which already have been prevented by the still-incomplete works would have caused nearly $5,000,000,000 in damages.

What the engineers did in setting up the project was to imagine a Mississippi River flood greater than any ever known. Then they set out to build levees, floodways and reservoirs to handle it.

The engineers frankly admit that their design flood could be exceeded if every tributary of the Mississippi equalled its record flood at once.

But they say such a combination of circumstances isn't likely to happen once in 500 or 1,000 years.

This Lower Mississippi flood control project is only a part of the broad flood control picture for the complete basin.

There are army engineer programs for many of the other tributaries. The Interior Department's Reclamation Bureau has programs for the Missouri Valley. There are Agriculture Department programs too. All are aimed at halting floods and conserving water.

The entire army project includes construction of about 1,500 miles of levees on the Mississippi River, hundreds of miles more on the tributary streams, bank stabilization work, three floodways and five reservoirs.

Nearly 1,200 miles of main channel levees have been brought to "project" level. These levees are set back some distanc from the river banks in most cases and hold the stream in check when it rises above its banks.

Group Of 8 Nations To Allot Materials

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP) —The United States, Britain and France Saturday announced that a permanent group to work on production, allocation and pricing of vital raw materials will be made up of eight nations including Canada and representatives of two international organizations.

In addition to the big three and Canada the rest of the eight member nations are Australia, Brazil, India and Italy. The two international bodies to be represented will be the organization for European economic co-operation and the organization of American states.

Baron Issue Splits Union

TORONTO, March 19 (CP).— Canadian textile workers are lining up both for and against Sam Baron in his union feud with Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL).

The greater Toronto textile joint board, which claims to represent 2,000 members of the union, announced Saturday that it is disowning Baron, recently dismissed by Rieve as Canadian director of the textile workers.

In Hamilton Sunday, however, the joint board threw its support behind Baron. The meeting endorsed the action of pro-Baron forces which have defied Harold Daoust, the new Canadian director, who ordered the March 31 meeting postponed in order to give more time for selection of delegates.

Attending the Hamilton meeting were delegates from Hespeler, Dundas, Guelph, St. Catharines, Galt, Welland, Dunnville, Waterford and Hamilton. The joint board there claims to represent 5,000 textile workers.

Previously, the representatives of 5,000 textile employees in Cornwall had voiced support for Baron, while the Trent Valley area joint board is supporting Rieve.

PCVS Boys' Cagers Beaten In The COSSA Semi-Finals

For the second straight year, both PCVS boys' basketball teams, seniors and juniors, were turned back Saturday in the COSSA tournament at Hart House, University of Toronto. But this year the PCVS Garnet and Greys were further humiliated by not even reaching the final games, losing both semi-final games on Saturday afternoon. They lost to the 1951 COSSA champions, Stamford, in the junior and Niagara Falls in the senior.

In losing to Niagara Falls 60-30, the senior Garnet and Grey quintet absorbed its worst defeat this year. After a close first half in which PCVS suffered numerour personal fouls on its first line players, Niagara Falls broke loose with a fury of passing plays and field shots. During the second half while this attack was on, the many PCVS followers and other teams realized the strength of the Niagara Falls district winner.

Lots of Fouls

Foul shots played a great part in the first half, Niagara Falls matched the PCVS players in fouls, but came through with a better average on the attempts to take a slim lead at the quarter 12-11 and to lengthen the lead to 27-20 at the half.

Then the Falls sharpshooters began to snipe away at the basket after breaking quickly up the floor or working in with neat, snappy passing plays. Dick MacKenzie, Potter and Triano worked on the PCVS team, which was slowly collapsing with long field baskets and careful under-the-basket action. These three players combined with others for 21 points while PCVS obtained only two foul shots and a basket. The pace was continued in the fourth but Niagara seemed content to keep passing the ball for time. Even then they outscored the Garnet and Grey 12-6.

Shooting and rebound play along with a fast break or expert ball-handling passing plays by Niagara easily made the quintet the best team in the tournament. They could drift in long or short field attempts with ease, while their foul shooting was average. C. MacKenzie and Dick MacKenzie controlled the backboards throughout the last three quarters.

PCVS on the other hand was definitely off. They could not pass or shoot. Only once or twice did Northcott or Thompson manage to break loose and those early in the game. The zone defence which PCVS is noted for just could not stand the pressure and was smashed by the Niagara attack. Paul Frise at times revived the team when he brought down rebounds, which was seldom, in the second half.

In spite of the showing by the PCVS they appeared to be as strong as the Georgian Bay winners, Orillia, or the Bay of Quinte winners, Belleville. Both those teams were inferior to the Niagara quintet. The Belleville Collegiate colors edged past Orillia in the semi-final and suffered the same fate as PCVS in the final against Niagara Falls.

Not So Good

If Stamford's power is any indication of junior basketball in the COSSA district, senior basketball in the next few years will decline to practically nothing. They showed nothing while edging the PCVS junior Garnet and Grey team in the opening game of the tournament 22-19. The game was just plain uninteresting.

On the game's playing the Garnet and Grey should have won. They outplayed the Niagara district winner in all quarters except the third when they completely collapsed long enough for Stamford to take a lead by enough to win. PCVS' shooting was far off the mark even on the layup shots.

Dave Langhorne repeatedly broke away, but the ball just did not go through the hoop. The large crowd was kept in suspense as the ball rolled around the hoop and then dropped away.

During the first half the PCVS zone defence was solid and enabled PCVS to lead 7-5 at the first and 13-9 at the half. Then Stamford edged around the PCVS system and started to peck at the basket. They tied the score and swept on for a 20-14 third quarter score. PCVS rallied in the last quqarter to pull within one point and then missed several foul shots. Miller broke away in the last minute for the final score.

The lineups:

Junior game: PCVS 19— Langhorne 2, Grafstein, Fowler, Hempstead 4, Hendry 6, Johnston Boorman, Griffin, Stewart 5, Cunningham 2.

Stamford 22—Rapelje 5, Urquhart. Read, Shepherd, Fedor 4, Damato 1, Miller 8, Powell 4, Angle, Lococco.

Senior game: PCVS 30—Northcott 10, Ash 1, Thompson, Brown, Frise 8, McIlraith 3, Evans 4, Cranfield, Young 4.

Niagara Falls 60—C. MacKenzie 4, Logan 4, Triano 15, Sorley 2, D. MacKenzie 17, MsCutcheon, Potter 11, Sullivan 4, Janvary 3, Bromhall, Renzetti.

PCVS Damsels Lose Out In The Finals

Fate coasted all season with the PCVS girls' basketball team and finally struck Saturday in Toronto at the final COSSA championship game. Undefeated till then the Garnet and Grey lasses were downed 26-12 in the COSSA final game by Newmarket High at the Ontario College of Education. The PCVS team earned their way into the final game by edging Niagara Falls in the afternoon game of the tournament 23-18.

Only twice in the final game did the PCVS girls show the neat, quick passing plays which carried them into the COSSA tournament. Reta Naylor, Carol Ferguson, and Rosie McInroy uncorked their razzle-dazzle plays early in the first quarter and caught the Newmarket girls offguard. But the PCVS shots just rolled on the rim, dropping away. The PCVS passes then went haywire and seemed to be always received by Newmarket girls. In the fourth quarter the PCVS girls again opened up with these passing plays but the Newmarket lead was too much for them to overtake.

Newmarket's height and accurate shooting from the court gave them the game. In their afternoon game with Belleville the Newmarket team demonstrated their skill at long-range field baskets for a 24-19 win. They opened up early on the basket in the PCVS game and did most of their scoring in the first half, rolling up 18 points. Height helped the girls as three lanky maids, Pauline Bovair, Joan Mitchell and Joan Widdefield, controlled the backboards.

Took the Lead

Long and short field baskets by Pauline Bovair and Joan Mitchell combined with a layup basket by Joan Widdefield gave Newmarket a 10-3 score at the quarter. Carol Ferguson had opened the scoring with a basket followed by a foul shot by Rosie McInroy. Newmarket pressed PCVS well into the defensive zone in the second quarter and only the work of guards, Betty Wilkinson and Phyl Peryer, kept the score down. Even then Joan Mitchell, Joan Quinn and Joan Widdefield ran up eight more points for the Newmarket quintet.

PCVS' passing plays were stumped by the tall Newmarket girls early in the third. Foul shots by Lorraine Derry, Rosie McInroy and Reta Naylor gave PCVS three points while Pauline Bovair sank two baskets and Joan Widdefield one for Newmarket for a 24-6 score.

Nancy Wier and Paisley Potter drifted in four field baskets for Niagara Falls collegiate in the first quarter of the afternoon game with PCVS to give them an 8-2 score, Reta Naylor snaring the lone basket. The tables were turned in the second session as PCVS outpassed, out-tricked and outscored Niagara Falls 12-2. Reta Naylor, Rosie McInroy and Carol Ferguson combined for the PCVS points.

Two foul shots and a basket by Rosie McInroy and Reta Naylor allowed PCVS to keep the lead at the third quarter 18-14, McInroy with two baskets and Carol Ferguson with a foul shot enabled PCVS to edge Niagara 5-4 in the final quarter.

Lineups:

First game—PCVS (23)—Derry, Ferguson 2, Frost, McInroy 10, Naylor 11, Shearer, Fletcher, Peryer, Rowell, Wilkinson, Leggott, White.

Niagara Falls (18)—Weir 11, Potter 6, Cormier, Dymott, Lowe 1, Fennis, Collins, LaCasse, Keel, Flynn.

Second game — PCVS (12) — Derry 1, Ferguson 6, Frost, McInroy 4, Naylor 1, Shearer, Fletcher, Peryer, Rowell, Wilkinson, Leggott, White.

Newmarket (26)—Rogers, Bovair 10, Bunn, Mitchell 8, Quinn 2, Widdefield 6, Johnston, Gilman, Watt, Woodhouse, Mills.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Senior hockey here — whether of the "A", "B", "C" or "D" variety—has folded for the season. Collapsed might be a better word. That loud splash heard late Saturday night came all the way from the southern tip of Georgian Bay—'twas the Petes being dunked to a 15-3 tune by the merciless Mercurys of Owen Sound. As they cleaned up their best-of-seven Allan Cup series in four straight. Eagles had been plucked earlier by Belleville in group semi-finals, and with the demise of Petes the senior variety of the winter game is finished in these parts until late next autumn. Let us bow our heads in silence for a moment.

* * * * * *

Ah, well, it just wasn't Peterborough's turn this year. Both the Petes and later the Legion in recent years have carried the puck banner high in provincial playoffs, but neither went far this semester. Yet local fans had a long session at that, just about five months of senior hockey two nights a week—nearly as much as several NHL centres. Some good games, some poor ones, and three playoff series. The Petes are unofficial group champs, though Nylons (who were runners-up to them and lost to 'em in a playoff series after the schedule) will likely get that official title. Coach Drake Jopling, the Petes' players, and the executive deserve credit for making a big comeback this year.

* * * * * *

Really Smart Squad

They were outclassed quite a bit by the packed Owen Sounders, a really smart squad. On their own larger ice surface, they had too much speed and finish, winning easily there twice. They found the local rink tougher to figure, and then too the Petes fought fiercely before the home crowd twice, so the two tilts here were close and exciting. But Mercurys still won in four straight—so they are considerably superior. Only in the first frame Saturday at Owen Sound did the Petes make it close. They shot their bolt then and the homesters rolled on to rack it up. Goalie Ray Harding does not plan to rent a summer cottage on Georgian Bay—he saw far too many visitors on his doorstep up that way last trip!

* * * * * *

Big Jack Davison did his best to soften 'em up with a bashing effort, but those fast-stepping ex-pros don't bruise easily. Jake Wade and Curly Mason were each in on one goal and Dugan two, with Gus Leonard and Jack Mortimer combining for the Petes' other one. Honey Tompkins didn't make the trip. McReavy, Gillespie, Forslund, Grant, Allum and of course Burlington and Ingoldsby kept the biscuit hot for the winners. The Petes were a good senior "B" team, but Owen Sound is a good senior "A" outfit. And now the boys can break training after a five-month grind, as senior hockey in Peter Robinson's borough is washed up with the spring floods.

Bees Stung IOOF-ers

Things looked a bit grimmer in local hockey circles with the word that the Oddfellows dropped a 6-4 decision to Oshawa Bees here on Saturday. That gives the Bees a 2-1 edge in their best-of-seven junior "B" group finals, with the next one being on Oshawa ice tonight. The local lads will have to hustle and even that up right away or they're threatened with OHA oblivion shortly, also. However, they ought to knock off the Bees this eve and square the series once more, and we think they'll take 'em on the round to advance into provincial ploydowns. Bun Kingdon has a good squad of scrappers but they're facing a fighting band of Bees from the Motor City with every game highly important. No time for fooling around now.

* * * * * *

Marines proved our only men's cage winner Saturday, edging Church of the Messiah 62-61 here, but losing the OABA intermediate "B" semi-final round by six points. Tough luck. PCVS junior girls won 23-18 in Toronto in COSSA semi-finals but fell in finals before Newmarket 26-12. Both PCVS boys' teams went down in semi-finals, the junior to Stamford 22-19 and the seniors to Niagara Falls 60-30. Their victors went no to capture COSSA crowns, while St. Catharines won the senior girls' title. The Collegiate still has a juvenile OABA squad going, and also the bantam boys, who finish their lakeshore finals against Bowmanville here at four p.m. Wednesday. YW girls go in a twin bill Wednesday e'en, but the hoop season is almost over.

Oshawa Beats The Links In Third Fray

Oshawa Bees took a 2-1 edge in their best-of-seven Junior B group final hockey series Saturday night at Civic Arena as they earned a 6-4 decision over Bun Kingdon's Oddfellows in the third game of the serial. The fourth is at the Motor City tonight.

A strong spirit in the final period paid off for Bees after two fast, even frames that found the squads deadlocked at two goals apiece. Goals by Jed Wilson, Lawrence and Keller after Bob Wyatt's brilliant effort with Dean West had given his team 3-2 lead early in the chapter, proved a sufficient margin though Wyatt came through again late in the frame to give Links new hope as the teams battled hard. Fate favored Bees, in the dying minutes. George Brabin tallied on a breakaway in the final minute to put his team safe after Oddfellows had stormed Pallister's citadel in several desperate attempts to tie the battle.

A Clean Fray

It was a clean, hard fought struggle following much the same pattern as the first two games between the well-matched teams. Again there were 10 miscues, six to the visitors, all for minor offences. Dean West, Wyatt and Morrow formed the most effective attacking trio. West opened the scoring in the fast first stanza as Wyatt paessd over, with Links shorthanded. Ab Lawrence, who starred for Bees, put his team even at the three-quarter mark on a short drive following a scramble out front after several attempts to beat Wasson. Jed Wilson's fast backhander from De Gray late in the session zoomed high behind Wasson to give Bees the lead in a fairly even period.

Ray Douglas plunked in Armstrong's drive midway in the second for the only marker of the frame. Then came the finale as both squads threw discretion to the winds in an effort to register the pay-off tallies.

Oshawa—Goal, Pallister; defence, Johnson, Marshall; centre, Haxton; wings, Lawrence, Chiroski; alts., Keller, Deeth, O'Connor, Wilson, DeGray, Brabin, Hillman, Edwards.

IOOF—R. Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre, West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt; alts., Doris, Douglas, Buckton, Floyd, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, D. Wasson, Shearer.

Brintons And Trenton Open Finals At Arena

Peterborough Brintons and Trenton Taximen square off tonight at Civic Arena in the opener of their best-of-five Trent Valley Hockey League finals, second game being later in the week on Belleville ice. Trenton emerged as champions of the southern section of the TVL after ousting the Bata-Frankford Combines in a hot series. Brintons erased Campbellford in three straight after earlier eliminating Stirling in semi-finals to take the title in the northern section of the large and interesting intermediate district circuit.

Coach Jack Harris iced a powerful pack of Brintons in their first TVL season, the team losing but three games during the lengthy schedule and none to date in playoffs. He has Jack Byers in goal, with Ken Anderson and Slim McCuaig on one defence and Arn Riches with Joe Berardi on the other. Johnny Richlark, Lornie Eakins and Ken Lawson form one front line; Ace Reid, Chink Willshaw and Bill Anderson make up another; while a third has Don McIndoe, Bill Huard and Bill Crowder.

These Peterborough puckists have been going well all season, a number of them having previous OHA junior and intermediate or senior "B" experience. They were too strong for the other good TVL teams—including an entry from here in St. Peter's—and now expect to take down the loop title against the potent Trenton squad. Dates of future final games have not yet been announced.

Allot Extra Time For Title Match

There will be a specially extended time limit of 90 minutes for the return championship match between Whipper Billy Watson and Lord Athol Layton, in the Brock Arena Tuesday night.

Last time these two mat topnotchers collided, they wrestled to a thrilling, hard-fought 60-minute draw. The longer time allotment should give ample scope for a decisive finish.

Sonny Kurgis, the talented, popular, young grappler, will meet tough, towering Wee Willie Davis in the semi-final.

Tommy O'Toole, stellar and rugged matman, will oppose Bill Stack in the first test. It will be Stack's first appearance here this season.

Owen Sound Ousts Petes In Allan Cup Playdowns

OWEN SOUND, March 19—The scrappy Peterborough Petes bowed out of Allan Cup competition as they went down to a 15-3 defeat at the hands of the Owen Sound Mercurys here Saturday night. It was the fourth straight wins for the Mercurys in the OHA Senior "A" best-of-seven series.

With the odds stacked against them, the Petes put up a bitter battle in the first period here Saturday night, and then resigned themselves to fate. The Mercurys stormed into a 4-2 first-period lead, stretching it into a 9-2 advantage going into the third.

On the larger ice surface here the Mercurys swarmed in on Goalie Ray Harding relentlessly. Although 15 shots slipped past him, he kicked out another 25. At the other end of the rink, netminder Bob Gillson blocked 30 Peterborough shots.

Curly Mason turned in a steady effort for the Petes, notching one goal. Jake Wade and Gus Leonard were the other Peterborough marksmen.

Led The Way

For Owen Sound, veteran Pat McCreavy led the way with three goals. His linemate, centreman Doug Gillespie, racked up two and assisted in five others. Tommy Burlington tallied once and received four assists. Jack Ingoldsby and Buck Forslund scored twice, and singles went to Mike Bukacheski, Bill Allum, Harry Kazarian, Andy Grant and Bob Markle.

Petes opened the scoring in the game after eight minutes in the first period. Dugan's hard shot bounced off the screen back of the Owen Sound net and Wade picked up the rebound. He stepped around Gillson and picked the empty side of net.

Later in the period, Dugan passed from the left corner and Mason, perched on Gillson's doorstep, flipped the puck in. Gus Leonard scored Peterborough's last goal in the final frame. His long shot was juggled by Gillson.

Only four penalties were handed out in the cleanly-played tussle. Forslund and Davidson got the gate in the second for the only roughing penalties of the series.

The Mercurys will now meet the winner of the Woodstock-Sarnia playoffs series.

The teams:

Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling, Horton; centre, Dugan; wings, Wade, Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Mortimer, West, Collins, Floyd, Davison, E. Leonard.

Owen Sound—Goal, Gillson; defence, Allum, Kazarian; centre, Burlington; wings, Ingoldsby, Forslund, alternates, McReavy, Gillespie, Bukacheski, Hayward, Grant, Markle, White, Smith.

Referees—Stan Smith and Bob McCully of Stratford, Ont.

First Period

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Our new stones arrived on Saturday and were immediately used for the Saturday games. They look real smart.

Keep next Saturday open—it's the vice-skips' bonspiel.

Monday, April 9, is the date set for the men's annual banquet and meeting. It will be held at the Aragon Club. Members may get their tickets from their skips at $2.00 per.

One of the youngest and most popular skips is about to take a walk down the middle aisle.

The Kiwanis Club is holding its annual one-day bonspiel on Monday, March 26. Chairman Jack Allen tells us that he has had to turn down many entries. Rinks will be here from Orillia, Oshawa, Chatham, Lindsay, Kingston, East York, Noranda, Westdale, Hamilton, Kirkland Lake, Belleville, Cobourg, Timmins and Peterborough.

The ladies of the local curling club are supplying hot meals, so it looks like one continuous round of pleasure from 9 a.m. till ?

Wings Clinch First Place Canadiens Make Playoffs

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings are National Hockey League champions for the third consecutive season, their ace right-winger, Gordie Howe, has set a league scoring mark, and Montreal Canadiens are assured of a playoff position.

These were the decisive results of an action-packed weekend which saw each of the six teams play twice.

The Red Wings clinched first place with two victories over the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, 8-2 in Detroit Saturday night and 4-3 in Chicago Sunday night.

Howe picked up four goals and one assist in the two meetings to boost his season's total to 42 goals and 44 assists—84 points—which is two better than the record set by Herbie Cain of Boston in 1943-44.

Montreal, a team that was just about counted out of contention a few weeks back, topped off a hot stretch drive with a 3-1 Saturday night win over Boston Bruins and a 2-2 draw in Boston Sunday.

In the other home-and-home series Toronto Maple Leafs defeated New York Rangers 3-1 and 4-1.

Line-up

The way things stand now, Detroit has clinched first place; Toronto is assured of second; Montreal is in third, three points ahead of Boston and four ahead of New York.

Rangers have two games to play and the best they can do is tie Montreal in points, but even then Canadiens would win a playoff spot because they have more victories than Rangers. That means it's strictly a fight between Boston and New York for the fourth playoff position.

A crowd of 11,655 at Detroit saw the Wings bounce Chicago Saturday. Besides Howe's three goals, Jimmy Peters got two and Sid Abel, Red Kelly and Marty Pavelich one each for Detroit. Pete Babando and Roy Conacher tallied for Chicago.

The Hawks suffered their tenth straight loss before 4,958 fans on Sunday, but not without a fight. They tied the score three times before George Gee, a former Chicago player, broke it up with his second goal. Gerry Couture and Howe were the other Detroit scorers while Ray Powell, Roy Conacher and Bill Mosienko scored for Chicago.

Notable in the two games was the fact that Terry Sawchuk let five goals go by him, thus tightening the Vezina Trophy race with the Toronto goaltending combination of Al Rollins and Turk Broda. Rollins was scored upon only twice and Toronto now has had only two more goals scored against it than Detroit.

Rollins Stars

In the two Toronto-New York games, the spectacular work of goalie Rollins provided what might be a preview of the Stanley Cup playoffs. Before a crowd of 13,348 in Toronto, defenceman Jack Evans was the only player to score on him Saturday. Leafs came from behind with third-period goals by Tod Sloan, Ted Kennedy and Howie Meeker to win the game.

In New York Sunday night a crowd of 11,620 saw Reggie Sinclair beat Rollins to break the shutout early in the third period after Max Bentley and Meeker had given Toronto a 2-0 lead. Sid Smith and Kennedy got the other Toronto goals in the third period.

At Montreal Saturday, Boston had a 1-1 tie in the third period until Billy Reay broke the deadlock to the delight of most of the 14,533 fans. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion had scored in the first period for Canadiens and Johnny Peirson matched it for Boston. Bert Olmstead got Montreal's insurance goal with less than six minutes left.

Reay played an important part in the Sunday night game before 10,141 fans, at Boston. Paul Ronty had given the Bruins a 1-0, first-period lead before Kenny Mosdell tied it up. Then veteran Milt Schmidt sent the Bruins ahead again early in the third period. Reay got the goal that gave Canadiens a tie and assured them of a playoff spot.

Riot Breaks Out As Rockets Win

COBOURG, March 19 — Lyndhurst Rockets took a stranglehold on the OHA Eastern Ontario Junior "D" title here Saturday night when they whipped Orono Orphans, 14-4, in the first game of the finals. The winner advances to the all-Dntario title hunt.

A wild riot that embraced all players on both teams featured the third period, and Referee Nie handed out four major penalties when the gladiators were cooled off.

A crowd of about 600 watched the tussle.

Second game in the best-of-three series will take place in Brockville, nearest town to Lyndhurst with an ice plant.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe of Detroit scored four times and assisted once during the weekend to put him at the top of the National Hockey League in goals, assists and total points, and a full 20 points ahead of Maurice Richard of Montreal, his nearest rival.

Howe has 84 points, 42 goals and 42 assists; Richard has 64 points, 41 goals and 23 assists. Milt Schmidt of Boston and Sid Abel of Detroit come next with 60 points, each with 22 goals and 38 assists.

Weekend scoring didn't change the point standings of the top three of the big seven, although Howe went up five points and Schmidt one.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.

The American Hockey League wound up its regular season Sunday night with most of the clubs running true to form—the top ones winning and the bottom ones losing. Buffalo's eastern division leaders stayed home to trim Pittsburgh Hornets, third in the western loop, 6-4. Cleveland, western division leaders, lost to second place Indianapolis Capitals 6-5 at Indianapolis. Springfield Indians, third in the east, trounced last-place Providence Reds 5-2, and St. Louis Flyers scored a 6-4 win over tail-end Mohawks.

ENNOBLED WINS HANDICAP
William G. Helis, Jr's Ennobled scored an easy five-length victory in the $15,000-added Gulfstream Handicap Saturday. The time was 2.01 3-5.

C. V. Whitney's Mount Marcy, the favorite, was second, four lengths ahead of Double M Farm's Lambent.

Canada Wins World Crown In Hockey Finals At Paris

PARIS, March 19 (Reuters)—Canada still reigns as the country that can teach the world about hockey.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs today wore at a jaunty angle the world championship crown which they retained for the Dominion in a rip-snorting exhibition before 16,000 Paris fans Saturday night.

They handed a Swedish team—and a good one—a 5-1 shellacking to run their record in the world tournament to six straight victories and their goal totals to 62 for six against.

Over-eagerness cost the Canadians dozens of scoring chances during the game, but they still gave the newly-crowned European champions a lesson they won't forget.

They attacked incessantly, boring through a hard-hitting Swedish defence with body shifts that dazzled the losers. They outstickhandled and outshot their opponents.

They broke up Swedish attacks at the red line time and again with a barrage of checks. They clung to the Swedes like chewing gum in defence and brushed them off like mosquitoes in attack.

Bad Beating

It was a worse beating than the score showed, and the Swedes were glad enough to escape with their goal-average lead over Switzerland intact. They won the European crown by the narrowest of margins over the Swiss, as both ended with four victories, one loss and one tie in six games.

The Swiss had made it that close by beating the United States Saturday 5-1: It wasn't until the dying seconds of the Canada-Sweden game that they gave up hope of retaining the European title.

Scoring statistics for the six-game tournament showed Stan Obodiak, 180-pound centre, as the Leafs' top marksman with 10 goals and six assists. Obodiak played last year with Yorkton Terries of the Saskatchewan junor league.

Bill Gibson, a midget and juvenile with Lethbridge Native Sons, picked up 12 scoring points. Dinny Flanagan, who arrived with a Kitchener-Waterloo line for the series, got 10, and so did Don MacLean, formerly with the Native Sons and with Nelson and Nanaimo in British Columbia hockey leagues. Regina-born Bill Chandler got nine.

D.F.C. WINNER — Flt.-Lt. William Begy, of Toronto and St. Catharines, Ont., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for service with the R.A.F. in Malaya. The British Air Ministry announcement of the award said Begy, a flight commander principally engaged in supply dropping, displayed particular coolness on four occasions. These included two flights during which fires started in his aircraft. Begy enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in 1940 and later transferred to the R.A.F.

Milk Drivers Vote To Strike For Raise

TORONTO, March 19—(CP)—Members of the Milk Drivers and Employees Union (AFL) voted Sunday to strike if necessary to win a $3 weekly wage increase and other benefits recommended recently by a conciliation board inquiring into their dispute with the Toronto dairy industry.

The vote, which followed a decision by the dairymen to defer the wage increase as a result of freezing of milk prices by the Ontario government, was 1,388 to 51 in favor of strike action.

Members authorized the executive to call a strike at its discretion. The union has agreements with almost all Toronto's major dairies.

Plane Turns Over Four Men Escape

BRANTFORD, March 19 (CP)—Four men escaped without serious injury Sunday night when the plane they were in turned over in a forced landing in the dark on a muddy plowed field on Bow Park Farm near here.

They were the pilot, Harold Reddick, 41; Wilfred Clough, 35; A. W. Goard, 26, whose home town is Woodville; and D. E. Robertson, 21, Blackwater, Ont.

The plane was bound for Malton from Detroit, Mich. Engine failure caused the accident, they said.

Win Two Fellowships

KINGSTON, March 19—(CP)—Two of six Rotary International fellowships to Canada have been awarded Queen's University students. Lloyd J. Kusak, of Blenheim, Ont., 23-year-old chemical engineer, will study for the doctor's degree at Cornell University on a fellowship valued at $1,800 to $3,400, depending on his expenses. Ronald T. Fell Asleep At Wheel Wrecks Cars

Hits Parked Car Drives It Ahead 22 Feet Into Second

An Oshawa driver, Hugh V. Ingram, whom police said fell asleep at the wheel of his car, crashed into a parked car on Lansdowne St. about two a.m. this morning, and drove it ahead into another parked car.

His head snapped forward and hit the steering wheel breaking the wheel in half. He suffered a deep gash on the chin and spent the rest of the night in a hotel here.

The first auto his car hit was owned by James Johnson, 198 Lansdowne St. Sitting with the brake off and out of gear, it was bounced ahead 22 feet into a car owned by Stewart Hayes, 202 Lansdowne St. Both car owners were in bed.

The whole front of the Ingram car was wrecked. The motor was shoved off its mountings in under the dashboard.

The left rear corner of the Johnson car was badly knuckled, with the trunk caved in, the rear bumper broken, and left rear fender damaged. The front was also damaged when it hit the rear of the Hayes car. The front bumper was bent, the grill broken and the left front fender broken.

The Hayes car, in reverse gear, was driven ahead four feet. The trunk panel was buckled, the trunk door bent, and the right rear fender smashed in.

Constables Andre Dalton and Edward Niziol investigated.

GEORGE R. CLARKE general manager of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company who died on Sunday after an illness of two months.

Richard Ward, Retired Banker, Dies

Manager of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for four years, Richard James Ward, 61, of 137 London St., died Sunday in hospital. Death came suddenly, though Mr. Ward had been in ill health since before he retired in April 1949.

His ill health was a legacy from his three and a half years as a machine gunner in the Princess Patricia's during the First World War. After his retirement here he was succeeded by R. B. Arnold, present branch manager.

Since then he has maintained an interest in civic affairs. He frequently dropped in to see Mr. Arnold to talk over local banking problems.

Mr. Ward was 38 years with the bank during which time he served in more than 30 localities. While out west he managed several banks and he was also in the Superintendent Departments in Calgary and Winnipeg.

Travelled in West

For nine years he was the Bank of Commerce's special travelling representative in the mid-western United States. This territory extended from Chicago, through Denver to Texas. One of his sharpest professional memories was the run on the banks during the early '30s in the United States. Panicky crowds lost faith in the banks and demanded payment.

Mr. Ward became manager of the branch in Fort William in 1938, and because of the war remained there for nearly six and a half years. He was then transferred to Peterborough where he was manager until two years ago.

In Peterborough he was actively associated with the Health League, Peterborough Tuberculosis Society, Exhibition Board, Chamber of Commerce, Sales and Ad Club, Peterborough Club, and the Peterborough Golf and Country Club.

Born in Ireland

Mr. Ward was born in King's County, Ireland, son of the late Patrick Ward and Lazzie Mary Anthony. He came to Canada at an early age and received most of his banking experience in the west.

He leaves his wife, the former Gwendolyn Emma Johnston; three sons, Richard in the RCAF, Trenton; David of Queen's University, and Robert at home; and two sisters, Patricia and Helen Ward of Ireland.

The body is resting at the Comstock funeral home, and the funeral will be at St. John's Anglican Church, 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, the Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

E. G. R. Clarke Nashua Paper Manager Dies

Had For 20 Years Taken Leading Part In Life Of City

Edward George Reynolds Clarke, 491 Homewood Ave., general manager of Canadian Nashua Paper Company, died at St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday. His age was 60.

Mr. Clarke had been ill since the first of the year, and had been in and out of the hospital several times since then. News of his death has been a shock to the community in which his activities as business man, sportsman, churchman, have been gratefully recognized by his fellow citizens.

Introduced Night Baseball

Within comparatively few months, George Clarke has followed in death Vern Dawson, associate in raising a fund of some $15,000 for floodlights at Riverside Park. Their main interest was the revival of baseball, and their realization that with the trend of the times the old game needed new conditions of night facilities to attract crowds. With them were several other members of the Peterborough Baseball Club, but the main responsibility of appealing to the city for co-operation and also of raising the stated fund, chiefly from business firms and sportsmen of the city, was undertaken by Mr. Clarke and Mr. Dawson, was fulfilled by them, and the first night games were played in the latter part of the 1950 season.

Mr. Clarke succeeded John R. Marshall as general manager of Canadian Nashua in 1945. He had advanced through the sales division of the company, from the Toronto office to sales managership in Peterborough at the time Mr. Marshall moved up from head of the sales branch to the general managership.

It was during his term here as head of the company that the splendid new Nashua plant was built on Braidwood Ave. Naturally the responsibility for that work rested on architects and contractors, but it was also in various details an additional concern for Mr. Clarke, especially in planning and transfer.

Mr. Clarke's father had long been prominent in Toronto politics and public life. He was not only Conservative M.P., but he had also been mayor in three consecutive terms.

Born In Toronto

Mr. Clarke was born in Toronto, son of the late E. F. Clarke, who was a member of the Parliament of Canada, and his wife, Charlotte Elizabeth Scott. He leaves his wife, who was Jessie V. Paxton; their daughter, Mrs. Donald A. McPherson (Judith) of Willowdale, Toronto; three sons, Warring Paxton Clarke of Vancouver; Edward Frederick Clarke of Edinburgh, Scotland; John Walker Clarke of Montreal; and sisters, Mrs. J. C. Ross of North Bay; Mrs. J. M. Kinnear of Belleville; Mrs. V. R. Perry of Toronto, and Miss Evelyn Clarke, Toronto.

A member of St. John's Anglican Church, Mr. Clarke had also been People's Warden for several years. He was vice-president of the Peterborough Baseball Club for the last two years; member of the Chamber of Commerce; he was a director as well as being general manager of Canadian Nashua Paper; member of Peterborough Club and Ontario Club, Toronto, and of High Park AF & AM, Rani Ghar Grotto, Toronto, Peterborough Lodge of Perfection and the Rose Croix.

The body is resting at the Comstock funeral home, Rubidge St. until Wednesday at noon. The funeral service will be conducted at St. John's Church by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, at 2 p.m. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Marmora Hunter Bags Six-Foot Timber Wolf

MARMORA, March 19 (ENS) —Sanford Lawrence, district veteran hunter and trapper, never shoots game until he "sees the yellow of their eyes," according to a recent shooting incident.

A week ago while in the woods, he heard a noise in the brush while he was sitting motionless on a log. A large brush wolf measuring six feet, three inches, from nose to tail tip, padded into view. Apparently coming into the wind towards Lawrence, the predator plodded on along a game runway. The hunter let him have it at close range and scored a single shot kill.

Curlers Enter One-Day Rotary 'Spiel

Twenty rinks started play today in the first Rotary Club one-day curling bonspiel. Rinks were entered from Huntsville, Whitby, Port Hope, Oshawa, Lindsay, Orillia, Bolton and Peterborough. The Rev. Peryma of Oshawa, winner of the Governor-General's trophy; and P. Canning, vice-skip of Oshawa's Tankard rink, were among outstanding curlers seen in action.

A. Ward Smith, Rotary chairman of the bonspiel committee, announced that R. A. McMurty of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, and district Rotary governor Art Ferguson of Gravenhurst, would join with the entries at the Rotary Club dinner in the Empress Hotel tonight when the prizes will be presented. These include a trophy for annual competition and prizes to the six rinks with the highest total scores.

FIVE PROMOTIONS

C. P. Dorrington, A. Nokes and A. H. Brown, all of the 50th A.A. Regiment, have been promoted to sergeant with the reserve force. Also in the regiment, Gnrs. M. J. Devine and H. E. Winslow have been promoted to bombardiers.

RICHARD J WARD, retired Bank of Commerce manager, whose death occurred on Sunday. Mr. Ward retired on account of ill health in April, 1949.

PROMOTED CREDIT MANAGER

W. Howard Macdonald has been named credit manager of the Quaker Oats Company for Eastern Canada, the company announces. Mr. Macdonald is carrying out his new duties from the head office in Peterborough. He is a graduate of PCVS and has been with the company in Peterborough since leaving the school.

Operatic Society Presents The Gondoliers

The visits of the Canada Packers Operatic Society to this city, under the auspices of the Married Couples Club of St. Paul's church are most welcome annual affairs. The PCVS auditorium was more than sold out on Saturday evening to hear "The Gondoliers".

This operetta is in some respects the finest of the Gilbert and Sullivan works. It is not so musically pretentious as "Yeomen of the Guard", and the score is fresher, wittier, more ingenious and more demanding upon the singers and orchestra. It has a large cast of principal characters, and much is expected of them. In the first act in particular, the choruses and concerted numbers are of unusual difficulty, for although it is not too hard to sing them correctly, it is very hard indeed to sing them with the requisite taste and lightness.

The visiting operatic society was successful in a large measure in giving "The Gondoliers" the treatment it needed. Most of the principals were excellent, though two or three were not equal to the music they were expected to perform. Victor White was particularly successful as Marco, and the encore which the audience demanded after his singing of the charming tenor song "Take a Pair of Sparkling Eyes" was a well-earned tribute.

Arthur Sclater a Favorite

The principal comedy role of the Duke of Plaza Toro was played by Arthur Sclater, a comedian of admirable gifts who has become a favourite of Peterborough audiences. We surmise that the recent visit of the D'Oyly Carte company to Toronto was a source of artistic refreshment to Mr. Sclater; he has adopted some of the mannerisms of Martyn Green, with considerable taste and skill. Much of the weight of the performance was upon his shoulders, and he bore it lightly.

The appearance of the production was charming. We must say a special word in commendation of the setting for act two, in which a few handsome properties were shown off against the grey curtains of the PCVS stage; the excellenceof those curtains was once again apparent.

It is a fine thing that a company of this standard is available to bring light opera to Peterborough, and that it is able to find an influential and enthusiastic sponsor. It would be a pity if a generation were to grow up here which was unacquainted with the tuneful and delightful works in which the Canada Packers Operatic Society specializes. They are a part of our heritage of music and drama which no one wishes to see neglected. —B.N.

Men's Sketch Club 15th Show Best Of Recent Exhibits

The fifteenth annual exhibit of the Peterborough Men's Sketch Club opened with a burst of people and talk and some 60 local paintings, Saturday evening at the Public Library gallery.

It is the fourth of these exhibits this viewer has seen and the best, but not the best-hung. The hanging is not good. The south wall, for instance is a mess.

What I liked about the preview was the way people talked and really looked at the pictures. It gave me a good feeling to realize that here in Peterborough people are talking about how painting is done, why it is done, and what it says and does not say, what it does and can not do.

One man said that some painters had two styles: one to do things to sell, that people would want as nice pictures in their living-rooms; and the other to do paintings that would not sell, but were intended for art gallery exhibition, to attract attention, to get talked about; scarlet things, big things, raw things, rude things quizzical things. If he was talked about, the people would buzz around his name and buy his stuff that looked well in a drawing-room.

Nothing Rude.

There is nothing scarlet, big, raw or rude in the present show. I wish there were.

But I disagree with the man who said these things. A great painter does not paint pictures. He is an artist. He may be a mystic too full of God to speak intelligigibly to the world. But he must speak, as the other artists do: the poets, the musicians, the sculptors and, yes, the architects, though Peterborough has no reason to know that. And it happens that the great artist very often does hang in the best drawing-rooms after he is dead. Social taste catches up with Rembrandt, Cezanne and even Picasso. I think it would do this show and its viewers good to read Gertrude Stein on Picasso.

Some of the stuff on view, is better than most Peterborough people will realize, for the reason that an Ontario tendency is to deprecate local talent. The current O. S. A. exhibit in Toronto has paintings inferior in pulsation and conception to Hamer's. I hesitatingly suggest to Mr. Hamer that he immolate himself to studio work for a year and develop his sketches.

The best art work is spontaneous in conception but not usually realization. A sonnet is the impression of a moment matured and worked over in hours of contemplation. The history of art shows (even in Van Gough and Beethoven) that the artist rises from mastery of academic background, not by disregard of it. Even the best wheat goes through the mill.

Stronger Work

I shall not attempt here, even if I were qualified, to single out the best or worst of the paintings on view. I want to say this: the work this year is surer, less cluttered, less "pretty". There is advance in strength secured through simplification. One feels that the painters, amateurs primarily concerned with enjoying a pastime, have seen more and know better how to put down what they have seen. By 'more' I do not mean more territory, as the glimpses of the sea which have given Mr. H. Steggles a fresh impulse. His work on view is impressive.

Dr. C. B. Waite, Mr. G. N. Howson, Mr. O. C. Simmers, Mr. C. S. Browne and Alderman A. B. Burrows each express in their own ways a freshened point of view and an advance in skill. Mr. Browne has lost much of his stiffness, and Mr. Burrows has branched out. His black-and-whites are effective contrasts, in the show his oils are interesting. Mr. C. Huffman is on the way to seeing what to paint and knowing how to paint it. Mr. Howson has made a notable advance.

Mr. J. E. R. Munro has a healthy, lively attitude and has set down some varied and captivating memorabilia. He is a sensitive craftsman with an intelligent eye and a liberal view which result in first-rate variety.

It is a good show with much charm. I regret that Mr. Charles Saunders is not exhibiting. The exhibition is open all this week during Library hours. You must see it, if only to get supper-table talk about it. The next best thing to painting itself, is talk about painting. Modest people will say at an exhibition: "I know what I like, and I like so-and-so painting". The next step is to think and say WHY and in what ways.

Returning With Light Truck To Pick Up $2,000 Loot 2 Thieves Battle Watchman

Attempted Express Robbery Failed When Campbellford Chief Discovers Lock On Office Broken.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 19. (ENS)—Thieves broke into the CNR express office here early Sunday, but missed an estimated $2,000 in loot when they returned in their truck to cart it away. Sectionman Peter Monaghan, whose son is in charge of the express office, was waiting for them when they came back, and struggled with them until they fled. Monaghan said there were two men.

Padlock Broken

Monaghan had been warned by Police Chief George Hardy, who saw the truck pull away from the station and later discovered the padlock on the express room door was broken.

The chief said he hadn't thought there was anything unusual going on until he found the broken lock. "A lot of people park there after the Saturday night dance," he said.

A few minutes later, the chief saw the truck parked in front of his home, and a man walking from the truck toward the station. "I started toward him and he ran for the truck and they got away," the chief said.

Surprised Two Men

While Chief Hardy went to Highway 30 to look for the truck, Monaghan reached the express office and found the two men there, about to remove express parcels.

He scuffled with them and one said: "They're after us, let's go." The two ran for the truck and escaped. Chief Hardy said he was only 150 yards from the station when he saw the truck pull away for the second time.

Chief Hardy telephoned provincial police headquarters in Peterborough, telling them the truck had gone south on Highway 30 toward Brighton. Cars in the district were alerted, but did not spot the truck.

The truck, a late model half-ton pickup, is registered in Toronto, and police there have been warned to be on the lookout for it.

Changes Mind, Plea, Fined $10

After hearing part of the evidence against him, Robert Fontaine, 17, 146 Aylmer St., changed his mind about pleading not guilty to a charge of having liquor in an illegal place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Constable John Morrow testified about 7:40 p.m. March 8, he and Constable Grant Gillespie checked a car on Armour Hill. Fontaine was sitting in the front seat with two part bottles of beer between his legs. His brother Lawrence was sitting behind the driver's wheel.

"Did you see me drinking?" Fontaine asked the officer.

"No," the constable replied.

"You could smell it though, eh?" the accused asked.

"I could smell it," the officer said.

Constable Gillespie was called as a witness and Fontaine said "I'll change my plea to guilty."

Last week Lawrence Fontaine pleaded guilty to a similar charge but not guilty to a charge of supplying liquor to a minor. The charge was adjourned a month.

Confidence Man, Aged 12, Gets 60c From Woman

A 12-year-old confidence man was reported extorting money from residents in the Benson Ave. area Friday night. He was known to have been successful in getting at least 60 cents from one woman.

Last summer he helped a market gardener peddle his produce about the neighborhood. Friday night he came to one door and said the housewife owed the market gardener $1.50 for some potatoes.

When the housewife said she had no recollection of owing any such amount, the youngster said he would go about the neighborhood and tell everyone there that the housewife refused to pay her bills. Then he said he would get his father to come up and as a last resort would call the police.

No Money

The housewife remained firm and the youngster left without any money.

But he went to another house where the wife was in a hurry to leave to go downtown. He said she owed 60 cents for a basket of apples. She was sure she didn't owe the money, but in the press of time to keep her engagement, she paid the youngster what he demanded.

As far as police know, the youngster has no authority to collect the money for the market gardener and anyone who pays the boy is just throwing money away.

Katchewanooka Clear Of Ice; Others Frozen

Lake Katchewanooka, just north of Lakefield, is free of ice except around the edges, and on Sunday there was at least one boat out in the sunshine and cool wind.

Clear Lake is still frozen over, and so is Chemong Lake except for a small area on either side of the swinging bridge at the east end of the Causeway.

DO THE WORKERS GET THAT EXTRA DOLLAR IN THE HIGHER PRICES YOU PAY?

Canadian General Electric's

WORKERS HAVE A JUST CASE IN ASKING FOR HIGHER WAGES

SOME SEVEN THOUSAND production employees of the Canadian General Electric Company are represented in union bargaining by the United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers of America (UE). The Canadian General Electric Company is the largest electrical company in Canada. This employer and this union have been in current 1951 negotiations since February 1.

The CGE is part of the General Electric (U.S.A.) and the International General Electric. In Canada it is one of the largest employers of labor.

This giant corporation is now trying to tell its employees they should be paid only at the AVERAGE rates of much smaller companies in the various communities where it is located. Here is the story:—

The Union Asks	The Company Offers
• Wage increase of 25c an hour.	• 7.5 per cent wage increase.
• An additional 10c an hour to day rate and skilled workers.	• A 3-year contract with cost-of-living adjustment and 3c per hour annual increase.
• The 40-hour work-week.	• Same work-week (42 and 43 hours).
• Protection against speed-up and rate cutting (that is, wage cuts).	• Conditions written into contract which would permit company almost unlimited rights to speed-up workers, cut rates, and break down skilled trade standards.
• Increased company contributions to health and welfare, and pensions.

In essence, the company offer would so weaken the present collective agreement with the union that the 7.5 per cent increase — and more — would be taken away before the contract year had ended.

But GE workers reject this company position. The offer of General Electric has been turned down overwhelmingly in a secret ballot of the employees. Yet General Electric has refused to improve its offer.

UE HAS ASKED THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT TO MEDIATE THE DISPUTE AT ONCE

General Electric workers recognize that Government mediation offers no guarantees of a satisfactory sett lement of their demands

They recognize that the company could make strike action unavoidable. This possibility will be faced up to by General Electric workers without hesitation if and when necessary.

PUBLIC SUPPORT

However, public support for the just and reasonable demands of General Electric workers can help bring about a speedy and proper settlement.

All trade union groups are asked to support the struggle of the General Electric workers — help us break the deadening influence of General Electric on community wage rates and working conditions by supporting our fight for the demands of General Electric workers.

GE Profits 1950 — $173,423,702.00 NET; 38% increase over 1949

CGE Profits 1950 —$7,039,612.00 NET; 56% increase over 1949

CGE CAN PAY

The C.G.E. made in 1950 an EXTRA profit of $344.00 per employee. The C.G.E. could have paid 15c per hour wage increase in 1950 TO ALL salaried and hourly paid employees and still made more than the 10% returns shown for 1949. Sales volume show an increase of only 23%. The Net Profit increase of 56% therefore is conclusive evidence of the speed-up of C.G.E. workers — AND EVIDENCE THAT THE EXTRA DOLLARS FROM HIGHER PRICES DO NOT GO TO THE WORKERS.

The C.G.E. must meet the legitimate demands made by the workers for 25c per hour wage increase, plus 10c additional for skilled and other day rate workers.

C.G.E. can meet these demands and still make a higher profit than is generally found in industry.

The Union Says:

WORKERS' WELFARE BEFORE GE PROFITS

The Canadian Westinghouse Company with some 5,500 production workers has an agreement with UE, and wages and conditions compare with General Electric as follows:

Canadian Westinghouse	General Electric
Male min. hiring rate $1.20 per hour.	Male min. hiring rate .96c per hour.
Average of all male and female earnings $1.53 per hour.	Average of all male and female earnings $1.20 per hour.
40-hour work-week.	42-43-hour work-week.

General Electric is a larger and richer company than Westinghouse. General Electric can and must meet employees' demands.

GE wants to remove from the present agreement very important minimum protections won in previous years.

GE wants the union to agree to wipe out important gains made in recent arbitration cases.

GE represents a powerful force in industry and whatever conditions prevail for GE employees greatly affect the well-being of other workers in the communities in which GE operates.

Knowing this, the members of UE are bringing the facts of their case to your attention as a public service.

10 Fatalities Reported Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press.

Ten violent deaths were reported in eastern Canada during the weekend. Drownings accounted for three; two persons were killed in a highway accident; two died in a level-crossing crash; and three deaths resulted from other accidents.

Six of the deaths were in Ontario, two in Quebec and two in the Maritimes.

At Belleville Saturday, Chester Ewing, 10, and Raymond Holgate, 25, were drowned when a home-made cable car overturned and dumped them into the Moira River. Holgate was washed ashore downstream and was revived for a brief period but later succumbed, apparently from a heart attack.

At l'Epiphanie, Que., Rosaire Gagne, 30-year-old taxi driver, and his passenger, J. Thauvette, 75-year-old barber, were killed when the taxi in which they were riding was smashed by a speeding Canadian Pacific Railway passenger express.

In Windsor, George Munroe, 29 an employee of the New York Central Railroad, was killed in a yard accident; and at Timmins, five-year-old Michael Fortier smothered to death in his crib.

Walter Bryzek, 47, a woodcutter, drowned in a lake at Ten Mile Stream east of Halifax; and at Antigonish, N. S., Jacques A. Fleishmann of Shawinigan South, Que., died from injuries suffered last Wednesday in gymnastic exercises at St. Francis-Xavier University.

OPERA CAST—The Cowichan Indian legend of Thunderbird and Killer Whale is told in the opera. Among the cast, who range from a 78-year-old brave to a babe in arms, are Mrs. Abel Joe and her daughters Donna and Glenda. Mrs. Joe is from the Cowichan tribe on Vancouver Island.

INDIAN OPERA—Tzinquaw, the first native opera, written by Frank Morrison of Duncan, B.C., and produced and directed by Cecil West, is being played in Victoria. With an all-Indian cast, the show may be taken on a trans-Canada tour. Abel Joe takes the lead singing and dancing role of Skeecullus.

Good Results Seen Coming In Uranium Hunt

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

When the atomic bomb was being developed, Canada's uranium from Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories was a vital factor.

This has since received such wide publicity that there has been a tendency for Canadians to think they have some kind of monopoly of uranium supply.

W. J. Bennett, president of Eldorado and Refining (1944) Ltd., the government-owned company which both produces uranium and will buy all that is produced in Canada, drew attention to this erroneous thinking in a recent address in Toronto. And it was re-emphasized recently by a Washington announcement that the United States has become the second largest producer, with the Belgian Congo first and Canada third. (Information from Iron Curtain countries not available.)

One other piece of over-optimism to which Mr. Bennett drew attention was the idea that. having found uranium in one place, we have only to go around scratching the ground to find it in abundance. Frequent reports of finds here, there and everywhere added to this misconception.

Needed In Quantity

This doesn't mean that uranium isn't being found, for, actually it is not too difficult to find; but finding it in commercial quantities is another matter.

To date, Eldorado's Great Bear Lake property still is Canada's only producer.

As Mr. Bennett commented:

"We have all been too optimistic as to the time that would be required to locate and develop important new reserves. Experience with other minerals should have warned us that producing mines are not discovered very frequently, and they are rarely discovered without intensive and widespread exploration."

None of this is ground for pessimism regarding Canada's future as a uranium producer.

It seems assured that another mine, at least as great and probably greater than the one at Great Bear Lake, will be brought into production by Eldorado at Beaverlodge in the Lake in the Athabaska area of Northern Saskatchewan. Private interests have also made rich findings there and presumably will proceed with development.

Other private interests are hopeful or enthusiastic about areas elsewhere, including the Algoma district, north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The search has been given a nudge twice in the last year through price increases in the form of milling and development allowances.

In all, though the last three years have put a damper on thoughts that finding and development of uranium is an easy matter, they would also seem to have laid foundations which may well make Canada a really great producer.

Businessmen Watch For Arson Suspect

PRESCOTT, March 19 (CP). — Business men have been warned to take precautions to safeguard their property from a suspected arsonist following three weekend fires of undetermined origin, all within three blocks in the town's business section.

An outbreak Sunday in the basement of a four-floor building housing a grain products firm and a glove company caused $1,000 damage. Other fires in a nearby warehouse and in a storage shed caused lesser damage.

It pays to be choosey when you buy a tire!

Before you pay out good money for tires . . . ask yourself these 3 questions:

1. Does this tire give the mileage I want?

Mileage varies with driving conditions . . . and with different priced tires. But this one fact stands out . . .

Canadian motorists (who want mileage more than anything else) buy more Goodyear tires than any other kind! Let the satisfactory experience of other motorists be your guide . . . buy long-mileage Goodyear tires!

2. Is this tire dependable?

A tire is only as dependable as the workmanship and materials that go into it. The high standard of Goodyear quality is the grand result of years of Goodyear research and experience . . . over half a century in the tire business.

And Goodyear quality is backed by the Goodyear Lifetime Guarantee!

3. Does this tire fit my needs?

Goodyear makes a tire for every purse and purpose:

MARATHON—Best tire buy in the low-price field, rugged construction for long mileage.

DELUXE—If you use conventional tires (rather than low-pressure) Deluxe is the finest in this class!

SUPER-CUSHION—Car-makers and Canadian motorists use more Goodyear Super-Cushions than any other low-pressure tire . . . preferred for comfort, safety and mileage!

DOUBLE-EAGLE—The only auto tire with an all-nylon cord body. Delivers unbelievable mileage! Top tire of the world's greatest tire-maker!

GOODYEAR

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

You're "in clover" these four ways!

Somewhere in your community, chances are that invested life insurance dollars are benefiting you by helping to build urgently needed public works. One of these might be a new, well-equipped school, encouraging your boy or girl to be a better student.

It might be a modern highway, helping to relieve traffic congestion in your district. Life insurance dollars, invested for the future needs of policyholders, make it possible to build many such roads throughout the nation.

Perhaps a new industry has recently moved into your town, creating jobs for many people, maybe for you. If so, it may be one of the industries that life insurance dollars have helped to build or expand. Other life insurance dollars play a part in building power plants, water systems and many other useful projects.

Families, too, benefit by these investments, which help make it possible for Canada's 5 million policyholders to enjoy double security—income for later years and protection of loved ones now. Thus life insurance promotes progress and security throughout the nation.

Marines Erased By Toronto In Semi-Finals

Although they won Saturday night at the YMCA, 62-61, Peterborough Marines bowed out of the Ontario Intermediate "B" playdowns to the Church of the Messiah from Toronto. The Messiahs won the Ontario two-game semi-finals by six points by virtue of their 57-50 Toronto win a week ago. They won the series 118 to 112.

Shag Park, coach of the Messiahs, said after the game he was surprised that the Marines played the game in the small YMCA gym instead of the long, narrow CVS court. The Toronto team could have been taken easily on a larger court for they are older players than the Marines and have not the conditioning for the fast breaks on the long floor. But it was not available Saturday night.

Coach Gord McIntyre said, "If we can't win on two different floors, there's not much use playing."

As it was, the Marines during the Saturday night game were between four and eight points up on the round several times. Their fast breaks featuring Jim Thorburn, Ted Payne, Fred Plato and Rocky Kidd, set up by guard Doug MacPherson, brought Marines even with the Messiahs early on the round and then they took the lead. Ray Baker's long field baskets, layup shots by lanky Gord Harris and corner shots by Austin brought the Messiahs' score up to 29 at the half. But the Marines were up four on the round with 40 points.

Suffered Fouls

Just after the second half started, Marines suffered personal foul trouble when Ted Payne, their leading scorer all season, and guard Bill Trimm left with five personals. The Marines slackened in their offensive and the Messiahs took full advantage for five minutes, enough to give Gord Harris time to score most of his second half's 12 points. The game lead changed hands from therein several times until Fred Plato sank the winning points.

Toronto's tallest and largest basketball player, Gord Harris, stood out for the Messiahs with 20 points, most of which were scored from directly under the basket. The policeman reaches skyward for six feet, six inches, and tips the scales at 250 pounds. Austin with his accurate shooting also was a Toronto standout.

Marines' Fred Plato matched Harris' scoring effort and was closely followed by Jim Thorburn, the hook shot artist, with 16 points. Reliable Doug MacPherson, besides holding Gord Harris as well as he could, led Marines on the fast-breaking plays while Rocky Kidd checked closely and rushed well.

Lineups—Church of Messiah (61)—Smith 2, Hocking, Harris 20, Baker 12, Augherton 2, Fitchett, Park 3, Austin 14, Pyzer 8.

Marines (62)—Trimm 2, Dadson 5, Payne 6, Thorburn 16, Kidd 10, Plato 20, MacPherson 3.

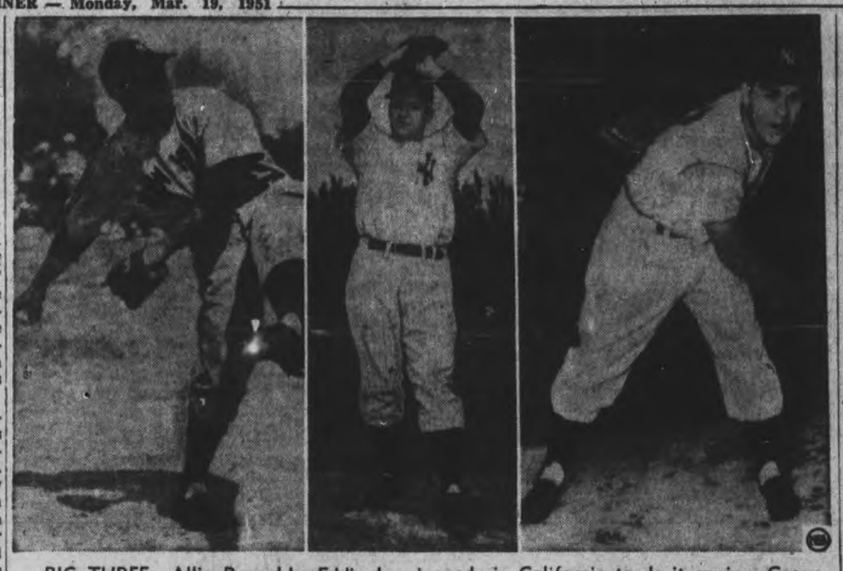
Hiawatha Gets First

KEENE, March 19 (ENS). — Hiawatha Indians took the first of the Otonabee League finals from Keene here by 8-5 in a good game played on ice that was only fair, before a big crowd. The Indians got away to a 4-1 lead over last year's champs in the first period and were never headed. However the Keene lads put on a rally in the third and came within one of tying the game until Boyd Cowie took over for the Indians late in the game and ran in two quick ones which settled the issue.

Coach Arn. Nelson of Keene had to don the big pads to replace the regular goalie, Jack Mackness, who is out with injuries and he turned in a creditable emergency job, while Joe McCarthy for Keene and Andy Anderson for Hiawatha turned in powerful defensive chores. Ed. Foley, Fred Gall, Bill Brown, Don Renwick and Jack Nelson each scored for Keene while Boyd Cowie led the Indians with three L. Sellaby and Jim Howard getting two each and Bob Heafield one. The game was cleanly played with but five minor penalties handed out.

Owing to lack of ice in the Otonabee Arena the series, a three out of five affair, will be completed in Peterborough at Civic Arena with the next game there on Wednesday next, further dates to be announced later. This second game should be a real battle as Keene expects to be at full strength for this one and claim they will tie the series while the Indians are just as sure that they won't.

Teams:



Hiawatha: Goal, McDonald; defence, Anderson, Thompson; forwards, G. Sellaby, L. Sellaby, and Heafield; alternates, Musgrave, B. Cowie, G. Cowie, Howard, Paudash.

Keene: Goal, Arn. Nelson; defence, McCarthy, Brown; forwards, Whalen, Houle, and Coons, alternates, J. Nelson, Foley, Renwick, Gall, Adamson.

Flyers Down Galt 6-4, Irish Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Playoffs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series have scarcely begun but Barrie Flyers are almost a shoo-in to enter the semi-final round.

Flyers took a stranglehold on their best-of-five quarter-final set-to with Galt, downing Black Hawks 6-4. They need only one more to shunt Hawks into the discard pile.

On the other fronts, Toronto Marlboros started off their series with Stratford Kroehlers with a 6-4 victory; St. Catharines Teepees downed Guelph Biltmores to tie their round at a game apiece and Windsor Spitfires edged Oshawa 6-5 with the same result.

In the major series, Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs put on a four-goal display in the last period to down Hamilton Tigers 6-2 in the opener of their best-of-seven final series.

Big cog in the Barrie win at Galt was Leo Labine who scored twice and picked up three assists. Jerry Toppazzini, Real Chevrefils, Jack White and Bill Hagan got the other goals for coach Happy Emms' crew.

Pete Conacher paced the Hawks with two counters and the others were by Don Hogan and Ken Wharram.

22 Penalties

The game at Toronto was marred by 22 penalties, including four majors and a 10-minute misconduct.

Wally Maxwell and Don Peart, of Marlboros, got major penalties as did Bob Armstrong and Guy Henri of the Khoehlers.

Johnny Lumley and Parker MacDonald led Marlboros with two goals each and the others were by Maxwell and Eric Nesterenko. The Stratford marksmen were Roy Leckie, Larry Lemenchick, Bob Armstrong and George Aitken.

In the Windsor-Oshawa tussle, goalie Glen Hall, of the Spitfires, virtually won the game in the first period.

Windsor was outshot 17 to five in that frame but Hall was terrific and out-guessed Oshawa forwards repeatedly on close-in shots to let his club take a 2-1 lead.

The Generals roared back to knot the count at 5-5 late in the game. With only four minutes left to play, Erwin Grosse settled the issue with his second goal of the night. The other Windsor marksmen were Eddie Joss, Jim Anderson, Earl Johnson and Larry Thibeault.

Lou Jankowski got two goals for the Generals. Stan Mills, Herve Dejordy and Alex Delvecchio got the rest.

Goal Getters

At St. Catharines, Ted Power, Wayne Brown, Bud Boone and Jim Robertson flashed the red light for the winners. Ron Murphy saved the Biltmore Memorial Cup semi-finalists last year from a shutout.

In the major game, Jackie Meldrum collected two goals for St. Michael's and Johnny Arundel, Ed Mulligan, John Ubriaco and Gord Hannigan helped to snow the Tigers under. Murray Comfort and Tom Smelle were the Bengals' triggermen.

Canadians Triumph

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, March 19 (AP)—Canadians captured both the men's and women's Harriman Cup Sunday. Ernie McCulloch, of Three Rivers, Que., took the men's cup with his second in the downhill Saturday and his tie for ninth in the slalom Sunday. The huge silver punch bowl for women went to Mrs. Rhoda Wurtele Eaves, of Montreal, who won the downhill Saturday and deadlocked for fourth place in the slalom Sunday. She already has clinched a berth on the 1952 Canadian Olympic team.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Michigan's relay team, sparked by lead-off man Al Rankin and anchor man Don McEwen of Ottawa, Saturday night at Chicago won the university two-mile relay race with a 15-yard victory over Purdue.

McEwen finished the team's effort at 7:49.4, considerably behind the Chicago record of 7:40.6. In the meet's 600-yard run, Jack Carrol of Montreal, a freshman at the University of Michigan, finished second.

Don Gehrmann, after three straight defeats, uncorked a blazing finish for a five-yard victory over his arch-rival, Fred Wilt, before 16,023 in the Bankers' mile of the Chicago relays at the Stadium Saturday night. Gehrmann's time in acquiring his fourth straight Bankers' title was a respectable 4:09.7.

John Marshall, 20, Yale's sensational Australian swimmer, sped to a record in the 440-yard free style Saturday night in the 11th annual individual championships of the Eastern Intercollegiate League at Cambridge, Mass.

His time of 4:31 shaved two-tenths of a second off his own world mark set last year and brought him within a second of the dream clocking at 4:30.

Now that Cincinnati is out of Calder Cup playoffs of the American Hockey League, three of its players have been ordered to report to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, coach King Clancy announced Sunday night.

Slated to check in with the Canadiens Wednesday are Gerry Plamandon, Bert Hirschfield and Paul Masnick, Montreal currently is in third place in the NHL.

Goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis will rejoin New York Rangers, who now are fighting for a berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Gananoque Clinches Eastern Crown

GANANOQUE, March 19 — Gananoque G-men clinched the Eastern Ontario championship of the OHA Intermediate "A" playdowns here last night. The Gans won, 7-4, to eliminate Bowmanville Imperials in three straight wins in the best-of-five series.

Gananoque played with only 10 men.

The 'Imps' gave the 500 fans cause for excitement as they outplayed the Gans in the first two periods. However, the G-men rallied and held the Imperials to a goalless third period, while they pumped in four goals.

Harper, McIntosh, Godwin, Jackson, Hastie, Anderson and Fair tallied Gananoque goals, while T. Lintner scored twice for Bowmanville.

Flopped In '49, Starred In '50, How Now Dropo?

By JACK HAND

SARASOTA, Fla., March 19 (AP).—Flop of 1949 . . . rookie of the year in 1950.

The dizzy spiral has left Boston's Walt Dropo unchanged.

"I'm just going to keep on doing the same things I did last year," he says. "And hope they drop in for me. All you can do is give it what you've got."

Success has built up the confidence of big Walt, a six-foot-five-inch 230-pounder. Now he knows his previous failure "probably was all for the best."

McCarthy Forecast

It was Joe McCarthy who first hung the 'Can't Miss' handle on Dropo.

"Take my word for it," said McCarthy in the spring of '48, "this kid is going to make it some day." As cautious McCarthy seldom went on the record about any rookie, that was high praise, indeed. Dropo spent the year at Louisville and Birmingham.

Two years ago Sarasota gushed with tall tales of Dropo, a modern-day Paul Bunyan. How his batting practice wallops gouged holes in the ball park walls.

Dropo was named McCarthy's regular first-baseman, but his shortcomings were evident. Hoping for Walt to find his stride. McCarthy opened the season with him on first. After 11 games Dropo was hitting only .146.

Broke Leg

"Go down and have that good year," advised McCarthy. Walt went to Sacramento where he hit .287 and broke a leg.

The low spot of Dropo's career came in January of 1950. General manager Joe Cronin told him he wouldn't even get his second chance with the Red Sox. He was sent to Louisville.

Secretly the Red Sox hoped he would force his early recall by a sensational batting surge. He didn't. Walt was hitting only .255 in 11 games at Louisville. Then Boston's Billy Goodman was injured. That was his big break.

Dropo went on a terrific hitting spree. A triple. Home run and single next day. Two home runs. Another, and soon he was among the leaders. When the all-star game arrived, the big fellow was voted starting first-baseman.

At the end of the season Dropo's average was .326. He led the league with 326 total bases and tied with Vern Stephens for the runs batted in lead with 144.

May Oppose Boost

WINDSOR, March 19—(CP)—The city administration may oppose the increase in tunnel fares, now being sought by the Detroit-Canada Tunnel Corporation, Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said Saturday. The Tunnel Company, in applications now before the Board of Transport Commissioners, Ottawa, and the Inter-State Commerce Commission, Washington, asks an increase "that would amount to about 50 per cent," the mayor said.

Warsaw Wins EPL Playoff By 6-2 Margin

WARSAW, March 19 (ENS)—Warsaw Flyers moved ahead in the best-of-five EPHL finals here by downing Hastings 6-2 before a fair-sized crowd. It was a good game on poor ice, the losers drawing five of the nine penalties. Petticrew scored from Oliver for Hastings in the first frame, as Sharpe evened it up on a pass from L. Lonsberry. The latter, Batten and Paterson counted next inning for the Flyers, an assist each going to L. Lonsberry, Sharpe, Clements and Dennis. Crowley scored the lone marker for the other side, Mueller aiding. Warsaw clinched it in the third, on goals by Smith and Clements, as Watts and S. Lonsberry each had an assist. Teams:

Hastings: Goal, McKenty; defence, Petticrew and Brown; centre, Crowley; wings, Oliver and Mueller; alternates, West, Lockhart, Stevenson, Thomas, Cobbledick, Greenley and O'Rourke.

Warsaw: Goal, B. Payne; defence, Eadie and G. Payne; centre, L. Lonsberry; wings, Paterson and Anderson; alternates, E. Payne, S. Lonsberry, Smith, Sharpe, Watts, Batten, Dennis and Clements.

Referees: Puffer and Garden.

Four Countries In U.N. Make Women Serve In Army

By A. I. GOLDBERG

LAKE SUCCESS, March 19 — (AP)— Four member countries of the United Nations have reported to a United Nations survey that they make military service compulsory for women as well as men.

They are Chile, Israel, Pakistan, and Turkey.

Russia made no answer as to whether women are either allowed or compelled to enter armed forces and on what terms; or whether they may be conscripted for forced labor.

These countries ban women from their armed forces: Belgium, Egypt, El Salvador, Guatemala, Luxembourg, Syria, Thailand and Uruguay.

The United States, Britain, Canada, The Philippines, France, The Netherlands, Bolivia, Czechoslovakia and Nationalist China are among those who permit women in the army but don't make it compulsory.

There are reservations on this. Most countries that allow women to serve in the armed forces restrict them to medical and nursing units. Some allow women soldiers—or sailors—to fill technical posts.

Wartime Measure

South Africa allows women to enter armed forces as a wartime measure only, but they cannot be employed on combatant duties unless they consent in writing.

Britain said its National Service Act of 1941 covers both sexes in time of war, both for military and civil duty. The latter means conscription of labor.

Thailand, Greece and Czechoslovakia are listed as allowing conscription of female labor in time of peace. Israel says it conscripts women "in time of emergency," in either peace or war.

The Netherlands reported it would conscript women for labor in time of war, or only after announcing a state of siege in peace time.

Sweden allows women to join military auxiliary services, but says it would also conscript women for military duty as doctors, dentists and nurses.

The Philippines says it would conscript women for armed services in time of emergency, or conscript them for labor in anticipation of a state of war.

Greece, Ceylon, India, and Pakistan do not allow women to serve on civil juries. Neither do the Australian provinces of Victoria, New South Wales, or Western Australia, nor can women serve in Australian Commonwealth cases.

In Canada, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Quebec and Saskatchewan specifically bar women from juries.

Husband Had Boils

"Thick Poultice of MECCA Brought Out Pus and Cores"

Completely Healed
No Sign of a Scar

Mrs. J. L. B., Toronto, writes:
"I want to tell you what Mecca means in our home. Three winters ago my husband had about twenty Boils on his neck, also a very bad abscess on his leg above the knee. I completely healed him with Mecca Ointment. Thick applications of Mecca brought out the core and pus, then I applied thinly to heal. Mecca relieved pain and congestion and healed completely, without the sign of a scar. My home is never without it, because I use it on all infections, bruises, burns, etc." Mecca Ointment is sold by all Druggists—35c 50c (Tube) 70c and $1.40.

Love Gets Boost In Japan For Marriage

By O. H. P. KING

TOKYO, March 19—(AP)—Love is becoming more popular in Japan as a reason for getting married.

This was disclosed recently in a preliminary report on a two-year study best described as a Japanese Kinsey report.

The study by the Japanese government's welfare ministry compares love life in the city and in the country, before and after the Second World War.

The survey questioned 1,500 persons and will be submitted to the population institute in Washington. Findings will be disclosed at a session of the Japanese Academy of Science in April.

Some general results shown in the preliminary report:

Marriages for love now comprise 31 per cent. of the total, compared with 14 per cent. before the war.

Ninety per cent. of the rural women want their mates to be chaste before marriage; 71 per cent. of city women feel the same.

Of the minority in the cities, 10 per cent. said that what men did before marriage was their own concern, unless they contracted disease. Some said they felt premarital experience would give husbands improved sex techniques valuable to wedlock.

Men's Views

Seventy per cent. of the men questioned voted for purity in the women they desired as wives. About 20 per cent. of the minority said they believed it was hopeless to find one without some sex experience.

Survey figures showed from 4.2 per cent. to 16.5 per cent. of urban married couples questioned practice birth control, compared with 3.4 to 4.8 per cent. in rural areas.

Brides go to the altar earlier in the cities—at an average of 22 years, eight months, compared with an average of 24 years, nine months, in rural areas.

British Women Vote Ideas Into Dream House

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Milady of Britain has built her dream house but the critics still aren't sure she's achieved the best possible result.

Newspaper women who inspected the model home at a London exhibition expressed all-round approval, but noted what they felt were minor flaws.

The dream house was built, decorated and furnished to embody the ideas of 400,000 British women, who submitted their suggestions by ballot to a women's organization. The result, now on view at the Daily Mail Ideal Homes Exhibition, is a building covering 1,000 square feet, designed to accommodate a young working-class family with three children.

New Wrinkles

It confirms to all the rules laid down for the building of such houses in Britain today. These are some of the newest wrinkles:

A covered way links the house to a laundry, coal shed, and tool shed. A combination living-dining room is separated from a scullery by a half-wall of cupboards which makes it easy for mother to prepare food and keep an eye on children at the table.

The chimney is centrally located to save as much heat as possible and linen cupboards are backed by a hot-water tank. Also with an eye to heating, windows on the north side of the house are small and high while those on the south are large and open fully.

Cupboards Too Deep

There are many cupboards, but some women visiting the exhibition came away with the impression that they are too deep for easy accessibility. Another complaint is that there is a small electric cooker in the scullery surrounded by wood—a bad advertisement in a house designed for maximum fire safety.

On the other hand, most women had a good word for the numerous built-in cupboards, the deep sink in the outside laundry and a washing machine with retractable legs that fits neatly under the sink.

Color schemes and furnishings are light—pale blue and cherry, green and grey, coral and white. Patchwork quilting and embroidery are the work of women's institutes.

Libraries Of Recorded Programs Document Contemporary Life

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Libraries of recorded programs —as distinct from libraries of records—have become an important asset to radio networks and one of the world's largest is that of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The BBC's first recording machine was installed in 1931 and experience showed that in addition to aiding the day-to-day program output, recording was destined to play a unique part in broadcasts of the future.

The present collection of some 20,000 BBC recordings is perhaps the most comprehensive and authentic sound documentation of contemporary life now available to the English-speaking world. As time goes on, its value increases.

Through its exchange system with other countries, not only British children but those in many lands in years to come will not only be able to read British history—they can hear it. They will hear the drone of planes, the crash of bombs, the thunder of the barrage of the blitz days.

Go Everywhere

The BBC has taken its recording equipment down coal-mines, on the foot-plates of express locomotives, in a diving-bell to the bed of the Thames River, in aircraft and submarines.

Outstanding events, famous speeches, celebrations and newsworthy happenings are not the whole library. The sound effects section has around 8,000 recorded sounds of all sorts. British experts say that when a script calls for tropical rain that's what you hear; not dried peas rattling in a tin can.

Invitation Declined

A famous Canadian chorus has regretfully declined an important invitation from the United States. The Don Wright Chorus of London, Ont., cannot get all its members away for the time needed to provide the choral effects at the American Passion Play to be held this summer at Spearfish, South Dakota.

The musical score is a new one written by Clarence Loomis, director of music of the New Mexico Highlands University, and Dr. Loomis extended a warm invitation to the Canadian chorus. The passion play however will run for eight or nine weeks during July and August, and the London chorus cannot spare the time.

Don Wright studied the score, which he calls "magnificent," but decided it could not be done properly by recording in London. The American version of the famous Oberammergau Passion Play is to be performed in a 30-acre open air amphitheatre and requires split-second timing between the action and music.

The Don Wright Chorus currently is achieving fame with the Westinghouse program over a network of 52 stations from London on Sunday evenings.

FASHIONS FOR MINERS

DONCASTER, England (CP)—It's the man who wears the panties—repeat panties—in North Midland mines. Coal-face workers used to wear male underpants—that's about all they did wear—but the pants are so expendable many miners turn up in panties borrowed from their wives.

Churches Plan Easter Mass

TORONTO, March 19 (CP) — Midnight Easter mass will be celebrated for the first time in many Roman Catholic churches across Canada next Saturday night.

An official announced Saturday that in Toronto archdiocese the new practice will be limited to St. Michael's Cathedral, see church of the archdiocese. He said the practice will probably be followed in most dioceses in Canada, but limited to the cathedral church. If the experimental change proves a success, he sees possibility of wider observance next Easter.

In churches holding the Easter midnight mass, there will be no mass on holy Saturday morning.

The revival of an ancient Roman Catholic practice follows a recent Vatican decree permitting transfer of the holy Saturday liturgy from morning to evening hours.

Traditionally, midnight mass is solemnized in Roman Catholic churches only at Christmas. A papal decree for the Holy Year permitted midnight mass on New Year's day in 1950 and 1951. Only a few churches followed the practice.

St. Paul's Club Entertains Operatic Cast

The Sunday School auditorium of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was attractively decorated Saturday evening when the Married Couples Club entertained the Canada Packers Operatic Society The Gondoliers, at a dinner prior to their evening's performance.

The head table was beautifully decorated with small crowns emblematic of the King of Bataria which contained the royal colors. Flowers on the head table were also in the same colors. Miniature gondolas were centrepieces for the tables and favors were miniature gondoliers.

Mr. Frank Montgomery, president of the Married Couples Club, welcomed the guests and asked Mr. Gordon S. Mathews to speak. Mr. Richard Curry, director of the group, spoke on behalf of the cast and thanked the members of the club for their hospitality.

Mrs. Christopher Gledhill and her committee were in charge of decorations. Dinner arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Sydney Jennings, social convener, and her committee, Mrs. Howard Perry and Mrs. Jack Morrow.

Serving at the dinner were: Mrs. Bus Whitton, Mrs. Greg Wilson, Mrs. Gordon Minty, Mrs. Dennis, Crowhurst, Mrs. H. Macdonald, Mrs. Jim Anderson, Mrs. Donald Flett, Mrs. J. Houghton, Mrs. L. Ross, Mrs. N. Mahood and Mrs. H. Perry.

Announce List Of Best Dressed

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—With the Easter parade just around the corner, the Fashion Academy today listed its selections as the best dressed American women for 1951.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, assistant defence secretary, tops the list. As the selection from public life, she replaces Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the vice-president.

Another newcomer to the list is Mrs. Vincent R. Impellitteri, wife of the present New York City mayor, who replaces Mrs. William O'Dwyer, wife of Gotham's former mayor and now ambassador to Mexico. Mrs. Impellitteri's award was as besa-groomed hostess.

Best of the screen actresses was Gene Tierney, who replaces Rosalind Russell.

Girl 20 Becomes First Eskimo Nun

MONTREAL, March 17—(CP)—Canada Saturday had her first Eskimo Nun—Sister Naya Pelagie, 20-year-old Eskimo girl who has entered the Grey Nun order.

Taking of her religious vows culminated a long, uphill struggle in a region where not so long ago the Nomadic Eskimo was still living in the stone age.

The ceremony took place recently at Chesterfield inlet, on the western shores of Hudson Bay, some 225 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

Attending the simple but colorful religious ceremony was Msgr. Marc Lacroix, Order of Mary Imaculate, Roman Catholic bishop of Hudson Bay, a number of sisters from the hospital at Chesterfield Inlet, operated by the Grey Nun Order, several missionaries and Eskimos who have embraced the Catholic faith.

Problems of Past

Sister Pelagie—her first name, Naya, means sister in the Eskimo dialect—had to cope with problems of the past as well as those of the present before attaining her goal.

Not so long ago, the various Eskimo tribes lived in the deepest ignorance of civilization and religion. Sorcery and superstition, thefts and murders were frequent.

Sister Pelagie's father, before being converted to Roman Catholicism, practised sorcery.

Her early life was the same as that of other Eskimo children. In her first two years she was carried around on her mother's back, papoose-style, lived in an igloo in the winter and a tent in the summer.

Colorful Village Nerve Centre Of Range Country

ALEXIS CREEK, B.C. —(CP)—This cattle town of 274 persons is the nerve centre of the Chilcotin country, 23,000 square miles of rangeland in the foothills of the coast range, some 250 miles due north of Vancouver.

RCMP Constale Bob Turnball patrols his big beat—but not on horseback. He uses a heavy duty truck.

Duke Martin, a rancher who has been in the Chilcotin more than 40 years, owns 1,400 head of cattle. He's one of the largest independent cattle operators in BC.

Two former Vancouver night club entertainers, Sammy and Irene Borrowman, run the small Chilcotin Hotel.

This small settlement has the only hospital in the Chilcotin, a Red Cross outpost opened a year ago. The original hospital had been given to the community by Alex Graham, founder of the village and the man who opened up the Chilcotin country more than half a century ago.

Alexis Creek, however, is not named after Alex Graham, but after Alexei, famed Indian chief of the Chilcotin tribe.

Less than a year ago, a new school was built to replace the log shack. Herbert Dayton, the teacher, has 13 pupils, spread from every grade from one to eight.

Two General Stores

There are to general stores, one run by Mrs. R. K. Lee and her son, Tom. The family operated a store at 150-Mile House in the Cariboo in the gold rush days.

Ed Pigeon, who once left the village to hunt and was back in 15 minutes with a deer, runs the other store.

Upstairs in Pigeon's store, they have a movie Saturday night. About 70 persons show up, 80 per cent of them Indians. The Indians ride as far as nine miles from the Anahim reservation to see the Saturday night pictures.

"The Indians sure love cowboy pictures and if there is no wild west picture they just won't come," says Mrs. Cliff Carlton, who works in Pigeon's store.

Mr. Carlton, who during the winter is district manager for a Christmas tree cutting firm, is also the local magistrate.

Johnny Dodd is one of the many cowboys who work on the cattle ranches. He has a two-room log cabin near the village. It was there he brought his bride from Nottingham, England, when he returned from five years' service in Europe.

Except for those five years, Dodd has never left the Chilcotin country.

Winter has closed over Alexis Creek now and ranchers are out with sleds feeding their cattle.

Irish Tea Held By YWCA Club

The Little Women's Club held a St. Patrick's Tea in the Green Room of the YWCA Saturday afternoon.

Decorations carried out the St. Patrick's theme with special cloths on the individual tea tables and white and green aprons made by the members of the club.

Miss Dorothy Rowan, president, and Mrs. C. K. Hurst, chairman of the YWCA program committee, received. Miss Lynn Davidson was in charge of the tea room.

The four booths, greeting card, home cooking, handicraft and white elephant, were in charge of

Woman 86 Still Wows 'Em With Fiddling At Dances

DUTTON Ont., (CP).—Eighty years of fiddle-playing lie behind the showmanship of Mrs. John McPherson, 86-year-old entertainer and resident of this district about 30 miles southwest of London.

Despite her age, Mrs. McPherson is still tops as a performer at square dances, garden parties and concerts and she still "wows 'em." Feet in the audience start to tap when she fiddles, plays ragtime on the piano or sings one of her comic songs.

Recently Mrs. McPherson was the oldest contestant in the old-time fiddling contest at the Middlesex seed fair at London—and she was slightly annoyed because she placed only fourth. Last January she was star attraction at the "Hayloft Jamboree" in Alvinston, Ont., where she won a blue ribbon and cash prize as the most popular contestant in the competition. She was named top performer at a recent competition at West Lorne, too.

Mrs. McPherson once played the fiddle in competition at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and believes that the judges had something against women fiddlers because she didn't place. She was 82 at the time.

In Old Tradition

As a performer in the old tradition, Mrs. McPherson is seldom "at liberty"—the theatrical equivalent for "out of work." One of her annual engagements is the grandmothers' day meeting of the Women's Institute, near Glencoe, Ont. One year she got there and the river flooded. She didn't get home for a week.

Mrs. McPherson received her first instruction in music at the age of six from her mother, who was a school teacher and an accomplished musician. She, herself, has passed her knowledge of music down to her own children. One of her daughters plays the piano and another daughter plays both the piano and the violin. A son, David, sings and plays the fiddle. Under the leadership of their mother, these three formed the McPherson orchestra which at one time provided music for many events in the Dutton district.

Single Act Now

Mrs. McPherson performs alone now, playing and singing everything from a jazzy piano version of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" to a song dealing with the hazards of eating "Miss Fogarty's Cake." She can put across a song with the best of them in an energetic half-singing, half-talking style, complete with gestures, and plays her own accompaniment on the piano.

Mrs. McPherson has lived in a trim frame farmhouse near Dutton since her marriage in 1888. Her husband died in 1941. She fondly remembers the "good old days" around Dutton and proudly points to a wedding picture taken when she was wearing a bustle-back gown of blue silk with panels of gold beads. She looks a bit ruefully at the picture, though.

"That," she says, "was when the bloom was on the peach."

Crippled Woman TeachesBagpiping

GLASGOW (CP). — Bessie Brown of Banchery is probably the only woman in Scotland who teaches the bagpipes. A lifelong sufferer from paralysis, she conducts her lessons from a wheelchair and every Friday for the last three years she has gone to the local drillhall to teach a class of boys and girls.

Bessie learned the bagpipes as a girl of 14 and piping has been her hobby ever since, for 30 years. Her brother is one of the King's pipers at Balmoral, the royal residence in Scotland.

Cuts Nylons Up To Stop Resale

HEANOR, England (CP). — Cutting the tops and toes off nylon stockings to prevent women buying them is just part of the job for 18-year-old Jean Taylor.

Jean is a mender in a nylon factory in this Derbyshire town, and she has to mutilate all faulty stockings that are not worthy of repairing.

"If we just threw them out," said assistant manager Tom Whitby, "they would end up on London's Oxford Street in the hands of a 'spiv' trader and sell for $3 a pair with the holes not even mended."

Women are "mugs over nylons," he added.

The mutilated nylons are finally reprocessed for use in making nylon ropes and fishing nets.

St. John's Choir Presents Passion Music

The Passion According to St. Mark, directed by Mr. Fred G. Mann was presented at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

The solo parts were taken by the following: Evangelist, Victor Coleman (tenor); Jesus, Jim Wood (bass); bass soloist Leslie Dyer; soprano soloist, Mrs. Don Landry; male quartet, Victor Coleman, John Hooper, Roy Pitchford, L. Dyer; ladies quartet, Mrs. Don Landry, Miss June Kilborn, Mrs. C. Kilborn, and Miss Ruby Quartermaine.

One of the outstanding features of the presentation was the singing of the soprano part in the choruses by boys.

Easter Pageant Persented By A Cast of 50

The Easter Pageant was presented by a cast of 50 to a capacity audience in George St. United Church Sunday evening.

Effective lighting and costumes heightened the impressiveness of the five scenes in the pageant. The intermediate and senior choirs under the direction of Charles Allen sang anthems between the scenes.

Readers for the pageant were Mrs. F. Hucks and Mr. Charles Forsyth. Taking part were members of the following church groups: Star Young Women's Class, Young People's Supper Club, Young People's Union, Mr. Ivan Drain's older boy's Sunday School class. CGIT, Wolf Cubs, Mission Band.

Miss Betty Mather took the part of the angel. Jack King played Peter and the maid in Pilot's court was played by Miss Margaret Forsyth. The women waiting at the tomb were Miss Gladys Walker, Miss Dorothy Robertson, Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Davidson.

The pageant was directed by Mrs. A. A. Mathews, assisted by Miss Jean Hammond, Miss May Thomson and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wasson.

In step with growing needs...

NEW INDUSTRIES, new communities, new sources of oil and iron and power . . . Canada moves on with amazing strides.

And with this expansion come added calls for every form of banking service. Your chartered banks have moved ahead in step with these growing requirements. That is why it now takes 45,000 men and women to do the banking of Canadians — almost double the number of ten years ago. That is why there are now 3,700 branches to serve the expanded needs.

Wherever initiative and growth demand it, banking is there — claiming your continued confidence.

a Little buys a Lot of telephone service

EVERY DAY we receive hundreds of requests for service. Its cost hasn't gone up as much as most other things you buy; in fact, your telephone bill now takes a smaller part of the family budget than it did five years ago.

With more and more families getting telephones, you can now talk to twice as many people. And so, in that way alone, you get a lot more telephone service for your money.

At the same time, the quality of telephone service keeps steadily improving in many ways, and, as always, telephone people try to be helpful and friendly.

Any way you look at it, today's telephone is big value!

If you haven't yet got service:

You can be sure your neighbourhood will be served, and your place on the list protected. Taking care of people without service as quickly as possible is one of our biggest and most important tasks.

Roseneath YP Presents 3-Act Play

ROSENEATH, March 19 (ENS) —A three-act comedy, "The Road Back," was presented by the Roseneath YPU on Friday evening in the LOL hall under the direction of Mrs. Earl Waldie.

Mrs. Harold Mouncey as the mother showed by far the greatest confidence in her role and was able to master every situation capably. She made the most of the humor in her role.

George Linton was another outstanding character in the play playing the part of the light-fingered son and black sheep of the family.

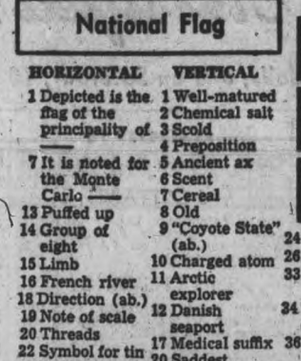
As a whole,t he play was entertaining with each of the players grapsing their roles nicely.

The cast was as follows: Ma Fowler, Mrs. Harold Mouncey; Pa Fowler, Neil Adams; Milly Fowler, Lillian Howes; Jennie Fowler, Roma Braithwaite; George Fowler, George Linton; Blake Chester, Grant Waldie; Arthur McCleod, Joe Davidson; Mrs. Blinders, Shirley Rosebush; Mrs. Chester, Doreen Nichol; Uncle Ben Fowler, Neil O'Connell; Mr. Harrison, Bruce Davidson.

Musical entertainment for the evening was provided by the cast, singing "Galway Bay," "My Wild Irish Rose," and "So Long"; Mrs. Harold Mouncey and Neil Adams contributed a vocal duet, "It's No Secret."

Neil O'Connell and Neil Adams sang "Mocking Bird Hill" and a girls' chorus sang "The Easter Parade." A boys' chorus sang "The Little White Duck."

Piano accompanist for the evening was Mrs. C. W. Varcoe.



Canadian Painting Brings Top Price

LONDON, March 19 (CP)— A century-old Canadian picture brought top price yesterday at a sale in Christie's auction rooms.

Painted in 1856 by C. Kreighoff of Quebec, the picture shows a frozen river scene in Lower Canada. It brought 480 guineas (about $1,500).

Kreighoff's paintings have recently been in demand. A high price was paid last month for two pictures by the same artist.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DOROTHY DIX

Woman With Right Instincts Can Raise Step-Children

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow, 34 years old, financially independent, with a good job and no children. I am settled in my ways, good-natured and very fond of children. An old friend of school days, a widower of 38, has asked me to marry him. He has a nice home and a good business in a small town, and two children, 7 and 6 years old. We are just as romantically in love with each other as if we were boy and girl, but if we marry do you think there will be any chance of happiness for us, or would his children forever stand in our way? I feel that I could very easily fit into their lives, but my friends tell me that I would be making the mistake of my life to give up a good job to be a stepmother. What do you say? HELEN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think, on the contrary, that you would be throwing away a great chance for happiness by refusing to marry this man and mother his children. Certainly it is a fine thing for a woman to have a job and be self-supporting as you are, but it is a better thing for her to have a home of her own and a man and children to love and care for and make comfortable, instead of just working for herself.

Teen-Agers Difficult

I grant you that the problem of being stepmother is one to make even the boldest stop and think, and in a case where the children are in the early teens, when all youngsters are hard to manage, I should think that none but the foolhardy would tackle the undertaking. But your case is different. Here the children are young enough to be pliable, and helpless enough to want a mother to love them and pet them and guide them, and it will be easy for you to win their little hearts and take a real mother's place in their lives.

We hear a lot about cruel stepmothers, but where there is one mean stepmother there are thousands of good stepmothers, unselfish women who are real mothers to motherless little children, who work and sacrifice for them and whose stepchildren rise up and call them blessed.

As for these two children coming between you and your husband and making trouble, that is in your hands. If you are jealous of them and neglectful of them, and if you make their little lives unhappy, you will alienate your husband from you if he has any decency in him. But if you are good and kind to the children and are a real mother to them, you will draw him closer to you by every tie of appreciation and gratitude and admiration. The women who adopt children love them as their own. I have never been able to see why a stepmother should not be able to feel the same way about her stepchildren.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: When I was 15 years old I used to go with some boys and girls. Like all the other youngsters, we did a little kissing and necking. Nothing more, and the kisses were really children's kisses that meant nothing. My husband knew all about this at the time of our marriage, but he seems to have gone crazily jealous over it. He keeps bringing it us; reproaching me with it and telling me that he can never be happy with me on account of it. I know he loves me and that is why he feels so badly about this.

BROKEN-HEARTED BRIDE

ANSWER: Your husband must be the great original trouble-hunter if he can get all hot and bothered and pea-green with jealousy over your having kissed a boy when you were 15. It sounds as if he were very young and very silly and had no knowledge whatever of modern society.

But you are dealing with your problem from the wrong angle. You are taking your husband seriously and believing all he says. Laugh at him. Ridicule him. Make him see what a fool he is making of himself by making a mountain out of a molehill. And dig up his past and find some girl that he has kissed and throw her in his face.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married twenty-five years and have worked the entire time. My husband has never had a regular income. He has been one of those who is always about to make a million and never makes the rent money. Now I have reached the point where I am tired and discouraged and hopeless. I have kept up the spirit of the family until I am now too weary to care much, but my husband insists that I do not give him enough encouragement. Don't you think I have done my share? And what can be done with a man like him? WEARY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It seems to me that a woman who has supported her husband for twenty-five years has about done her part and should not be expected to keep his ego inflated in addition. A common alibi for failure among husbands is that their wives do not believe in them, but it takes more optimism than most women possess to have faith in a man who never makes good in anything.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Danish Pastry With Egg But No Yeast

It so happened that when a letter came from Mrs. R. J. H. requesting a recipe for Danish Pastry I was typing a column containing a recipe for Butterhorns made with Danish pastry. I hope Mrs. R. J. H. saw that.

Today I am giving another Danish pastry recipe made with egg, but without yeast this time.

✧ ✧ ✧

Danish Raisin Pastries

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon milk, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans, 3 tablespoons sugar. Mix and sift the flour and salt, cut in ½ cup shortening with a knife or pastry blender. Beat the egg and milk together to hold the mixture together. Turn out on slightly floured board, roll out thin and spread with the 3 tablespoons softened shortening. Cut in 4-inch squares and sprinkle each with raisins, nuts and sugar. Roll each up like a jelly roll and press edge together. Place on baking pan, cover with clean, slightly damp cloth and chill 3 hours. Brush tops with yolk of 1 egg mixed with 2 tablespoons milk and 2 teaspoons sugar. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. These are best served hot. On second day they may be slowly reheated in warming oven to serve.

✧ ✧ ✧

I gave you the detailed method for making hot cross buns a couple of weeks ago, but for those who may have missed that or may have mislaid it, here is a repetition—for now it the time.

Hot Cross Buns

Put in a measuring cup 1 teaspoon sugar, one-half cup lukewarm water, 1 envelope of granulated yeast (or crumbled yeast cake) and let stand 10 minutes, then stir it.

Meanwhile sift into large bowl: 4 cups sifted bread flour, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon allspice. Mix together then add to the flour mixture ¾ cup clean dry raisins, and ¼ cup mixed peel. Make a well in centre of this dry mixture and add the following mixture: the yeast mixture, and additional ¾ cup lukewarm water, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons soft shortening or oil, 1 beaten egg. Mix this down through the flour until dough is blended. Brush top of dough with oil, cover, and let rise in warm place but not beside a register or hot stove, until doubled in bulk.

Cut down and shape into buns about 2½ inches in diameter. Put to rise, covered, until double in bulk. Cut a cross at centre top with scissors or very sharp knife. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr.

If desired a glaze of 1 tablespoon each cream or milk and sugar may be brushed over top just five minutes before they are finished. When baked and cold emphasize the cross in the top by outlining it with butter icing.

2 Young Couples Given Showers

BRIDGENORTH, March 19 — (ENS) — Double honors were meted out Friday evening in the Foresters' Hall at Bridgenorth when a very large number of friends attended a community shower for the last two young married couples, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Forsythe and Mr. and Mrs. Glen English.

Community singing opened the program led by the Rev. D. P. Morris and he also extended sincere greetings to the two happy couples. A beautiful chest of silver was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe from the community. Mrs. Don Robinson read the presentation address. Many miscellaneous gifts were given to Mr. and Mrs. English and the address in rhyme was read by Mrs. E. Blewett.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson, and the Ray family, all of Bridgenorth. Round and square dancing completed the evening's program with Bill McDougall calling for the squares. Refreshments were served to the large number present.

Given 4 Months For Fighting On George St.

Menzies McLaren, 100 Hunter St., admitted he was causing a disturbance by fighting but denied he was drunk. However Magistrate W. R. Philp KC, said, "There's no doubt in my opinion that you were drunk."

McLaren was sentenced to four months in the Ontario Refermatory. It was his third offence within a year of being drunk. On the charge of causing a disturbance, he was fined $10 and costs.

Constable Edward Patterson testified that the night of March 9, he came upon McLaren fighting with Robert Currie on George St.

Refused to Stop

He had trouble in separating the fighters because McLaren refused to stop fighting. He started toward the police station and had to hang on to McLaren to help him. He said McLaren staggered, smelled strongly of some sort of alcoholic drink, his speech was thick and he was drunk.

He took the two men into a cigar store and asked the proprietor to phone the police station. He let go of Currie who went and phoned from the booth. While his attention was diverted, McLaren started fighting with Currie again.

A stand of soft drinks was upset and a show case pushed back against a wall in the fight.

McLaren asked the constable how he could be staggering so much he had to be helped one minute and fighting the next.

"Lots of drunken men can fight," was the reply.

"You were hanging on to me to prevent me trying to get away, weren't you?" the accused asked.

Constable Patterson said, "That was part of it."

McLaren argued that he could not have been drunk if he knew enough to try to get away from the officer.

Constable Douglas Stark said when he arrived with Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen in the police cruiser, Constable Patterson was holding McLaren up against the wall of a building.

"The accused appeared to be in a fighting, drunken mood," he said.

He added McLaren had to be dragged across the street to the cruiser. McLaren asked if he had not struck his head on the fender of the cruiser and was dazed by the blow. The constable said he knew nothing about that.

Sergeant McGillen said he had known McLaren for about 10 years. He said the man was drunk and in a boisterous mood, using abusive language and had to be held to be searched and then put in a cage in the police cell.

Stopped For Sandwich Costs Drunk $10

A stop-off for a sandwich by a man who was driving his drunk friend proved the undoing of the drunk Sunday night.

John Kay, 201 Hunter St., pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk, but said I was being driven home and the gentleman stopped to have a sandwich."

During the wait, Kay was picked up for being drunk. He was fined $10 and costs in police court today.

James Smith, RR 9, Peterborough, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and was fined $10 and costs.

Lorne Weaver, 490 Elm St., pleaded guilty to drinking liquor while on the interdicted list and paid a fine of $10.

Heading For Draw

CHRISTCHURCH, NZ, March 19 — (Reuters). — New Zealand today completed a stolid first innings of 417 runs for eight wickets declared against England, then got rid of England's threat No. 1, Len Hutton, in the second day's play in the first England-New Zealand test match. England's score was 63 runs for one wicket, and it appeared that New Zealand's slow progress had set the match on the road towards a draw in the remaining two days' play.

TANKER BLASTED—Firemen in Naples, Italy, fight the flames aboard the shattered 10,000-ton Italian tanker Montallegro, after an explosion tore the vessel into two flaming parts. Prof. A. Baker Heads Naturalists

KINGSTON, March 19 (CP)—Prof. A. W. Baker of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was elected president of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists at the 19th annual meeting during the week-end. He succeeds Dr. W. Sherwood Fox of London, Ont.

Other executive officers elected: C. A. Walkinshaw, of Toronto, chairman of the board of directors; F. C. Hurst, Toronto, treasurer; R. O. Elstone, Hamilton, membership secretary; Prof. T. F. McIlwraith, Toronto, recording secretary and Prof. J. R. Dymond, also of Toronto, executive secretary.

Greetings were extended to the delegates by Kenneth Clark, president of the Federation of Ontario Hunters and Anglers, who said that naturalists had seen "too much beauty disappear" and urged that the groups work together for the mutual benefit of all.

New Zealanders To Get 15 Per Cent Wage Boost

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealanders on higher wage levels have been granted the largest wage increase ever awarded at one time, but the rise has brought many new problems for the government.

Labor organizations are threatening protest action on the ground that the increase is not enough and the government is being reluctantly forced to return to price controls and subsidies to keep down living costs.

The increase granted by the Arbitration Board, which controls minimum rates of pay in most occupations throughout the country, amounted to three shillings in the pound, or 15 per cent. Thus a worker earning the equivalent of $20 a week wil get a $3 increase, while one on $30 a week, will get an extra $4.50. The court had previously granted an interim increase of slightly over $1, and this will be included in the new pearmanent increases.

Turned Down

Labor organizations had asked for flat-rate increases ranging from $9 to $11 a week. The court refused to give increases on this scale and also rejected the principle of a flat rate increase. It held that margins for skill had already contracted too much in recent years and unless the workers on higher pay got a large rise the margin would fall still further.

The court in making its order warned about the dangerous effects of "vicious world-wife inflationary pressures," but said it thought that in justice and equity all workers should share in the country's "interim prosperity."

Labor Disappointed

Labor organizations—the Federation of Labor, Central Trade Union body, and the Trades Union Congress, a breakaway left-wing body which made much higher claims—have both expressed disappointment at the amount of the increase and are considering what action should be taken. Individual trade unions have also called meetings to consider protest action.

Meanwhile the government has taken prompt action to check undue cost of living increases as a result of the new wage rates. Retail prices of butter, milk, bread and flour are being held at present levels by increased subsidies. The government had hoped to abolish subsidies gradually, but pressure of events has forced it to increase subsidy rates in several cases recently.

It has also been forced to give warning that price control, which was gradually being abandoned, may have to be restored to a wider range of goods. Some commodities are still subject to control and in most cases increases in prices will be permitted amounting to three-quarters of the added labor cost. Industry will be expected to bear the remaining quarter.

In the case of the large number of commodities which had been freed from price control, a close check will be kept, and if there is any sign of the increased wages cost being overrecovered, or if the wage rates are inflated by competitive bidding for labor, the government will bring the commodities concerned again under direct price control.

Jail Compounds Holding Many Reds In Malay State

By LIONEL HUDSON

IPOH, Malaya (Reuters). — From their mountain retreats in North Malaya guerrillas can look down on camps where Communist suspects and surrendered terrorists are housed by the government.

At Ipoh the detainees stare, sullen and expressionless, at European visitors. Here the camp has 3,500 inmates, largest of seven similar institutions dotted around the country. Its prisoners include surrendered terrorists, former police informers who do not feel safe on the "outside," Chinese who were caught aiding the Communists and persons suspected of helping the terrorists.

A different camp at Taiping however is an experiment which authorities believe is proceeding serenely. There the "prisoners" are carefully screened males who were merely under the influence of the terrorists and are enrolled for a period of rehabilitation.

There is a generally contented atmosphere around the Taiping camp where inmates work at vocational trades and schooling, enjoy sports, see films three times a week and have a cigarette ration.

Full of Reds

A severe atmosphere surrounds the big camp at Ipoh. Officials admit that some of the prisoners were perhaps innocent of any crime when they were picked up. But the anti-terrorist efforts of the military and police, who have been battling the Communist guerrillas for years, would be crippled if each individual case was subject to lengthy trial.

The trouble at Ipoh is that anyone who was an "innocent bystander when he entered the camp now is probably a confirmed Communist. Authorities at Ipoh have little doubt that there is a Communist cell in every compound.

There is growing pressure in high quarters to have the detention camp system scrapped, but the difficulty is to find a satisfactory alternative.

According to the law, these detainees cannot be forced to work. They are allowed a certain amount of sport. Police say the diet of rice, vegetables, pork and fish is satisfactory, but no cigarettes are issued.

Whisper of Freedom

The camp "intelligence" has learned that the Communist-inspired whisper among the inmates is that if they are deported to China they will be able to return with a "Malayan Liberation Regiment" of the Chinese Red Army.

The Malayan Government used two chartered ships a month to transport emergency detainees and their families back to South China. Deportations are slowly reducing the backlog of undesirables in the crowded camps, but it is a costly business.

Meanwhile the Taiping experiment goes smoothly. The guards there are mainly to keep guerrillas out. The Taiping camp director attempts to instal a sense of civic mindedness into his charges but believes it is useless to try to discipline them.

There is no obvious appeal to patriotism with the Malayan Chinese, he says. The only appeal is one to their common sense.

Slemon To Address Services Institute

Air Vice-Marshall C. R. Slemon, CB, CBE, CD, air officer commanding training command, RCAF, Trenton, will speak to the United Services Institute tonight at the armouries. After his address on "Know Your RCAF" refreshments will be served in the officers' mess.

Mr. Slemon has served 29 years with the RCAF and is a graduate of the University of Manitoba in engineering. For two and a half years of the World War Two he was second in command of Canada's famed No. 6 Bomber Group overseas and for the last few months of the war rose to be deputy air officer commanding-in-chief of the RCAF overseas.

Since the war he has served four years as a member of the air council of Canada in Ottawa and is now the air officer commanding of the training command of the RCAF which extends over Eastern Canada. His headquarters are at Trenton.

Besides the CB, CBE and the CD, his decorations include the French Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre and the United States Legion of Merit.

Strict security regulations will prevail at tonight's meeting.

Award Father And Son $695 In Damage Suit

A total of $695.50 has been awarded Frank Joseph Banville and his two-and-a-half-year-old son Jackie as a result of injuries received by the boy when struck by a car August 28, 1949, driven by John Monahan, Holloway Drive.

The accident took place on Highway 7, one and a half miles west of Fowler's Corners. Now residents of Belleville, the Banvilles were then living at R.R. 2 Peterborough. They were waiting for a bus by the side of the highway when the boy was struck by the rear end of Monahan's slewing car.

Mr. Banville said he was about six feet from the edge of the paved surface and that Jackie was slightly nearer the highway.

Judge S. L. Smoke ruled that the car went off onto the soft shoulder of the road and struck the boy.

Damages awarded the father, including hospital and medical bills, were assessed at $395.50, and he was also awarded costs of the action. Damages for the boy's pain and suffering were $300.

Sailor Stabbed

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP)—A 19-year-old sailor was stabbed to death early Sunday after 12 to 15 youths crashed into a house party and started a fight, police said. The victim was Gerald Allen Wilson of Mission, Kas. Two other youths were wounded. Police are holding 10 youths for questioning.

Obituary

MRS. DAVID RICE

Visiting in Detroit, Mrs. Mary Rice, 77, of 438 Mark St., died suddenly on Sunday. She was a lifetime resident of Peterborough and was the widow of David Rice.

She was born in Douro, daughter of the late Daniel Fitzpatrick and Ellen Sweeney, and was a member of Immaculate Conception church.

Mrs. Rice leaves one son, Joseph of Detroit, two sisters, Mrs. Fwortz, of Milwaukee, Mrs. Robert Jury, of Detroit and one brother, Fred Fitzpatrick of Chicago.

Requiem mass will be said Wednesday at 9 a.m. in Immaculate Conception church, and burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery. The body is resting at 438 Mark St. until 8.50 a.m. Wednesday.

Driver "Drunk" Gets Seven Days

Pleading guilty to a charge of drunk driving, William Morgan, 315½ Murray St., in police court today was sentenced to seven days in jail and his car was impounded for three months.

Constable Douglas Stark said that as he was patrolling King St. about 10:20 p.m. Friday, he noticed Morgan's car coming along the street at a high rate of speed.

He went to step out into the road to stop, but he was too late. About opposite him the car hit a parked car and then went on about half a block before stopping.

He walked up to the car and "as soon as the accused saw me, he started to fight." The constable said Morgan staggered as he walked, smelled strongly of alcohol and had to be helped to walk. He believed he was drunk.

Morgan said he was driving along and felt a bump, but was not sure whether he had hit a hole in the road or had hit the parked car.

He asked the constable whether the constable didn't march him up the road with his hand on his shoulder and wouldn't let him walk by himself. The officer agreed and that every time he took his hand off Morgan's shoulder, the accused started to swing at him.

Ex-Policeman's Wife Dies From Injuries

TORONTO, March 19 (CP)—Mrs. William Gregory, 51, wife of a 58-year-old retired Toronto police sergeant, died early today of injuries suffered Sunday night when she and her husband were struck by an automobile.

Sgt. Gregory suffered a broken leg and other injuries. His condition today was described as "fair."

Charles Morris of Todmorden, Ont., has been charged with manslaughter, dangerous driving and careless driving.

Junior Titles Captured By Bowmanville

Bowmanville made a clean sweep of badminton titles for 1951 in the Central Ontario junior championship tournament held in the Market Hall here Saturday evening. With 66 entries from Trenton, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Peterborough in the five competitions, Bowmanville players not only were winners in each final round but were also runners-up.

Joan Varcoe of that town took the ladies' singles crown over C. Hutchinson of Bowmanville, and J. Wannacott and J. Varcoe swept the ladies' doubles from J. Hutchinson and C. Hutchinson. The mixed doubles went to J. Varcoe and D. Sleep against J. Wannacott and I. Woolley of Bowmanville. Sleep and Woolley are men's doubles champions after defeating Allen and Masters in finals, another Bowmanville pair. I. Woolley downed D. Sleep for the men's singles title.

Australia's Parliament Formally Dissolved

SYDNEY, March 19—(AP)—Australia's 19th Parliament was formally dissolved today, less than half way through its three-year term. A general election will be held April 28.

Governor-General William J. McKell signed the proclamation in Canberra. Saturday he had granted Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies' request to dissolve both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Menzies' coalition Liberal and Country party government had held a majority in the House since the general election in December, 1949. The Labor opposition, however, controlled the Senate.

The government claimed that the Labor-dominated Senate frustrated its Legislative plans.

Canada, India Together Aid Peace–Rau

OTTAWA, March 19 (CP). — Canada and India, working together, can do much for the peace of the world, Sir Benegal Rau said Saturday.

"I believe that in this difficult world no two countries are as close to each other in general outlook and attitude as Canada and India," he said in an address to the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada.

In his address, dealing with sections of Canada's constitution which had been woven into India's new constitution, he referred to India's decision to stay within the Commonwealth and said the "position can be adequately defended."

"The Commonwealth was never stronger than it is today."

Sees Her Duty

India would have liked to avoid "getting entangled in international disputes." But as a member of the United Nations and the security council she had a duty to perform.

"We have done our best," he said. "We do not claim infallibility; the verdict belongs to history."

Sir Benegal arrived Friday on an informal visit at the invitation of the Professional Institute. While here he talked with External Affairs Minister Pearson with whom he served on the unsuccessful Korea ceasefire committee of the United Nations.

During a press conference Saturday, Sir Benegal said it was his personal view that the present military situation in Korea might present an opportunity for peace approaches by either side. The Chinese Communists "are friendly so far as we are concerned," he said, and India was anxious to do what she could to bring about a Korean peace settlement.

But India, not a member of the UN's Good Offices Committee, could not take the initiative. There must first be some kind of basic suggestions either from Peiping or from the Good Offices Committee.

Dealing with Kashmir, the now-disputed state of which he once was prime minister, Sir Benegal said he believed a plebiscite would show a vote in favor of joining India. He charged that Pakistan had created "hurdle after hurdle" in the way of reaching a settlement on Kashmir and declared the problem in the disputed state was not simply a Hindu-Moslem religious tangle.

The 3,000,000 Moslems in Kashmir itself were divided as to which country Kashmir should join.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED— Lt.-Col. J. R. (Big Jim) Stone, commander of the 2nd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I., in Korea, reports to Brig. Basil Coad, centre, commander of the British 27th Brigade, after a successful attack by the Canadians. With a map board propped on the back of a jeep, they discuss plans for a fresh assault agains the Communists.

Mrs. Emma Judge Buried At Madoc

MARMORA, March 19 (ENS)— The funeral of Mrs. Emma Judge took place at Madoc on Saturday. Requiem mass was celebrated at the Sacred Heart of Mary Church by the Rev. F. D. Hyland. Burial took place in Sacred Heart cemetery.

Mrs. Judge died at her home in Kingston on Thursday following an illness of 18 months.

In her 73rd year, she was a daughter of the late William and Emma Pearce and was born in Redwith, Cornwall, England. She came with her parents to the United States when a young girl and at the age of 15 moved with them to Canada. Her father eventually came to Deloro as blacksmith for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited. She was married to Joseph Judge, who died in 1948.

In their earlier years, when Mr. Judge was a diamond driller, he and his wife visited South Africa and Australia in connection with his appointments. In 1948 the Judges left Deloro for Madoc to live in retirement but shortly afterwards Mr. Judge died. Later Mrs. Judge moved to Kingston to reside with her niece. Mrs. Donald Jamieson. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alice Harper, Port Huron, Mich., and Mrs. Pierre Murphy, Deloro.

St. Patrick's Party Held At Springville

SPRINGVILLE, March 19 — (ENS)—The basement of Springville United Church was decorated with white and paddy-green streamers for a St. Patrick's day party Friday evening when the local group of young people entertained the Young People's Union of Fairview church

In an impromptu debate "Resolved that the Irish have done more for the world than the Scottish," many humorous stories were told. Harley Cathcart and Betty Allen supported the affirmative, while Elda Wolsin and Howard Johnston ably upheld the negative. The Rev. E. S. Linstead, Marilyn Bowles and Hazel McIntosh were judges and decided the Irish side won.

A bubble-blowing contest with old-fashioned white clay pipes was won by Catherine Earle.

Other games, also arranged by Myrna Seymour and Eleanor Bowles, completed the recreation program.

Margaret Earle and her committee served refreshments.

Prior to the social part of the evening, Hazel McIntosh, president of the Springville YPU welcomed the guests and Elda Wilson, Betty Allen and Glenn Fowler conducted a service of worship and song.

Ex-Lumberman, Robert McFall Buried Saturday

MARMORA, March 19 (ENS)— The funeral of Robert McFall took place on Saturday afternoon from the home of his son, Eddie, west of Crowe River to St. Paul's Anglican Church where service was conducted by Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie. Burial took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery, the pallbearers being Albert Leonard, John Leonard, Donald Cook, Almond Boyd, Harry Boyd and Harold Russell.

Mr. McFall, who died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Florence Hawley in Bancroft on Wednesday, was born in Marmora township just west of Booster Park, Crowe Lake on March 19, 1862, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McFall. With the exception of the last year-and-a-half when he had resided with his sister, he had spent his entire life in this community.

In turn he had worked for lumber companies here, the now defunct Marmora Cooperage Company and a long period for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company besides farming. In 1897 he was married to Miss Minnie Rose of Marmora. Ten children were born of this union. One son Harry predeceased him about 40 year ago.

Surviving children are: William, Thorold; Kemp, Freedom, N.Y.; Mrs. Bert Peters (Beatrice), Buffalo, N.Y.; Eddie, Marmora; Mrs. Joseph Syracuse (Mae), Alfred, Mrs. Roy Peters (Luella) and Sandy all of California and Donald of New York city. Also surviving are two sisters Mrs. Florence Hawley, Bancroft and Mrs. Margaret Hearns, Drumbo.

Those from a distance at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Kemp McFall. Freedom, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Peters, Buffalo, N.Y.; William McFall, Thorold; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFall, Belleville; Mrs. Florence Hawley, Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hawley and Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Woods, Mrs. William Robertson and Mrs. Wilbert Whitton, Campbellford.

Drama Critic's Play Wins Top Spot

TORONTO, March 19 (CP)—A play written and directed by two drama critics won top honors at Central Ontario's Drama Festival.

The winning play was "In Good King Charles' Golden Days," one of the last works of George Bernard Shaw.

Director Herbert Whittaker, who reviews drama for the Toronto Globe and Mail, accepted the Hugh Eayrs trophy Saturday night on behalf of the University Alumnae Dramatic Club of Toronto.

Twenty-two-year-old John Colicos, a Montrealer, who acted under Mr. Whittaker's direction on a number of occasions before he moved from Montreal to Toronto two years ago, was named top actor for his performance as Charles II in the gay restoration comedy.

Sylvia Paige, who played Billie Dawn in the Toronto Belmont group theatre's production of "Born Yesterday," was the festival's best actress for the third time in four years.

Mrs. C. J. Gall Buried At Keene

HAVELOCK, March 19 (ENS) —Mrs. C. J. Gall, widow of the Rev. Cornelius James Gall, died Friday at her daughter's home, following a lingering illness.

Funeral service in the United Church was held Monday afternoon with the Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, chairman of presbytery presiding. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh, with the scripture lesson being read by the Rev. H. B. Herrington of Keene. Pallbearers were: Charles Roberts, E. D. Chiles, E. C. Pace, Gerald Buchanan, Fred Rogers and Sam Southward. Burial was in Keene cemetery.

Mrs. Gall was formerly Victoria Kellar, daughter of the late Jacob and Lois Kellar. Her husband died at Flinton in 1937 and is buried in Keene cemetery. He was ordained a minister of the Congregational Church in the western part of the United States and served in the states of Iowa and North and South Dakota till he came to Canada to serve under the Methodist Church on the Belmont Mission. He served at Actherley, Ameliasburg, Consecon, Denby and Wilberforce, Mountain Grove, Calabogie, Victoria Road and Flinton. Mrs. Gall aided her husband in the Congregational Methodist and United Churches devotedly through the years.

Much of their active and joint ministry was in Mission field areas and in missionary services for the churches they were serving.

Mrs. Gall was an honorary member of the session of Havelock United Church, and active in all the church's activities especially in the WM and WA groups.

She was a past mistress of the Order of the Eastern Star, founding the chapter of that order at Ameliasburg. She was in her 80th year.

Surviving are: a son, Charles Lowell, of Detroit, Mich.; a daughter Mrs. Hugh Thompson (Florence Edith) of Havelock, a brother Melvin Kellar of Portland, Oregon; a sister Mrs. Harry Carscallen of San Carlos, California; there are also four grandchildren, Joan, James, Edith and Lorraine Thompson of Hav.

Sarong? No Sir Real Thing Has Only Skirt

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (AP) I'll bet you thought that hunk of cloth Dorothy Lamour has been wearing is a sarong. So did I and we're both wrong.

The source of our disillusionment is Dr. William A. Lessa, associate professor of anthropology at the University of California, Los Angeles. He spent 10 years of study in the South Seas and he ought to know.

"I'm afraid if any woman wore a sarong in a movie there would be a great deal of trouble," he told me. "You see, a real sarong is a garment that covers only from the hips down. It is only a skirt.

"What the glamor girls wear in the movies is something else. It is called a pareu in Tahiti and a lava-lava in Samoa."

Dr. Lessa is currently acting as technical advisor on a film called "Friendly Island." He had some interesting comments on South Sea island movies, native nudity and other matters.

Covered Up

"There are few parts of the South Pacific left where the native women go without upper garments," he observed. "This occurs largely in parts of the Caroline Islands and in Bali. But even in Bali a controversy is raging over whether the women should be fully clothed. It is probable that the women there will be shamed into covering up.

"I think that within the next generation there will be no nudity left among the natives of the South Pacific."

This is Dr. Lessa's first job as a movie adviser and he finds the work interesting. The mythical "Friendly Island" is supposed to be in the Gilbert group and has an Indonesian setting.

Not Idyllic

The savant welcomed the attempt on Hollywood's part to get some authenticity in its South Sea films. This has been sadly lacking in most of them, he remarked.

"The biggest mistake these films make," he said, "is showing the South Sea islanders as never having to work.

"But those natives do have to work, and work hard to maintain their existence. In some of the islands where I have been, the natives have no time for anything but work."

COMFORTABLE FIT

Health experts say a correctly-fitted shoe should be half an inch longer than the longest toe.

Gloria Swanson, Ferrer Likely Get Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19 (AP) Movietown's "run for the roses"—the annual Oscar derby—comes down the home-stretch a week from Thursday night and it's still a wide-open race, particularly among the fillies.

Everyone in Hollywood has his own ideas about who will be crowned the year's movie champions. Here is a consensus of the current trends, as well as some observations of my own:

Female star performance: Seldom has there been a tighter race in this division, and it's continuing right down to the wire. It's largely a three-filly struggle among Glaria Swanson (Sunset Boulevard) Bette Davis (All About Eve) and Judy Holliday (Born Yesterday).

Miss Swanson may well take the honors. Her comeback is perhaps the greatest in film history.

Many voters may plunk down for two-time winner Miss Davis because of sentiment and because of her sheer artistry.

Pushing Other Two

Judy Holliday is pushing the two older stars for contention. Her dumb-blonde role made her an immediate star, and her rise has been called the swiftest since Mae West.

Anne Baxter (All About Eve) and Eleanor Parker (Caged) are strong entries, but probably will be out-distanced.

Selection: Gloria Swanson.

Male star performance — This one is a little easier to chart, provided the race runs to form. Jose Ferrer's grandiose "Cyrano De Bergerac" was one of the biggest chunks of acting in years. He should, if you will pardon the expression, win by a nose.

That doesn't mean that the field will not press him. Louis Calhern created a charming portrait of Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., in "The Magnificent Yankee." But the film itself does not seem strong enough to bring him home a winner.

William Holden might qualify as the dark horse. His able, convincing work as the screen writer helped hold "Sunset Boulevard" together but his role lacked Ferrer's fireworks.

Selection: Jose Ferrer.

Best picture—This shapes up as a runaway for "All About Eve."

"Sunset Boulevard" is the strongest competition. "Born Yesterday" is doubtful, since its main attribute is a girl named Judy Holliday.

Selection: "All About Eve."

The supporting races usually are not easy to predict. However, Josephine Hull, the scatterbrained sister in "Harvey," appears destined for the reward. George Sanders, the acid-tongued critic of "All About Eve," appears to be a prime favorite in the male support division.

Ontario Refuses Raise Milk Price Strike In Toronto

TORONTO, March 20. (CP)—A strike Wednesday of Toronto dairy employees appeared inevitable today when the Agriculture Committee of the Ontario Legislature turned down a last-minute request of the city's distributors that would have allowed an immediate milk-price increase to meet employee union demands. The committee, in an examination of the government's new milk control legislation, retained a provision freezing prices until the milk control board can set maximum retail prices in Toronto and other milk markets in the province.

The new bill, expected to get final legislature approval and signature by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson Wednesday, gives power to the milk control board to set maximum retail prices. A consumer representative, Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto, will be added to the board.

The Toronto Milk Drivers and Dairy Employees Union (AFL) have announced they will go on strike Wednesday morning to enforce demands for a $3 weekly pay increase recommended by a conciliation board.

Must Have Increase

Joseph Sedgwick, counsel for the Toronto Milk Distributors Association, told the agriculture committee that the dairies could not make the wage increase unless their prices were allowed to increase one cent a quart at once. He said the milk board could revise prices downwards later if they were found to be excessive.

J. E. Houck, secretary of the Toronto Milk Distributors Association, said that the onus for a strike was not on the dairies.

"If there is a strike, you don't need to ask who caused it," Mr. Sedgwick told the committee. "The legislature will have caused it."

Mr. Sedgwick said he was not critical of labor, Employees had to be paid fair wages. But uness prices could be allowed to increase the dairies could not pay the higher wages.

Mr. Houck said that union demands which the dairies had been prepared to meet would have amounted to $5 to $5.25 a week on their wages, and represented three-tenths of a cent per quart.

Urges Price Kept Down

Mrs. Eugene Montgomery, representing the Canadian Association of Consumers, urged that all possible means be used to prevent milk prices from rising. She said consumers favored five-day a week deliveries, and milk sales through depots, as economy measures to keep prices down.

One important amendment was made to the government's bill. The milk Control Board will remain as the board of arbitration in wholesale prices disputes between producers and distributors.

The amendment was made on a motion by Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader, and five Progressive-Conservative members voted to help defeat the government's new provision in the bill.

Appoint Monty Deputy-Cmdr. For Eisenhower

PARIS, March 20 — (AP). — Gen. Eisenhower today named Field-Marshal Viscount Montgamery as his Deputy Commander in the Atlantic Pact Army.

Eisenhower also appointed eight other high-ranking officers to his staff.

He chose Air Chief Marshall Sir Hugh Saunders of the RAF Air Force as his Air Deputy.

A senior naval officer may be named later "if the need becomes apparent," a headquarters spokesman said.

The French cabinet announced, meanwhile, that Gen. Alphonse Juin, commander of France's armed forces, has been made available to Eisenhower to serve as ground-troops commander in the pact army. Juin, 62, is inspector-general of French armed forces, a post created after Eisenhower's survey tour of pact members. Juin also is resident-general of Morocco.

The French cabinet also announced that Vice-Admiral Robert Jaujard was named to the Eisenhower staff.

Juin's Title

Eisenhower announced that Juin's title would be commander-in-chief of the Allied Army Forces in the central sector of Europe. Jaujard will be naval flag officer, central section, Europe.

Other appointments included Lt.-Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of the United States Air Force in Europe, as commander-in-chief of the Allied Air Forces.

Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, of the Royal Navy, commander-in-chief Northern Europe.

Lt.-Gen. Wilhelm Von Tangen-Hansteen, Norwegian Army Chief of Staff, commander of Allied Army Forces, Norway.

Rents Frozen Till August 1

TORONTO, March 20 (CP)—A Toronto paper says today that freezing of rents until Aug. 1 will be provided in the Ontario government's new rent control legislation. Federal rent controls expire April 30.

The paper says in a newspage story that the Ontario bill may be introduced in the legislature Wednesday after final study by the cabinet and a party caucus. The paper added that Travel Minister Cecile is the minister likely to take charge of the rent control law.

The paper adds that the minister will appoint administrators in each county to whom landlords may appeal for rent increases. Decisions of these administrators may be appealed to county judges.

Appeals by tenants who feel their rents are too high will be dealt with in the same way as landlord applications for rent increases.

Flag At Half-Staff Tribute To Canadian

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 20 (CP).—The United Nations flag today flew at half-staff in tribute to R. G. (Gerry) Riddell, head of Canada's permanent delegation to the United Nations, who died last Friday.

Following protocol, none of the flags of the 60 U.N. members, which usually are raised in front of the U.N. site here, were flown today while the main U.N. flag was at half-staff.

Riddell was to be buried at Ottawa this afternoon at Ottawa.

The boy was struck by a truck driven by W. B. Patterson of Smiths Falls and owned by Agricultural Chemicals Ltd. of Port Hope, the court was told.

The settlement was reached in Ontario Supreme Court.

Reds Stiffen Halt UN Advance

Planes, Artillery Fail To Quell Enemy Resistance

TOKYO, March 20. (AP) — United States troops battling northeast of Hongchon on the Central Korean front today ran into "very stiff" Communist resistance.

Red troops fighting from well dug-in hill positions hurled back an American battalion after a day-long fight.

In Tokyo, Gen. MacArthur ordered a news blackout on the distance to a certain line on the Korean peninsula.

(Correspondents were not allowed to say specifically what this line is, but it obviously refers to the politically-important Parallel 38.)

It is one of the most rigid news restrictions placed on correspondents since the war began.

At latest reports, sent before the ban, the Allies were reported less than 17 miles from the border of Red Korea.

The U.S. Eighth Army said holding elements were on the line at 10 scattered points across the peninsula. Patrols were known to be operating much closer to the border.

Fight Back

In the action northeast of Hongchon, Allied air and artillery attack failed to knock out the Communists. The Reds fought back.

The contested hill commands a junction of the road leading northeast of Hongchon and a lateral road running east. Much enemy activity has been reported on both roads during the last two days.

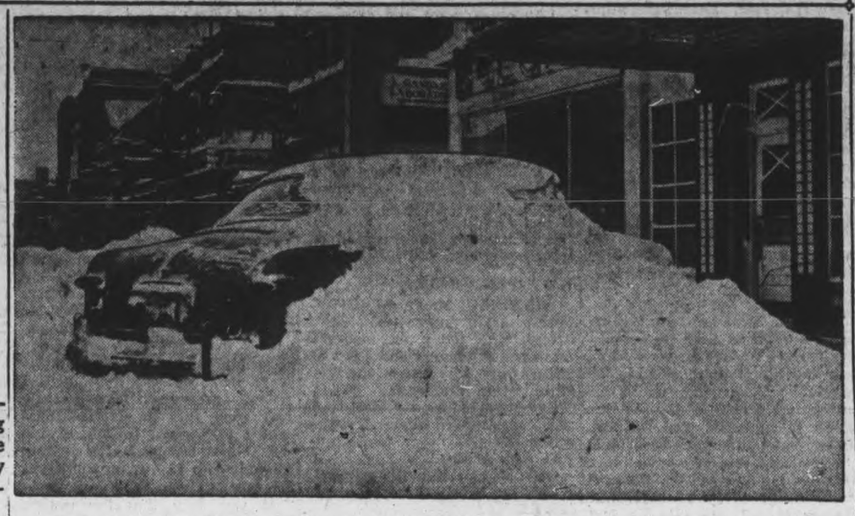
Promise Storm To Ease In West

WINNIPEG, March 20 (CP)—High winds whirled snow across eastern Manitoba again today, but by tonight, the weather man promised, the northward-moving storm will be over Hudson Bay.

Thirty-mile-an-hour winds kept most eastern Manitoba highways blocked.

Farther west, in Saskatchewan and western Manitoba, winds of 20-miles an hour caused continued drifting.

Temperatures dropped as low as 15 degrees below zero during the night and the high for the day was forecast at 10 above—10 to 15 degrees below normal for this time of year.



A report from Estevan, Sask., said 200 persons living in former army huts at Estevan airport, five miles south of the town, have been without bread or milk deliveries for four days. Twenty-five elderly patients in an adjacent hospital also were reported short of fresh food. The area was said to be isolated by drifts six to 10 feet high.

Churchill Prepared Join Attlee Truce

LONDON, March 20—(AP)—Winston Churchill today appeared ready for peace talks to end his Conservative party's nerve-war tactics that have kept a sleepy-eyed parliament sitting late into night after night.

The Conservative leader, in a country-wide broadcast Saturday, said the opposition in the House of Commons would continue to harass the Labor government until it fell. However, his faction's all-night filibustering tactics now threaten to boomerang, and he is reported ready to discuss a government truce offer with Prime Minister Attlee.

The delaying tactics have angered Labor members. The Liberals—on whom Churchill depends for support—have accused him of playing party politics at a time of national emergency.

MARCH WEATHER—This is what Saskatoon looked like after a blizzard sweeping through the prairies has been going full blast for 48 hours. Efforts to keep the main street open to traffic were almost impossible in the 40-mile-an-hour winds.

New Atomic Tests In Pacific

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—The United States Atomic Energy Commission indicated today it now is conducting new atomic blasts at Eniwetok. The commission said in a statement that a major project "is being carried out" at the super-secret Pacific island test grounds. "In order to assure the safety of vessels and aircraft operating in the Central Pacific, only units of the (testing) task force are permitted within the danger area around Eniwetok atoll," the statement added. Asked directly if new atomic blast tests are being conducted, commission officials said they could add nothing to the statement.

While today's announcement did not flatly say the blasts were actually under way, the language indicated as much.

The announcement said the new series of tests include provisions for measuring the effects of atomic blasts "on structures and materials of various kinds" and declared:

"This information will be made available to the civil defence administration."

The commission said "a major project is being carried out to supplement data already obtained from other atomic blasts. . .

"The test program at Eniwetok is being carried out by joint task force 3, commanded by Lt.-Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, USAAF, and is made up of personnel of the armed services, AEC, other civil agencies of the government, and AEC contractors.

"Full security restrictions as required by the Atomic Energy Act apply to all phases of the test program. No further information as to the composition, movement or operations of the task force is authorized for public release at this time."

Shah Orders Martial Law To Halt Terror In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, March 20. (AP)—The Shah proclaimed martial law today in this terror-ridden, strategic Middle Eastern country whose oil riches make her position vital in the east-west cold war. The martial law, limited to Tehran and imposed for two months, came amid a wave of rumors that new terrorism had taken the lives of Iranian officials. One rumor, unconfirmed here, was that governor-general Manouchar Egbal of Azerbaijan province on the Soviet border had been slain along with his provincial chief of police.

Even as the proclamation was broadcast, the Iranian senate completed action on approval for nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, focus of the Nationalist anger which has been generating public tension in Iran.

Presentation of the martial law proclamation to the Shah was the first action of the new cabinet formed by Hussein Ala, pro-Western premier appointed after the assassination of his predecessor two weeks ago.

It announced that "all gangsters and opportunists who create disturbances will be punished." The broadcast proclamation asserted that "gangster elements have been trying to upset the security of Tehran."

Deny Rumor

One rumor, quickly denied, was that an attempt had been made on the life of Mayor Mehdi Namdar and a parliamentary deputy named Jamal Imami.

The martial law proclamation apparently was aimed at quelling any possible new acts such as the assassination March 7 of American-supported Premier Ali Razmara, and the attempted assassination yesterday of Dr. Abdul Zanganeh, deputy chancellor of Hehran university, who was critically wounded.

Premier Ala presented his new cabinet to the Shah only today, with some posts still vacant because politicians apparently were fearful of the threat of terror hanging over them.

Lack Of Males Worries Peers

LONDON, March 20—(CP)—A sudden increase in the birth of females is causing furrowed brows among Britain's titled families.

The latest edition of Debrett's Peerage, a register of Britain's nobility, shows that many old names face extinction due to lack of a male heir.

For instance, the 55-year-old Marquess of Cambridge has only one daughter and not even a distant cousin exists to carry on the name. The same fate faces the Earl of Stamford whose house was founded by the uncle of Lady Jane Grey—the woman who once ruled England for nine days.

The Countess of Dartmouth may see the end of two noble names. She presented her 70-year-old husband with five daughters and only one son. The heir was killed at Alamein. She, herself the daughter of a marquess whose house is extinct, was one of five daughters.

The Earl of Huntingdon, a title created more than 400 years ago, has three daughters and the rich Duke of Westminster, married four times, at 71 has two daughters and no sons.

Order Sault Team Pay $450 Fine

TIMMINS, March 20 (CP). — Charlie Brown, acting president of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, said today that Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds will be given another chance to play a sudden-death game with Sudbury Miners at North Bay Wednesday night.

This permission hinges, however, on the Sault team paying a fine to compensate the North Bay Arena for the expenses incurred in preparations and selling tickets for the game which the Sault failed to appear for on Monday night.

The amount of the fine was set at $450 and the money must be deposited in a Sault Ste. Marie bank by 3 p.m. today.

Brown said if the Sault team refuses to pay the fine, Sudbury then will be named to enter the NOHA Senior A finals against South Porcupine Porkies starting Wednesday night.

To Take Over Paper

BUENOS AIRES, March 20—(AP). — A powerful Argentina Congressional committee voted today to hire lawyers and accountants to take over formally the Independent newspaper La Prensa, silenced since January 27 in a dispute with pro-government unions. There was only one dissent.

Say Youngsters Sleeping When Fire Started After Midnight

Blame Gas Lamp Hung Too Near Ceiling For Brant County's Worst Tragedy, Neighbors Take Survivor To Hospital

BRANTFORD, March 20. (CP)—Seven children, ranging in age from one to 16 years, were burned to death when a fire completely destroyed the frame house in which they were sleeping shortly after midnight today. One child, Marvin Henry, 14, escaped by jumping from a window to snow-covered ground. Six of the children were sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Henry. Their parents were away at the time. The dead are: Catherine Henry, 1; Delano Henry, 3; Mary Louise Henry, 6; Orma Henry, 8; Melvin Henry, 10; Alvin Henry, 11; and Arthur Crawford, 16.

The bodies of the dead children were found in the blackened ruins of the home this morning.

The Crawford lad, partially crippled, was visiting at the Henry home at the time.

First word of the tragedy, the worst in the history of Brant County, came about 2 a.m. when officials at Willingdon Hospital telephoned the RCMP. Marvin Henry had been taken to the hospital by a neighbor, Jake Bomberry.

Tried To Save Others

At the hospital, the 14-year-old lad, with eyebrows and hair singed and his hands lacerated, told of his efforts to save the other members of the family.

Discovering the fire, he tried to arouse the others and then marshalled them into a room on the top floor. He smashed a window and advised them to jump to the snow covered ground below. He set the example, but none followed.

Blame Gas Lamp

The home used natural gas and it is believed the fire started from a gas lamp hung too near the ceiling.

Mrs. Wilfred Henry, at a neighbor's house about a mile away at the time of the fire, was prostrated with shock. She said her husband was in the United States and her eldest daughter, Irma June 18, was in Buffalo.

National Empire Of Crime O'Dwyer Warns

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer told U.S. Senate investigators today there is a growing "national empire" of crime, and urged big-scale government appropriations to stop it.

O'Dwyer, now United States Ambassador to Mexico, testified that crime in America "will be widespread" until "we get an appropriation of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 for a continuing investigation of it.

"There is a national crime empire growing," he said, "and it will get stronger if it isn't stopped."

He urged a standing committee be set up to supervise a continuing inquiry.

O'Dwyer, who has clashed heatedly with the Senate committee during two days on the witness stand, paused in his testimony today to praise it for doing what he called a "marvellous job."

Appears Fresh

He appeared fresh and rested in contrast to his weary, touchy mood at the close of Monday's turbulent public hearing, during which he angrily denied links to gangland.

Big-time rackets can't be curbed locally, the ex-mayor said, in demanding the permanent federal action.

"As long as 15,000,000 people want to bet twenty billions of dollars," he taid, "and as long as you've got wires, information, racing sheets and newspapers giving full publicity and full information to that 15,000,000, you have something that is not entirely local."

Believe Holdup Man Escaped Prisoner

TORONTO, March 20 (CP)—Police seeking a lone gunman who Monday robbed a bank of $4,900 said today the description of the holdup man fitted Harry Duguid, sought since his daring escape from Welland County Jail in 1947.

Joyce Empey, teller at the Bank of Montreal branch on the city's northern-outskirts, was shown a picture of Duguid. She told detectives:

"I'd know that face anywhere."

Duguid, at the time of his escape, had been arrested after a bank robbery in Stamford township and, through a gun found on him, identified as the man who robbed a Toronto branch of the Dominion Bank in 1942, police said.

3 College Students Arrested In Robbery

DETROIT, March 20 (AP) — Three Wayne University students, including co-captains of the 1950 and 1951 football teams, were arrested by police Monday for questioning about a $15,000 jewel robbery.

Detectives said all three admitted robbing a jewelry store Monday afternoon shortly before their arrest.

Jailed were Ciro Minella, 22, co-captain-elect of the Wayne team and a former employee of a private protection service, Charles Milo, 21, a 1950 co-captain, and Lesli Flippo, 21, who attended Wayne and worked in a men's clothing store.

Say Salesman Has Bank Loot

TORONTO, March 20 (CP).—Maurice Palmer, 46-year-old clothing salesman, today was charged with receiving ten $100 bonds which police say were stolen three years ago during a $400,000 armed robbery of a west-central branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. Palmer told police he won the bonds in a crap game in a downtown hotel.

Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong and Detective-Sergeant Roy Perry said the bonds were part of the loot taken from the safety deposit boxes at the Bathurst and College Streets bank branch. About $250,000 worth of stolen bonds were recovered in a cache in a field in suburban Etobicoke Township.

Power of Women

Army Changes Manouevres From Area Of Nervous Mink

KITCHENER, March 20 (CP)—The power of women—and the little fur-bearing animals destined to become their coats—has been neatly illlustrated at the headquarters of a military detachment in this Western Ontario city.

Reserve army field manoeuvres slated for the Lakeside-Harrington area May 26-27 had a change in locale when it was discovered that nestling in the area was a farm of nervous mink valued at $10,000.

Undue noise and excitement cause mink to destroy one another.

In a co-operative mood, army officials listened to the pleas of the mink ranch owners, and now plan the manoeuvres miles away from the valuable pelts where the cannonading and strafing will bother nobody but the soldiers taking part.

The proposed battle of Harrington thus becomes the battle of Trout Creek, to the relief of the ranchers and to women who would consider the destruction of $10,000 worth of mink a major calamity.

Brig. W. A. Bean and headquarters officers of Second Infantry Brigade, which is in charge of Exercise Crocus, may have been influenced in their decision to move by the controversy which arose in the Maritimes some time ago.

In that instance, a mink ranch owner sued Trans-Canada Air Lines for frightening his charges by flying over the ranch. The case went through several Nova Scotia courts before the air line won out.

The army probably figures it's easier to move than to risk the bother of court action. Besides, some of the officers probably have wives.

Won't Limit Banquet Permits

TORONTO, March 20 (CP). — The Ontario Liquor Control Board has given up a plan to limit banquet permits to gatherings where full course meals are served.

Chairman Arthur Welsh said today in an interview that the board feels this rule would work a hardship on many legitimate organizations entertaining members and friends and would bring back bottle-carrying and hotel room drinking.

Mr. Welsh said other changes were under discussion to halt the practices of certain groups selling tickets and advertising gatherings where beer and liquor was to be sold purely for their own financial gain.

"These groups are, in effect, carrying on a licenced premise business under the guise of a banquet permit."

Firebug On Loose

10 Fires Within Week Prescott Area On Guard

PRESCOTT, March 20 (CP) — With 10 fires in eight days, residents of Prescott and Brockville some 25 miles away are on the lookout for a firebug and in the meantime are taking precautions to protect their premises.

With indications of arson in every outbreak, citizens of Prescott are acting under special fire instructions issued by the fire department, with pails of water handy, reporting loiterers and with volunteer crews ready to stamp out any new outbreaks. All fires in Prescott have been in the same waterfront area.

Two fires in Brockville indicated arson, investigators said. A shed in the rear of the R. A. Beamish store revealed wads of paper stuffed in a window sash but the outbreak was caught in time. The same happened in a shed at the rear of the Ben Cross grocery—this time a burlap bag stuffed in an egg crate was set ablaze.

A week-long series of fires in Prescott gave evidence of arson. The initial outbreaks caused little suspicion until extinguished when it was found they had originated from wads of oily waste and crumpled paper. Both were in the dockside area and could have spread to large warehouses in the vicinity.

Two grass fires followed in the same district and Friday night a large storage shed a block from the waterfront was discovered in flames and levelled before the fire department under Chief Frank Countryman could gain control.

Saturday the double doors and underplanking of Plum's garage was destroyed but the rest of the structure was saved. Sunday more than $1,000 damage was caused in the underflooring of the Prescott Wholesale Grain Products before the flames were smothered.

Put Final Touches To 40-Hr. Week Plan

MONTREAL, March 20 (CP).—Representatives of Canada's non-operating railway employees met today with Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways officials to put final touches on the 40-hour work week schedule which goes into effect June 1.

When the final formula has been worked out, union officials will confer with the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo and the Ontario Northland Railway for adoption of a master agreement covering all employees.

The complexities of working out the shorter work-week has had railway and union men in almost constant consultation since Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, government mediator during the lengthy railway dispute last year, handed down his report.

CNR, TCA Pull Up Financial Sox, Cut Down Deficits

OTTAWA, March 20. (CP)—Canada's two main public enterprises—Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines—found 1950 to be a profitable operating year, though they still are in the red. Official statistics placed before the Commons Monday showed that the two government-operated transportation systems managed to pul up their financial socks to the extent of reducing their annual deficits. Their financial reckonings came before the Chamber when Finance Minister Abbott tabled supplementary estimates of $201,556,559 to govern additional government expenditures for the fiscal year ending March 31. These brought total expenditures for 1950-51 to $2,930,111,971.

The figures showed that the CNR ended 1950 with a deficit of $3,261,235—its lowest peacetime deficit on record—compared with a deficit of $42,000,000 in 1949. The railway's improved position comes partly from increased freight rates but mainly from an increase in the volume of business.

TCA reported a deficit of $1,526,412 on overseas services, compared with a deficit of $2,898,149 in 1949. Its North American services showed a surplus of $201,206 against a deficit of $1,419,444 in 1949, leaving a net deficit for the year of $1,325,206 to be met by parliamentary vote.

No Details

No details of the CNR operations were contained in the estimates.

During the Second World War from 1941 to 1945, the CNR reported surpluses ranging from $4,000,000 to $35,000,000. But since 1946 it has continually reported deficits. They increased from $9,000,000 in 1946 to $42,000,000 in 1949. In years prior to the Second World War, there also was a record of deficits. In 1938, the year before the outbreak of war, the deficit was $54,000,000.

1,750 Immigrants

As study of the estimates began, Citizenship Minister Harris reported that 1,750 immigrants will have ben flown to Canada in the four months ending March 31 under the government's plan of subsidized air travel.

Under the plan, immigrants pay $160, the cost of standard steamship accommodation in the tourist class, and the government pays the remainder—$215—of the air fare from the United Kingdom to Canada. The scheme was introduced because of a shortage of steamship transport.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, replying to opposition questioning, said he does not think anyone feels that Canada's absorptive capacity—her ability to take immigrants without creating unemployment—has been overtaxed by immigration thus far.

Farmers Demand Even Break If Third War

MONTREAL, March 20 (CP)—H. H. Hannam said today that Canada's farmers will pull their full weight in the event of a Third World War, but they want to be assured of an "even break" with industry and labor.

Farmers want a fair share of the country's manpower, materials and other concessions that might be granted labor and industry in a national emergency, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture president said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Agricultural Institute of Canada.

Agriculture did not want a recurrence of the events in the Second World War, when industry was granted heavy concessions and agriculture was not.

These included special depreciation allowances, tax credits and capital assistance estimated at between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, Mr. Hannam said.

Not As Well Off

Though Canada is prosperous, and farmers in relatively sound financial positions, they are not as well off as in 1946. The net farm income has dropped nine per cent in the 1946-50 period.

"In other words, during the last two inflationary years, when consumers have complained most about rising prices and apparently have concluded that farmers are getting rich, in reality farmers have been losing ground and are somewhat worse off than two or three years ago.

"Agricultural production is 20 per cent greater than before the Second World War, even though the farm labor force is down 170,000 since 1946. This means that manpower and equipment are more vital to agriculture than formerly."

Elsewhere on the central front Allied troops advanced against increasing enemy resistance.

An armored patrol advancing on Chunchon met some mortar and small arms fire from Chinese rear guards. Allied officers said they still believe the city will fall without a fight. Chunchon was once the Chinese headquarters in South Korea. It is eight miles south of the old boundary between North and Soutn Korea.

North of Seoul on the western front, American units ran into heavy small arms, mortar and artillery fire.

In Seoul itself, mines were being cleared from the streets and roadways while the rice rations were doled out to long lines of civilians.

Censorship was lifted on the capture of Chungpyong reservoir and power station, near the town o f Chongpyong, 25 miles northeast of Seoul. They were captured intact three days ago. United Nations troops, the Eighth Army said, have advanced beyond that point.

68 Hungarians Return Did Not Like War Talk

BUDAPEST, March 20 (Reuters) — Sixty-eight Hungarians who left Hungary for Canada 25 years ago returned yesterday.

The Budapest paper Szabad Nep quoted them as saying:

"We could not bear to live in Canada any more, because there they talk only about war. Radio, press and films are pouring out lies without interruption. Educating youth has degenerated to such a degree that a part of the Canadian youth has become the worthy competitor of the American gangsters.

"Thefts, looting and murders are everyday ocurrences."

Smith Twp. Man Freed On 11 Forgery Charges

Eleven charges of forgery against Marvin Armstrong Smith township, were dismissed in police court today. He was convicted of one charge of false pretences and he faces eight other false pretence charges. The penalty will be announced when the other charges are disposed of.

The forgery charges all collapsed when Magistrate W. R Philp, K.C., found Armstrong not guilty in the case of the cheque given to John Loughton of Norwood in January. When he announced his finding in that case, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw K.C. said, "There are a number of other charges of forgery and I'll offer no evidence on them. They all stand or fall on the same argument."

In the trial over the Loughton cheque a week ago, Mrs. Mabel Armstrong, the accused's mother, said she had given her son permission to write her name to cheques when he needed money and she was not available to write them out herself.

However, she thought she had written the cheque in question herself.

Expert Testifies

John A. McKone, handwriting expert, testified that from making studies of Armstrong's writing, and his mother's writing, he concluded Armstrong wrote his mother's name to the cheque given to Loughton for gas, oil, anti-freeze and about $20 in cash.

Armstrong said he was not sure whether he had written his mother's name to that particular cheque or not. He said he had signed about as many cheques on his mother's account in the Imperial Bank as his mother had. He added that he also deposited money to the account.

Loughton testified that a few days after he deposited Armstrong's cheque, it came back to him marked "not sufficient funds." Armstrong said in the witness box he thought there was sufficient money to cover the cheque.

Guilty of Fraud

On the evidence, the magistrate found Armstrong guilty of false pretences. Another charge of false pretences against Armstrong was heard in police court this afternoon.

The false pretence charges involve the same cheques on which the forgery were laid. They total about $300.

The people who tried to cash the cheques Armstrong gave them were A. W. Gilders, Smith township; Robert Gordon, Norwood; R. H. Tranter, Burleigh township; Albert Fife, Otonabee township; Clayton Earl, Havelock; Kawartha Garage, Smith township; Charles Flynn, Harvey township; J. Archer, Lakefield; W. T. Junkin, Harvey township and Mrs. Dorothy Golloher, Asphodel township.

Last week a charge of false pretences involving a cheque given to Percy Archer, Lakefield, was dismissed when Archer said he couldn't swear to the date Armstrong gave him the cheque.

Armstrong is represented by J. C. N. Currelly.

Potato Squabble Flares Anew

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP). — The Canadian-American potato squabble has broken loose again.

Most of the time it's on the American side, with Maine growers saying Canadian producers are stealing their markets in the United States.

This time it's on the Canadian side, with the cry that American exporters are cleaning up on the Canadian markwet — including the parliamentary restaurant.

To add fuel to the flame, American potatoes are appearing in Canada at a time when some Eastern Canadian farm bins contain unsold spuds.

The American market no longer is proving as good a bet as it used to for the Canadian product. Lowering the American support price last year did the trick.

The potato tussle broke out in the House of Commons Monday night. Agriculture Minister Gardiner disclosed that a delegation from New Brunswick, a big potato-producing province, is in Ottawa seeking price support.

Dollar Rises

MONTREAL, March 20 —(CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4⅝ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1/32 higher than Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04⅝ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93, up ⅛.

Senator Says Wheat Farmers Lost 330 Million

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP). — Senator John T. Haig, PC Senate leader, said Monday Canada's wheat farmers lost at least $330,000,000 on the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement and termed an insult the government's decision to contribute $65,000,000 in final settlement.

He favored the payment of the $65,000,000 to close out the accounts of the four-year agreement by which Canada delivered 600,000,000 bushels of wheat to Britain. But, he told the Senate, the government "should have made it $475,000,000."

Senator Thomas Crerar (L, Manitoba), himself a wheat farmer and one-time minister of agriculture, joined Senator Haig in criticism of the wheat agreement as the Senate considered minor amendments to the Canadian Wheat Board Act.

Take Medicine

Senator George Burchill (L, New Brunswick) protested "the spending of one cent of public money to support the agreement." In the agreement, the farmers had "got what they wanted and they should take their medicine now and not ask the people of Canada to pay the bill."

Senator Haig said he had always been against the British wheat agreement. Now Canada had gone into an international wheat agreement in which five wheat-producing countries would be selling to 33 buying countries. He felt this was dangerous, too.

It was true that the prairie wheat pools had favored the British agreement. This was because they "thought they could drive the Winnipeg Grain Exchange out of business, but they were wrong." It was nonsense to say the wheat Canada delivered to Britain couldn't have been sold elsewhere at higher prices.

Prices Ease Slowly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 20 (CP). — Prices eased slightly in extremely quiet trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Volume for the first three hours of 619,000 shares was about 118,000 fewer than the same period yesterday.

Base metals chalked up the widest list of issues lower but, except for the $2 drop of Consolidated Smelters, losses were 25 cents or less. Key issues down included Waite Amulet, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Quemont, Noranda and East Sullivan.

Industrials moved sluggishly in a narrow price path. Steels, agricultures, textiles, banks, retail stores, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of declines. Constructions, utilities and refining oils were ahead.

Western oils were mixed with gains and losses limited to 10 cents or less.

Golds drifted downward in continuation of their recent dormant streak. Many issues were unchanged and untraded.

Miraculous Recovery After Train Collision

SUDBURY, March 20 (CP) — Making a miraculous recovery after being unconscious most of the 42 days he spent in hospital here since the train-bus crash at Coniston Feb. 9, Toni Santi, 30, of Coniston was discharged from hospital last night.

Santi was the most seriously injured survivor of the level-crossing crash which killed nine bus passengers and sent 30 others to hospitals in Sudbury and Copper Cliff. Santi's recovery was one of the most remarkable they have ever seen, doctors said.

Santi suffered an injured chest, fractured skull, sever brain damage and multiple cuts and bruises. He recovered consciousness a week ago.

Pats Believe Police Duty Their Future Job In Korea

By WILLIAM BOSS

TOKYO, March 20. (CP)—Maybe it's wishful thinking. But feeling among the Patricias is that the UN "police action" in Korea may soon mean more policing and less fighting.

Canada's UN force, due to travel to Korea soon, may arrive to find its job is garrison work along the 38th Parallel, rather than fighting north or south of it.

If so, it will be the second time in four months that a Canadian force's prospective role in Korea has changed. The Patricias—who now have a slight edge over the rest of the Canadian brigade in battle experience — thought last November they were embarking for police duties in a newly unified country.

Just as the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry raised its sights, so the battleworthy brigade now may have to lower them for a garrison rather than a combat role.

Fair Opinion

At least in the war theatre's present exuberant mood, with the Chinese apparently offering only token resistance in their withdrawal to the 38th parallel, that's a fair representation of opinion.

No one knows what Generals MacArthur and Ridgway will do when the 38th is reached, or what decisions may be made in the meantime or hereafter at Lake Success or elsewhere.

However, consensus among the Patricias is that once the UN forces are on the 38th, conceivably within the next 30 days, the opposition forces will patrol it vigorously—but in effect sit down and make faces at one another.

At least that's the way the Canadians reason from what they have experienced of Chinese strategy and knowing nothing of allied intentions.

The Patricias accept news reports that the Chinese have defences in depth north of the 38th and are building strong armies. They largely reject news predictions that the Chinese are only waiting for summer rains before launching on offensive to clear UN forces from the Korean peninsula.

Toy Gun In Pocket Police Question Man

NORTH BAY, March 20 (CP)— Police today held a man for questioning in connection with a gun-wielding incident aboard an Ontario Northland Railway train Saturday.

He was picked up while walking along the railway tracks at Burks Falls, 50 miles south of here. Police said they found a small toy gun in his pocket. No charge has been laid.

The train incident occurred when Conductor Johnston Peever of Timagami questioned a man about his train ticket. The man pulled out a gun and threatened Peever, who ordered him off the train.

BC Dairymen Say Butter May Vanish

Competition On Oleo Said Too Tough Farmers Sell Herds

By The Canadian Press

West Coast dairymen predict that Canadian housewives may be forced to do without butter altogether if sale of margarine continues. Appearing before the Agriculture Committee of the British Columbia Legislature Monday, Charles Wallis, secretary of the BC Federation of Agriculture, said many dairy farmers are finding competition from margarine too tough.

As a result, said Mr. Wallis, they are slaughtering their herds because they can make more money from beef. This resulted in a drop in butter production. Sixty per cent of all beef sold in Canada last year had come from dairy herds.

"You can't eat your cow and milk her too," said Alex Mercer, president of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association. He predicted continued herd reduction would result in shortages of milk products.

Depend On Oil

"The day may come when we'll have to depend on vegetable oil (instead of cream) to go with our strawberries," he said.

In the Maritimes, members of the Prince Edward Island legislature were told that Provincial Treasurer W. E. Darby probably will bring down his budget March 26 or 27. P.E.I. members also considered a number of minor bills in committee.

At Halifax, the Nova Scotia legislature discussed a bill that would prohibit the use of machine-guns and tracer or incendiary bullets in hunting game. Forest Minister A. W. Mackenzie, introducing the bill, gave no indication whether use of such weapons and bullets has been a common practice.

On the prairies, members of the Saskatchewan legislature heard encouraging reports on the province's 17 government-owned business enterprises. Reports tabled at Regina showed 14 enterprises made a net profit of $2,640,300 in 1950. The other three lost $350,391.

TAKE YOUR PLACE WITH MEN LIKE THESE...

Sappers

OF THE CORPS OF ROYAL CANADIAN ENGINEERS

The Sapper is one of the most highly skilled fighting men in the Canadian Army. His intensive training, plus his mastery of small arms equip him for his traditional fighting role: leading the assault against enemy defences.

Sappers are skilled military engineers who build roads, airfields, bridges; they are expert in demolition, mining, bomb disposal. They build and maintain Army accommodations; operate and repair all kinds of vehicles and equipment.

Keen, young men — qualified tradesmen and untrained men, too — are needed now in the Royal Canadian Engineers. You can take your place with the Royal Canadian Engineers — start training now to be a Sapper — by reporting for active duty with the Canadian Army Active Force. Do it today . . . now, when Canada needs you.

TO ENLIST YOU MUST:

1. Be a Canadian citizen or British subject.
2. Be between 17 and 40 years of age.
3. Be single.
4. Meet Army test requirements.
5. Volunteer for service anywhere.

What Of It?

The Gallup Poll reports that President Truman is very unpopular in his own country. Here are some of its figures:

Approval of Truman

Democrats ..... 42 per cent.
Republicans ..... 13 per cent.
Independents ..... 17 per cent.

Disapproval of Truman

Democrats ..... 38 per cent.
Republicans ..... 75 per cent.
Independents ..... 64 per cent.

No opinion is reported for the 20, 12 and 19 per cent. of the three groups respectively. It is also reported that in 1945 Mr. Truman had what the Poll calls "a public opinion high" of 87 per cent.; this has now dropped to 26 per cent.

* * *

Well, what of it? Ever since the Gallup Poll made its startling bad guess about Truman before the last Presidential election, and Dr. Gallup admitted that the figures had been tinkered to produce that result, we have paid no attention to the Gallup Poll. It is often right, of course, but on political matters we mistrust it. The suggestion was made that the figures were cooked to suit Republican prejudice, and that charge was never satisfactorily cleared up.

* * *

What is more, we do not think that the popularity of a President can be measured by these statistical methods with any real accuracy. A decisive victory in Korea, a powerful stroke of policy at home, or even a really good presidential wisecrack could upset Dr. Gallup's careful figures overnight. There is more to a statesman than his popularity rating, thank God.

Loss To Holstein Breeders

It is no mean accomplishment for a man of 41 years to have built up one of the finest Holstein herds in Canada, to have achieved an international reputation as a breeder, and to have been president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada for five years. The man who accomplished so much in such a short time was Joseph Thomas Tully, a native of Otonabee, who died suddenly on Sunday. His loss will be widely felt. His work and example have been of benefit to this farming community and to all who believe that through careful management of herds and thoroughbred stock the economy of the farm and of Canada can be advanced.

The Communist Fossil of Europe

Albania is a pleasant country topographically; her native customs and costumes are fascinating (until recently the tribe was the dominant unit of social organization) and her men are vigorous if crude. Albania is also the smallest eastern European communist country and has fallen off the face of the map.

This is the most backward country of Europe. It is a lost little world cut off from its neighbours by mountains, a tiny remnant of the Turkish Empire in Europe which after the 1913 Balkan wars became an independent country by decision of the great powers. In 1924 a son of local Moslem gentry made himself dictator and then King Zog. He began to modernize the country and to exploit some of its limited resources. Then Mussolini invaded in 1939. Albanians during the war sided with Yugoslav partisans under a former schoolteacher, who after the war, as General Hodja, formed a Communist government which was recognized by the Allies. His first cabinet is said to have included two literate members, for he purged the entire civil service and three-quarters of the population cannot read or write.

Close relations were established with Tito's Yugoslavia, which became its economic overlord. When the Tito heresy happened, the Albanian government was loud in its denunciations and threw out the Tito experts and advisors—after Hodja arrested six cabinet ministers for having tinges of Titoism.

Now Albania is isolated. Her land neighbours are the kingdom of Greece and the Tito state of Yugoslavia. Across the Adriatic from her is Italy, now indifferent to Albania's fate. The only western nation which maintains a diplomatic mission in Albania is France. She is solely dependent on Russia for all her supplies which must come through the sea route of the Dardanelles and the Aegean. Spurned by her neighbours, backward and poor, dependent on remote Russia, Albania is the pariah of Europe. She is a social fossil. But Russia keeps feeding her because she is the most westerly southern-European Communist state and has ports leading to the Mediterranean.

More Opera For Peterborough

Once again we feel impelled to make public comment upon the enlightened action of Mr. Harry Yudin, the manager of the Centre theatre, in bringing films of unusual interest to this city. He has, during the past few months, shown films made from operas, with casts of excellent singers; these films are not in the strictly commercial field, for they lack much of the technical skill which Hollywood has brought to a high pitch; neither are they acted by people who are film actors in the usual sense of the term. Rather, they are musical productions, made by people who put music, rather than drama, in first place, and they appeal to the musical rather than the film-going public. It is a fine thing to have someone in Peterborough with a film theatre at his disposal who is interested in showing these unusual productions.

The latest of these films to be scheduled is called Faust and the Devil. It is based chiefly upon Gounod's opera Faust, but it also contains passages from Arrigo Boito's little-known opera on the same theme. Boito's opera has never been as successful as Gounod's because it is not such a good piece of dramatic construction; however, it contains some fine music, and much of this has been incorporated in the film.

We have no chances of seeing grand opera in the flesh in Peterborough, though there are indications that the Royal Conservatory Opera School would give performances here if they could find a sympathetic sponsor. But we have chances of seeing excellent opera films, which are the next best thing. Public response has shown that the exhibitors of those films are on the right track, and are giving a great many Peterborough people what they want.

Pardon Our Rude Laughter

We hate to poke fun at our old friend the Brantford Expositor, and we shall try not to do so. Nevertheless we must admit that we laughed a loud, rude laugh when we read a recent editorial in that estimable journal called "It Doesn't Matter", which dealt with modern art, and gave, we presume, the Expositor's considered judgements on that subject.

As our readers will have seen, the current exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists has aroused some controversy, and four artists have resigned from the Society because it has exhibited works which did not suit their taste. The Expositor has commented on the fact that it was discovered that one modern picture was hung upside down for a while, and that many people admired it in that position. Therefore the Expositor jeers rudely at those who admired it, and implies that they are phonies.

Now it is quite possible that many of them were phonies, but by no means all. We have seen the picture in question (which we will bet is more than the Expositor has done) and if we had admired it at all, we could honestly have admired it upside down, sideways, or twisted into a roll. For it was a piece of pure design, and pure design is not intended to represent anything, and it should look well from any angle. We think that the Expositor should have grasped this idea, which is at least three thousand years old, and has presumably penetrated to Brantford.

Instead, the Expositor quotes the eminent Brantfordian, Thomas B. Costain, in support of its opinion. Mr. Costain has made a great reputation as a writer of novels; of his opinions on painting, we can only say they accord with those of the Expositor.

We grow tired of the complaints of people who expect all pictures to be representational, against modern abstract painting. Some modern painting is good, and some is bad, but none of it is wantonly undertaken to confuse poor innocents like the Expositor. We presume that when Byzantine painting gave place to a more realistic technique, some Byzantine Expositor sneered at it. Undoubtedly when perspective was first tried out in painting, some Italian Expositor quoted a popular ballad-singer to show that the new painting was all wrong. But we maintain that modern abstract painting is just as good as any other sort of painting, and perhaps even better, for it gives the strictest adherence to Second Commandment.

However, we have no desire to be hard upon the Expositor and for Easter we are sending it a prettily coloured and easily comprehended picture of a bunny nibbling a carrot.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is suggested that the nursing shortage might be overcome by providing nurses with more attractive uniforms. If anything could be more becoming to a pretty girl than one of those boilerplate white bibs, we should like to see it.

Those who advocate a new city hall for Ottawa have been rebuked for wanting a luxury building in abnormal times. If we may offer some advice to the people of Ottawa, we should like to say that times will continue to be abnormal as long as can be foreseen, that a city building is not a luxury, and that nothing could be more abnormal than a national capital which discharges its municipal business in a ruined livery stable —or have we mistaken the original nature of Ottawa's civic hub?

Secret Society In West Germany

A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT IN BONN

SECRET societies are nothing new in German politics, but a secret society for the defence of democracy is. During the last few months a secret organization with the melodramatic name of the "First Legion", has become increasingly active in Western Germany. Its avowed aim is the creation of a youthful and vigorous democracy drawing its strength from the people. If, however, one examines the statements made by the leaders of the "First Legion", mostly younger politicians from the right-wing parties represented in the Federal German Government, one comes to the conclusion that "it all depends on what you mean by democracy".

✧ ✧ ✧

IN its present form, German democracy is unacceptable to the "First Legion". Erich Schmalz, the first chairman of the "Legion", published an article in the newspaper "Die Welt" recently in which he said, "Democracy had a bad start in Germany in 1945. On the order of the victors it was created out of Germany's political and military defeat. The men who are leading Germany today have strong links with the Weimar Republic. They are trying to deal with the problems of today by using the methods of yesterday. The decline of the Weimar democracy was the tragedy of a democracy alien to our people..."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE question to be asked is: What type of democracy does the "First Legion" really consider suited to Germany, what kind of state does it want to create? As yet no clear answer can be given mainly because the German language is such an ideal medium for hiding one's true intentions behind resounding words meaning nothing.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT a special meeting in Hamburg to which selected guests were invited, Herr Schmalz, who was formerly the Secretary-General of Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union in the British zone, declared that the fundamental "Weltanschauung" (philosophy or world view) of the "Legion" is entirely different from that of the C.D.U. He described the "Legion" as a group of men of good will who have decided on collective action, but with whom Christianity was not necessarily the basis of all decisions. Justice and order meant more to them than religious faith, particularly as the churches, just as much as the political parties, had failed in their mission in Germany since 1945. In the "Legion's" view, the state must be the source of all power and authority, subject only to God-ordained limitations. What these limitations are, how they are to be defined, and—more important—who is to define them, Herr Schmalz did not say.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE did, however, give this definition of the "First Legion"; "It is a movement of the "Elite" for the rejuvenation of the state, a movement which ascribes much of its success to the fact that it has allowed the "Myth" a place in its ideological programme".

✧ ✧ ✧

THE two words "Elite" and "Myth" are reminiscent of the "higher" Nazi terminology. Himmler's S.S. prided itself on being an "Elite" organization, and Alfred Rosenberg's "Myth" of the 20th century was the pseudo-philosophic justification of Nazi doctrine. Schmalz's use of these words immediately offered Dr. Schumacher's Social-Democrats a target at which to aim their denunciation of the "Legion".

✧ ✧ ✧

FRITZ HEINE, a member of the S.P.D. Executive laid down the party-line in an article also published in Die Welt. He declared: "The "First Legion" is a neo-fascist organization, an attempt by certain politicians of the Government Coalition parties to start a movement which borrows its ideas from the Ku-Klux-Klan and the S.S.....The formula used by the Nazi Party in its early days about 'its battle against the selfishness of the political parties, against the destructive class struggle, and the spirit of decay inherent in Marxism' has become part of the "First Legion" propaganda".

✧ ✧ ✧

HEINE'S view is not shared by some observers who claim objectivity. They say that the "First Legion" does not understand by "Elite" a collection of romantically inclined semi-intellectuals who feel themselves to be the "cream" of the German nation. Among the "Elite" it counts only those people who are prepared to bear responsibility and take an active part in democratic life.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE following facts about the "First Legion" have become known so far. Founded in 1948, it has been active for one year and had recruited over a thousand members before the occupation powers became aware of its existence. Today its membership exceeds 10,000. The leadership of the "Legion" is in the hands of a triumvirate consisting of Herr Schmalz, Dr. Boex, and Herr Dedekind, the latter a personal assistant of Minister Heliwege, the chairman of the strongly nationalistic "Deutsche Partei". Membership is not open to everybody. The intending "legionnaire" has to apply in writing. His background is then examined, and he must finally apear before a board of five senior members. They decide whether the applicant will be permitted to join or not. The basic unit of the "Legion" is the ten-men cell. The ten members know only each other. It is probably only the leader of the cell who liaises with the next higher unit.

✧ ✧ ✧

CIRCLES of "Friends of the First Legion" exist in the universities, in the various Land parliaments, in certain newspaper offices, and in broadcasting stations. The central secretariat of the "First Legion" is in Duesseldoft. It is headed by one Dr. Eicker.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE activities of the "First Legion" are directed against the Communists and those extreme right-wing groups which are prepared to work with them. The "Bruderschaft" (Brotherhood), another secret organization, which is headed by former S.S. officers, Nazi Party functionaries, and some senior ex-officers of the Wehrmacht, has been singled out by the "Legion" as the principal target for its attacks.

✧ ✧ ✧

UNDOUBTEDLY some of the aims of the "First Legion" will find approval in the West. Although it is a secret society, the names of the leaders are known and they are not afraid of stating their case—or as much of it as they want to be known—in public. The secrecy that surrounds the "Legion" may be no more than an astute propaganda trick which its leaders believe will gain them the eager support of young people in Germany, who do not like their politics neat but prefer them mixed with a dash of romanticism.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT however praiseworthy some of the "First Legion's" intentions may be, its existence raises the question whether a democracy needs the services of a non-democratic organization to safeguard it against its enemies. The "Legion" is non-democratice because it neither can—nor would wish to—appeal to the electorate. It has no popular mandate and its very activities must in the long run weaken German democracy because their effect would be to undermine public confidence in the normal processes of parliamentary democracy and to divert the energy and faith which should be helping to strengthen the democratic state structure of the infant Federal Republic.

HITCHED HIS DRAGON TO A STAR

Letters To The Editor

SPIRIT OF MACKENZIE NEEDED

Sir: After reading all the letters for and against in the Summer Theatre controversy, it seems to me that we need fighting men and women on the Board of Education, who are willing to carry out the rights and wishes of the majority of the citizens. We want the Summer Theatre in the Queen Mary Auditorium. Let the Board go to court over the issue if necessary. I am sure that the people of Peterborough would be behind the Board if they went to court and it would show that they had some stamina and spirit. I feel very strongly that there is a danger of losing the Summer Theatre to some other city and this would be a great loss for the cultural life of Peterborough. We need some people on the Board of Education with the blood of William Lyon Mackenzie flowing in their veins.

I have just finished reading Marchette Chute's excellent Life of Shakespeare and on page 290 you will notice that the theatre of that day had the same trouble with puritans, who objected to the patrons parking in front of their property. Surely we have advanced a little farther than that in nearly three hundred and fifty years?

Yours sincerely,
FLORNIE BAXTER YOUNG.

305 Stewart St.

APPRECIATE BROADCASTS

Sir: The members of the Music Club of the Women's Art Association wish you to know how much we have enjoyed the series of piano recitals given by Agnes Logan Green during the past season.

We feel that the Peterborough Examiner, in giving us the opportunity to hear this fine artist, is making a notable contribution to the cultural life of our city.

May we anticipate Mrs. Green's return to the radio in a similar series next season?

Yours truly,
MARY I. BAKER.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

Sir: I have read with interest and disgust the recent letters in your respected paper from "Canadian who has served" and "Canada first etc." I have lived and worked with Canadians in Peterborough about thirty-five years and have always found them excellent work mates. I too served overseas voluntarily in World War 1 and World War 2. During that time we did not seem to care what nationality the people were so long as they were on our side. Why the different attitude all of a sudden in peace time?

The good Lord did not make Canada for Canadians any more than he made England for the English. I know lots of Canadians holding good jobs in England but the English don't squeal about it, and if the writers of the letters referred to were offered better jobs in England than they have here they would be foolish not to accept them, unless they would not like to leave mom and dad. Why do so many Canadians cross over to the U.S.A.? The answer is obvious. Any person who has the chance to better himself, but hasn't the ambition to do so is not worth his salt. On the other hand if any person is doing his job satisfactorily to all concerned he has nothing to fear from any quarter. The writer of "Canada first etc." states Canada for Canadians.

From a selfish point of view that sounds fine, but I have heard that if all foreign investments were taken out of Canadian industries there would not be much left for Canadians to carry on. I think a person should be able to buy a ticket to travel to any part of the world providing of course that person behaves himself. If Canadian and Englishmen fought side by side for democracy, why not be able to work side by side for the same ideal? "Canada first etc." letter strikes me as "I'm alright, to h—l with anyone else". Let us all do our own job and do it well and have nothing to fear. And if we can help the other fellow let us do that too. We already have one Joe Stalin and that's enough.

In conclusion I wish to state I respect Canada and Canadians, but if you are the kind of Canadians I would gather from your letters (and I hope not) thank God

I am,
BRITISH.

TOUCHED SORE SPOT

Sir In my letter to you on immigration, I seem to have touched a sore spot. To your English and Scotch correspondents, and to would-be correspondents I have this to say: I was speaking just for myself and my own experiences—not for them or anybody else. Also, I neither expect or want a 'handout', any goal that I aim at I will reach by own efforts.

Incidentally, I am rather curious about the 'I. Q. Fowler'. I did not mention in my letter how long I had been in Canada, how then can she say she came over about the same time as myself? I know no such person! May I change my signature from 'Disgusted' to 'AMUSED'.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. (Isa. 55: 7-9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also....

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other, or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. (Matt. 6: 19-21, 24.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at his doctrine. (Matt. 7: 28.)

THE REAL DIPLOMAT

He was conscious that trouble was brewing when he went out in the morning. When he got home that night he learned what he had done.

With tears in her eyes his wife exclaimed: "I know you don't love me—you've forgotten my birthday!"

"Darling," he said, "I'm more sorry than I can say, but it is really your fault."

"My fault?" she exclaimed. "How can that be?"

He took her hand in his. "How can I remember your birthday," he asked, "when there is never anything about you to remind me that you are a day older than you were a year ago?"

"Don't be silly, Ernie—nobody's been arranging peace conferences behind your back.

Find Canadians Spending More On Movies

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP). — Whether movies are better than ever—as Hollywood says—or not, Canadians are spending more money on them than ever before.

Unaffected by the television boom that has given some anxious moments to United States theatre operators, expenditure by Canadians on movies in 1949 climbed to $91,176,568, an increase of nine per cent over the previous year's figure of $83,283,436.

The 1949 total includes Newfoundland—for the first time—but even without the new Maritime province aggregate receipts were way up—$90,261,601.

Attendance in theatres continued to rise, climbing to 232,998,545 from 222,459,224, the Bureau of Statistics said Monday.

The record-breaking movie take provided a healthy $12,616,789 in taxes but nohe to the Federal government, 1949 being the first full year in which there was no federal amusement tax.

Individually, Canadians spent an average of $6.89, compared with $6.50 per person in 1948. Provincial averages ranged from $2.69 in Newfoundland to $8.94 in Ontario.

The amount of spending per person on movies increased in all provinces except Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

In receipts by provinces, Nova Scotia, Quebec and the prairie provinces showed the biggest jump over 1948, their net receipts ranging from 14 to 20 per cent higher.

Ontario's net receipts also were up considerably—by eight per cent—but British Columbia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island showed only minor gains.

Measuring the increased popularity of motion picture entertainment by paid admissions, Nova Scotia, Quebec and the prairies again gave it the biggest boost. Their paid admissions were up from four to eight per cent. Ontario was three per cent higher but New Brunsuwick and British Columbia each declined two per cent.

WHAT ARE THEY?—This modern-day "lamb-and-lion" situation ended in the retreat of the bears. Fritzy and Mitzy, five-week-old cubs caught near Flin Flon, Man., are housed temporarily in a Winnipeg hatchery until they can be shipped to a wild animal farm in New York State.

Asks Ontario Follow Nordic Countries

TORONTO, March 20 (CP). — A suggestion that Ontario follow the lead of Nordic countries in lumber operations was made on Monday night by William Salo of the Great Lakes Lumber and Shipping Company of Fort William.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Men of the Trees, he said the Nordic system means cutting the forest so that it yields at least 90 per cent of its crop for productive purposes. Onario gets 25 per cent out of its forest areas, he added.

It what are known as all-purpose forest operations under the Nordic system, trees are cut and routed to their most suitable uses—the larger sizes for lumber, furniture, poles, timbers and other wood products. the smaller sizes for pulp and paper mills, plastic and nylon mills.

Mr. Salo said that in Ontario full value of the forest now is being reduced to one-quarter its real worth by single-purpose operations which remove only certain species and that lumber, tie, pole and timber industries are being forced out of production.

He said that practically all the accessible, merchantable Crown timber in Northern Ontario is controlled by eight big companies of the pulp and paper industry, with three American-owned companies alone controlling 25,000 square miles.

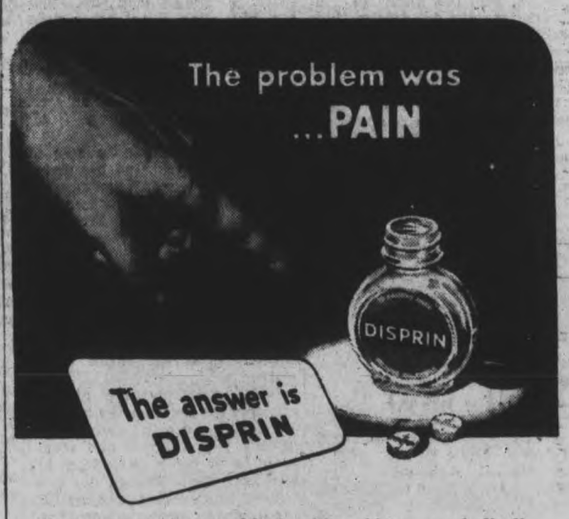
Find 2 Tons Hidden Arms

GENOA, Italy March 20 (AP) —Police found two tons of well-oiled carefully-hidden arms and ammunition Monday near Genoa's Ansaldo Shipyards, where 14 tons of other arms were found a month ago.



The discovery brought to over 20 tons the amount of hidden weapons and munitions found in searches all over Italy during the last month. Police fear the arms, usually found well-kept and ready for use, represent the hidden arsenals of an underground army—possibly Communist.

Find Freedom Disappointing Prefer Commonwealth

By DOUGLAS LACKERSTEEN

RANGOON, March 20 (AP)—If they had a free choice, 90 per cent of the Burmese would vote for a return to the Commonwealth, but first, says an authoritative source, there must be a change in government.

A new government, shorn of its Socialist influence, would seriously consider reforging links with the Commonwealth, veteran Burmese politician U Ba Pe said in an interview, provided Burmese independence is guaranteed.

Associated with this country's administration for more than 40 years, Ba Pe helped mould the anti-Fascist People's Freedom League which accepted transfer of power from Britain in 1948. He was adviser to assassinated Prime Minister Aung San during independence negotiations with the British cabinet.

Now 68, he and a group of older politicians hope to make a comeback to power if and when independent Burma holds its first general election.

Think It Mistake

Other responsible Burmese share Ba Pe's opinion the Burmese made a mistake in severing political ties with Britain.

One of these, U Chit Hlaing, former Speaker in the Burmese Parliament, told reporters Burmese independency came too soon. He said the sudden change in status upset the country's economy and gave rise to all kinds of troubles.

Neutral observers show no surprise at this swing in Burmese feelings. They say it is a natural reaction to first elation over independence.

When Burma's five-star tricolor replaced Britain's Union Jack Jan. 4, 1948, the Burmese anticipated a future as rosy as the breaking dawn.

After 122 years of British rule, the Burmese saw in independence an opportunity for nation-building enterprises.

Civil war breaking out three months after independence cut short their hopes.

Newspapermen Ask Arbitration

QUEBEC, March 20— (CP). — The Quebec Newspapermen's Syndicate (CCCL) Monday inscribed arbitration proceedings with the Provincial Department of Labor in its dispute with publishers of L'Evenement-Journal, Le Soliel and L'Action Catholique.

The syndicate, representing about 70 editorial and clerical workers and proofreaders on the three Quebec dailies, said negotiations for a new contract, started last December, brought no agreement.

Next step will be for the syndicate and the employers to select arbitration board representatives who will meet to find a mutually-acceptable chairman.

The syndicate is asking for a wage scale of $40-$85 weekly, spread over a 10-year period for editorial workers; $35-$75 weekly for proofreaders over six years, and $25-$45 for clerical workers over six years.

The syndicate is also asking three weeks paid holidays after five years, the checkoff of union dues, four paid holidays a year, and syndicate membership of all employees after six months.

Oddfellows Trim Oshawa To Even Up Group Series

Bun Kingdon's sparkling Oddfellows roared to victory over Oshawa Bees last night 10-1 at the motor city to square their best-of-seven group final hockey series at two games apiece. The fifth struggle is slated for Civic Arena, Thursday night, this week.

Displaying their finest form of the season as a team, the inspired Links took command in the early stages with a masterful all round display, held a 3-0 lead after two heats, then blazed through a steaming final frame to put seven tallies past the bewildered Pallister. Marshall's long shot from the blue line near the right boards was the lone Bee marker of the hectic finale as Oddfellows forechecked their game but weary rivals dizzy and attacked with deadly accuracy.

West Leads

Dean West, centre-ice star of the first line trio, led his mates with three goals and three assists and played a smart game throughout. Close behind came Wyatt with two goals and three assists as he turned in another great game since his recovery from a recent painful shoulder injury. Single goals were registered by Jim Morrow, Lefty Doris, Ray Douglas, Ab Buckton and Army Armstrong as the entire squad worked well.

Bill Stewart turned in his best effort of the season as he handled a defence chore in place of the injured Don Clapper and seemed quite at home away from his left wing spot. Though not prominent in a scoring way, he like the Robinson brothers, Ken Floyd and Ab Buckton were in the game every minute giving their best and to good advantage. The defence shone, too, while Red Wasson handled his cage like a champion.

Opened Slowly

Play opened cautiously in the first with fairly close checking on both sides but finally late in the frame as play increased greatly in tempo, Oddfellows clicked on a ganging attack as Floyd to Gary Robinson to West out front paid off as the latter whistled the disc low into the mesh. The second period found Links again the better and close to the half-way mark, Doris and Morrow each registered neat tallies assisted by Douglas, Buckton, Wyatt and West. Bees tried hard to penetrate Wasson's armour and Etcher and Chiroski, two Oshawa stars, came close as did Lawrence but it was no dice even at point-blank range with the red-head hot.

Then came the finale and as play opened wide, Links added to their margin in a glittering display of teamwork. For Oshawa in defeat, George Brabin, Jim Johnson, Chiroski, Jed Wilson, De Gray and Edwards looked best with Etcher not fully recovered from a recent injury.

IOOF—Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Shearer, Wasson; centre, West; wings, Morrow, Wyatt; alts., Stewart, Armstrong, Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Doris.

Oshawa—Goal, Pallister; defence, Hillman, Marshall; centre, DeGray; wings, Brabin, Wilson; alts., Edwards, Johnson, Etcher, Lawrence, Chiroski, Keller, Deeth, O'Connor.

Giant Sparkplug Stanky Enjoys Being "Brat"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 (AP).—Eddie Stanky relishes the role of National League "brat." By worrying the pitchers, annoying the hitters and outsmarting the enemy, he earns his $30,000 salary with New York Giants.

"Sure I'm a base-on-balls hitter," he said. "It's no insult. I've been in baseball 17 years and led most every league in walks. I'm not a powerful man or fast, so I get by on what I have."

"Every pennant winner has to have a good lead-off man and a good relief pitcher. I'm the guy who has to be on base for the good hitters to drive home."

Eddie, of course, is more than just "the guy who has to be on base." An aggressive, brainy veteran with the knack of being in the right spot at the right time, Stanky at 33 is the key to the Giants' infield.

He can't hit, but he averaged .300. He can't run, but he hit into only eight double plays. He can't throw, but he handled the ball in 128 double plays.

That's why there was deep concern in the Giant camp when Stanky suffered a "hairline fracture" of the left wrist in his first exhibition game. Now they say he'll be back at work in a week.

Stanky drove the league crazy last summer with his annoying windmill calisthenics around second base. They had to write a new rule into the book to cover his antics.

Westman's Leading

With but two more bowling nights to go, Cliff Westman and his Flying Saucers lead the IOOF Bowling League of eight teams with 62 points. Walter Booth and his Spitfires with 58 points are next, and then Dennis Buckton and the Bombers with 52. Buckton rolled 683 this week as Bob Henry had 641, Bill Matheson 623, Art Reynolds 616 and Walter Booth 607.

Good singles included: Bill Matheson 296, C. Dewar 250, W. Booth 254, Cliff Westman 241, Ken Hotrum 238, M. Hamilton 230, Harry Young 223, Geo. Anderson 242, A. Reynolds 248, Bob Henry 235, Harold Roberts 216, C. Theobald 216, D. Buckton 260 and Emma Roberts 217.

P of W Gains Final

Prince of Wales seniors defeated Queen Mary 10-8 at the arena Monday in their School Hockey League semi-final playoff. It was a keen, wide-open struggle, with N. Clarke, W. Brown and T. Northrop the pick of the winners. J. Dafoe, E. Deal and R. Brown stood out for Queen Mary.

N. Clarke scored four goals for Prince of Wales, L. Clarke and Godfrey getting two apiece. T. Northrop had a goal and an assist, as did W. Brown, with Heron having one assist. Dafoe and Deal scored two each for the losers, with singles tallied by Morgan, Brown, Brady and Friar. The latter, Boyce and Putnam each had an assist. Teams:

Prince of Wales: N. Clarke, Chambo, Coit, Heron, Hancock, Godfrey, L. Clarke, Brown, Thompson, Northrop, Carl, Ridyard, Hunt.

Queen Mary: Morgan, Dafoe, Deal, Brown, Friar, Brady, Horton, Boyce, Putnam, Reynolds, Dafoe, Stinson.

Referees: J. Barnard and E. Druery.

Ken Kingston President Of The PMLA

Ken Kingston was returned last night as president of the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association at the annual meeting. Jack Cooper is vice-president, Walter Murphy secretary, and Keith Sedgewick the treasurer. Conveners for the year are: Juveniles, George Hill; Midgets, Ben Kellar; Bantams, Walter Firth; the daytime-playing peewees and tadpoles are directly under Harry Wipper. The managers include: Barney Dundas, Ray Renwick, Wilf Heffernan, Malcolm VanAllen, Wilf Schweir, Al Beavis, and Joe Whitnall. In charge of referees is Bun Hill.

It is planned to start the minor lacrosse season earlier this year, in May, playing two nights a week as well as during the day. The association will have about 16 teams in, the junior OALA entry operating on its own. It is hoped to have "Life-Saver Day" again to help raise finances for promotion of the sport for Peterborough boys. The 1950 reports were presented to the gathering and various plans discussed for the coming season.

Cricket Match On Way To Draw

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., March 20 (Reuters)—The first England-New Zealand cricket test match was well on the road to a draw tonight, with England 100 runs behind the New Zealand total for the loss of four first-innings wickets.

Only one day remains in the four-day encounter. England started out this morning with 63 runs for one wicket, but accurate New Zealand bowling kept down the scoring rate and the batsmen only got 317 for four.

Feature of the day's play was a third-wicket partnership of 129 between Reg Simpson and Denis Compton. Compton was eventually out for 79.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

An appeal to Canada to take greater interest in rugger was issued at the 84th annual dinner of the Twickenham Rugby Football Club at Twickenham, Middlesex, England.

Cecil Dixon, formerly of the English Rugby Football Union, said he would like to see Canada take as active a part in the sport as such other commonwealth countries as South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

A British Varsity crew will compete in American waters for the first time in history April 14, the 100-year-old Boston Union Boat Club announced Monday night.

The winner of the Oxford-Cambridge race on March 24 will accept an invitation to row here on Charles River against Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Boston University, president Robert B. Bradford reported.

A cup will be presented the winner of the 1¾-mile race.

At Lakeland, Fla., Detroit Tiger pitcher Fred Hutchinson said in an interview Monday that major league baseball players should have a voice in naming a new baseball commissioner.

The official player-representative of the American League reported there is a "definite move for the players to hire their own commissioner if they are given no voice in naming the owners' commissioner."

A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who was ousted by the owners as commissioner, has been suggested as a commissioner for the players, Hutchinson said.

Ferrier Gets $10,000 Third Win In Row

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Jim Ferrier of San Fancisco Monday won his third straight on the Professional Golfers' Association circuit when he copped the $10,000 Jacksonville open title by the amazing margin of 11 strokes. He shot a four-under-par 68 over the Hyde Park course for a 272-total.

Lloyd Mangrum, of Chicago, and Jack Shields, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., tied for second with 283.

Australia-born Ferrier pocketed $2,000.

USHL Playoffs Open After St. Paul's Win

By The Associated Press

The United States Hockey League playoffs open at Tulsa and Omaha Wednesday night following St. Paul's 5-3 victory over Tulsa Monday night in the regular season finale.

With the loss, Tulsa missed a chance to unseat Denver from third place and remained at the bottom of the playoff list. The Saints were runners-up in the loop.

Monday night's contest was postponed from Sunday, when the Tulsa team was snowbound aboard a train. The game was played at Minneapolis because the St. Paul ice was not available. For the same reason, the Saints will keep all playoff dates away from home.

A special meeting of the Ontario Football Association will be held in Peterborough this coming Saturday aft at 3.30 in conjunction with the local and district association. All local, district and Eastern Ontario clubs are invited to attend. President A. Arnold along with J. Simpson and Alex McGregor of the OFA will be on deck. General idea is to make a determined effort to iron out difference which are evident between the Peterborough United Club of the Eastern Ontario League and the Peterborough and District Soccer Association. It is hoped that good results will come of the meeting.

Senior baseball here certainly can't afford to lose two such stalwart officers in one year as the late Vern Dawson, who died last fall, and George Clarke, who died Sunday. Vern was president and George vice-prexy of the local club in recent years, and this pair practically single-handed got the floodlights in Riverside Park. They wouldn't let us tell the public of their untiring effort day and night for many weeks in going around to factories, banks, stores, etc., to raise the $15,000 needed before the council would consider letting them have the rest of the cost on loan. Their places will be mighty hard to fill. The senior club will meet later this month.

Eagles Will Be Back

The Eagles, who disappointed may puck fans here a week ago in losing to Belleville in senior "B" group semi-finals, at full strength would have breezed through that series. But they weren't and didn't. The point we're making is that they need only four or five good players to be plenty potent again. They gained two good men this year in Andy Milne and Jim Munroe, but they lost three good ones — Johnny Godfrey and Bob Parnell through injuries, and Chum Fryia to the Petes. Most of their better players of the late season should have several good years left, though these aces lost five of their best years in the services during the war.

* * * * * *

The point is that the gallant Eagles and their many ardent followers here shouldn't feel too discouraged. The club, with some intelligent rebuilding, can be a powerful one next season. They started as Legion the fall of '45 in an intermediate bush loop, many of the young war vets being woefully out of hockey practise. Yet they kept coming and for the three seasons previous to the 1950-51 campaign dominated this senior "B" grouping, winning the provincial title two years ago and bowing out in finals last year. And this past winter they led the group for quite a space, but injuries finally slowed 'em down till even Belleville managed to squeeze out a win in the deciding game with them in group semi-finals. But they'll be back again next puck campaign and much stronger, we'll bet.

Links Larrup The Bees

Oshawa Bees were feeling pretty cocky after winning here on Saturday but the Oddfellows knocked 'em for a row o fash cans right in the Motor City last eve. A 10-1 job with all the trimmings. It evens up their OHA junior "B" best-of-seven group finals at two wins each, next one being here on Thursday. Bun Kingdon's crew were flying in a swell showing, while the Bees looked pretty inept over most of the route. Dean West with three goals and three assists, and Bob Wyatt with five points, led the winners' attack, the whole squad playing heads-up and hurry-up hockey . Red Wasson almost earned a shutout in the Links' cage. Don Clapper was side-lined with an injury. The Thursday tilt here should draw a hefty crowd.

* * * * * *

Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association re-organized last eve with these officers chosen: President, Ken Kingston; vice-prexy, Jack Cooper; secretary ,Walt Murphy; treasurer, Keither Sedgewick; conveners, George Hill (juvenile), Ben Kellar (midget), and Walter Firth (bantam). Coach Harry Wipper personally handles the tadpoles and peewees. The whole setup has an OLA affiliation. Some of the managers will be: Barney Dundas, Al Beavis, Ray Renwick, Mal VanAllen, Wilf Heffernan, Joe Whitnall and Wilf Schweir. With Bun Hill in charge of referees. Lou Vitarelli will handle the junior team. 'Tis expected to start play in May this season, and ambitious plans are in the making.

Boxers Hear What's Said During Fight

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Does a boxer, in the heat of a fight, know what's going on around him?

"Sure," said Irish Bobby Murphy, the sensational San Diego slugger. "I hear everything. I notice everything. Maybe the others aren't like me. I don't know.

"But when I'm in the ring, I can hear the fans yelling. You can judge how they think a fight is going, too.

"When I move towards the corner where the radio guys are working I can even hear the announcing.

"It's funny, sometimes. You know the announcer is a couple of punches behind. He has to be to describe the fight. So often I hear this announcer saying I'm landing a left and right to the head. Well, that just happened before. Now I'm conecting with a left to the body. I throw a left to the body and the announcer has me throwing a right to the head.

Hear Lots Of Things

"Yeah, you hear a lot of things. There was one guy in San Diego who could holler pretty loud.

"I had about 30 fights in San Diego and this guy is always there. He's a big fat guy and every time I start into the ring, he wraps his arms around me and gives me a hug. When the fight is over and I climb down, there he is again, ready for another hug. Then he comes into the dressing room with me.

"One night I'm fighting a rough guy, and I hear one voice yelling 'Kill that Murphy! Kill that Murphy!'

"The voice sounds familiar. I get my opponent into a clinch and turn around to see who's yelling.

"Who do you think it is? My fat friend!"

Would Change Way Giving Vezina Trophy

DETROIT, March 20 (AP).—Sports writers covering the Detroit hockey beat today recommended that the National Hockey League revise its method of awarding the Vezina Trophy to goaltenders.

The proposed changes, earmarked for next season, came from the Detroit Hockey Writers' Association.

At present, the writers point out, the Vezina Trophy is given to the goalie who has played the most games for the team with the best defensive record. In effect, it is a team trophy.

The writers proposed four changes in a resolution to NHL president Clarence Campbell:

1—That the trophy go to the goalie with the best goals-against average.

2—That to be eligible goalies must have played at least 55 games in the current 70-game schedule.

3—That all goals which go into a net vacated upon orders from the coach be excluded from the total charged against the goalie.

4—That portions of games played by goalies be calculated on a fractional basis in minutes for purposes of computing the goals-against average.

The association commented that "it is the feeling that the present system is unfair to the goalies and misleading to the public. No logical reason can be seen for making a goalie responsible for the play of his substitute."

Central In Playoffs

Central edged Confederation seniors in their School Hockey League semi-final yesterday at the arena, and now meet Prince of Wales in the final late this afternoon. The Princes rubbed out Queen Mary in their semi-final bracket to qualify for the big playoff for the title.

Patterson, Gardner and Brooks scored the winners' goals, the latter also having an assist. Miller and Brown counted for the losers with Sloan aiding on one. Both goalies were good in the hard-fought fray, five penalties being handed out to the victors. Teams:

Central: Mathews, MacInnes, Butler, Patterson, Gardner, Brooks, Martyn, Naish, Armstrong, Tranter, Williams, Dunford, Brown, Gray, Craymer.

Confederation: Mein, Miller, Sloan, Simmons, Goldie, J. Brown Floyd, Little, McIntosh, Corner, Bolton, DuMoultin.

Referees: D. Lawless, and H. Wilson.

Whitby Oshawa Rink Takes First Rotary Club Bonspiel

A Whitby-Oshawa curling rink swept the Peterborough Rotary Club's first annual bonspiel Monday for the Peterborough Rotary Trohpy. At the club's weekly dinner in the Empress Hotel, A. Ward Smith, chairman of the club's bonspiel committee, made the presentation of the trophy and its prizes, silver ashtrays with a curling stone handle, to skip Ben Ward, William McIntyre, Howard McDermid and Percy Canning.

A rink, skipped by F. M. Johnston, of the Huntsville Rotary Club, closely followed the Whitby-Oshawa quartet and took second place and prizes of silver butter trays.

Tied With 19 Points

Three rinks followed up with 19 points and the third, fourth and fifth rinks had to be decided with one final stone. B. H. Price's Orillia rink came the closest to the centre to win the third prize, floor rugs, while the E. R. Wilkinson quartet from Bolton, 105 miles away, won fourth place for lighters and the Thomas F. McArthur rink of Peterborough fifth for toasters.

With no curling in Campbellford for the past few years the Rotary Club there was represented by E. C. West, W. S. Wiggins, Grant Anderson and H. J. Taylor. For their efforts in the 'spiel they received fountain pens. Ash trays, the hard luck prize, were presented to Gordon Mackey's rink from Lindsay. Les Boucher's rink from Huntsville won the prize for coming the greatest distance, and Lindsay's second rink, skipped by Daniel MacQuarrie, won the prize "on general principles."

Curling's history was briefly traced by the guest speaker, R. A. McMurtry, of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association. He began with the curling on ponds without rules to the first organized club in Scotland and Canada and its growth from clubs in Montreal, Cobourg and other centres.

Keene Very Old Club

The first curling club in the Peterborough area was the Cobourg club which was closely followed by the formation of the Otonabee club at Keene. Curling throughout Ontario followed the development of the Huron track, the Empire Loyalists and military groups in Western Ontario composed of Scot regiments.

There's a place for every person in the curling game, said Mr. McMurtry. Most curlers are "run-of-the-mill" type who curl for exercise and a good time. A few are sharpshooters after practice.

Mr. McMurtry pointed out that the aftermaths of curling make it different from many other games. Long after games are played the participants recall their actions and argue what play would have been better. Usually the dressing pronoun is "we" not "I," which helps to indicate it is a game which demands team-play, not an individualists' play.

No Professionalism

Mr. McMurtry said he is never afraid of professionalism in curling because there is little spectator interest.

The speaker was introduced by Thomas MacArthur and thanked by Burritt Smitheram.

Flyers Trip Galt 10-7 Qualify For Semi-Finals

By The Canadian Press

Barrie Flyers, who finished strong this season to top the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series, now have qualified for the league semi-finals.

Hap Emms' kids defeated Galt Black Hawks 10-7 at Barrie Monday night to win the best-of-five quarter-final in three straight games.

Barrie now awaits the outcome of the series between Oshawa Generals and Windsor Spitfires. The Spits defeated the Generals 4-2 in Windsor Monday night to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

In other quarter-final games, Toronto Marlboros beat Stratford Kroehlers 5-2 to take a 2-0 series lead, while Guelph Biltmores, playing at home, defeated St. Catharines Teepees 5-1 to take a 2-1 lead.

Flyers' Real Chevrefils, Leo Labine and Jerry Toppazzini each scored twice in the Barrie-Galt affair, while singletons went to Jack White, Bill Hagan, Doug Towers and Don Emms.

Don Hogan and Pete Conacher picked up a hat-trick apiece for Hawks, the other marker coming from Ken Wharram. A brief outbreak of fisticuffs occurred early in the third period, resulting in four major penalties and two minors.

Marlie Scoring

Ron Hurst and Ron Stewart scored twice each for Toronto Marlboros. Wally Maxwell accounted for the other goal, while Roy Leckie and 17-year-old Chick Chalmers hit the twine for Kroehlers.

Erwin Grosse, who scored Windsor's winning goal at Oshawa Friday, did it again when he broke the 2-2 deadlock half-way through the third period. Defenceman Martin Orica added one for good measure 13 seconds later, and the game ended with Spits only one game away from the semi-finals.

For the second time in the St. Catharines-Guelph series, Andy Bathgate led Guelph scorers with three goals. Ken Laufman and defenceman Harry Howell scored the other Biltmore markers.

Cliff Hicks, in the Guelph cage, lost his chance at a shut-out at 15:56 in the third period when Wayne Brown cashed in on Gord Lomar's rebound for the only Teepees goal.

Night Harness Racing Barred In Ontario

TORONTO, March 20 (CP).—There will no night harness racing in Ontario this year.

The Ontario Racing Commission announced Monday that no trotting or pacing race or heat shall start after 7 p.m. (DST) on any of the following tracks Thorncliffe, Dufferin, Woodbine, Long Branch, Fort Erie, Hamilton and Stamford.

Thorncliffe has been assigned 42 days, July 2 to Labor Day, but will not operate from Monday to Friday during the second week of the Hamilton thoroughbred meet.

Lach Laid Up

MONTREAL, March 20 (CP)—Elmer Lach, centre of Canadiens' punch line, is expected to be out of action for about a week, result of an ankle separation suffered here in Saturday's game against Boston. Club officials hoped Lach would return for playoffs.

If Bruins Make Playoffs Thank Schmidt

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

If Boston Bruins catch a playoff berth in the National Hockey League this season it will be in no small part due to the efforts of Milt Schmidt, one of the great centres of modern hockey.

The 190-pound six-footer from Kitchener, is having one of his best seasons in 12 years with Boston, and he's rated a great chance of winning the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player to his team.

Schmidt currently is in third place in the NHL scoring race with 22 goals and 38 assists for 60 points, a feat that grows in stature when it is placed beside the fact that Boston is vying with New York Rangers for the fourth and last playoff position.

At present Bruins would appear to have the edge over New York. They have a one-point lead and three games to play in the regular schedule while New York has only two.

Mathematical Chance

Boston plays Chicago Wednesday and meets Toronto Maple Leafs twice next weekend to wind up the season. They're naturally favored to beat the Black Hawks, who haven't won a game in their last 10, and if they do that they'll need only one victory in their two games with Toronto to qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs. There's a mathematical chance that the Bruins will overtake Montreal Canadiens, now three points ahead in third place but the possibility is slim.

As for New York, the future looks none too bright. The Rangers meet Detroit Red Wings Wednesday and they'll be rated as underdogs against the league champions. However, if they win that one, they may retain some hope because their last game is against Chicago.

Up at the top of the league, things have been fairly well settled. Detroit is certain of first place, Toronto is solid in second and Canadiens, now in third, are sure of at least a playoff position.

About the only matter to be settled in remaining games among the leaders is the Vezina Trophy which goes to the goaltender playing the most games for the team with the fewest goals against it.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit is ahead now, but only by two goals over Toronto's Al Rollins-Turk Broda combination. Each team has three games to play, and a scoring outburst in any one of them could just about decide who will get the trophy.

Sawchuk, incidentally, leads the shutout parade with 10, four more than his nearest opponents.

Gus Mortson of Toronto remains league bad man with a total of 142 minutes in the penalty box.

Flyers Protest Games McCormack Played

PITSBURGH, March 20 (CP)—Pittsburgh Hornets received notice Monday that St. Louis Flyers had protested all games since Feb. 15 in which centre John McCormack played.

The Flyers, fourth-place finishers in the western division of the American Hockey League, claimed McCormack was sent down by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League after the trading deadline.

The Hornets, who finished third, contend McCormack was in Canada for medical treatment and not on recall by the Leafs.

In New York, league president Maurice Podoloff said he was investigating the protest.

Henderson Out

BOSTON, March 20 (AP). — Boston will finish its regular National Hockey League season without Murray Henderson who pairs with Bill Quackenbush on the Bruins' defence. Henderson, X-rays showed Monday, suffered a cracked rib Saturday night in Montreal against Canadiens.

Use Of Lip Reading Method Questioned By Legislature

TORONTO, March 20—(CP)—The long-debated question of whether deaf students should be taught lip-reading or hand signs was raised in the Ontario Legislature Monday as $54,676,900 was voted to the province's education department budget.

William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) said the Ontario Association of the Deaf was opposed to oral methods taught exclusively at the province's school for the deaf at Belleville. The association had found 95 per cent of graduates changed to hand signs when they found lip-reading was impractical.

Education Minister Porter said methods at the school are under review and other methods would be tried until the best is found.

Lip-reading, if successful, was the best method, he said, since it gave deaf people contact with others. The argument over methods had gone on for years, however.

Need More Scholarships

Reid Scott, 24-year-old CCF member for Toronto Beaches, asked that the number of university scholarships granted by the province be increased to match a growing demand.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar announced a change in policy respecting municipal grants which would benefit municipalities annexing neighboring township areas.

Grants paid to township areas, which are higher than for urban areas, would be continued for five years after annexation. During the folowing five years, grants would be decreased to urban levels.

Mr. Dunbar said this would benefit such cities as Sarnia, Kingston, Oshawa and Ottawa, which recently annexed township areas, and would also apply to Toronto if the municipal board approved a planned annexation of township areas around the provincial capital.

1954 Target

G. H. Allies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, reported that the proposed power development at Niagara Falls will be in operation by 1954. Preliminary work had started on yards, rail facilities and living quarters, with 1,000 men at work.

W. L. Houck, Liberal member and former mayor of Niagara Falls, urged that the power commission name one of its new generating plants after Dr. Thomas Hogg, a native of Chippewa and chairman of the commission for more than 30 years. The new genrating plant at Niagara is to be called the Sir Adam Beck Station No. 2, after the father of Ontario's public hydro system.

The appointment of Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto, as representative of the province's milk consumers on the new Milk Control Board to be established this week was announced by Premier Frost.

Mayor McCallum will be a new member of the revised control board, set up under emergency legislation now before the legislature, which will set maximum retail prices of milk in the province.

Only criticism of the planned appointment was made by Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader, who suggested that a woman or trade union representative be named to the board, on which producers and distributors are now represented.

The premier told reporters that Mayor McCallum would represent the largest milk market in Ontario.

During the education debate, Mr. Scott said the number of university scholarships given in cases of need were not increasing with the numbers who needed them. In 1943 there were 101 scolarships granted from 211 applications while last year 167 of 578 applications were granted.

Not Doing Best

"The government should plan its scholarship program on the basis of the number of young people seeking to enter university each year," Mr. Scott said. The province was not doing its best on the basis of its financial strength.

Robert Thornberry (CCF-Hamilton Centre) urged that the province's athletic commission should be given increased authority to deal with rowdiness and fighting in sports.

W. H. Temple (CCF-Toronto High Park) noted a $5,000 grant to the Temperance Education Association. The veteran temperance campaigner asked the government how it intended to spend "this pitiful sum of money."

Mr. Porter said it was spent by the association, which distributed literature in schools describing physical effects of alcohol. The literature was "suitable and effective," he said. A larger grant in alcoholism research was handled under the department of health.

Attacks Artists

A world-wide, subversive attack on christianity and democratic morality by a "nihilist" school of modern artists was sketched verbally in the legislature by Leslie Wismer (CCF-Toronto Riverdale).

Mr. Wismer took as his point of attack a $6,000 grant in the education department estimates for the Toronto Art Gallery.

He asked that the grant be delayed until the government finds out what the gallery paid for two sculptured busts of women's heads.

The busts, by modernists Picasso and Matisse, showed "just how hideous some things can be," Mr. Wismer said. In his opinion, they showed something more—that the government shouldn't spent money on a certain group of artists.

Certain modern paintings were "only a set of symbols". Once you knew what the symbols were, it was easy to read their mesasge.

Sign Language

"The symbols are used to create the impression that our christian civilization is disappearing," Mr. Wismer said. There were also sex symbols, he added darkly. "It's a sign language that they send to each other throughout the world, and we are to call it art."

One of the two Communist members, Joseph Salsberg, (Lab.-Prog.-Toronto St. Andrew) replied that Picasso was a "self-appointed Communist" whose art was not highly appreciated in Russia.

Mr. Salsberg was applauded by government benches when he said: "It will be a sorry day when politicians assume the role of arbiters in art."

The house passed the grants.

ACTION OF IRAN'S PARLIAMENT in voting unanimously for government seizure of the nation's British-owned oil industry is considered a great triumph for the pro-Russian faction. The $582,000,000 Anglo-Iran Oil Company controls all Iran's oil wells and sells the output only to Western and pro-Western nations. Map above shows why the Kremlin wants not only Iranian oil (6.02 per cent of world output) but also seeks to bring the country into its orbit because of its strategic location.

Fail To Get Contract Galt Workers Strike

GALT, Ont., March 20 (CP).—About 100 employees of the Galt plant of Riverside Silk Mills went on strike Monday following failure to negotiate a new wage contract.

Another 35 employees of the company's plant at Mitchell, took similar action. The strikers are members of the Textile Workers' Union (CIO).

The union recently rejected a Feb. 21 conciliation board report recommending a five-cent wage boost and other concessions.

Victory For Truckers

OAKVILLE, March 20 (CP) — The Royal Commission report on transportation was "a victory for the Canadian trucking industry." John Magee, executive-secretary of the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association, said Monday night. He told the Oakville Rotary Club that the commission had "rejected entirely the theory that the trucking industry should be eliminated in order to bolster railway economy."

List of Weapons

BERLIN, March 20 (Reuters)—American authorities in Berlin issued a long statement Monday night listing war equipment allegedly being produced in East Germany. The list ranged from anti-aircraft gun parts, munitions and components for tanks, warships and aircraft, to precision optical instruments for submarines and artillery.

Ship Building Given Big Boost

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP) — The defence deparment disclosed Monday that the ship-building program for the navy is being boosted from 27 ships to more than 40 as part of Canada's growing defence effort.

The new figure was given for the first time in a Commons return tabled for Samuel R. Balcom (L—Halifax) and bared plans to build a new type of small ship, a "deperming vessel" to be used to help combat magnetic mines.

The program is part of the drive to build up a 100-ship navy by 1954 and is being carried out in Canadian yards from coast to coast.

BOAC Loses 14 Million

LONDON, March 20 (Reuters) —The state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation, which covers the world outside Europe, lost £5,000,000 ($14,000,000) in the year ended Jan. 31, it was announced Monday night. This compares with a loss of £8,000,000 the previous year.

Has New Position

LONDON, March 20 (CP) — John Grieson, 52-year-old wartime director of Canada's National Film Board, now is associate producer with a British film unit in Southall, Middlesex. He went to his new job from the central office of information, where for nearly three years he was controller of film activities.

Urges Rent Control On Two-Way Basis

TORONTO, March 20 (CP). — Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said Monday night that the Ontario government should take over rent control immediately on a two-way road basis. Federal control soon will expire.

In an address prepared for delivery over a CBC Ontario network in the free-time "Provincial Affairs" series, he said:

"This control should be a two-way road so that neither the honest landlord nor the honest tenant suffers. All things should be done with a view to that which is fair and just. Both tenant and landlord should be encouraged to co-operate with the government to make the task of the administration as easy as possible."

Mr. Thomson repeated his prediction that Ontario's Progressive Conservative administration will call an election in June or earlier. He predicted that his party will win that election.

'By Misadventure'

CALGARY, March 20 (CP) — Pte. Robert Henry Ford, 20, of Hamilton, came to his death "by misadventure" in a dumb waiter shaft at Currie Barracks here March 1, it was ruled Monday by an inquest jury. The jury added, however, that "it is evident that some person or persons, presently unknown, cut the rope" so that the dumb waiter fell and caught Ford's neck between it and a steel door.

Get No Request

OTTAWA, March 20 (CP) — Canada has received no request from the government of France for the extradition of Count Jacques de Bernonville, a Commons return said Monday. It was tabled for Henri Courtemanche (PC—Labelle). De Bernonville has been ordered deported by the federal government but has taken court action to stay the move.

Want Commission

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 20 (CP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council Monday voted in favor of establishing an impartial commission to investigate allegations for forced labor throughout the world. Sponsored by the United States and Britain, the resolution is largely aimed at looking into the accuracy of slave-labor charges against Russia and other Iron Curtain countries.

Quadruple Amputee

READER'S DIGEST TELLS WHAT LAXATIVES ARE BEST FOR YOU!

Place Record In Stone At City Hall

Film Examiner Copy Recording Laying Of Foundation Stone

Most of the records of Peterborough which are being deposited in the foundation stone of the city hall are in microfilm.

Every page of the issue of the Examiner of Dec. 2, 1950, reporting the laying of the stone by Premier Leslie M. Frost, has been filmed. Nothing has been omitted. The story of Peterborough's city hall in Civic Administration, a Maclean publication which it featured in six pages with illustrations, was also filmed, with the booklet of the city issued by the council in 1949. It was mainly an industrial survey with pictures of manufacturing plants, commercial and other facts There is also the legal record of Mr. W. G. Morrow's gift to the community.

There was also some local historic matter prepared by City Clerk Outram who on Monday transferred the compendium in film of Peterborough at the turn of the half century to the contractor, Mr. J. H. Eastwood, of Eastwood Construction Company.

Special Steel Box

The container is a special steel box about 3 x 3 x 4 inches which fits into a small cavity of those dimensions hollowed out of the rear of the foundation stone.

This microfilm is now extensively used in the making and filing of permanent records. It is impervious to heat and moisture, and is close to being indestructible.

The stone will be plainly visible to the public on entering the rotunda of the city hall, Mr. Outram said today. It is being set in the wall and near the base, and above it will be the splendid picture of the late Mr. Morrow which was the work of Fred L. Roy. It was one of the finest portraits the studio ever turned out, and since its production it has been hung above the desk in Mr. Morrow's office in the Toronto Savings and Loan building.

The film, with some coins and a few other articles marking the present, were carefully packed in the steel box by Mr. Outram. The days of newspaper records are gone.

Court Remands Gun-Toting Hiker

COBOURG. March 20 (ENS)—William Wannamaker, 24, of R.R. 1, Trenton, was remanded Monday to March 22 for sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob while armed with an offensive weapon.

A .22 calibre revolver, allegedly used in the holdup of two Toronto men, is being tested to see if it will fire.

On March 12 Wannamaker was given a lift at Trenton by John Angelson, the driver, and his companion, George Morin. When the car neared Port Hope the hitch-hiker drew the revolver and threatened the two men.

Morin told police that Wannamaker pulled the trigger of the gun but it didn't fire. It was later found to contain seven cartridges.

'Mikado' Staged With Verve By The Grove Schoolboys

Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado was given a full-dress and enthusiastic presentation Monday evening in the Grove School hall, Lakefield, by the boys of the school. The costuming was particularly good, and some of the gowns were authentic Japanese, splendid on the stage though not stage properties. The headdress of the chorus of schoolgirls, and especially of the principals like The Mikado and Katisha was ingeniously contrived and startlingly effective.

What the singing lacked in quality and polish was compensated for by the ingenuity of the voices. The big chorus work at the end of each act came off with unexpected resonance, and this and the part-songs, such as "Tit Willow" and "Merry Madrigal" kept the production in good musical shape.

Ko Ko and Katisha Hits

Nick Powell as Ko Ko and Mrs. William Rashleigh as Katisha were the hits of the evening. Powell has a rare comic sense and showed himself very much at ease on the stage, even when he had lapses of memory. Mrs. Rashleigh gave an abounding performance as the daughter-in-law-elect, and with great success provoked both the laughter and sympathy of the audience; it was a fine interpretation of the part.

Mr. Edgar Moore was Nanki Poo, the "second trombone," son of the Mikado. He has a pleasing voice, and with Miss Jean Smith, his Yum Yum (whose solos won encores), made an attractive couple. Morgan Bonney, under feverish difficulties, was appropriately low and mighty as Lord High Everything Else.

The set was well created to make the best use of the small stage. The lighting was good, too, but people behind stage were experimentally uncertain what to leave on when.

The Cast

The portentous Mikado was Percy Sherwood. Kit Mainguy was Pish Tush; Miss Sheila Smith and Michael Beeman were two of the three sisters. The chorus of school girls was: S. Hunter, G. Hutchison, R. Baker, P. Saunders, C. Pullen, B. Eaton, Ted Wilkes, H. Scott, J. Beal. J. Gray, R. McCann and M. Haig. The chorus of nobles was: W. Rashleigh, D. Dale, I. McCallum, K. Little, D. MacNaughton, F. Pearce, M. Townsend, B. Macnaughton and Messrs. Wm. Rashleigh and Hugh Ketchum.

Michael Roper and Darroch Macgillivray were in charge of scenery; Dalton Coleman and Greg Roper of lighting.

Stage director was John Wilkins. Musical director was Christopher Gledhill, music master at the school, and Mrs. Agnes Logan Green was at the piano. Mrs. G. Winder Smith was A.D.C. to the production. It is being given again tonight.—T.J.A.

Flower Society Head To Speak

President of the Rose Society of Ontario, Fred F. Dufton of Cobourg will be the speaker at the Horticultural Society meeting in the YWCA next Monday at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Roses" and will be illustrated.

"This is the first time Mr. Dufton has been our guest," W. C. Wilks, secretary, informed The Examiner. "Everybody interested in the growing of roses should come to this meeting. The public is invited. Mr. Dufton is an authority on roses, and is an interesting speaker."

The society is offering three Easter lilies as door prizes. A collection at the door will help defray expenses.

Many members have renewed their subscriptions, and it is hoped the total will exceed last year's. Application should be made early, as some of the premiums are beginning to run low.

Miss Evelyn Scott of the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture has consented to accept membership fees and issue tickets.

PROMOTED IN 28th.

Craftsman Borden Ralph Hunter has been promoted to acting corporal in the 28th Technical Squadron, RCEME, the A. and T. staff announced today. During World War Two he served with the North Nova Scotia Regiment as a corporal.

Police Honor Morris At Banquet

Recently Appointed Inspector Leaves City March 26

Some 75 district police, their wives and other friends of OPP Inspector Price Morris held a dinner at the Kawartha Club Monday night in honor of the newly - appointed inspector and Mrs. Morris.

They are leaving March 26 and will live in Sudbury where he will be district inspector, effective April 1.

Inspector Alan Stringer, now of Sudbury, will come to Peterborough to head No. 8 district.

Corporal Lloyd McClure presented Inspector Morris with a gladstone bag and Mrs. Morris with a mirror on behalf of the Provincial Police of this district and members of the staff. And Chief Constable John Thompson, as a token of esteem by the city police, gave him a pen and pencil set.

Corporal Joseph Hanson was master of ceremonies.

Among those present were Magistrate W. R. Philp, Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill and V. J. McElderry, KC, former crown attorney for Peterborough County.

After the dinner the guests danced to the accompaniment of music supplied by Jack Marshall, Fenelon Falls.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

DRAW WINNER

Miss Margaret O'Brien, 529 Bolivar St., was the winner of the Lions Ladies' draw which was held at the bingo Monday night. The prize was a $100 spring outfit.

EASTER SEAL RECEIPTS

Receipts from the sale of Easter seals for crippled children totalled Monday, $3,507.20, Syd Black, reported to the Rotary Club Monday night.

OFFICER ADDED

On transfer from the supplementary reserve, Royal Canadian Infantry Corps, to the 28th Technical Squadron, RCEME, is Lt. Perry Francis de Montigny. His appointment brings the officer strength to three in the reserve force unit and another is expected soon.

LOCAL JEWISH COMMITTEE

Fred Pulver has been named chairman of the local committee which will be represented at the National Conference for Israel and Jewish Rehabilitation opening Saturday in Montreal. Samuel Bronfman, national president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, will be chairman. The conference aims to organize economic measures for the consolidation of the state of Israel and the rehabilitation of homeless Jews. A 1951 quota of $5,250,000 has already been set. The money will go to the welfare and development program of the United Israel Appeal.

Toronto Constables Fined For Speeding

LONDON, Ont., March 20 (CP) —Five Toronto police officers were found guilty today in county court of speeding while driving cars in transit from Windsor to Toronto March 4.

Robert Edwin Cooper was fined $10 and costs with the alternative sentence of 10 days when Magistrate E. J. R. Wright noted that Cooper was the only one of the five to have a speedometer and "the only one who could have set the pace."

The others—Frederick T. Wootton, Norman Hall, Hukish, James Lawrence Keay and Roscoe Davidson—were fined $5 and costs each.

The magistrate said "any appeal from my decision will be a trial de novo and therefore I do not propose to make any finding of fact beyond saying that I accept the evidence of Provincial Constable Alex Patterson."

Protest Hunting Deer With Bow And Arrow

Seventy-five dogs were humanely destroyed during February, Gerald A. Dunford, Peterborough Humane Society inspector, reported at a recent meeting. In addition 15 more dogs were killed on the city streets. Twelve dogs were picked up on the city streets and seven were returned to the owners.

Cats destroyed humanely and on the streets totalled 50, six killed on the streets and 44 humanely.

Hunting deer with bows and arrows was discussed and a protest was lodged with the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animal headquarters in Toronto.

Plans were made for the annual meeting in April which will be held in the public library. All animal lovers are invited to attend.

FRANCIS P. (PADDY) BURKE on Monday night was re-elected president of Peterborough Branch 52, Canadian Legion. He begins his second successive term — four years altogether as president.

Re-elect Burke President Legion Branch

F. P. Burke was re-elected president of the Canadian Legion, Branch 52, for his fourth term Monday night at the Legion Hall. He defeated George Gimblett and C. McWilliams the two other candidates in the election for president.

Albert Mason and H. G. Kelsey were returned by acclamation as first vice-president and second vice-president respectively while Harry Gabbutt was returned by acclamation as sergeant-at-arms.

Usually the number running for the executive is large, but this year only seven members battled for the five positions. The successful were: Claire H. Stuart, Ned Heffernan, Michael Gahagen, Fred Kiff and Eric Hogg.

Zone Commander (F5) C. D. Hopkins, of Lakefield presided during the annual meeting.

To Receive Award

When the officers are installed by officers of the provincial command, Charles Dorrington will receive a certificate of merit for his efforts in the past as a sports officer for Ontario. This award is unique for a Peterborough member.

Poppy day receipts totalled $3,327.17 made up of donations $161.00, poppy sales $1,890.67 and wreaths $1,275.50. The expenditures were $1,606.11, arising from cost of popppies, wreaths and other supplies $1,515.25, publicity $54.09 and organization expenditures $36.77.

Many members are expected to attend the 25th anniversary meeting of Lakefield Branch 72 on March 30 in the town hall. Members of the provincial command will be present and five past presidents will receive badges.

17 New Members Join Jaycees

President Gerry Grady officiated at one of the largest induction ceremonies in the history of the Junior Chamber at the March dinner meeting Monday. Seventeen members were installed by Mr Grady, assister by Les Groombridge, membership chairman .

Eight City Youths Facing Total Of 15 Charges Connected With Breakins

Youths Enter Guilty Pleas To Some Counts; Provincial Police Add Nine Charges To List of District Break-ins

Six buildings and two youths were added to the list of break-ins charged to a gang of city youths who have pleaded guilty to some of the offences. The score now stands at 15 charges against eight youths. Four of the charges involving four of the youths are for offences charged against them by the city police. The rest of the break-ins occurred in the townships just outside the city. Four charges of break-ins were added to one already facing Kenneth Meeks, 18, 332 Euclid Ave. He is charged with breaking into the Brookside dance hall Dec. 7, Vitarelli's Lunch, Douro township, Dec. 1; Nelson Brothers tool shed, Smith township, Nov. 18; Gilder's Service Station, Smith township, Feb. 19, and Hec Gray's Service Station, Reid St., Feb. 18. He pleaded guilty to these charges.

Two charges were added to one facing Clifford Johnson, 16, 650 Armour Road. He was charged with breaking into Vitarelli's Lunch, Douro Township, December 1 and in November into the Dickson & Hall Garage, Douro Township. He also pleaded guilty to these two charges.

Added Today

Clair O'Brien, Swanston Street, was added to the list this morning. He pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into the Arthur Gilchrist service station in February.

James Miles, 17, Lansdowne Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing some tools from the Nelson Bros. Construction Company tool shed. He was placed on suspended sentence because there was just one charge against him, and he had no previous record with the police.

Claude Johnston, 17, 276½ Oxford Street, is charged with receiving the stolen tools.

Clifford Johnson is charged by city police with breaking into the Hec Gray service station.

Meeks' other charge is breaking into the Hec Gray garage.

Douglas Johnson, Armour Road, a brother to Clifford Johnson, but no relation to Claude Johnson, is charged by city police with stealing tires and rims from Nick Peconi, Lansdowne Street, used car dealer.

Paul Thompson, 18, 125 Hazlitt Street, is also charged with stealing tires and rims from Peconi.

All the youths, except Miles, will appear in Police Court on Thursday for judgment and sentences.

Child's Name On Stub Wins Car In Oshawa

John St. Thomas, 485 Albert St., won a 1951 car in Oshawa Saturday night, but it was in name only. Mr. St. Thomas bought two tickets—and put the names of his children on them.

He wasn't in Oshawa when the draw was made at the Kinsmen carnival there, but a relative heard his name called and soon telephoned Peterborough.

Mr. St. Thomas has a 1951 car —at least until his children are old enough to drive.

Poultry Pioneer Recalls Early Criticism

Frank E. Ellis of Woodstock, one of the first men in Canada to adopt the practice of deep litter in poultry houses, recalled in a talk at the YMCA this morning sharp criticism that used to be directed at him for keeping a "dirty" hen house.

A major advantage of the deep litter has been the development of extension of immunization of chicks against the flock disease of coccydiosis.

Mr. Ellis is widely known as a staff correspondent of the Farmer's Herald and Weekly Star.

He recalled to the meeting of district poultrymen today the 12 years he lived in Peterborough when he was on the staff of Farm and Dairy. Those were the first years of his married life, and he said both Mrs. Ellis and himself still spoke of Peterborough as home, although he has been living for years on a farm on the outskirts of Woodstock.

Wasted Labor

Another recollection, turned somwehat grim by experience and the new knowledge in poultry raising, was the time and labor he wasted in cleaning his brooder house every three days.

There is dry litter today at the Ellis place that has not been cleaned out in five years.

"I often feel amazed at what we have learned in the last 20 years and more," Mr. Ellis said. "We knew next to nothing then, and I often wonder how we got along."

Visitors Surprised

He mentioned a visit to his farm of 24 people from the Old Country who were interested in the poultry business, and their surprise at seeing the deep litter and hearing that the mortality rate in he chicks was only two or three percent. The visitors said they would have expected most of the young birds to die.

Mr. Ellis was talking to a group of commercial poultrymen and two women, and also exchanging ideas with them in the course of a question period.

G. A. Brethen of Norwood was chairman of the meeting. Prof. Ross Cavers of OAC was the afternoon speaker.

Ten Tables Played At Trent River Euchre

TRENT RIVER, March 20 (ENS)—Ten tables of euchre were played at the weekly Women's Institute card party held Friday night.

Mrs. Howard McKeown and Mrs. Steve Deline were hostesses. The following won prizes: Mrs. W. G. McLaughlin, Mrs. George Alley, Mrs. Alta Stewart, Ernie Vaness, W. Forsythe, Havelock, MacLean Donald. Travelling prizes went to Mrs. Jack Stephens and Ernie Vaness. Prizes were donated by Mrs. Eggleton, Norwood, Mrs. Steve Deline and Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKeown.

Mrs. Albert Kuno entertained the ladies of the bridge club at her home in Havelock on Wednesday night. Prize winners were Mrs. Maclean Donald, Mrs. Francis Ruttan, Trent River, and Mrs. Boyd Kyle, Havelock. The hostess served lunch.

Miss Mary A. Pearce Buried At Marmora

MARMORA, March 20 (ENS)—The private funeral of Miss Mary Almira Pearce took place Monday afternoon. A short service was conducted at the home of her brother, H. R. Pearce, at 2:30 p.m. by Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie. Burial followed in the family plot in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Pall bearers were: Thomas Pearce, Donald Marett, Roger Young and George Kerr.

Miss Pearce died in Belleville early Sunday morning. She had been an invalid for the past 10 years, and was the oldest daughter of the late Thomas Peter Pearce and Margaret Campion Pearce. She was born in Marmora on September 23, 1874. Surviving are her brother H. R. Pearce, Marmora, and her sister, Miss Ada H. Pearce, Belleville.

Millbrook WA Plan Sponsoring Comedy

CAVAN, March 20 (ENS). — The north group of the W.A. of St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, were guests of Mrs. Henry Fallis and Mrs. Aubrey Fallis on Wednesday evening. This was a combined meeting for February and March, as owing to bad weather the February meeting was withdrawn.

Mrs. Elmer Hogg read the scripture and Mrs. T. Douglas read the theme and led in prayer. Mrs. Elson read the theme for March. Mrs. Ed. Armstrong was at the piano.

It was decided to have a play put on by a group from Lakefield on April 25 entitled "You Don't Have To Be Rich," and the group also decided to cater for the teachers' banquet April 30.

W. Elson showed films of "Trooping the Colors," "A Trip Down the St. Lawrence," and the "Manufacture of Pottery and China."

The hostess served lunch.

Lumber Shortage Said Easing

TORONTO, March 20 (CP) — The Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers Association was told Monday that more lumber now is available than could be had last spring or summer.

Ian Maglachlan of Kingston, retiring president, said a lumber shortage a few months ago was "the worst in 10 years" but it has eased recently.

"We know now that this shortage was due to a greater-than-usual demand for lumber, rather than lowered production on our part," he said.

William H. Summerhayes of Brantford was chosen president.

Car Passenger Dies From Head Injuries

WALKERTON, Ont., March 20 (CP),—Albert Scott, of Teeswater, died in Bruce County Hospital Monday night from head injuries received in an automobile-truck accident two miles west of here on the Kincardine highway.

He was a passenger in a car driven by James Edgar of Holyrood, who received severe facial cuts.

The accident occurred when the car was in head-on collision with a transport truck driven by Henry Payne, of Mt. Forest. The truck driver was unhurt.

Build Navy Now

TORONTO, March 20 (CP). — Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Atlantic coast flag officer for the Royal Canadian Navy, said Monday that if Canada is to have a navy when it is wanted most, it must be built in peacetime.

Red Newspaper Needs $200,000 Or Bankrupt

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—The Communist party's newspaper, the Daily Worker, told its readers Monday it must raise $200,000 or "face the danger of silencing our voice for a peaceful, happy America." It blamed its declined financial situation on "decline in circulation" and "harassment of our advertisers."

The newspaper, in a front-page editorial, urged each of its readers to contribute and get friends to contribute at least $5 each to keep the paper from bankruptcy. It said its circulation now is 14,000 daily and 50,000 on Sunday.

The editorial said every possible economy has been made in costs, "but we cannot avoid the stark fact that, despite the economies, we are still running at an annual loss of no less than $200,000."

WELL-EARNED—Two Patricias in Korea enjoy their first bottle of beer since entering combat. They found the Japanese brew, issued just after a successful attack, much like Canadian brands. Pte. Edwin Adye of Collingwood, and Lieut. Ned Page of Edmonton and Calgary, toast each other in a slit trench.

Seeking Passenger Leaving Skull Behind

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 20—Police here are "curious" about a weather-worn human skull which a forgetful passenger left in a bus two days ago.

His work finished for the day, the bus driver was making a routine check of lost articles when he found the skull wrapped in a newspaper. The eye sockets were filled with grass.

Police said there is no suspicion of foul play, but would like the person who "lost his head" to report to them.

Posthumous Award

CALGARY, March 20 (CP) — The King's police and fire services medal for gallantry was presented posthumously Monday night to RCMP Constable Alex Gammon, shot to death by a bank gunman's bullets in Montreal last May. The medal, awarded by the King, was accepted by the constable's widow, who resides here.

Faces Four Charges

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 20 (CP)—William Bustamante, pepper pot of Jamaican politics, went on trial Monday on four of five charges of breeching the police law and breaking the peace. The trial was adjourned until March 30.

Roseneath Pair 56 Years Wed

ROSENEATH, March 20 (ENS). —Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Leach, Fenella, quietly marked their 56th wedding anniversary today.

Mrs. Leach, the former Lucy Beswetherick, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beswetherick, Oak Heights, and Solomon Leach, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Leach, Fenella, were married at the Methodist parsonage, Castleton, on March 20, 1895, by the Rev. Leitch, resident Methodist clergyman. The bride and groom recalled it was a bright, cold winter's day lots of snow with drifts from fence to fence, and the roads full of pitch-holes as a result of the snow drifts. The trip to the parsonage was made by horse and cutter.

Following their marriage they took up residence on the Leach homestead, southeast of Fenella, where they have since resided, except for the last few summers spent at a cottage at Harwood.

They have one son, Clifford Leach on the homestead; two grandchildren, Mrs. Ken McKee, Peterborough, and Don Leach, Hastings, and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Leach is a charter member and life member of Fenella Women's Institute and Fenella WMS.

Mr. Leach served on the school board and church board, and his holidays have been spent deer hunting in the fall.

Mrs. Leach is 77 and Mr. Leach is 80 years of age. Both are exceptionally active despite advanced years.

20 Children Daily Dying In Drought

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 20—(Reuters).—Children are dying at the rate of 20 a day from hunger, thirst and disease caused by drought in the town of Patos in the interior of Ceara State in North Brazil, press reports said Monday.

Rain has not fallen for more than six months in Ceara and in another north eastern state, Parahyba, where famine is also prevalent.

Mrs. Mary Hie

NORWOOD, March 20 (ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Eliza Hie was held Friday afternoon at the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood, with burial in Westwood cemetery. The Rev. N. Cole, of Westwood United Church, officiated.

Mrs. Hie died Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 64.

Easter Thankoffering

The Easter Thankoffering meeting of George St. United Church was held in the board room Monday evening. Mrs. W. H. Frise, president, opened the meeting with an Easter poem. Mrs. T. Wilcox sang a solo, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. C. D. Munro. Reports were given from the various groups. Miss Vera Squire presented a life membership in the WMS to Mrs. Charles Allen. The worship service was in charge of Miss E. Bennett assisted by Miss E. Clysdale, Mrs. R. Bick, Miss E Manning, Mrs. A. Clarke, Mrs. A. Olmstead, Miss M. Brock and Miss E. McKim The Easter theme was "Christ's Legacy, Peace I Leave With You." The guest speaker was Miss E. Dix who gave an interesting talk on Palestine accompanied by illustrative slides. Mrs. Frise expressed the thanks of the ladies to the speaker. The meeting closed with a prayer and lunch was served by the group in charge.

Bible Class Hears Miss D. Schnell

The Easter meeting of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James United Church was held in the Primary room of the Sunday school Monday evening.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. E. Hess and Mrs. S. Ineson. The scripture was read by Mrs. L. Gibson and Mrs. K. Sloane gave a reading. Easter hymns were sung accompanied by Mrs. B. Pitchford. A solo, "Rejoice the Lord is King" was sung by Mrs. E. Kitney. President, Mrs. L Gibson was in charge of the business session. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. W. Stanbury, treasurer, Mrs. G. Pearson and Sunshine convener, Mrs. H. Ball. Mrs. K. Sloane gave a report on quilting.

The highlight of the meeting was an interesting, informative address given by Miss D. Schell, native of Holland, who spoke about her country and its people.

A contest was conducted by Mrs. L. Gibson with Mrs. L. Bird winning the prize.

The tea table was decorated in the St. Patrick's theme. Refreshments were served by Mrs. B. Pitchford, Mrs. E. Kitney, Mrs. Lillico and Mrs. C. Murdoff. A vote of thanks was given by Mrs. J. Poast and Mrs. H. Bull.

The meeting closed with a prayer by Miss Mary Collins.

Evening Auxiliary Hears Mrs. Perkins

The Easter thank-offering meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church WMS was held in the Guild room Monday evening with Mrs. J. McLeod, president, in charge.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. H. Fredericks. Mrs. L. R. Mitchell sang two vocal solos, "Sheep and Lambs" and "Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. E. Read.

Miss Mary Greer introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Roy Perkins of Toronto, who is the former Marian Armstrong of this city and a past member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Perkins gave a very interesting and informative talk on "The Budget of our Church."

The budget is the summary of the general requirements of the church as authorized by the general assembly, she explained. The money received for the budget is given through the mission half of the duplex envelopes.

She pointed out that many have a very mistaken idea that all money given through the mission envelope is used for foreign missions.

A vote of thanks to the speaker and soloist was given by Miss Marjory Nesbitt.

Announcement was made of a conference for the evening departments to be held in London, May 18-20.

Further plans were made for the spring tea to be held April 18. Mrs. C. Blewett, 112 MacDonald St., offered her home for the combined meeting and social evening April 9. Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Barrie and her committee.

4 Broken Marriages Leave Heiress Lonely In Mexico

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Just before she became a bride in Paris 18 years ago a plump, pretty American girl said "It's going to be fun being a princess."

But it hasn't been fun for Barbara Hutton being a princess twice, or being a countess, or being the wife of a Hollywood movie king. It's been heartbreak and unhappiness, in spite of unlimited money and all the luxuries it can buy.

Barbara Hutton, born an American "dollar princess," today is a thin, lonely woman of 38, self-exiled in Mexico City to preside at the dissolution of another marriage dream. Behind her is a string of four broken marriages and a long series of unpleasant law suits. Dogged by illness, she is even denied the comfort of her only child, Lance, who is in her father's custody most of the time.

Rootless Citizen

Possessor of a great fortune, she is a rootless citizen of the world.

Life has never been kind to Barbara Hutton. Her mother died when she was five. She was brought up by governesses and tutors, and she was surrounded by bodyguards and chaperones because kidnapping was a real threat to a child worth between $20,00,000 and $40,000,000 — her share of grandfather's Woolworth's dime store fortune.

Successive Failures

Before her first marriage, to Prince Mdivani in Paris, Barbara complained that all the American men she knew were interested primarily in business. Mdivani never wrapped himself in business but concentrated on sports. During most of the two years of marriage the gay, dark-haired prince travelled over Europe with the string of polo ponies which was her wedding present to him.

She gained her divorce in Reno in 1935 and 24 hours later married Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, a good-looking Danish nobleman who had followed her from London. A year later their son, Lance, was born in London.

Because her dual citizenship was complicating her business affairs Barbara renounced her United States citizenship. Barbara and the Count separated in 1938 and were divorced (on their joint application) in 1941.

Brief Marriage

Then followed another brief marriage to handsome British-born Cary Grant who was a reigning film favorite. Grant is one of Hollywood's rich men and money wasn't the cause of their break-up. In the 1945 divorce Barbara charged him with mental cruelty and he said he did not like her friends.

Her fourth bridegroom was Prince Igor Troubetskoy, French citizen of royal Lithuanian birth. The handsome prince indulged his love of skiing and auto racing after their marriage while Barbara's health seemed to be failing and her illness almost chronic.

She filed for a Mexican divorce on the familiar grounds of mental cruelty but Troubetskoy says he still loves Barbara, doesn't want her money and will resist the divorce proceedings to the utmost.

Mrs. Rowell To Represent National Council of YWCA

The Board of Directors of the YWCA met Monday afternoon at the Y.

It was reported that the food service department at the YWCA shows its greatest increase to date for the month of February. This department which opened in September has proved itself both popular and satisfactory.

It was announced that an open board meeting with a special program will be held April 21, to observe World Wembership Day.

Appreciation was expressed that the Lion's Club are again giving their support to the annual gym pageant to be held in May. An appeal was made for sewing machines for April and May to assist volunteer costume makers for the pageant.

It was reported that the Red Cross safety course will be held at the end of March in the YWCA and YMCA. The swimming department has completed its arrangements for their Bunny Tea, March 30.

It was announced that Mrs. Paige Rowell had been appointed to represent the National Council of YWCA at the YMCA Centennial celebration in Cleveland in May.

Mrs John Hornal and Miss Leta Brownscombe were appointed alternate delegates to the Canadian Welfare Council in Toronto in May.

The Y-Tenn conference will be held in Kitchener March 30 and 31 to which representatives will be sent.

Lip-Smacking Chateau Snacks!

Chateau-and-Bacon . . . Spread split hamburger roll or bread with mellow-mild Chateau (it spreads, slices, melts to perfection). Top with bacon. Broil till the rich cheese goodness has soaked in. Make plenty—the family or guests will go for them! Chateau adds taste-tempting goodness and protein nourishment to any snack or meal!

Chateau Sandwich Snacks . . . Since Chateau is not a sliced cheese you don't have to expose the whole package for a few slices. The remainder stays covered . . . stays fresh! Spread always-fresh Chateau on bread, then cover with any of these delightful variations: slices of hard-cooked egg; sliced boiled ham; chopped crisp bacon or salami . . . but remember always use Chateau to make sandwiches sing!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Relishes Made In March Help Out Dwindling Stocks

My own pickles and relishes are getting low, but they never were very high, for I am the only person in our family who is a serious pickle eater.

I was glad that one of our readers jarred me into thinking about using up some beaten up old apples, for first that led to mincemeat, and, after we were fed up with that, apple chutney.

The chutney is not overly "hot" unless you make it so, by adding more ginger and more cayenne than the recipe calls for.

It is fun to supplement those fruit cellar shelves, for mine are looking sadly empty by this time of year.

I must have miscalculated or served the peaches with too lavish a hand, for I have only eight jars left. Same with cherries. I'm glad to see fresh pineapple coming onto the market.

Apple Chutney

Four pounds each cooking apples and cooking onions, weighed after they are peeled and chopped, 4½ cups firmly packed brown sugar, 1 pound seeded raisins, 2 teaspoons each ginger and powdered cloves, 3 teaspoons each salt, and cinnamon, 3 tablespoons molasses, ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper (or more or less). Combine all ingredients in large kettle. (If desired skin may be left on apples.) Simmer uncovered for about 2 hours over very low heat. Mixture becomes dark and thick in this time. Pour into sterilized pint jars and seal at once.

Pineapple Chutney

Five lbs. cooked apples peeled and chopped (12 cups well-packed), 1 large pineapple peeled and eyed and chopped (6 cups), 4½ cups well-packed brown sugar, 3 pints spirit vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons cardamon seeds (do not leave these out as they are a delicious herb with apples), 2 teaspoons powdered cinnamon, 3 teaspoons ginger, ½ or 1 teaspoon powdered cloves. Combine all ingredients in large kettle and simmer, uncovered, for about 1½ hours, stirring often, until pineapple is tender and mixture becomes thick. This amount makes about 7 pints and should be sealed in pint jars while boiling hot.

✧ ✧ ✧

Winter Dixie Relish

Six green peppers, 4 quarts water, 1¼ cups salt, 2 tablespoons mustard seeds, 1 tablespoon celery seeds, 1 cup sugar, 2 pints vinegar, 1 quart coarsely chopped cabbage, 1 pint chopped, peeled cooking onions.

Cut the washed peppers into quarters, remove seeds and white membrane and soak overnight in a brine made by mixing the water with 1 cup of the salt. Drain. Let stand in cold water 2 hours. Drain. Chop medium coarse. Mix together the vinegar, mustard and celery seeds, sugar and remaining salt and heat to boiling point and add peppers, cabbage and onions. To keep this product's fresh quality pack at once into sterile jars, seal, and stand on rack in water-bath canner, having water come to within 1 inch of top. Cover canner, and bring to boiling point. Note time and boil 15 minutes. Remove jars as soon as possible, tighten seal and invert.

This is a good barbecue sauce.

Of Interest to Women

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"What's wrong with Joe's hamburgers today? They seem so dry and tasteless!"

DOROTHY DIX

Why Not Be Charitable Suffer Bores Gladly?

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a number of friends and acquaintances who are good, kind, well-meaning people and whom I would hate to hurt or offend, yet who are dull, stupid and tiresome. I have tried every way I know to get rid of them, but without avail. Is there any way to escape bores?

A SUFFERER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am afraid not, because the world is full of them. The only possible way to avoid them would be to live in a hermit cell, and then, perhaps, if you had no other companionship but your own society you would find that you were your own worst bore.

Dorothy Dix

Perhaps you have never thought that just listening to a or woman may be the exercise of charity in its highest form, but such is the case. There are plenty of people who are just as much starving for companionship as they could be for food; who are just as much shivering in the coldness of their isolation as they would be if they were out on a winter's night with no warm clothes to protect them. You would share your dinner with the hungry, you would bestow your coat upon the freezing. Why not supply the needs of these spiritual paupers?

In a way, bores are outcasts. Everyone avoids them as if they had the plague. But if you would measure the bore's sufferings, watch the joy that illuminates his countenance when he finds some philanthropic soul who will listen to him with an appearance of interest while he tells all about the grocery trade and the smart things his little Johnnie said, and boasts of the peculiar excellence of his motorcar.

And old people. Think how they wake up and come back to new life when they find some one who will actually ask them quesfather and respect his opinions, especially when they are adolescent, far more than they do their mother's because they think he knows the world better than their mother does, and his influence is invaluable in directing stumbling young feet along the right road.

Rearing children is a two-handed job that requires the team-work of both mother and father. That is why God ordained that children should have two parents.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A boy and I are very much in love, but he cannot afford to support me now. We have discussed three possibilities: We could go ahead and get married and struggle along. We could get married secretly. Or we could live together without a marriage. Which one of these courses should we choose?

tions about things that happened in their youth. And women! Haven't you seen a forlorn, disgruntled-looking woman simply sit up and beam with unconcealed rapture when given an opportunity to tell all about her minor and major operations?

Surely if we realized that in no other way could we scatter so much sunshine and bring so much happines to our fellow creatures as by suffering fools gladly, as the Good Book says, we would be more patient with bores.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Why is the mother always blamed when children have bad manners or go wrong? Why shouldn't the father be included in the censure? Isn't it as much his duty to try to teach the children to be little ladies and gentlemen as the mother's? I think it is very unfair to hold the mother responsible for the way the children turn out.

MOTHER OF FIVE

ANSWER: Mothers are blamed for their children's conduct because it is into mothers' hands that children are given in their most impressionable years and it is they who mold their characters.

Of course, it is the father's duty to help rear the children, but he is not as responsible for the way they turn out as is the mother because he is not with them as continually as is the mother. Generally he sees little of them and he cannot constantly direct their movements, develop their little minds and teach them, precept upon precept, the principles of right living as their mother can.

But I do agree with you that the average father takes far too little hand in rearing his children and leaves it too much to the mother. Children look up to their

TROUBLED

6—In Memoriams

ADAMSON—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Mary Ann Elizabeth, who passed away two years ago, March 20th, age three months.
No pen can write,
No tongue can tell
Our sad and bitter loss,
But God alone, has helped so well
To bear our heavy cross.
—Ever remembered by Mom and Dad.

VANESS—In loving memory of Seymour Vaness, who passed away suddenly March 19, 1949.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by Ernest, Lena and Afton Vaness, Trent River.

7—Cards of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Marshall and family and the family of Mrs. Lucy J. Sandiford wish to thank friends and neighbors and all those who sent cards, flowers and condolences; Rev. Douglas of Knox Church and the Comstock Funeral Home for their kind thoughtfulness in their recent sad bereavement.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement and also to thank them for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mrs. Andrew Pearson and the Isbister family, Winnipeg, Man.

Packed House Greets Lakefield Play

LAKEFIELD, March 20 (ENS)—A packed house for two nights greeted the play "You Don't Have To Be Rich," put on by the Young Adult Society of Lakefield United Church in Memorial Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings.

The cast, under the direction of Mrs. S. A. Grylls, put on an excellent performance.

The audience showed real appreciation for Miss Jean Millar's dancing, as Lola Sansome, premiere ballet dancer, and Mrs. Mona Jackman's portrayal of Zinnia, the colored maid, while Harvey Wannamaker's realistic impersonation of Sam Hanna, a retired one-legged war veteran, had the younger members of the audience standing in their seats each time he began to show his wooden leg. Mrs. Grylls as Martha Hanna, an authoress of advertising jingles was very natural. Other members of the cast were the Rev. W. H. Tonge, as Joe Irwin, a process server; Archie Stewart as Harry Everet, a young man in love; Bette Millage, as Martha Hanna, the object of Harry's affections; Merda Wood, as Grandma Hanna, artist extraordinary; Hazel Hart, as Katie Simpson, a dancer overweight and reducing; Ann Samis, as Agatha Adams, a ballet dancer, underweight and adding muscle; Ralph Jackman, as Ephriam Vandervee, an old grouch; David Spence as Clarence Brooks, object of Edna's interests; Lloyd Shepherd as Fred Sansome, future prize fight champion; Shirley Graham as Irma Newman, looking for a residence.

Mr. Tonge, chairman for the evening, expressed appreciation to those who assisted with making the play a success, especially Mrs. W. Millage, Mrs. C. Payne and Miss Merle Crawford.

Mr. Roy Jackman thanked Mrs. Grylls for directing the play and presented her with a bouquet of spring flowers from the Young Adult Society.

World Jaycees Total 325,000

Organization of 15 Junior Chamber of Commerce units in Japan, a total world membership of more than 325,000 young men, and 44 countries with units of the Junior Chamber were highlights of an address by Bernie Morin at the Monday night dinner meeting of the Peterborough Junior Chamber.

In Canada the first Junior Chamber was chartered at Winnipeg in 1923, Mr. Morin said, and today there are 253 Chambers, of which 78 are French-speaking. The Canadian membership is more than 30,000.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is directed by a national executive comprising the national president, Forbes Rankin, Winnipeg; executive vice-president, Andre Gagnon, Montreal, and seven vice-presidents, he said. The national organization is reduced to 15 region areas, and "Peterborough forms part of Revion VI, the Eastern portion of Ontario," said Mr. Morin.

Included among Region VI units were Arnprior, Gananoque, Ottawa, Cornwall, Kingston, Prescott, Peterborough, and Renfrew. Reviewing the history of the Peterborough unit, Mr. Morin said the charter was received in 1947 with 76 members.

Among successful projects conducted by the Peterborough Jaycees, said Mr. Morin, were get-out-the-vote campaigns, Good Government Week, Brotherhood Week, tourist bureau, clean-up, paint-up, traffic safety and surveys, Jackson Park Creek clean-up, sponsoring of hockey and baseball teams, 1949 tuberculosis survey, and the effective speaking course, and Canadian municipal affairs study group.

The speaker was introduced by Ken Billings and thanked by Bill Waye.

Brief committee reports were made by Les Groombridge, membership; Doug Vaisey, tourist committee; Roy Shouldice, bulletin; Ken Billings, convention, Kingston; Herb Schacher, sixth annual Jayece Jamboree.

Prior to commencing a tour of the Quaker Oats Company plant, a sing-song was conducted by Bernie Morin, and Tony Burns entertained with vocal numbers.

Arriving at the plant the party of 31 was greeted by Fred G. Ash, Max E. Clarke and W. Stewart James, and a brief outline of the company's progress and services was given.

Each party visited those parts of the plant operating during the night shifts. Following the tour, the Jaycees had luncheon in the plant cafeteria.

Reporters Ask One Censorship

TOKYO, March 20 (AP) — Bureau chiefs of five news agencies serving newspapers throughout the world asked army authorities Monday for a single censorship of Korean war copy.

The request was made orally at a conference of censorship with Col. E. C. Burkart, head of the press advisory division at Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

Burkart said the request would be considered.

Since Friday, Korean field copy has been censored in the field and again in Tokyo before being relayed abroad.

In addition, a preliminary screen of front-line copy also is made before it is telephoned from advanced field units to U.S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea.

News stories originating in Tokyo are censored only in Tokyo.

The request for single-point censorship arose spontaneously at the meeting and represented agreement by Tokyo bureau chiefs of the Associated Press, United Press, International News Service, Reuters and Agence France-Presse.

Spiders Stretch Lead In Volleyball Series

Spiders lengthened their lead in the Lillico volleyball trophy play at the YMCA Saturday with two wins, 15-10 and 15-6, over the Locusts. These points brought the total points for the Spiders to 340. They lost the third game to the Locusts 15-12.

Mosquitos remained in second place although they dropped three games to the Bugs, 13-7, 13-10 and 15-8. The Moths moved into a third place tie with the Bees with a triple win, 15-10, 15-10 and 14-10. The Ants won six points from the Fleas who defaulted three games and moved into a 24-point third place tie with the Bees and Moths. The Bugs' wins placed them in a fourth place tie with the Fleas with 18 points while the Locusts dropped into the cellar with 16 points.

The league standing now is: Spiders, 34; Mosquitos, 29; Bees, Ants, Moths, each 24; Fleas, Bugs, each 18; Locusts, 16.

Question 3 Young Men In Theft Of Stone

GLASGOW, March 20 (Reuters)—Detectives seeking the British coronation Stone of Scone, which has been missing from London's Westminster Abbey for three months, took three young men in for questioning during the night.

After three hours two of them, said to be former students of Glasgow University, were still at headquarters. The third had left.

The stone was stolen Christmas morning. The theft has been laid to Scottish Nationalists.

Phillip Johnson

Funeral for the late Phillip Johnson of 22 Aylmer St S., who died in Kingston on Wednesday following a lengthy illness, was held Saturday from the Duffus funeral home to Sacred Heart Church. The Rev. G. F. Sullivan said requiem mass and pallbearers were Osborne Johnson, Charles and Carl Liebers, Millard Neill, Michael O'Keefe and Herbert Masterson. Relatives from London and Hamilton were in attendance. Graveside prayers were said by Father Sullivan and burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

J. J. Breckenridge

The funeral of J. J. Breckenridge, who died Friday at his home in Hastings, was held there Monday. The Rev. N. Cole of Hastings United church officiated.

Pallbearers were Harry Carter, Archibald Shearer, Gordon Manley, James Humphries, Sherman Scriver and William Thompson. Burial was in Westwood cemetery.

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT admires a medal which was awarded Harold E. Seely (centre), for work in the Forest Inventory Branch of the Department of Resources and Development. At left is G. E. B. Blake Sinclair, president of the Institute who made the award at annual luncheon recently in Quebec City.

Boys Pass Tests In Swimming

Under the new scheme which will standardize local YMCA swimming tests with those across Canada 20 boys have passed the first stage and five the second stage, Fraser Wade, physical director, said today.

The new system has been used in other YMCAs across Canada but not in the local YMCA swimming plan. It calls for the swimmers to pass through five stages of swimming and diving before they are prepared for the saying work.

Grant Nicholls, Ted Higgins, Gordon Barnes, Brian Higgins, Larry Scott, Gordon Sarginson, Warran Sargent, Robert Birkhof, Blair Calloun, Paul McInroy, Roy Killingbeck, Wayne Killingoeck, Barry Killingbeck, Lorne Gibbs, Jim Brooks, William Watters, Barry Campbell, Robert Stickle, David Storey and William Doherty have passed the first stage. This stage includes such tests as recovering an object from the bottom of the tank by bobbing for it when the water is at chest height; bobbing 20 times rhythmically or gliding underwater for 15 feet; demonstrating the back flutter kick 20 feet; a standing plain front dive from the edge of the pool; swimming the crawl for 40 yards.

Roy Killingbeck, Wayne Killingbeck, Paul McInroy, Neil Lloyd and James Brooks have passed the second stage. This includes a proper surface dive following a push-off from the side of the tank in deep water; plunge 25 feet in good form or scull on back 60 feet head first; back crawl for 60 feet; standing plain front dive from board, and swimming 100 yards any style.

Ladies' Aid Sponsor St. Patrick's Supper

MILLBROOK, March 20 (ENS)—The Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian Church held a St. Patrick's day supper Saturday. Those on the kitchen committee included: Mrs. Ken. Moncrief, the president; Mrs. G. MacKay, Mrs. William Coyte, Mrs. S. E. Eakin, Mrs. Lambert Gibson, Mrs. Milton Fallis, Mrs. Harry Lord, and Mrs. L. Ingram.

Those who waited on table were: Mrs. Herbert Bremner, Mrs. Suttle Pritchard, Mrs. Clifford Larmer, Mrs. Gerald Armstrong, Mrs. Wm. Belch, Margaret MacKay, Velma Pritchard, and her friend, Miss Locke, the latter of Peterborough.

Mrs. Walter Patterson and Mrs. John R. Thompson welcomed the guests at the door. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kerr were cashiers.

Mrs. John Archer

Funeral service for the late Mrs. John Archer of Smith township who died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Bothwell of Springville, was held Monday at the Belleghem funeral home. The Revs. W. Leaton of Gilmour Memorial United Church and E. F. Linstead of Springville United Church, officiated. Pallbearers were Maxwell and Harry Archer, Roland Scott, Noble, Glen and Cameron Bothwell. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Bethany Couple Feted On Silver Wedding

BETHANY, March 20 (ENS)—On Saturday evening more than 140 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Preston, RR 2, Bethany, to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. The actual date of the wedding was March 3, but owing to illness in the family, the celebration was postponed until Saturday. Walter Neals was chairman for the evening.

Lawrence Staples read an address of congratulations and good wishes for the future, and on behalf of the assembled guests, George Timms and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Neals presented the bride and groom of 25 years ago with a large walnut bookcase and silver flower basket. Both Mr. and Mrs. Preston expressed their thanks for the gift.

During the evening several vocal selections were given by Ralph Preston and Lloyd Wilson; congratulatory speeches by many in the neighborhood including Charles Chapman, Reeve of Manvers township, George Neals, George Chapman and Carl Parkes of London.

By special request, the groom of 25 years ago also sang a popular number. Mr. Preston is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Preston and his wife was the former Hazel Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman. Both have always lived in this community. They have two daughters, Miss Barbara Preston of Toronto and Miss Betty Preston at home, and one son Gerald.

Bathgates Buy Birchmere Hotel

Birchmere Hotel situated on Bay St. in Orillia and only a few yards from Couchiching Beach Park has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bathgate of 737 Aylmer St.

Formerly a large private house Birchmere was taken over following the end of the war by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bennett who came to Orillia from the Maritimes.

Large spacious grounds which provide an excelent view of the lake are one of the scenic attractions of the hotel. Perhaps the most famous visitors to enjoy luncheon at Birchmere were His Excellency the Governor General and Lady Alexander who were entertained there by the town of Orillia at the time of their official visit in the summer of 1949.

Mr. Bathgate has for 17 years been with the Trent Valley Bakery. He was born here and has always resided in the city. His wife is former Gladys Smith of Ormemee. They are members of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church where both have taken an active interest. They plan to move to Orillia April 1.

Small Vote

NEW GLASGOW, NS (CP).—Only 29 ratepayers voted on the resolution by council to sell the airport to the town of Trenton. The vote was 24 in favor of selling, five opposed. The resolution sought approval of an application to the Legislature to authorize the sale.

UK Educationist Finds 38 Men For Fellowship

OTTAWA, March 20 — (CP)— A British educationist has completed a modern Diogenes' search, looking not so much for the honest man as the complete man. He found 38 of them.

They turned up in Canadian universities. The selectees, all graduate or undergraduate engineers, will get free passage to Britain, a maintenance allowance and tuition fees paid to study engineering in British industry, universities and research laboratories for two years.

They will be guests of the United Kingdom government, as recipients of the first batch of Athlone fellowships. Their stay in Britain will cost that country $100,000 a year. And Britain does not mind paying it. In fact, it has made the fellowships a permanent feature.

Dr. William Abbott, the man Britain sent out to Canada to help make the selections for the first group, is a former school inspector who now is adviser to the British Ministry of Education.

Sees 100 Applicants.

In seven weeks he covered 8,000 miles, saw more than 100 student applicants. For the most part, the 60-year-old scholar liked what he saw. Local university and industry representatives helped make the selections, announced Monday, but it was Dr. Abbott's hands that balanced the scales for or against.

"What we were looking for," he said in an interview, "was an all-round type of man; students who will come back from Britain and become men of affairs.

"Engineering is a tough profession. We didn't want just the bookworm, the highly-cultivated mind in the fragile body. He wanted the complete man, one who is good academically, but also takes an interest in social affairs and in sports. We obtained excellent material."

Continue Grade 13 At Millbrook High

MILLBROOK, March 20 (ENS) —Decision to continue Grade 13 at Millbrook High School was made Friday at a meeting of the Durham County High School Area Board. The school will also be improved.

One teacher will definitely be added to the staff and the advisability of adding another in September was discussed.

Board Suggests Three Changes

TORONTO, March 20 (CP)—A majority conciliation board report into the wage dispute between the Massey-Harris Company and its 7,000 employees Monday recommended three changes over the last offer of the company.

It proposed the increase for skilled workers be raised to five cents an hour instead of the earlier three-cent offer; that the payable period for shift bonuses of five cents an hour be extended from 4 p.m. to 8 a.m. instead of the present 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. provision; and that a three-cent raise, which the employees would be entitled to under a cost-of-living bonus proposed by the company, be paid to the workers immediately.

Workers affected are at Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock.

Signed by the board chairman, Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston, and company nominee, Michael O'Brien, the report criticized international officers of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), the employees' bargaining agent.

The report said ballots distributed among employees carried a recommendation for rejection of a basis for settlement. The settlement reached had previously been endorsed by the negotiating committee for the various locals.

The majority report said the normal procedure of collective bargaining implies that commitments made by either party are made in good faith and will be honored.

Bethany Church YPU Holds Basket Social

BETHANY, March 20—(ENS)—The Young People's Union of the United Church held a basket social in the church basement Friday evening. Many decorated baskets sold for good prices under the auctioneering of Mansell Wright.

During the evening progressive crokinole was played with prizes for high score going to Earl Weatherilt and Miss Janet Bigelow. Consolation prizes were also given to Miss Hannah Staples and Earl Miller. Lunch was provided by the young people for those who did not bring baskets.

Set Trade Record

HONG KONG, March 20 (Reuters)—Despite the United States export embargo, this British colony's trade in January 1951 was "believed to be the highest figure ever recorded," an official report said today. It said the total trade was 996,400,000 Hong Kong dollars ($174,370,000) made up of 452,800,000 Hong Kong dollars in imports and 543,800.00 Hong Kong dollars in exports.

In the absence of the president, Marilyn Hess, the vice-president, Peter Crate, had charge of the meeting. The scripture lesson was given by Marilyn Richardson. Ruth Baker played the piano and Stanley Fisher took the collection. Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe had charge of the study book.

Agency In London

TOKYO, March 20 (AP)—The Japanese press today reported that plans are going ahead for establishment of a Japanese overseas agency in London. Overseas agencies have been set up in several countries to promote trade with Japan pending the time when a peace treaty is signed and the Japanese are allowed to establish consulates in foreign countries.

Asked For Plans

BONN, Germany, March 20 (Reuters) — The West German government has been asked by the western allies to draw up plans for air and naval forces that might be part of General Eisenhower's Atlantic pact army, a government spokesman said today. However, the plans would be "purely hypothetical" as the Bonn regime has not yet formally pledged a military contribution of any kind to the western defence force.

BOSTON, March 20 — (AP)—Claiming that a dance studio cat clawed her while she was going through a routine, Antoinette Gelardi, 28, is seeking $10,000 damages from the studio operator. Miss Gelardi, billed as "Toni Breen, exotic dancer," brought the suit against Stanley Brown. She testified in municipal court that the cat "kept glaring at me" before it attacked her.

Smoke Causes Rumors Of Hospital Burning

CAMPBELLFORD, March 20—(ENS)—What turned out to be a false alarm had residents of this community worried for a while Monday afternoon, when the fire department answered a call to a vacant lot at the rear of the public utilities building on Front St.

There was a fire, but it was well under control. Workmen were burning old cable and other refuse, and the black smoke prompted someone to turn in an alarm.

The public utilities building is located next door to Campbellford hospital, and wild rumors of the local hospital being destroyed by fire were soon circulating the town. These, however, were entirely unfounded.

Drama Festival Opens At Kingston

KINGSTON, March 20 — (CP)—The 12th annual Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival opened here Monday night with two presentations, George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" staged by the Deep River Players, and "Mac and the Atom" by Eric P. Nicol of Vancouver, staged by the Perth Thespian Society.

The productions were followed by a mixture of praise and criticism from Adjudicator Robert G. Newton.

The festival continues to-night with presentation by the Ottawa Drama League of Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke."

The Deep River production was the first of four three-act plays to be presented in competition for the Senator Rupert Davies Trophy. Mr. Newton described it as "a valiant attempt at a play which is far from easy."

Need More Technique

The comedy required "a little more technique than this group has at present," he said, adding that the players should be commended on their choice of a play worth doing well.

"Mac and the Atom," a satire about the adventures of a recluse who runs a still until uranium is discovered on his property, was written for radio and adapted by Nicol as a one-act play for the stage.

It is the sort of play which should be seen more often in festivals, Mr. Newton said.

He praised both the play and the acting for their freshness, spontaniety and charming character in spite of technical weaknesses.

The Perth Thespian Society actors won particular praise for the sincerity of their performance. Clyde Bell, who played Mac, was commended for his naturalness, sincerity and quiet humor.

Settings for both plays won approval from Mr. Newton although he advised the Deep River group to sacrifice some scenery from the second scene to shorten the interval after a brief first scene.

Two Men Convicted Of Armed Robbery

SUDBURY, March 20 (CP).—Fred Montgomery, 28, of Fenwick, Ont., and John Campbell, 27, Sudbury, Monday were convicted on a charge of armed robbery and theft of a truck while armed.

They faced joint charges in connection with the armed hold-up of a pay clerk of the International Nickel Company in front of a branch of the Bank of Toronto here Feb. 19. About $400,000 in cheques was taken.

Montgomery was also convicted of retaining a stolen automatic pistol, used in the hold-up. The two will be sentenced later.

Stole Trousers Gets 6 Months

COBOURG, March 20 (ENS)—With a record of around 40 convictions. 52-year-old Archibald McDougall of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to theft in police court Monday and was sentenced to six months in the reformatory.

He was also charged with illegal possession of liquor and fined $10 and costs or 30 days. He was arrested last week with a pair of trousers which had been stolen from a local store. When arrested he was trying to sell the pants to passersby on the main street.

"The only think I can see is to keep him out of circulation for as long as possible. He is no good to himself or anyone else," suggested Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

Donald Shaw of Cobourg, pleading guilty to a charge of theft of copper wire from Cecil and John Smith, was remanded until April 2. He is a married man with four children and has only been at work for the past month, after being out of work for several months. When picked up by Constable H. Pearse, Shaw was with a juvenile and they were carrying a quantity of copper wire. About a mile of wire on a private estate had been stolen, Constable Pearse said.

Charged on several counts of false pretenses, Bertram Gilbault of Toronto was remanded until Saturday He is charged with obtaining $15 by false pretenses from Norene Barnet of Port Hope on March 15; $15 by false pretenses on the same date from a Port Hope drug store and the sum of $12 on Feb. 6 from F. W. Bannister at Port Hope by false pretenses.

Die Almost Together

EL MONTE. Calif., March 20—(AP)— Two elderly brothers who were inseparable all their lives, died within minutes of each other — and of the same cause, a heart attack. When Ernest Edward Andrew, 76, retired book dealer, succumbed Monday, Arthur Gibson Andrew, 78, ran for aid. Suddenly Arthur stumbled and fell dead.

People In UN's Glass House Throw Bricks, Bouquets

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., — March 20 (AP)—The people who work in the United Nations' glass house are throwing both bricks and bouquets at the architects who built it.

Three months after moving into the super-modern "work machine," the UN's 3,000 employees are gradually getting used to life in a transparent temple of peace.

The shock of exposure to daylight after four years in the windowless Sperry plant at Lake Success is wearing off, but window vagaries still form one of the chief topics of conversation.

UN'ers were unpleasantly surprised to find that the highly-publicized heat-proof, glare-proof windows weren't.

Officials who planned their offices to take advantage of the East River view find themselves staring instead at black venetian blinds.

Glare Inevitable

A spokesman for architect Wallace K. Harrison says tests showed the windows installed were the best for the purpose, but that it was inevitable there would be some heat and glare.

Meanwhile architects have decided they must weatherstrip the 5,400 windows in the new 39-storey building. The trouble, a UN official said, is soot and grime sifting through the metal window casings.

The next major complaint is that the "dial your own climate" heat controls installed in the offices only dial the climate desired by the controller of the thermostat in the basement.

This generally is 10 to 20 degrees warmer than most of the staff want.

Other little quirks in the building have also turned up, but on the whole the UN finds its new home more than satisfactory.

Well Designed

It is convenient, good to look at (the majority think) and well designed for its functions. When finished —probably in mid-summer—there will be a cafeteria, outdoor terrace, bar and restaurant.

It has soundproof ceilings and various other acoustical devices which reduce the wear and tear on diplomatic nerves.

Modern as it is, some of the building's faults can be cured by old-fashioned methods. A correspondent was locked in his office recently when his modern, lockless door jammed. A passing stenographer freed him with a nail file.

Saudi Arabia Pledge Won't Follow Iran

CAIRO, Egypt, March 20 (Reuters) — Saudia Arabia sought to reassure United States oil interests that it will not follow the Iranian lead in seeking to nationalize the oil industry.

King Ibn Saud's son and foreign minister, Prince Faisal, said here Monday that nationalization of Iranian oil industry "will not affect the Saudi Arabian oil fields in the least."

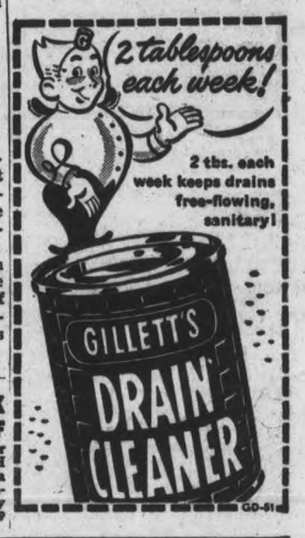
Artists Rally Against MPP's

TORONTO, March 20 (CP)—Toronto artists rallied today to attack criticism in the Ontario legislature of purchases by the Toronto art gallery.

Before the legislature passed a $6,000 grant for the Toronto gallery, Leslie Wismer (CCF—Toronto Riverdale) protested the purchase of "hideous" busts by modernists Picasso and Matisse.



Elizabeth Wyn Wood, president of the Sculptors' Society, praised the Toronto gallery for presenting all types of art and charged the $6,000 grant was "disgracefully low." She said three or four years ago "Quebec was granting $800,000 to several of its galleries and I imagine that figure is much larger now."

Martin Baldwin, director of the gallery which purchased the Picasso bust for $1,010.58, and the Matisse for $926.15, said he would like to buy paintings by the two artists as well as their sculpture —if he had enough money.

Curator S. J. Key described the two busts depicting heads of women as advanced types of art. "A person should reserve judgment on such works until he understands what they are all about. The present day idea that art should be immediately understandable is not a particularly good one."

Ottawa Asks UK Assistance

OTTAWA, March 20 — (CP) — Powerless to do anything directly, Canadian officials studied news reports of the arrest of five Canadian nuns in China and asked Britain to do what she can to help them. There was little optimism that much can be done through official chanenls.

Canada does not recognize the Chinese Communist government, and has no official representatives in the country. The United Kingdom has recognized the Communists' regime.

There are several hundred Canadians on the mainland of China. The External Affairs Department in 1948 and 1950 issued warnings to Canadian to consider leaving the country. The majority, however, have remained.

Surprised Book On Rommel Makes Such A Hit

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 20 (AP) —Brig. Desmond Young of the British Army thought he would while away his retirement by writing a biography of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. But he never suspected he would find himself the centre of a best-selling book, a big-budget movie and a hot controversy.

The brigadier is a ruddy, good-humored man who appears to be enjoying all three results. He added fire to the controversy by admitting that Rommel will probably be a sympathetic figure in the movie.

"I believe the picture will be entirely factual," he remarked. "Therefore I imagine that Rommel will end up being sympathetic. I think the audience will be with him at the end when the Nazis force him to commit suicide.

"This is not intended to be any glorification of Rommel. It will show him as a professional soldier doing what he was ordered. He continued doing what he believed was his duty until he realized that his superiors were wrong. Then he revolted, and that was his downfall.

"Some of the critics of my book in England and here said that Rommel should have revolted when Hitler came to power. But at that time he probably believed Hitler would have been good for Germany. Besides, he was only a captain then; what could he have done?"

Desert Saga

The brigadier's book was born on the North African desert, where he had been captured with his troops. A column of British prisoners was being shelled by their own guns and a German officer asked Young to call a halt to the firing. He refused. A dispute followed and it was carried up to Rommel, the German commander in North Africa.

Through an intermediary, Rommel replied: "If you won't stop the firing, I can't compel you to.'

That was his only contact with Rommel, but he learned more about the German from other prisoners. He started writing the book, which he left behind in the prison camp. When he returned, it was gone.

When the war was over, and he had retired from the army, Young returned to his project. He interviewed Rommel's family and others in Germany and wrote the book, called "Rommel — the Desert Fox."

Fast Sales

"I thought it might be of interest to perhaps 5,000 people who had been in the Western desert," he said. "To my amazement, the book has already sold 200,000 copies in England. And it appears to be headed for a good sale in this country."

The book has also sold 50,000 copies in Germany, he added. The movie is being made by 20th Century-Fox and will star James Mason as Romeml.

Brig. Young will make his acting debut, portraying himself and narrating the film.

Report Blames Inspector For London Police Trouble

UN Forces 8 Miles From 38th, Chunchon Deserted

TOKYO, March 21. (AP)—An American tank force today rumbled into the former Chinese stronghold of Chunchon. It met only flag-waving Korean civilians. The Chinese Reds, who had made the Central Korean road centre their troop massing point in South Korea, apparently had withdrawn north of Parallel 38. Chunchon is 8½ miles south of the Red Korean border. It was from Chunchon that the Chinese mounted their two massive offensives in January and February against Wonju, deep in Central Korea.

On the Western front, South Korean and American task forces ranging up the historic invasion route to Korea bumped into bitter Communist resistance north of Seoul.

An American tank patrol on the road to Uijongbu ran into a heavy mine field.

"The small-arms and mortar fire was so intense that it was impossible for the men to leave the tanks and remove the mines," an operations officer said.

On the east coast, South Korean troops were within 8½ miles of 38. Other United Nations units across the peninsula were only a few miles farther south of the border.

The Eighth Army described the Americans south of Chunchon as "holding elements" — a force strong enough to withstand a counter-attack. They were over the crest of mountain ridges ringing the valley on the south.

On the western front, a fresh Chinese army corps moved into position about 30 miles northeast of Seoul. It was screening the withdrawal of other Red troops.

Replace Tired Army

This shift of forces, Allied officers said, may be the start of a manoeuvre by which the rested Chinese Third Field Army may replace the Chinese Fourth Field Army all across the front. The Third has been resting in North Korea since last December.

Freight Rates Boosted On Some Hauls.

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today authorized freight-rate increases on some hauls between Canada and the United States and other international traffic.

The increases—four per cent in the east and two per cent in the west—do not affect all-Canadian traffic. They are in line with increases awarded the United States railways March 12 by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The hoist is one of several awarded since the war on these types of traffic by the Canadian board, which usually follows the U.S. lead on rates involving Canada-U.S. traffic.

In general, the increases apply to the Canadian part of movements between the U.S. and Canada in both directions and on the Canadian sections of hauls between two U.S. points.

On Import Rates

They apply also to export and import rates on goods passing through Canadian ports, but the board prescribed that existing differentials and parity conditions between ports are to be maintained.

This means that Halifax and Saint John, N.B., are to be kept at parity with U.S. Atlantic seaboard ports on export-import rates, and also that rate differentials between the two Maritime ports and Montreal and Quebec are to be continued.

Other points in the board order:

1. Rates on newsprint from Canadian basic shipping areas may be increased, but "arbitraries" from points taking this type of rate are not to be touched. Arbitraries are rates set with no relation to mileage, to establish differentials between hauls.

2. Rates on the Canadian haul of coal and coke moving between Canada and the U.S. are not to be increased.

3. There is to be no increase in the Canadian rates on certain petroleum products going from U.S. points to Western Canada.

4. Any export-import rates to and from Canada's Pacific Coast ports that are on a parity with U.S. ports may be adjusted to keep the same relationship.

Pravda Reports Mao Safely In Peiping

MOSCOW, March 21 (AP) — Pravda said today that Mao Tze-tung, leader of the Chinese Communists, is in Peiping.

(Mao has not been heard from since his last public appearance in Peiping Jan. 26. Sources outside China reported he is seriously ill with a heart condition.)

Pravda, official Communist party newspaper, printed a Tass dispatch saying a Lama of the Tibetan monastery visited Mao Tuesday to express loyalty of Tibetans to the Peiping government.

Blame Boy 10 In Brant Fire

BRANTFORD, March 21 (CP). —A 10-year-old boy playing with matches may have caused the fire that brought death to seven children Tuesday in a frame home on the Six Nations Indian Reserve, 15 miles southwest of Brantford.

Fourteen - year - old Marvin Henry, only survivor of the blaze, told from his hospital bed of finding his brother, Alvin, in the kitchen of his father's frame home late at night.

"He had lighted some newspapers with matches," said Marvin. "When I came down the stairs he tried to hide the flames and shove them under the couch. Then he turned the radio loud so I wouldn't notice."

Painfully burned in his unsuccessful efforts to rescue the children, left in his charge when Mrs. Wilfred Henry went to visit friends, Marvin said he didn't know whether the flames under the couch had been thoroughly extinguished or whether his brother might have lit another blaze.

After 14 Sessions Big 4 Still Divided

PARIS, March 21 (AP)—After millions of words and 14 negotiating sessions, delegates seeking to write an agenda for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting are no nearer agreement on basic issues than when the sessions started March 5.

They met again today but, even those most optimistic at the start had little hope left for success.

The conference remained deadlocked on German and Big Four disarmament, and especially on how those topics shall be listed in any lineup of topics for negotiation.

Russia insists that the foreign ministers' agenda should call for a discussion on "fulfillment of the Potsdam Agreement by the USSR, the United States, Britain and France on the demilitarization of Germany."

Pt. Hope Highway Job Announced By Doucett

TORONTO, March 21 (CP). — A further schedule of highway work in Ontario this year was announced today by Highways Minister Doucett.

Contract tenders which are being asked include widening of the Queen Elizabeth Way through a rock cut at Newman Hill, Niagara Falls; gravel work on Marks and Oliver roads in the Fort William division; 11 miles of base and shoulder excavation on Manitoulin Island between Gore Bay and West Kagwaong; and ditching of 37 miles between Sturgeon Lake and Long Lac in the Fort William division.

There will also be three contracts totalling 205,000 tons of road base work in the Port Hope, New Liskeard, and Fort William divisions, and 20 contracts for a total of 42,000 tons of crushed gravel.

Eager To Pay India Visit But St. Laurent Tied Up

OTTAWA, March 21. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent is eager to make a trip to India and Pakistan, but feels that the world crisis is such that he can't leave Ottawa for any prolonged period at this time.

Authoritative quarters reported the Prime Minister's feeling and said Mr. St. Laurent holds the opinion that a trip to that subcontinent by a Canadian leader might do much to benefit the entire western world.

This feeling is based on the belief that the rulers and people of India and Pakistan view Canada as a friendly country without an international axe to grind other than the cause of peace.

Reports reaching here indicate Canada is admired in New Delhi and Karachi, the two capitals, as a country which tries as much as possible to mediate difficulties causing present world tension.

The prevailing opinion is that everything possible should be done to keep India and Pakistan on the side of the western world and that a visit by a Canadian prime minister might be an event of considerable importance.

Mr. St. Laurent was invited to visit the two countries during or after the Ottawa visits of Prime Minister Nehru and Liaquat Ali Khan a year or so ago.

He has been both willing and ready for some time to undertake the trip, but has been prevented from doing so by recurring world crises.

However, there are indications that he would make the trip by air if the international situation showed any really perceptible signs of improving.

This session of parliament is expected to make Canada's first really large contribution to the area of south and southeast Asia which includes India and Pakistan. It will be a $25,000,000 vote of aid as Canada's first-year share in the six-year Colombo plan for building up that area.

Hold Fireman For Arson In 11 Fires

Police Believe Arrest At Prescott Will End Outbreak

PRESCOTT, March 21. (CP) —Edward Annable, 24-year-old member of the Prescott Volunteer fire brigade, was arraigned in magistrate's court today on charges of arson in connection with 11 fires which have broken out in the waterfront area here in the last eight days.

The youthful fireman was remanded one week without plea for mental examination.

Annable was arrested Tuesday night on suspicion of arson while fighting a minor blaze at the rear of a King St. grocery store.

Prescott and district police authorities and officials of the fire marshal's office said they believed the arrest will bring to a halt the wave of fires which had alarmed citizens of this eastern Ontario town.

In each outbreak there had been indications that the fire was deliberately set.

When the small fire broke out at the back of Pender's store Tuesday night, Inspector Frank Gardner of the Fire Marshal's office, Cpl. M. F. Armstrong and Constable Frank Daley of the Ontario Provincial Police, arrived at the scene at the same time as the volunteer brigade.

Arrested on Suspicion

Watching the progress of the firefighters, their attentions were centred on one fireman. He was promptly arrested on suspicion and later booked in connection with charges of arson.

The Prescott fire brigade is made up of teams of volunteers, who take turns in responding to alarms. They are paid no definite salary, and depend on a grant provided by the provincial government and town council. This is split among the men at the end of the year.

Each volunteer is allowed a percentage for attending an alarm when his team's turn comes up. Failure to respond results in a fine.

'Bad Bill' Cook Gets 60 Years

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21 —(AP)—Admitted slayer William E. Cook, Jr., today was sentenced to terms totalling 300 years in "Alcatraz or another safe prison where he has no chance to escape" for the slaying of the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Illinois.

Judge Stephen Chandler gave Cook, who showed no visible signs of emotion, 60 years concurrent on each of five counts in the kidnap-murder of Mr. and Mrs. Mosser and their three children.

"Society stands indicted for permitting this child to grow up in inhuman conditions that permitted these crimes," Chandler said.

United States To Use 3 Types Of Bombers In Atomic Tests Planned In Pacific Area

WASHINGTON, March 21 — (AP)—The U.S. Air Force said today three types of bombers—one the B-47 all-jet medium bomber—will be used in the atomic tests in the Pacific.

Performance records of the B-47 are secret but it is reported to be the fastest A-bomber in the world with a speed of more than 600 miles an hour.

An Air Force spokesman said that in addition to the B-47, the tests will employ the older B-29 Superfortress and its modernized version known as the B-50.

The spokesman said the U.S.A.F. is interested in the effects of atomic explosions on all types of planes and possibly fighters would be included in the tests based on Eniwetok Island in the Marshall group.

He declined to say whether an A-bomb has yet been actually exploded in the tests, or to comment on published reports that a B-47 has carried an A-bomb thousands of miles over water and hit its target at the Eniwetok proving grounds.

The test program is being carried out under supervision of the Atomic Energy Commission.

US Wants Allies' Ideas On 38th Parallel Problem

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today the United States wants a common point of view with its allies on the 38th Parallel problem. But he said no new authority is required for United Nations military forces to cross the old boundary between North and South Korea.

Acheson told a press conference the US government is consulting other countries having troops in Korea and is studying the situation closely.

Asked whether on the political level there was any necessity for new authority for crossing the parallel, Acheson replied, "No." There was no such necessity but that this was a matter on which a common point of view is desired.

Ample Authority

U.S. diplomatic authorities told reporters earlier that the U.N. command in Korea had ample authority to cross the 38th parallel as military necessity required.

The biggest differences over the parallel are between the United States and Britain, with the British government taking a strong position against any great extension of the Korean campaign into North Korea. Britain hopes for a negotiated settlement with the Chinese Communists fairly soon.

Free Millionaire Of Contempt

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) —Frederick Vanderbilt Field, New York millionaire, was freed today of contempt of congress charges.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who presided at Field's trial without a jury, granted a defence motion for acquittal.

The judge held Field was within his constitutional rights in refusing to answer questions of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee on grounds his answers might incriminate him.

Field was charged with contemptuously refusing to answer 32 questions during an investigation of charges by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis) that Communists had infiltrated the state deparment.

Judge Goldsborough commented: "The court is of the opinion that if the defendant (Field) had answered all these 32 questions in the affirmative—in a certain way—it would have taken very little more evidence to put him in the penitentiary."

Field is the husband of former Mrs. Raymond Boyer of Montreal. Boyer, one of the figures in Canada's Russian espionage case, was convicted three years ago of violating the dominion's Official Secrets Act and was sentenced to penitentiary. He was released last year.

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) —Movie actor Larry Parks said today he was a Communist 10 years ago but later quit the party.

Parks was the first witness in a renewed hunt by the House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities for Communist influence in Hollywood and in movie-making.

Parks is best known to moviegoers for his lead role in "The Jolson Story."

In admitting party membership, Parks said he considered there was a great difference in being a party member in 1941 and being one in 1951.

"I think that being a member of the Communist party 10 years ago fulfilled certain needs of a man who was a Liberal."

He said it was sympathy for the "Little Man" that caused him to join the Communist party in years gone by.

Gets 3 Months Fined $45,000

BELLEVILLE, March 21—Accountant E. J. S. Wallwork will serve three months in jail and pay $45,000 in fines on income tax charges. Failure to pay the fines will mean an additional 20 months in jail.

A week ago he pleaded guilty to conspiracy under the Income Tax Act and to making false returns on his personal income. On the first charge he was sentenced to three months and a fine of $30,000, plus a further year in jail if he did not pay the fine.

On the second charge, concerning his personal income, he was fined $15,000 or eight months in jail.

Wallwork was charged in connection with a tax conviction against E. S. James and Roy Taylor of the Canadian Talc Company, for which firm he was an accountant. Both Talc executives were fined seeral weeks ago.

Sentence was handed down by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Canada Using Quarter Of Potential Power

OTAWA, March 21 — (CP).—Canada is using less than one-quarter of its potential hydro-electric capacity, the Resources Department said today in an annual survey.

The Department said average stream flow represents a feasible turbine installation of more than 55,000,000 horse-power, while the total installation at the end of 1950 was only 12,562,000. That was under 23 per cent of capacity.

British Columbia's fishing mountain streams, the survey showed, have the greatest undeveloped capacity. Of a potential 10,998,000 horse-power, only 1,284,000 have been harnessed.

Quebec's unused potential was second highest, with 6,372,000 horse-power put to use out of 13,064,000. That province ranked highest in developed power.

Manitoba had 595,000 horsepower developed out of a potential 5,344,000—the largest in the Prairie Provinces.

Ontario, which had 3,513,000 developed, had a total potential of 7,261,000.

Spring Makes Liar Out Of Calendar

By The Canadian Press.

Spring arrived today in North America and found winter making a liar out of the calendar.

Spring's fresh, gentle breezes were missing except for a few spots in the deep south and in far southwest United States.

Temperatures were below normal over most of the eastern states and a large part of Canada, and were at or below freezing over many areas as spring made its official entry at 5:26 a.m. EST

BULLETIN

OWEN SOUND — (CP) — Mrs. Joan Mary Marchello, 26, was acquitted today on a charge of murdering her five-months-old son, Edward, last Nov. 7. An Ontario Supreme Court jury after deliberating less than 30 minutes reached a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.

Mayor Delays Milk Strike For 24 Hours

Legislature Speeds New Law, Try To Avert Crisis

TORONTO, March 21. (CP) — The work of government was speeded up today to avert a strike which would cut off milk supplies to more than 1,000,000 persons in greater Toronto. The Ontario Legislature, meeting at 2 p.m., was expected to give immediate final approval to a bill setting up a new milk control board. Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson would be on hand to give the bill royal assent minutes later and the board would then hold its first meeting at 3 p.m., with the Toronto milk price situation, crux of the dispute, as first matter on the agenda.

A strike of 1,700 dairy workers had been scheduled to start this morning, but an appeal by Mayor Hiram McCallum won a 24-hour postponement.

While the postponement was being arranged, Toronto was getting something of a preview of what a strike would be like.

Retail stores were sold out by evening as residents flocked to get extra milk supplies, both fresh and canned. Grocers reported enough powdered and canned milk to last only a short time. Hospitals were making arrangements to supply needs of patients.

Immediate Effect

Effects of a strike would be immediate, since grocery stores buy their supplies on a day-to-day basis.

Farmers within a 145-mile radius of the city would be forced to use their milk for feeding farm animals or dump it.

Officials of the Milk Drivers Union (AFL) will meet later today to await word on their demands for a $3-a-week increase in salary. They have said that if the increase isn't granted today, there will be a strike Thursday.

Dairy operators have refused to give the employees the increase now because the government has frozen provincial milk prices, preventing dairies here from boosting prices one cent to 21 cents a quart. They contend the increase is necessary to pay the salary boost demanded by the drivers.

The new milk board, headed by Judge A. B. Currey, will probably be asked to permit an immediate one-cent increase in Toronto milk prices on an interim basis, with the permanent price to be fixed

5 Policemen Face Disciplining

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—Five Toronto policemen, found guilty in London, Ont., Tuesday of speeding charges, will appear before Deputy Chief M M. Mulholland here for disciplinary action later this week.

The five were arrested while driving new cars from Windsor to Toronto.

Under Toronto police regulations, it is illegal for the men to seek outside employment. They are subject to loss of pay if Toronto police see fit to fine them as well.

New Canadians Arrive

OTTAWA, March 21. (CP) —The SS Volendam of the Holland-America line will arrive in Halifax Saturday with 1,350 Netherlands settlers for Canada, the Netherlands Embassy announced today. The big transport is the second of several to bring Netherlands settlers to Canada this year under an immigration scheme agreed upon by the governments of Canada and of the Netherlands.

Rent Control Bill Introduced In Legislature

TORONTO, March 21 (CP). — A provincial rent control bill which will continue existing terms of federal controls when they lapse April 30 was introduced today in the Ontario Legislature by Attorney-General Porter.

Mr. Porter said that, while the federal controls would be adopted as they now stand, adjustments would have to be made to deal with local situations and with any injustices to either landlords or tenants.

For this purpose, the Ontario cabinet will be given power under the bill to amend or adjust rent control legislation "to meet conditions as we see them from time to time."

A select committee will be established, to sit when the Legislature is not in session to review regulations now in force and recommend any necessary changes.

A third board would be established, representing the judiciary, property owners and tenants, to make a constant review of regulations "so that they may always be kept up to date in the light of changing conditions."

Presentation will give members a chance to study the proposals before the session resumes next Tuesday after the Easter recess.

Approve Milk Board

Mr. Frost made the disclosure after the House concluded a night sitting at which it gave committee approval to legislation setting up a new milk control board. The bill will be given final passage today and the board will go into action immediately, considering the situation in Toronto where a strike of dairy employees may hinge on the board's decision.

Highways Minister Doucett received some joking criticism at Tuesday's sitting about an alter-

Expect Details Soon On Air Training Plan

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP). — Defence Minister Claxton is expected shortly to disclose details of Canada's new air training program, one that will involve seven or eight airfields and several thousand airmen a year.

It will cost an estimated $64,500,000 in the next fiscal year.

It is anticipated that the scheme one of Canada's bigger contributions to Atlantic Pact preparedness, will mean the reopening and improvement of four or five airfields, mainly on the prairies.

These will be added to the several now in use to provide a web of training schools to train more than 1,000 European airmen —largely British—and more than that many Canadians every year.

Halifax Keeps Nervous Eye On Ticklish Munitions Cargo

HALIFAX, March 21 (CP)—A ticklish cargo of munitions was scheduled to leave this explosion-conscious port late today for Yugoslavia. The shipment, reported the first from Canada, is part of the western policy of bolstering Marshall Tito's regime in its opposition to Stalin.

The visit of the 4,500-ton Yugoslav tramp freighter Kosmaj and its cargo of explosives came under a strict security clamp, the most elaborate since the war years.

But the secret was out when Haligonians spotted an unusual number of firemen and civil and military police about north-end Pier Nine, where the loading was taking place.

Officials kept mum, but it was learned the ship will clear late today.

Apart from security, it was understood the officials didn't want to arouse the fears of Heligonians, shaken by explosions in each of two world wars. The Kosmaj loaded only a few hundred yards from where the Imo and Mont Blanc collided in 1917, killing 2,000 residents.

It was learned the freighter San Jose sailed for Belgium Monday with a similar cargo. It included bombs, nitrates, TNT, detonators and other explosives.

The Kosmaj has a special magazine in her holds to accommodate the temperamental cargo. Two fire tugs were stationed nearby as she loaded. Stevedores, working under the supervision of experts from Ottawa and Montreal, collected danger pay.

The explosives came to Halifax by train.

Judge Says Hearing Rush's Right

Found No Evidence Of Bad Faith On Commission's Side

TORONTO, March 21. (CP) —Mr. Justice W. D. Roach reported today that he found no evidence of bad faith in the dismissal of Detective Allan Rush from the London police force last July. But he criticized the city's police commission for not giving a hearing to Mr. Rush, now mayor of London.

The Ontario Supreme Court justice's findings in the public inquiry he conducted last month into the dismissal were made public today by Attorney-General Porter of Ontario. The Provincial Government ordered the inquiry after the London police commission refused to review the matter.

Mr. Justice Roach said the question arose whether the commission would have been justified in dismissing Rush if it had heard the evidence of complaints made about him.

"I can only express my opinion thus, namely—that if the board had heard the evidence which I heard and had discharged Rush, I do not think I could properly criticize it for having done so."

Contrary To Regulations

However, the private meeting which dismissed the detective "was not only contrary to the regulations but also contrary to natural justice." In his opinion, the commissioners were honorable men. "I do think, however, that they acted both unwisely and injudiciously."

Mr. Justice Roach said he did not find that Mr. Rush refused to take cases assigned to him, or was reluctant to take them, as some of his critics had claimed. Nor had he found that Mr. Rush was disrupting the detective department, although there had been "some dissension" between Mr. Rush and a detective-sergeant.

No Bad Faith

He reported that "there was not the slightest evidence of bad faith on the part of the members of the police commission." The three-members of the commission said at the hearing that they acted on the recommendation of the chief.

"In my opinion," the 26-page report said, "they are all men of high principles and were anxious that the London police force should be operating at the highest degree of efficiency."

"My criticism of the board is that it did not give Rush the hearing to which he was entitled," Mr. Justice Roach said.

The former detective's unsuccessful campaign to obtain reasons for his dismissal was a chief

Strikes Hitting All Of France

PARIS, March 21 (AP). — A mounting strike wave rolled through France today, threatening to affect almost everyone in the country. A near-general railway walkout appeared the most alarming immediate possibility.

Premier Henri Queuille warned that the strikes, all pressing wage demands, "may develop into a veritable attempt on the life of the country."

Most of the stoppages were aimed directly at the government, by far France's biggest employer.

Unions of all political alignments were taking part, reflecting widespread discontent with rapidly-rising prices and the cabinet's hesitancy to raise wages.

Wall Topples Over 13 Children Killed

MILAN, Italy, March 21 (AP)— A newly-built garden wall toppled over today on a group of 50 children seeking shelter from a sudden 85-miles-an-hour wind, killing 13 and injuring 29 others. The age of the victims ranged from four to six.

Rescue squads recovered nine bodies. Four others died in hospitals.

The children were from the Sisters of Mercy Institute on the outskirts of Milan.

Say Profits At Belleville Bring Inquiry

Dairy Owners Rap Interference By Ontario Gov't

TORONTO, March 21. — A government inspection of books of four Belleville dairies showed that one of them made a profit of 4.2 cents a quart during 1950, the legislature's agriculture committee was told on Tuesday.

An auditor's report, tabled before the committee, will be studied closely by the new milk control board.

The Department of Agriculture ordered the audit when Belleville milk prices were jumped from 18 to 20 cents during the past year. It was felt that producers weren't getting a large enough portion of the increase and that perhaps it wasn't justified.

Just before the findings were made public Tuesday, the price of milk in that city dropped to 19 cents.

The report drew no written conclusions, but it showed clearly that Belleville's largest dairy, which sets the pace in that market, is doing a very good business.

The report shows that in the last four years the leading dairy made a profit of $103,000, another firm $42,186, the third $2,097, and the last $6,429. Names of the dairies were not mentioned.

In 1950, during 20-cent prices, the top dairy cleared $43,000. Its fixed assets were worth $94,000. Had the price not been dropped the same dairy stood to make $80,000 this year.

Caused Inquiry

The sudden price increase in Belleville and the auditor's findings were big factors in the government's decision to set up a stronger milk control board that would fix prices from producer to consumer.

The profit-per-quart of the four dairies has been 4.02 cents for the leading firm, 2.5 for another, 1.8 and .81 cents for the remaining ones.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy said the findings pointed out that efficient management made handsome profits while others, not so efficient, barely broke even.

Resent Interference

BELLEVILLE, March 21. — Leonard Reid, head of Reid's Dairy here Tuesday indignantly called on the Ontario Government to "get out of the milk business and leave us alone."

He said the reason for the one-cent drop in the milk price came about because "the government has embarrassed us terribly" by releasing a report which stated that one of the Belleville's four dairies had made a profit of 50 per cent last year.

"The government audited our books and, without reporting to us, reported to outside interests" he said, referring to publication of the report in a Toronto evening paper last week.

"We don't want to start a price war, but we can buy milk in this area for 80 cents for 100 pounds. The government won't allow us to. If the government will get out of the milk business and leave us alone, we could deliver milk to every door in Belleville for 17 cents a quart," he added.

George K. Graham, who last Saturday started a cash-and-carry dairy, selling milk for 16 cents a quart, said his company was concerned only with softening the load for the consumer. The other dairies denied his move had led to the price cut.

Undeclared Cease-Fire May Finish War—Pearson

OTTAWA, March 21. (CP)—The possibility that the Korean war might end with an undeclared cease-fire was placed before the Commons Tuesday by External Affairs Minister Pearson. He suggested that the position might be reached where there would be a sort of undeclared cease-fire roughly along the line of the 38th Parallel, which divides North and South Korea. The United Nations then might be able to work out an honorable settlement.

Mr. Pearson, a member of the UN committee which tried unsuccessfully to end the Korean fighting last fall, expressed this view after Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver) stirred a brief debate on Korea by urging that the UN forces not recross the 38th Parallel.

The minister reported that talks on the subject now are under way in Washington, and added:

"It certainly would be unwise and unfair to the command and to the men in the field to tell the enemy exactly what we are going to do in a military way when we reach that particular line.

Would Help Reds

"I think that that certainly would be playing into the hands of those whom we do not wish to help. No doubt when the decision is taken it will be governed by both military and political considerations."

In the Korean debate, Mr. Pearson said it looks at present "as if the situation in Korea may result in what General Ridgway, the United Nations commander in Korea, has called a military stalemate."

"I would prefer to think of it, not so much as a military stalemate, but as a stabilization of the military position."

If that happened, it would "surely be statesmanlike to take advantage of that position to see if we can work out the kind of settlement which will make it possible for us to extricate ourselves . . . with honor from Korea, because Korea is not the main danger front."

At the same time, he warned against "unrealistic optimism." If an undeclared cease-fire did develop, there was not much ground for believing that Red China would "meet us more than halfway" in an effort to reach a settlement.

OBITUARIES

MRS. WILLIAM IRWIN

A resident of Ennismore for 65 years, Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin, RR 1, Peterborough, died Tuesday in her 82nd year. Death came in hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Irwin was born in Ireland daughter of the late John Stewart and Jane Crowe. She was educated in Ireland and emigrated to Ennismore 65 years ago.

She leaves two sons, Edlor of Ennismore, and David of Lakehurst; two daughters, Mrs. Edward Crapp of Young's Point, and Mrs. Darius Hall of Lakehurst; also a brother, Joseph Stewart of Peterborough.

Her husband, William Irwin, died in 1944.

Mrs. Irwin was a member of Lakehurst United Church.

A funeral service will be held at the Comstock funeral home at 1 p.m. Thursday. A second service will be held in the Lakehurst United Church at 3 p.m. The Rev. Kenneth Stewart will officiate at both services, assisted by Sam Woods. Burial will be in Lakehurst cemetery.

JOHN FRANCIS CONDON

John Francis Condon, 56, a resident of Peterborough since last June but formerly of Douro, died Tuesday in hospital after an extended illness.

Until failing health caused him to give up farming last June, Mr. Condon's home was Lot 11, Concession 1, Douro.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Douro.

Mr. Condon was born in Douro, son of Mrs. Agnes Condon and the late Maurice Condon. He was educated in local schools.

He leaves his wife, the former Bridget O'Brien, four sisters Mrs. Fred Doris (May), Otonabee, Mrs. James MacFarlane (Rita), Peterborough, Mrs. Purcell Rodd (Carolyn), Peterborough, and Mrs. Olan Leahy (Agnes), Douro; four brothers Patrick, Stanley, and Claire of Douro, and Fergus in the RCAF at Belleville.

The funeral will be from the Duffus Funeral Home at 8:30 a.m. Friday to St. Joseph's Church, Douro, for the blessing at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

after public hearings as provided for in the legislation setting it up.

Coincidentally, Mayor McCullum, who appealed personally to the union membership Tuesday night, will act as consumers' representative on the four-man board.

The union meeting last night was held behind locked doors and the mayor had to wait outside for several minutes before he was permitted to enter.

"I appeal to you as citizens to give me 24 hours to see what I can do for you," he said. "God knows where a strike will end once you start it. But I give you my word I think I have a good chance of succeeding and getting you your wage increase. I'll give you a square deal, I promise you."

His talk to the union members was punctuated with alternate hackling and applause.

The members decided to leave the matter in the hands of their committee. The group will hold a special meeting late today to await word from the mayor.

If he wins his case the strike will be off. But if he has nothing new to report, the committee has agreed to call the strike immediately after the meeting, scheduled for 4 p.m.

Judge Says

factor in his election campaign.

If the commission had given Rush a hearing and then asked him to resign, or if he refused to resign and was discharged, "I do not think it could be said that it thereby abused the unfettered discretion vested in it."

Mr. Justice Roach said he felt chief constable Earl Knight was justified in bringing the matter to the attention of the commissioners last summer.

Serious Situation

"There is no reason to doubt his statement that he felt, having regard to the information which had come to him, even if some of that information was only by way of rumor, that a serious situation was developing in the force which threatened to disrupt it and undermine his authority and the authority of the board," Mr. Justice Roach added.

In a public hearing last month, witnesses told of friction over the efforts of the London Police Association to obtain better working conditions. Detective Rush was a strong figure in the association.

"In my opinion," Mr. Justice Roach reported, "the circumstances called for a proper and thorough enquiry by the board to determine whether Rush, either alone or with other officers, was creating dissention and disharmony and flouting the authority of the chief constable or the board. That, however, is not the course that subsequent events took."

Favorably Impressed

Mr. Justice Roach said he was favorably impressed with the evidence of Deputy Chief Morley Leach at the hearing last month. However, he said, he "did not accept" the evidence of Inspector of Detectives William Snell.

"Inspector Snell's evidence was an unequivocal contradiction of Chief Knight's evidence," the report says. "He denied telling the chief that Rush had refused, or was reluctant to take certain cases that had been assigned to him. He denied telling the chief that Rush was causing trouble among the detectives or that other detectives would not work with him."

Mr. Justice Roach said he found "some dissention" between Rush and Det. Sgt. Jack Parker in which Inspector Snell became involved.

"Every officer should be honest with himself and if he feels that his respect for and loyalty to the chief constable is only on the surface—if it is forced and not genuine—then he owes it to himself and the police force generally of his own choosing to quit the force," Mr. Justice Roach added.

Probably Exaggerated

"My conclusion is that Snell did make a complaint, perhaps more than one, to Chief Knight about Rush," the report says. "To me it is inconceivable that the chief manufactured his story about Snell complaining about Rush" although it was "highly probable" that Snell exaggerated the extent of trouble in the detective department."

One of the chief sources of discontent, Mr. Justice Roach said, was a job-rating survey done among the officers. He gained the impression that Rush was either the leader or one of the leaders of the group opposing the plan.

"It was the cause of much dissension and bickering, and even some fighting, among the men. The dissension and dissatisfaction increased when the rating board began to rate the men and some of the men found themselves rated lower than others."

Gets 21-Gun Salute

PLYMOUTH, England, March 21 — (AP) — President Vincent Auriol of France received a 21-gun salute here today on his arrival aboard the Ile de France en route to visit Canada and the United States. The liner, which stopped here to take aboard 200 passengers, was escorted into the harbor by three Royal Navy destroyers.

native route of the Trans-Canada Highway between Ottawa and Sudbury as the Legislature examined estimates of his department.

William Dennison (CCF, Toronto St. David) asked if the residence of cabinet ministers in Carleton Place, Peterborough and Lindsay had any influence on the southern branch of two alternative routes.

Mr. Doucett lives in Carleton Place, Lands and Forests Minister Scott in Peterborough and Premier Frost in Lindsay.

Mr. Doucett replied that the flow of tourists into Northern Ontario was the chief factor for the location of the highway. The southern route would handle the majority of tourists entering Southern Ontario and passing north through Toronto.

The northern route, he said, will be on No. 17 Highway north from Ottawa up the River Valley and going to Sudbury by way of North Bay.

The federal government has laid down no priorities on steel for new road construction, Mr. Doucett told the Legislature.

Aid In Building

The House also heard Health Minister Phillips announce that a grant of $1,000 per bed toward construction of new nurses' residences will be paid by the Ontario government. The grant would be paid to residences now under construction as well as to new ones.

Approval was given to $1,753,300 of the Health Department's $48,945,250 estimates before adjournment.

Premier Frost also announced that the former Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, purchased by the government when the new Sick Children's Hospital was opened, would be given to the adjacent Toronto General Hospital when the government is through with it.

Premier Frost defended the Ontario Racing Commission's action in halting night racing and said he would fight any attempt to increase the amount of gambling in Ontario.

Speaking in a debate on a government bill to extend the commission's regulative powers, Premier Frost said that night racing of harness horses would introduce a new form of gambling aimed at getting the money of working men.

"I haven't got it in me to increase that problem in the province," he said.

Don't Want It Here

The premier referred to current hearings of the Kefauver crime committee of the United States senate and said: "When you read of the Costellos and other racketeers, you realize we must do anything we can to keep them out of here."

He said he had turned down attempts of United States interests to promote night racing and new tracks in Ontario. "Nobody can tell me big money will come from Detroit or New York just because they are interested in the Ontario farmer. They're interested in the tens of millions they can get from gambling."

Commenting on the premier's remarks, H. E. Hatch, president of Thorncliffe Raceway in Toronto, said:

"Premier Frost is talking utter rot when he says that U.S. gamblers are behind the move to establish night-racing in Ontario. Five weeks ago, the premier received a formal brief in which he was advised that not a single penny of American capital is involved in the Thorncliffe harness-racing project. We would be delighted to have him examine the list of our shareholders."

Dollar Continues Climb

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4⅝ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar. 1/32 higher than Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.04⅝ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92-15/16, up 1/16.

Pearson Takes Holiday

OTTAWA, March 21 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson slipped quietly away from Ottawa today for his first real holiday in some time. His office said the minister had asked that his destination be not made public other than that it was somewhere in Canada.

Say Dictatorship For Pakistan Conspiracy Plan

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 21 — (Reuters). — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan today said the recently-revealed anti-government conspiracy would have put Pakistan under a military dictatorship with a Communist-patterned government if it had been successful.

"For this purpose economic and constitution - making missions were to be invited from a certain foreign country," Liaquqat told Parliament.

He said that the government would bring to trial "subject to requirements of national security" Maj.-Gen. Akbar Khan, the British-trained chief of the Pakistan general staff, and other plotiers arrested March 9.

The premier gave parliament what he called a "general idea of the main features of the conspiracy" brought to light early this month. He said:

"The conspirators . . . planned . . . to resort to force with the support of Communist revolutionary elements, making use of such members of the armed forces as they could tamper with.

Remove High Officers

"The plan envisaged the removal of high military officers and civilians and the seizure of effective power. The country was to be brought under a military dictatorship when the existing authorities, both civil and military, had been eliminated.

"The government was therefore to be patterned on the Communist model but under military domination . . .

"The house is aware that very great indignation has been aroused in the country against the conspirators. Common opinion among the general public and the army is that the conspirators should have been shot without a trial."

Gains And Losses Small On Exchange

TORONTO, March 21 (CP).—Gains and losses were small and trading was dull and inactive on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Activity was at its slowest pace in 2½ months and prices failed to develop a trend.

In industrials price changes were mostly in small fractions and many issues were unchanged. Papers, steels, textiles and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains. Utilities, banks, agricultures and retail stores were lower and constructions, foods, refining oils and liquors were mixed.

In base metals, Waite Amulet, International Nickel, Noranda, Consolidated Smelters and Falconbridge were up small fractions. United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Quebec Manitou and Normetal eased.

The western oil section was mixed.

Cobourg To Buy NewMeterHeads

COBOURG, March 21—(ENS)—Town council expects that purchase of new parking meter heads will double the annual take, which last year was $2,000, it was revealed at the meeting of council at which the clerk was authorized to enter into negotiations with the meter company with the view of purchasing them. It is expected delivery will be made within a few weeks.

Cost of the new installation would be about $1,500 and a recent trial has shown them to be easier to keep in working order and a better revenue producer. The old type was installed in 1947 and have about $2,000 still owing on their purchase price.

Because present meters are frequently out of order, motorists often do not put any money in them. Keeping them in shape and enforcing the law has been a headache to the police department. However when the new meter heads are installed, the police will crack down on those who fail to pay, it was pointed out.

C of C Discusses Fire Department

COBOURG, March 21 (ENS)—Modernizing of the present fire department was discussed at the meeting of the industrial division of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce. There was no criticism of the personnel of the brigade but it was felt its facilities should be increased to meet safety requirements of a town that has shown a marked increase in population and housing accommodations within the past 10 years.

The meeting heard Hubert Cooey, chairman of the public school board, discuss the proposed new east end public school. The feeling of the meeting was that something more specific as to plans, etc., should be made available for the public before a by-law was presented.

James Redmond was elected president of the division for the coming year and Hugh Cameron was elected vice-president. Mrs. Margery Pewtress was elected secretary-treasurer.

An optimistic note in regard to new industry was sounded by H. O. Taylor, secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce at the meeting of the retail merchants' division. Mr. Taylor said there had been several industrial enquiries here since November and none of them had so far signified where they would locate. Their representatives indicated they found Cobourg's facilities attractive from an industrial standpoint, Mr. Taylor said.

Heading the retail merchants' division for 1951 is Harold Rawecliffe, president; Joe Gaiger, vice-president; Harold Churchley, secretary and Bob Austen, treasurer. A committee was appointed to look into the question of setting up a credit bureau. The meeting decided that Wednesday half-holiday closing will prevail throughout the coming year, regardless of another holiday occurring in the same week.

Recommendation For The Railways

Railway operations in this country are so vast and varied and the financial structures of the two chief companies so complicated that it takes a Royal Commission years of study to understand them. The Turgeon Royal Commission was established in 1948. Its report has now been tabled in Parliament. To understand its recommendations adequately needs much expert knowledge but several of the main clauses are clear in their implication.

* * *

Mr. Justice Turgeon's Commission has not recommended any basic changes in the Canadian railway structure. For instance, it has not approved the amalgamation of the two companies, and it advises the continuance of the present regional aids, for instance the 20 per cent. Maritime freight rate subsidy. It asks for a new seven million dollar annual federal grant to be divided between the two companies to help them meet the non-revenue producing long stretches between Ontario and the West.

* * *

This grant would be one of several ways by which freight rates could be equalized across the country. The recommendation that the rates between all regions of Canada be the same, whether the haulage miles are between productive Southern Ontario and Quebec points, or between, say, Moose Jaw and Calgary. This matter of unequal rates has been agitating Westerners for half a century. It is a vexing problem. The fact is that hauling across the Prairies and the Rockies is more expensive than similar mileage hauls between Windsor and Montreal. At the same time the traffic on the easier run is heavier, and more profitable because busier. The equalization of rates is not a cure-all. It might result in heavier rates for the regions which argue most strongly for it.

* * *

Two other important recommendations have been made. One is that all transport be put under unified control: air, rail, inland waterways and road. The purpose is to co-ordinate the services, and seems to be specially aimed at trucking, which has hit the railway business heavily in east-central Canada. The establishment of a new co-ordinating control board would not result in provincial and local trucking firms coming under its jurisdiction, for these are within Provincial legislative competence. Intra-provincial and international truckers would be affected.

* * *

The other chief recommendation has to do with the financial structure of the C.N.R. The C.N.R. is saddled with annual book deficits because it was forced to take on the debts of the bankrupt railways out of which it was formed. Every year the interest charges amount to some $24,000,000. The C.N.R. has never been able to meet these out of operating revenue, although, as we remarked in these columns last week, the C.N.R. has always been able to meet operating costs. Nearly all the interest on these old railway bonds is owing to the Government, which took over the bonds when the separate lines entered the C.N.R. system. Thus when the C.N.R. presents its annual accounts, the annual deficits which the Government has to meet, it is really asking the Government to pay the interest on its own bonds. It thus becomes a bookkeeping transaction. The Commission Report recommends that the C.N.R. be no longer required to meet the annual debt obligation to the Dominion, except only in years when its earnings enable it to do so. An allied recommendation, also to help the C.N.R. operate as a proper business, is to allow it to keep part of its surplus, in years when there is a surplus, so as to have funds for future development. During the war surplus years it had to turn all its earnings over to the Government. If the recommendations are followed, it will be able to operate on financial parity with the C.P.R. We believe that these financial recommendations are among the most important in the Report and should be acted on.

* * *

How best to manage the total transportation facilities of this country, without at the same time discriminating against any sections of it, is the theme and purpose of the report. It is the duty of Parliament and the experts to adopt the Commission recommendations which best ensure that purpose being fulfilled.

A recent Hollywood match broke up just 20 minutes after the wedding, thereby permitting guests to pick up their presents as they left the scene of battle.

Wheat Farmers Lost $330 Millions?

The marketing of western wheat is rather out of our purview, but the grant of $65,000,000 of all taxpayers' money to western wheat farmers is not. It is compensation for a bargain which went sour. The western farmers gladly accepted the Government as their bulk marketing agent, and the wheat was sold to Britain during the last four years at fixed prices which turned out to be below the world free market price. The Government has decided to dole out $65,000,000 to the farmers (who, let it be noted, have been making a pretty thing out of wheat all during the war and since, and are far from being hard up). From the figures we have been reading, $65 million seems quite a fair balm for the bad bargain. However, Senator John T. Haig, who comes from Winnipeg, says that the wheat farmers lost $330,000,000 on the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

The setting of such figures is dealing with history that might have happened. History which might have been is fancy, not fact. It is playing with 'if'. Two can play at the game.

If the wheat agreement had not been in force, and all Canadian wheat had been dumped on the free market, would the price have been maintained? If the agreement had not been made, would the western farmers have been able to get rid of their wheat at any price? If Canada had not granted a billion dollars' credit to Britain, with strings attached so that Britain was expected to spend much of the money on Canadian wheat, would Britain have had the money to buy?

If Marshall Aid and E.R.P. had not come into being, would there have been any market (i.e., any dollars) to pay for any wheat exports? If business had not boomed beyond the Government's and the farmers' expectations, would the western farmers not have been dancing with joy because they had the contract? If there had been no agreement, would the historic flow of Canadian wheat to Britain have been interrupted? Would the trade have been lost forever, and the western wheat farmers ditched, or compelled to sell their grain to Russia in exchange for, say, ships, or to China in exchange for brass trinkets?

The western farmers went into the deal with their eyes open. They got through it a secure market and firm prices. It was insurance for the four years ahead, and in a sense for twenty years ahead. You cannot have insurance without paying for it, nor can you remove the risk of big loss without at the same time removing the chance of big gain. The western wheat farmers should not expect to have it both ways, though they are getting it, to the tune of $65,000,000. Talk of a $330,000,000 loss is unreal, and it will not make easier the taxpayers' swallowing of the $65,000,000 grant.

But Why Cultured?

A news dispatch tells us that nudists will hold a 3½ month convention in Britain this summer; this came to our attention shortly after we had read that the city of Coventry is advertising for a woman to play the part of Lady Godiva in its pageant for the Festival of Britain. For those who may not see the connection, we explain that the original Lady Godiva, who lived from 1040 to 1080, was the wife of Leofric, earl of Mercia, who taxed his people very heavily; when Godiva begged him to relent, he said that he would do so if she would ride naked through the streets of Coventry; she did, and we presume that the Earl kept his promise. Lady Godiva was a nudist in a good cause. And we may say in passing that if the Minister of National Revenue were to make a similar promise, there is not a Canadian who would hesitate to ride any distance, as naked as the day he was born.

The Coventry advertisement reads interestingly. It calls for a woman "of mature age, cultured, of good physique and appearance, and able to ride a horse side-saddle at a walking pace". We can understand the other qualifications readily, but why does the actress playing Godiva have to be cultured? We have no evidence that the original Godiva was a woman of any culture at all. In pictures she is generally represented as taking her famous ride with her eyes cast down in shame, but what we know of the nobility of the eleventh century makes it seem equally likely that she sang as she rode, waved to her friends, and shouted "Whoopee!" to the crowd.

Culture is a delightful attribute, of course. But we cannot see why it is needed to play the part of Lady Godiva, and we wish that the Borough Council of Coventry would explain themselves.

Morley Callaghan Shines Again

THE LOVED AND THE LOST, by Morley Callaghan (The Macmillan Company of Canada).

THE name Morley Callaghan was a meteor in the hearts as well as thinking of young Canadian cognoscenti in 1930. Here was a Canadian writer who lived in Paris and was a reputed familiar of Scott Fitzgerald, Thomas Wolfe and Ezra Pound who was the doyen of them all. He was a young Canadian writer who made the most advanced magazines, and was talked about by the American expatriates in France and the intelligentsia in the States themselves. Young Canada, the Canada of students and rebels and aspirants, found in the light of Morley Callaghan a new hope. They read his "Strange Fugitive", his short stories collected in "A Native Argosy", and "It's Never Over". He was Canada's Hemingway.

Then, like a meteor, he faded, even though for thirteen successive years he was published in Edward J. O'Brien's annual collections of Best Short Stories, and even though his stories continued to appear in Harper's and the Atlantic Monthly. After his 1937 novel "More Joy in Heaven", he burnt out completely. What had happened?

Was Callaghan only a flash in the pan in the heady late twenties, which, when gold was upset in the stock market crash, was revealed to be merely dross? Was he truly a meteor which continued its earthward course, unseen and unrecognized, after its light faded, to hit the rock bottom of the Depression years? Did his audience become blind and insensitive? Was Callaghan lost because he had uprooted himself from the Canadian soil which had given him and his stories sustenance, uprooted first in Paris and then in New York? Was he a prime example of a Canadian author who lost his bearings because he left them behind in his homeland?

It is with intense curiosity that one who admired his lustre from a humble, juvenile distance in the early thirties aproaches this new novel. It is his first published fictional work since 1937. There is a gap of fourteen years. Who is the Morley Callaghan who now confronts us in "The Loved and the Lost", to be released tomorrow, March 22, 1951?

The curiosity is absorbed in the reading and a new wonder takes its place. Forgotten is the urge for comparison between Callaghan past and present, and any question about his future. The book itself, its theme, its masterly art, its philosophic meaning, is the wonderment. Is this it, one whispers incredulously, is this the great Canadian novel? And yet one whispers it, and does not shout yes to the roof-tops. There is still puzzlement. The mind may be convinced, but the heart is not.

* * *

THE novel is set in Montreal. A youngish professor of history from Ontario attracts the attention of the wealthy, energetically liberal publisher of the Montreal 'Sun', who sends for him to consider him as a columnist for his paper. The publisher has a youngish, divorced daughter, cultivated, enlightened, but a Junior Leaguer. Her sophistication controls her life, moulded by her father. The prospective columnist and the poised, beautiful daughter fit each other hand in glove. But there is another girl with no gloves; something of a bohemian, an enigma, a slim, good-looking girl in a plain, fawn-coloured, belted trench coat, a girl with fair hair parted in the middle, who looks fresh and innocent, yet who knows people she shouldn't have known.

She is accused of being a "nigger-lover". "She likes dark meat." She is a simple girl, raised in an Ontario parsonage, yet she has been educated at a university. She frequents low places, yet she may be pure. The professor-columnist (who gets the job a few weeks later as the book ends) "longed to throw a cloak of splendid protective words around her".

"I think you all make one little mistake. If she were merely fascinated by Negroes,—an exotic taste, yes—that would be a kind of perversion. But supposing she is interested in them only as human beings she has come to know and like—as she might be interested in you or me? If I were a Negro and I liked her, it would hurt me to know that I couldn't have her friendship because I was coloured. I know this too," he said, toying with his glass, "if I had some Negro friends and liked them as one human being likes another, I think they'd get into the habit of talking frankly in my presence, and I'd hear them talking about little incidents of discrimination going on all over the country in restaurants and trains and hotels. A lot of them are porters and they have stories of one humiliation after another. Well, if they were friends of mine and I liked and respected them, I'd feel ashamed. As a human being, I'd be apologetic. I might sometimes feel contempt for my own race if I had any sense of justice. If I were young and ardent, I'd feel guilty and perhaps over sympathetic. What she's doing around here may be imprudent and impossible. You might all agree that it's simply an adventure. But with her I'm sure it's a noble adventure."

* * *

BUT the trouble was that he was not sure it was a noble adventure. He vacillated in his faith in this Joan of Arc. He wavered between the polished life in a Mount Royal chateau apartment building where people were securely buttressed by conventions, wealth and mountain; and the poised, simple, and even crude life of the girl who may have have been pure and virginal and straight-sighted, if Joan of Arc was pure and chaste and courageously simple in thought and deed. His faith and understanding were not great enough for his love. He foundered, and horror takes the girl from him as the flames took Joan of Arc.

The patent theme is the racial problem between negro and white. The overlying one is the world of Mammon and cleverness and social decency struggling to keep the man on the one side of Sherbrooke Street, Montreal, and the world of spiritual honesty, immaterial values and social nakedness pulling him to the lower side of Sherbrooke Street. But underneath it all is the heart of man wrestling with whatever gods there be.

These bald statements nail the intertwining motives, emotions and human actions—actions shadowed beyond the penetration of analysis—to a rigid frame which the author's skilful art of phrase and subtlety of image, mood and thought do not erect.

* * *

IF this is not the greatest novel a Canadian author has written in a Canadian setting, it is not because of any lack in novelistic skill. The style is characteristically stringent but less strident than the earlier Callaghan. The construction of plot is masterly. The dialogue is vivid, moving, evocative of circumstance and character. What makes one hesitate in judging this to be a great novel is, first, that the negro theme seems, in Canada and within the environment of the people in the book, bigger than life and therefore overblown; and secondly, that the main characters seem unsubstantial. A sense of unreality hovers over the book, unreality rather than other-worldliness. One cannot fully believe in it. It may be a fault of the St. Joan theme. Did St. Joan ever exist except in the tortured mind and heart of men?

It is, having this theme, a tragic love story. One yearns for some humour—not laughter, but careless, uncloudedd, human rapture or plain ordinary coziness. (But there is much gentleness in the book.) This is the way Morley Callaghan sees the world wag, and it is more than a carry-over of a 1920-30 attitude. It may be the way of the world for those who have the perspicacity to perceive it.

Scandal At The Lakehead

(FORT WILLIAM TIMES-JOURNAL)

One of the female species, whose morals have been in question at the Lakehead for some time back, has become a favourite topic of conversation in the Twin Cities. If one were to listen and to swallow all the tales about her, she could become a legend of Thunder Bay in the years to come. Frequently when women, and men, have come together in Fort William and Port Arthur in recent weeks, someone has generally managed to introduce some aspects of the woman's activities. The tales have been tall. This man has been mulcted of $2,000. Another man is threatened with divorce by his wife. Another has been stuck for a fur coat. Another paid for a car.

No matter what the facts are, the rumours have provided a series of field days for the gossip mongers. A woman who says to a friend, "Dearie, let's have the dirt", knows that she is going to hear something more about the fabulous character who has taken allegedly, a number of Lakehead men "for a ride". The good gossip is inspired by a good audience. The results is that this woman's activities have been so fancifully embroidered, that not five, not 10, but 25 men (in the strictest confidence, my dear) are being freely named as victims of the alleged female extortionist.

The climax of all this came last week, when one of the most upright men of the Lakehead was linked in the scandal. He is a man whose religious faith, whose faithfulness to his wife and his children, and his scrupulous conduct at all times, is beyond question. Yet a hare-brained, irresponsible, unprincipled, conscienceless woman, who has a high social standing at the Lakehead, brazenly named him in a gossip session as one of the victims of the adventuress.

We are not acquainted with this particular adventuress. We do not know what is fact or what is fiction in the stories that have been, and are being circulated about her at Fort William and Port Arthur.

But we do know this. No matter how bad, how unprincipled, her conduct has been, it is put in the shade by this scurrilous gossiper, who for the sake of making the girls sit up and take notice slandered this honourable man.

GOOD SCALES

A man who discovered the joys of fishing rather late in life became even more insistent than ordinary anglers upon recounting his triumphs to skeptical acquaintances. Enraged by their thinly-veiled hints that he was a liar, he bought a pair of scales, installed them in his library, and made his friends watch while he actually weighed the fish he had caught.

One evening a neighbour burst in excitedly and sought permission to borrow the scales. He was back in ten minutes his face flushed with delighted. "Congratulate me," he cried. "I am the father of a 24 lb. baby boy."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, that he went through the corn fields on the sabbath day; and his disciples began, as they went, to pluck the ears of corn. And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?

And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath: therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath. (Mark 2: 23, 24, 27, 28.)

* * *

And he entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there which had a withered hand. And they watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him.

And he saith unto the man which had the withered hand, Stand forth. And he saith unto them, Is it lawful to do good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

And when he had looked round about on them with anger, being grieved for the hardness of their hearts, he saith unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored whole as the other.

And the Pharisees went forth, and straightway took counsel with the Herodians against him, how they might destroy him. (Mark 3: 1-6.)

Book Censorship

(From The Victoria Times)

Some of the flaws in Canada's system of book censorship—a censorship questionable under the best of circumstances—have been brought to the attention of Victorians by Dr. Earle Birney, professor of English at the UBC.

The fact that the minister of national revenue apparently has authority to decide whether or not a book shall enter the country raises further questions. Why should a published work be available or not available at the whim or caprice of a single minister? Who advises him on the multitude of volumes that are printed in a week and presumably are entitled to come into this country provided they are not specifically barred?

There are, of course, some publications that are undesirable in the opinion of the majority of decent-thinking people. The so-called obscene cartoon "books" that once occasioned widespread revulsion in the United States, and led to prosecutions in criminal court, are cases in point. If similar published obscenity originated in Canada, the Criminal Code would be brought into play. Use of that machinery should be adequate to prevent obscenity, domestic or imported.

On the other hand, where does censorship of foreign books by a minister end? Such powers could, under certain circumstances, take on a malevolent character. They might be exerted in highly improper ways to exclude interchange of thought because such thought was opposed by a single individual or his anonymous advisers. The system followed in Canada is open to abuse. A change appears to be in order to protect a freedom vital to democracy.

"PUSH OFF! THE JOB'S FILLED"

Says Advertising Responsible For Better Living

An inside picture of the story of how national advertising is carried on and its effect on consumers and industry was told Tuesday to the Sales and Ad Club at its advertising night at the Empress Hotel by Andy Rutter, Jr., sales manager of the Quaker Oats Co., for eastern Canada.

Advertising, said Mr. Rutter, was responsible for the highest standard of living as represented in Canada and the United States the world had ever seen.

People know that a lot of money is spent on advertising and concluded that when they bought a product they were paying a lot for advertising. In a sense that was correct. But in contradiction because of advertising, the consumer was paying a great deal less for the product than he might have easily paid if there had been no advertising.

The reason was that advertising developed mass markets, which meant that products could be mass produced and as a result, cost of production and therefore prices were brought down.

Stresses Product

At one time advertising was concerned merely with telling customers what the company or store had and what the price was. Now advertising stresses what the product can do for the consumer. In this way, a washing machine was nothing but a machine that didn't sell well until it was advertised as a labor saving device for the housewife. Then it began to sell in large quantities and the price came down.

The consumption of oranges jumped 500 per cent in 15 years through advertising. But the finest advertising was useless without merchandising to see that the product was presented within easy reach of the consumer.

The best advertising could do was to make consumers aware of the product and eliminate from their minds any doubt about the product. The purpose of advertising was to sell a product or a service.

There were many media by which advertising was brought to the consumer; daily newspapers, magazines, radio, bus placards, television and other methods.

In national advertising, companies work through an advertising agency. The advertising departments of companies and the agencies were responsible for developing advertising campaigns and working out how they should be conducted.

Good advertising agencies were able to supply the companies who were their customers everything they wanted to know in trying to determine what sort of campaign should be started and how it would likely react on the consumer.

Armed with this information, the type of advertising and how it should be distributed over what market was worked out and campaigns designed to fill these requirements.

The percentage of advertising spent on a product depended to a large extent on whether or not the product was a luxury item. A higher percentage of the price of luxury goods was spent in advertising than in basic necessities.

Mr. Rutter was introduced by James Wharry and thanked by Edward Bowser. Paul Irwin was chairman of the advertising night committee. Three films on advertising were shown.

THE GRACIOUSLY-DESIGNED RHINESTONE NECKLACE and earrings are set in sterling silver, with floral motif reminiscent of the flower gardens of Holland.

Central Seniors Get Title In School Loop

Central edged Prince of Wales 5-4 yesterday afternoon at the Arena to capture senior championship of Public School Hockey League. Brooks and Gardner scored for them in the first period as Godfrey counted two for the other side to make it 2-2. Brooks and Gardner each had a goal and an assist to give them a 4-2 lead. Brooks added one in the third, Armstrong having an assist, while Prince of Wales fought furiously to notch two from the stick of Clarke.

The losers drew five of the nine penalties in a keen clash between well-matched teams. Goalie Mathews had to be good in the winners cage. Stewart Brooks and Bob Gardner were the individual standouts on the attack for the champions. Teams:

Central — Mathews, Butler, MacInnes, Patterson, Brooks, Gardner, Martyn, Naish, Armstrong, Tranter, Brown, Gray Williams, Dunford, Graymer.

Prince of Wales — Chambo, Coit, Heron, Clarke, Godfrey, Hancock, Clarke, Brown, Northrop, Hunt, Ridyard, Carl.

Referees— D. Lawless and H. Wilson.

Barons Shade Buffalo 4-3

By The Canadian Press.

The American Hockey League swung into the regular post-season playoff as scheduled Tuesday night, but only four teams saw action following the last-minute disqualification of Pittsburgh Hornets.

In the two contests played, Cleveland Barons shaded Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in overtime and Hershey Bears downed Indianapolis Caps 3-1.

At Cleveland, Ray Ceresino scored the winning goal at 3:29 of the second overtime period as Cleveland took the first game of a best-of-seven series.

It was Ceresino's second goal of the game. Grant (Knobby) Warwick got two for the Bisons.

The Bisons rallied twice to tie the score 2-2 for the regulation-length game.

In the first overtime period, Cleveland took a 3-2 lead on Sam Lavitt's goal, but Buffalo tied it on Warwick's second goal.

Les Hickey for Buffalo and Harry Taylor for Cleveland got the other goals.

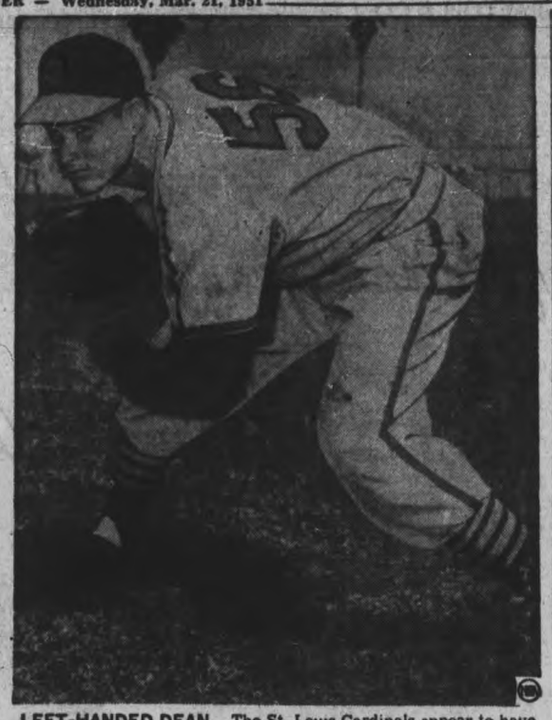
Mrs. H. Dulmage, Mrs. J. Dunkerley, Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. R. Miller, Mrs. H. Bletcher, Mrs. M. McCartney, Mrs. W. Craugh, and Mrs. M. Holt, are today playing in the ladies' bonspiel at the Royal Canadian Curling Club, Toronto.

A number of mixed rinks from this club are motoring to Lindsay Saturday evening, for a friendly game.

The entry for the men's vice-skips' bonspiel, to be held this Saturday has been closed out with 14 rinks. The first game commences at 10:00 a.m.



Some of our curlers are already claiming that their game has improved with the new stones; some say no; some say it's too early to say anything. Just a curler's opinion.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

For many years he was a great playmaker in OHA competition —and now he's a player maker. We mean Coach Bun Kingdon of the OHA junior "B" Oddfellows. Yes, Bun in his second year as junior puck coach here, has produced a strong squad of IOOF-ers. They're tied now at two wins each with Oshawa Bees in group finals, and the fifth of the best-of-seven serial is here tomorrow night. A win for the locals would give them a swell chance at taking the title over strong opposition. It should be another speedy and exciting playoff tilt and rates a huge crowd of fans. Don't pass it up.

* * * * * *

While other coaching has gone into the making of these good youngsters, Bun deserves much credit for his labor of the past two winters. He did a whale of a job this past season and is still at it. He'll lose some of the older aces on his team, and some of 'em may be good enough to step right up with the senior "B" Petes or Eagles. One or two may get the nod from Baldy Cotton of Boston Bruins to take a crack at minor pro ranks. After all, the Bruins have the whole team on their list. The Oddfellows have had a good season to date—one of the highlights being in ousting the potent Lindsay pack of bashers — and they don't reckon they're anyway nearly through yet.

* * * * * *

Petes Need Some, Too

Yesterday, we mentioned that the Eagles could ice another strong senior club next year provided they added about four good players. It might be pointed out here that the Petes too should add a few players for their next campaign. They made a fine comeback the past season after several poor years, but a few sound replacements would make 'em that much better next time out. The addition of the starry line of Arn Dugan, Jake Wade and Curly Mason meant a lot this year. Chum Fryia was another important change for the better. Jack Davison proved a big willing defenceman in his first turnout with this team. Others did well, too, but you can't stand still in a rebuilding program.

* * * * * *

If this city is to have two senior "B" clubs again—and the teams expect fan support—they'll have to produce good contending outfits. Keep the better players and cut out any deadwood that shows, replacing it with the pick of the ex-juniors or with proven imports. Also, for goodness' sake, get a group which is solid all through. No weak sisters. Work if necessary with another good grouping in an interlocking schedule. Give the fans lots of keen, exciting hockey, and they'll fill the rink. The Petes and Eagles played dandy hockey against each other — and didn't carry their feuding to extreme lengths this season—and the fans went for their games. Too bad they didn't meet in group playoffs. Too bad for everyone, as it would have been a grand series.

Public School Champs

Public School Hockey League season has concluded. Central won the senior championship, Confederation took the intermediate title, and Grove captured the junior crown. Good sportsmanship trophies were awarded to May's juniors, King Edward intermediates and to Queen Mary seniors. Though good sportsmanship marked all play during the rather lengthy schedule and in playoffs just finished. Our congratulations to the victors and to their opponents. A word of appreciation, too, to the many men teachers who acted as coaches and referees to give the boys a good start in the winter sport. This is a fine young-league operating each winter—they play most of their games now at the Civic Arena after four in the afternoons. From this school circuit come the future PMHA and OHA stars. Now, the boys can concentrate on school work till the ball and lacrosse season commences.

An odd finish to the main mat bout here last night. Whip Watson beat Lord Layton for the final fall but declined to take it. He had fouled Layton—but 'twas his ludship's fault. He hadn't jumped high enough on Whip's flying tackle, so he took Watson's head in the groin. He was helpless, and Referee Bunny Dunlop wanted to award the bout to the champ but the latter refused. "I won't claim a win on a foul, not even an accidental one," Whip said after. He didn't hurt his popularity any by the decision. It was a good bout till then with both using a bit of judo, and the Whip once fooling his nibs plenty by patting him (referee fashion) on the back! Wee Willie Davis was too big and rough for Sonny Kurgis in the semi-windup, while Bill Stack got a prelim draw with Tommy O'Toole. A big crowd, maybe 1,800, on deck

Harness Horses Sold

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 21—(AP).—Band Box Ben, a three-gaited gelding consigned by Mrs. Della Deatley, brought $4,000 Tuesday night at the Tattersall sale of harness horses. The purchaser was Dr. Harry Noble. A five-gaited mare, Little Bit of Heaven, from the Mar Beth Top Farms sold for $3,000 to E. T. Nance of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Bar Hornets From Playoffs Over McCormack

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP).—American Hockey League president Maurice Podoloff upheld a St. Louis protest Tuesday and disqualified Pittsburgh Hornets from the Calder Cup playoffs. St. Louis replaced Pittsburgh in the playoffs.

John Harris, owner of the Hornets, appealed the decision and Podoloff has scheduled a board of governors meeting for March 23.

Podoloff announced his ruling in Pittsburgh following an investigation of the St. Louis charge that centre John McCormack of the Hornets was obtained from Toronto of the National Hockey League after the Feb. 15 deadline for obtaining players. The president upheld the charge and ruled that McCormack was ineligible from Feb. 15 on and that all games he played in from that date were cancelled.

(At Toronto, managing director Con Smythe of the Leafs, said he had been assured by Clarence Campbell, NHL president, that "it was all right—that McCormack could play down there and when he was through he could come back to the Leafs.")

Tuesday night's scheduled playoff opener between Pittsburgh and Springfield was cancelled.

Irvin Prefers To Meet Wings

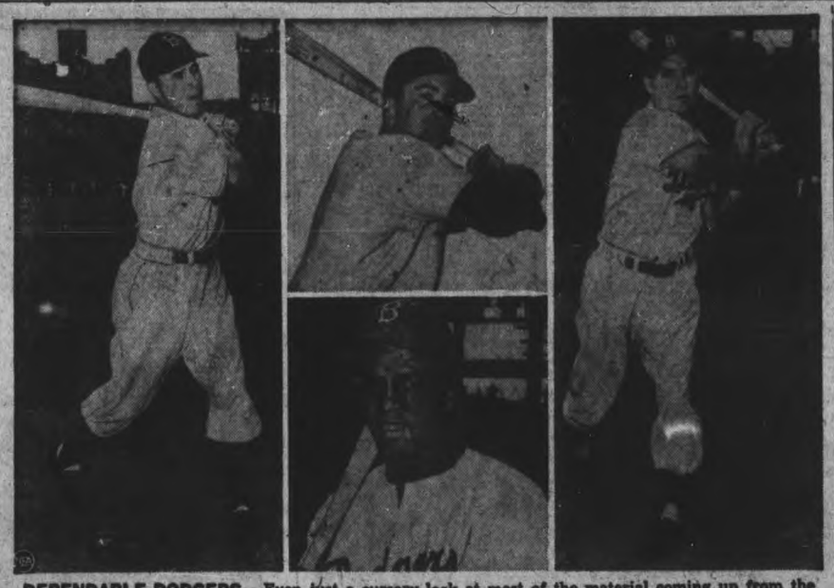
By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Dick Irvin, who coaches Montreal Canadiens, was quoted some time ago as saying that he hoped his National Hockey League charges would wind up in third place instead of fourth.

Aside from the added prestige of the higher standing, the implication was that he would rather see Montreal meet the first-place Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup semi-finals than to have them face the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs. He indicated he would prefer playing against Detroit because his team had such a poor record against Leafs this season.

But a look at the records raises the thought that Montreal will have a tough time whether they face Toronto or Detroit.

Thus far, Canadiens have beaten Detroit three times, tied once and lost eight. That's only slightly better than their record of two wins, two ties and nine losses with Toronto.



At present Canadiens hold down third place, three points ahead of Boston Bruins and four ahead of New York Rangers. They are assured of a playoff berth regardless of what happens in the remaining three games.

Baltimore Crushes Station Tigers 8-3

COBOURG, March 21.—Baltimore Millers walloped Station Tigers 8-3, in the first game of the District Mercantile Hockey League championship final.

Del Clapperton was the winners' high pointgetter, with one goal and four assists. Pud Jamieson and Don Ball scored two goals and Bob Bevan one.

Bud McIvor scored one of the Tigers' first-period goals. Frank McIvor and Ed. Caffin added the others.

DEPENDABLE DODGERS—Even just a cursory look at most of the material coming up from the Brooklyn farms is enough to convince one that the power at the plate this time out will be provided by such old standbys as Pee Wee Reese, left, Duke Snider, top center, Jackie Robinson, and Gil Hodges, right.

Whip Declines Mat Victory When Layton Hurt On Foul

"I won't claim a fall on a foul —not even an accidental one," Whipper Bill Watson said after the main bout at the Brock Arena last night as the large crowd streamed out. That shout sums up the way his bout with Lord Layton finished. The latter jumped clear of one flying tackle off the ropes by the Whip but didn't jump high enough on the next one. Whip's head crashed him in the groin and he rolled about helplessly for several minutes, Watson, Gerald and Referee Bunny Dunlop helped revive him. The Whipper refused to let Dunlop hoist his hand in token of victory for taking the third fall. In that case it will have to go as a draw.

Watson, weighing 237, had taken the first fall in 47 minutes with three whip holds after tossing his nibs, who went 258, out of the ring and then softened him up with elbow smashes. He had the whip hand for a spell with a torturing toe-hold but later was in trouble when Athol worked in a hard hammerlock. Layton was bigger and a bit stronger, besides having a longer reach, but Watson was a little faster and had more mat savvy. There was a lot of mat work in it, but some open stuff, too, with Whip offsetting judo slashes with elbow smashes, and he had more of the fans with him.

Evened It Up

Athol evened the falls in 12 minutes with his "octopus" hold—like a reverse double leglock—which forced the champ to submit. He got it off the ropes fast just when Watson appeared to be setting him up for another fall with a series of whips and slams. Like last week's bout they started it off clean enough but later roughed it some. Lord Layton was warned frequently for using his judo slashes on the ropes when told to break. The Whip surprised him and many by using the odd bit of judo, too, including thumbs in the neck muscles, to break grips. The final fall was in eight minutes, but Watson refused to call it a fall.

Too Big A Guy

Wee Willie Davis used his hulking 272 pounds of mat villainy to down 230-pound Sonny Kurgis in 21 minutes of the semi-final. He gave his popular but lighter opponent the well-known works in softening him up and threw him three times into the ring turnbuckles before flopping on his prostrate foe for the fall. It was lively enough as Sonny proved a fireball after taking a lot of punishment to bounce back and slam his big rival around and throw punches, too, both being warned by the referee. The latter got peeved when they started to demonstrate their holds on him, and he got even once with Wee Willie by jabbing at his eyes. Sonny had to limp out at the finish.

A Prelim Draw

Bill Stack, 239, gained a prelim draw with 241-pound Tommy O'Toole in 30 minutes of good action. They were on the mat plenty but kept rolling in various holds at top speed. Tommy early started to rough it but found Stack able to take care of himself in the hot exchanges. Bill punished O'Toole for a time with a leg scissors with the other finally breaking loose by yanking hair. He was behind Stack till near the end but got in some flying tackles later and they were at it hot and heavy, with the crowd yelling, at the final gong.

Sudden-Death Game Planned

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 21 (CP).—Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds announced late Tuesday they'll play Sudbury Miners in a sudden-death game tonight in North Bay to decide their Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior semi-final series.

Winners will meet South Porcupine Porkies for the league title.

Club officials posted a $450 fine, levied by the league after Greyhounds refused to play Sudbury Monday night. The fine was for expenses incurred in preparations and selling tickets.

The sudden-death game was ordered by the league executive when it upheld a Sudbury protest that Louis Casola, Sault goaltender, was ineligible to play in the original series. Greyhounds won the best-of-seven set 4-3.

Greyhound officials said they have appealed the fine.

Brintons Take First One In TVL Series

Coach Jack Harris' local Brintons are one up on Trenton Taximen in their best-of-five Trent League hockey finals. The second game will be tomorrow night in Belleville, the third one back here at a date to be announced later. Brintons won the northern section of the TVL handily, ousting Campbellford in final playoffs, while Trenton erased the Bata-Frankford Combines to take the southern section.

In the opening game here, Trenton had a 1-0 lead in the first frame but Brintons came back to lead 3-2 at the end of the second, Ace Reid scoring twice and Bill Huard once. Lorne Eakins made it 4-2 from Ken Lawson to open the third but Trenton fought back and finally tied it with less than two minutes to go. The visitors tallied first in overtime for a 5-4 lead but Ken Lawson tied it again for Brintons and then Eakins scored the winner on a neat solo effort. Trenton pulled their goalie in the final minute but couldn't equalize it.

It was a fine, fast game, generally clean, with both sides hustling every minute. There was little to choose between them. About 300 fans took in the tussle. Ken Anderson and Bob McCuaig stood out on defence for the winners, with Reid and Eakins leading the forwards in scoring, but the whole team going well. Jack Byers was tough to beat in goal all through.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

SEPTEMBER 1950 marked the lowest ebb in the fortunes of General Manager Joe Ziegler of the Toronto Baseball Club. After 15 years in baseball Ziegler hit bottom when his ball team finished a dismal seventh in the league with RED the prevalent colour on the ledger. The one bright spot was the divorce the club obtained from the Philadelphia Phillies. Joe Ziegler considered jumping off the stadium roof but faced the Toronto Ball Club Directors instead. "You can nurse the situation along," he told them, "and hope that fate will be kind to you or you can go all out to rebuild the team. Rebuilding will entail expenditures of at least $100,000—IF—players are available and can be secured." The directors looked at Ziegler and then at the ledger. Without hesitation they shrugged off their 1950 losses and instructed their General Manager to "shoot the works". Since then Joe Ziegler has worked, traded, intimidated and finally assembled a fighting ball club.

Top Manager:

After four years of accepting managers named by major league clubs, the Leafs went out and bagged a man of their own choice —Joe Becker. Becker had been named Manager of the Year in his only two seasons in the International League. He led Jersey City to a pair of first-division berths despite losing such ball players as Monte Irvin, Hank Thompson and Elbie Fletcher.

As a catcher for 14 years in organized baseball, Becker played in only 40 games as a major leaguer, with Cleveland in 1936-37. Managing the Leafs will be Joe Becker's first season outside the New York Giants chain after four years with the descendants of John McGraw.

Pitchers:

Undoubtedly the return of pitcher Phil Marchildon to Maple Leaf livery will cause the greatest interest as far as Ontario fans are concerned. Returning to the Leafs for the first time since he signed his original professional contract (with Dan Howley) back in 1939, Marchildon will attempt once more to combat the "pitching jinx" which has haunted him since returning from a German prison camp in 1945.

The pitcher from Penetanguishene, Ontario, has followed the fortunes of his baseball career through the ranks of the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League, Buffalo of the International and now in 1951 he will return to Maple Leaf Stadium, where a host of fans and friendly surroundings should do more than anything else to restore his brilliant fast-ball genius.

The 1951 Leafs are also betting strongly on the pitching talents of John Hetki (Cincinnati 1950), Elmer Singleton (Washington 1950) and of course on Don Robertson, last year's standout pitcher for Toronto.

Sell-Out Year?

According to Gord Walker, Business Manager of the Leafs, 1951 should be a banner year for the Club. Gord believes that the strong advance sale of tickets for opening day April 25 reflects the general confidence of the fans in Joe Ziegler's choice of players. Of a total of 2,819 upper boxes there are none left; only a few field boxes and loge boxes remain for sale; in the reserved grandstand (total capacity 3,413) 20 single seats remain unsold, and even general admissions have a heavy advance sale.

All in all, 1951 promises to be THE year for the Toronto ball club. The fact the Leafs now own most of their players, that their affiliation with the St. Louis Browns is not binding, combined with the return of Bob Rhawn, Fred Collins, Ralph Lapointe and Vince Plumbo and the acquisition of Frank Colman (Seattle 1950) and Lewis Morton (Dallas 1950), should bring the vision of a pennant much closer to Maple Leaf Stadium and Toronto.

Marlies Make Semi-Finals Trounce Stratford 7-3

TORONTO, March 21 (CP). — Toronto Marlboros swept into the semi-finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs on three straight games Tuesday night when they trounced Stratford Kroehlers 7-3 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Only 630 attended the game.

Marlies took the best-of-five quarter-final series without a loss and now await the outcome of the Guelph-St. Catharines tilt. Guelph leads that series 2-1.

Parker MacDonald, who scored two Toronto goals Monday in Stratford, ran wild with four Tuesday night. Ron Stewart turned in two more and Ron Hurst the other for Marlboros.

Five Duke goals came while Kroehlers' defence was ragged and left goalie Bob Mitchell all alone. Despite the seven shots that beat him, he was outstanding.

Goal-getters

Roy Leckie, Bob Armstrong and Bob Bailey were Stratford marksmen. Leckie and Armstrong scored in the second period and Bailey counted his in the third.

Barrie Flyers, who knocked out Galt Black Hawks Monday were first to hit the semi-finals and now meet the winner of the Oshawa-Windsor affair, which Windsor leads 2-1.

Nylons Edge Belleville 7-5

KINGSTON, March 21.—Five goals scored in the first period, three of them within a space of 91 seconds, helped Nylons defeat the improved Belleville Redmen at Kingston Community Memorial Centre Monday night in an OHA Senior playoff game, 7 to 5.

It was during the last three minutes of the opening session that the game was won and lost, and the marksmen who sank the Belleville club were Kenny Partis, Joey Catlin and Buddy Aitken. It was an uprising that caught the Reds off stride. Goalkeeper Jim Irvine was replaced by Major Tripp, a junior, during the intermission and the brilliant youngster held the sharpshooters to two counters during the last 40 minutes.

Despite wretched weather conditions, 2,667 fans were in attendance and they saw one of the most interesting contests of the long season.

Jack McKeown, spearheading the attacks, scored four goals, while Bob Joyce amassed as many assists. Aitken scored once and was outflucked on other occasions or outguessed by Tripp.

Doug Free paced the Belleville scorers with two counters, while Lou Schmidt and Red Jones each had two assists.

Fenelon Falls Rink In Quarter-Finals

KINGSTON, March 21 (CP).—Three Kingston rinks and one from Fenelon Falls remained today in the quarter-finals of the Kingston Whig-Standard Trophy, main event of the Kingston Curling Club's 25th annual four-day tournament.

Jim Curtis, only surviving outsider, entered the quarter finals defeating R. Reddick of Huntingdon, Que., 15-6. Other remaining rinks, R. Thomson, Bob Elliott and Jack Sands, defeated other Kingston rinks to reach the fours.

Finals will be held Thursday night.

BENT ON THROWING RIDER—Batchelor III does a peculiarly-straight and fancy head stand and knee bend to end the ride of Bobby Brookshaw at Cheltenham, Eng. The mount fell at the first fence in the United Hunts Challenge Cup Chase. Geoffrey Rooney, on William's Cottage, prepares for evasive action.

Rickey Master Baseball Chef Out To Mix Pennant Platter

LOS ANGELES, March 21 — (AP)—Branch Rickey knows the proper ingredients and the right mixture to make a good baseball dish.

His favorite platter is pennant a la mode. He's served it at St. Louis and Brooklyn. Now he's working on the same thing for Pittsburgh Pirates, cellar dwellers of the National League last year.

So far the spring recipe has produced excellent results—eight victories in 12 exhibition ball games.

It's made up of veterans, youths, an old trial horse and a little imagination.

The big ingredient naturally is youth — exemplified by George Strickland, rookie shortstop, whose bat has accounted for 12 hits in 30 trips, including two home runs, for a .400 average.

Next to Strickland is Dino Restelli, the big bust of 1949. Restelli, who couldn't buy a base hit in Pirate uniforms during the 1949 season, now shows a .375 mark.

For spice, Ricky has the National League home run king, Ralph Kiner, and Wally Westlake, both veterans. Kiner has belted four round-trippers and driven in 13 runs to lead the Bucs in both departments. Westlake, as usual, is running next to Kiner with two home runs and nine batted across. But he tops Kiner a point in hitting, with .360.

Tries Again

The old trial horse is outfielder George Metkovich, up for another crack at the big time. He's walloped three round-trippers, driven in seven runs, and hit .285.

As for imagination, Rickey has shifted Kiner from left field to first base. He has converted Dale Long, rookie first-baseman, into a left-handed catcher, and is experimenting with Pete Reiser, former Boston Braves outfielder, behind the plate. Also he has transformed pitcher. Bob Chesnes into an infielder.

Veterans like catcher Clyde McCullough, second - baseman Danny Murtaugh, shortstop Stan Rojek and pitchers Cliff Chambers and Bill Werle aren't included in the recipe. They are playing with the Pirates' B squad.

It may mean Rickey will use these veterans as reserves — or maybe he's just giving the rookies a chance to show what they can do.

M. Hawthorne High

Marg Hawthorne rolled high three of 811 and top singles of 313 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League. Cardinals led teams with pinnage of 3,058 and single game score of 1,112. Blind score of 500 was hit right on the head by M. Stephenson. Cardinals, Towne Togs and Brintons respectively blanked Aces, Collis and Sevenaires as 2-1 wins were marked by Marines and Arcos over Dickson's and Curtin's.

Good singles included: J. Castle 240, D. Hendren 242, B. Castle 246, E. Penrose 247, M. Leroux 258, B. Pogue 260, M. Batley 260, M. Hill 261, A. Barnes 267, L. Vincent 271, P. Guppy 287, I. Bullock 274, M. Hawthorne 239, 259 and 313. L. Vincent had a triple of 624, J. Castle 638, A. Barnes 643, B. Castle 653, M. Batley, 656, I. Bullock 687 and P. Guppy 713.

Test Match Fizzles Out

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., March 21 (Reuters). — The first test match between England and New Zealand fizzled out in a tame draw today after England had topped the New Zealand first-innings score of 133 runs.

A century by fast-bowler Trevor Bailey helped the England total to 550 against New Zealand's 417 for eight wickets declared. Then the New Zealand tail-end batsmen were sent in to play out remaining time and scored 46 for three.

The New Zealand tour includes one more test match.

The score card:

New Zealand

First innings 417 for eight declared.

Second innings: A. McGibbon, C. Evans, B. Simpson, 8; J. Hayes, Lbw. Washbrook, 19; G. Cresswell C. Evans, B. Simpson, 2; A. Moir, not out, 7; V. Scott, not out, 10; extras 0; total (for three wickets) 46.

England

First innings:

L. Hutton, B. Moir, 28; C. Washbrook, C. Mooney, B. Hayes, 58; R. T. Simpson, C. Wallace, B. Moir, 81; D. C. Compton, B. Burtt, 79; T. E. Bailey, not out, 134; F. R. Brown, C. Scott, B. Cresswell, 62; T. G. Vans, C. Hayes, B. Moir, 19; A. V. Bedser, C. Hayes, B. Moir, 5; R Tattersall, B. Moir, 2; D. V. P. Wright, C. McGibbon, B. Cresswell, 45; B. Shatham, B. Moir, 9; extras, 28; total, 550.

Hiawatha Winners In Second Playoff

Hiawatha Indians made it two straight here when they walloped Keene by 7-0 in the second game of the three out of five for the Otonabee Rural League championship.

Played on fast ice before a good crowd, the Indians, led by George Sellaby, jumped into a four-goal lead in the lively first period and won going away. They added one in the second and two more in the third. The Keene lads seemed unable to get organized and lack of backchecking allowed the Indian forwards to walk in on Mackness time and again. Brown and McCarthy played good defensively but the Indians passed the puck with good results. The game was cleanly played, seven penalties being handed out with the Indians serving six of them. George Sellaby was a standout for the Indians, scoring three, while Bob Heafield banged in one and assisted on three, Bob Cowie, L. Sellaby and Dale Musgrave were the other goalgetters.

These two teams clash again Wednesday at 8.30 p.m. in the Civic Arena in Peterborough, and the Keene battlers fully expect to break into the win column with a vengeance while the Indians are calling for three in a row. The fur should fly in this one. Bill Legge and Ken McArthur handled the game easily. Teams:

Hiawatha—Goal, McDonald; defence, Thompson, Anderson; forwards, Heafield, G. Sellaby, L. Sellaby; alternates, Paudash, B. Cowie, D. Musgrave, Howard, G. Cowie.

Keene—Goal, Mackness; defence, McCarthy, Brown; forwards, Houle, Whalen, Nelson; alternates, Foley, Renwick, Adamson, Kempt, Gall, Coons.

Cagers In Playoffs

A number of local basketball teams are seeing action in playoffs this week. Girls' City League finals—two-game series — open with a twin bill tonight at 7:15 in the YWCA, Lindsay intermediates vs. Black's and Nurses seniors vs. Neill's. Return games are March 30. The junior series between CGE and Normals will be held in April. The YM boys' loop continues schedule play.

PCVS bantams wind up their lakeshore finals with Bowmanville here late this afternoon, having a good-sized lead on the two-game series. The PCVS juveniles go to St. Catharines tomorrow to finish their OABA semi-final series, being up eight points. If they win the round, they stay over for the weekend to meet the Western Ontario finalists in a two-game final series. All other Peterborough cage teams have completed their season.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins said Tuesday night National Hockey League headquarters in Montreal has announced changes in prospective dates and sites of some Stanley Cup playoff contests,

If the Bruins qualify for a playoff position in the first round of the series, they said, they will meet either Toronto Maple Leafs or Detroit Red Wings. Both of these clubs have elected to play on their home ice the first two games of any series in which they oppose the Bruins.

If the Bruins meet the Leafs, games will be in Toronto March 28 and March 31. If Boston meets Detroit, the games will be in Detroit March 27 and March 29.

The next two games of either series would be in Boston April 1 and April 3. A fifth game in Toronto would be played April 7; a fifth game in Detroit April 5. A sixth game would be played in Boston against either team April 8. A seventh game would be in Toronto or Detroit April 10.

At Akron, O., welterweight Fritzie Pruden of St. Catharines, knocked out Ray Carter Tuesday night in 1:30 of the third round of a scheduled 10-period bout here.

Sir Harcourt Gold, chairman of the British Amateur Rowing Association, Tuesday called the invitation to send the Oxford-Cambridge boat race winner to the United States "a most sporting gesture."

Oxford meets Cambridge in the traditional 4¼-mile course on the Thames River in London Saturday. The winner has been invited to row on the Charles River in Boston against Harvard, Boston University and MIT, and at New Haven against Yale and possibly Princeton.

Canada's champion miler, Bill Parnell of Vancouver, will probably go to the Canadian Legion's fifth annual indoor track meet at Montreal early next month.

Parnell, a physical education student at Washington State University, set a British Empire Games mile record of 4.11—his best time.

The 23-year-old Parnell will probably race against Ottawa's Don McEwen in the Eastern Canada championship mile at the Montreal meet.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, said Tuesday the ball players need not be concerned about their future contracts "regardless of who is commissioner.

"The major-league clubs put the pension fund and revised-player contracts in operation and will continue to carry them out," said Harridge, a member of baseball's executive council.

Harridge made the statement after being told that the players planned to demand that the club owners give them a voice in picking a new baseball commissioner

United States Doubles Manpower In Armed Forces

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, March 21 — (AP)—The United States has doubled its military manpower since the Korean war started partial mobilization about nine months ago.

The armed forces — the army, navy, marine corps and air force —now have approximately 2,900,000 men, it was learned today. Just before outbreak of the Korean war last June 25 the services mustered 1,458,000.

The immediate goal is 3,500,000. A net increase of 600,000 more will be needed.

The greater part of the increase which has doubled manpower strength came from volunteer enlistments, the calling in of reservists of the four services and the federalization of six divisions, two regimental combat teams and smaller units of the National Guard.

The draft has brought in about 400,000 men since last September. However, it has been only within the last two months that the draft has added to the strength of combat units. Only the arm has used drafters so far.

Where are the 2,900,000 men now in the armed forces deployed?

About 250,000 — mostly army personnel—are engaged in the Korean war.

In Europe are approximately 127,000 men, of which 97,000 are army, about 20,000 air force and the remainder crews aboard U.S. navy ships in European waters or at shore installations.

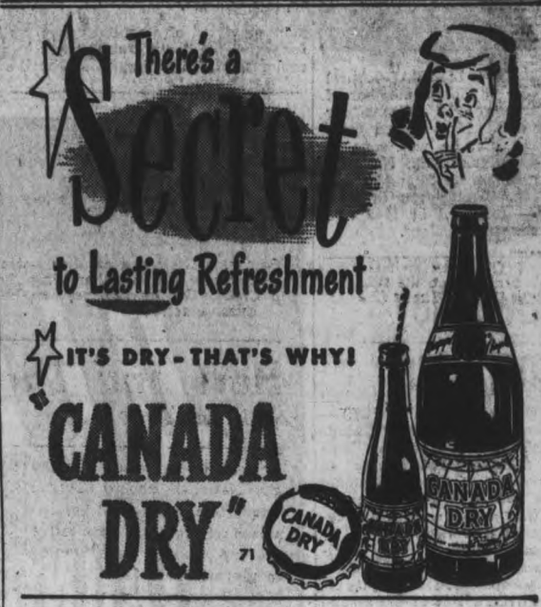
Except for a few thousand in Alaska, Hawaii and the Caribbean, the remaining 2,500,000 men are in the United States or aboard ships at sea.

French Tanks Arrive

BERLIN, March 21 (Reuters)—French tanks have arrived in West Berlin, a French spokesman said today. He declined to name the type or say how many there were. The East German news agency A.D.N. claimed 11 had arrived.

PARIS STUDENTS jam street in front of the Pantheon, as they protest cut in their government benefits. Over 60 were arrested in the day long demonstrations in the French capital. All were released later.

Cobourg Funeral For Ex-Councillor



COBOURG, March 21 (ENS)—Former town councillor Archie J. Russell was buried today in Cobourg Union Cemetery. Services were conducted by the pastor of Trinity United Church.

Md. Russell was born just north of Cobourg in 1865, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell. He farmed for many years near Cobourg before he went to Preston where he was in the ice business for 10 years. He returned to Cobourg 30 years ago..

Mr. Russell was very interested in sports and helped organize the girls' softball league 20 years ago. He is survived by a son, Douglas, a daughter, Mrs. George Tinney of Cobourg, and a sister, Helen Russell of Cobourg.

The estimated mean annual flow of Niagara Falls is 212,000 cubic feet per second.

WI Hears Talk On Citizenship

BETHANY, March 21 (ENS)—Mrs. William Phillips entertained members of the Bethany Women's Institute on Monday evening, with Mrs. H. L. Challice presiding. The attendance was small owing to sickness. Mrs. Harold Sanderson read the minutes of the previous meeting also a number of letters of thanks for cards and boxes of fruit sent in cases of illness.

The treasurer, Mrs. Mansell Finney, reported a balance of $16.61 on hand. Mrs. Ina Palmer read a poem "Success." Mrs. James Hampson gave several items of interest regarding institute work, mentioning a branch she had visited in Leicestershire England and the work accomplished there by a small group; also relating how the efforts of another small branch in Gypsumville in Northern Canada had been instrumental in establishing an outpost hospital and a mission church.

Mrs. H. Sanderson read a poem "Spring Cleaning." Mrs. R. Carr, citizenship convener gave a talk on "What It Means To Be A Good Citizen" stressing the fact that good citizenship, like charity, begins at home. "A good citizen lives by the Golden Rule; is a worker in the home community; supports a church; attends school board or trustee meetings; helps the less fortunate; keeps the home life happy by looking after the spiritual, mental and physical life of the family. A good citizen will always exercise his right to vote and will keep well informed on election issues so that he may vote with intelligence at any election, municipal, provincial or federal.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Price and Mrs. R. Palmer served lunch. Mrs. T. Jennings moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Phillips for the use of her home. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Cavano and the annual election of officers will be held at that time.

Ottawa Play Wins Praise

KINGSTON, March 21 (CP).—Performance of the Ottawa Drama League's cast in Tennesee Williams' "Summer and Smoke" in the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival here on Tuesday night won praise from Adjudicator Robert G. Newton.

He said it was a "very difficult" play—in the first act somewhat too difficult for the players "to get over." But in the second act when it was more dramatic, when the issues were clearer, the cast gave "a very interesting performance."

It was directed by Eric Gilmour of Ottawa, former president of the Brockville Theatre Guild and former vice-chairman of the Regional Festival.

The festival concludes with the presentation of "Pinocchio" by the Ottawa Drama League's Junior Theatre this afternoon and of "Dark Harvest" by the Brockville Theatre Guild tonight.

Presentation of the Senator Davies Trophy for the best three-act play and prizes for the best actor and actress in the festival will follow the final adjudication.

Dictionary Of Underworld Slang

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— A man serving a life sentence in a New South Wales prison is putting the finishing touches to a dictionary of underworld slang. Experts say it will be the best written in Australia since 1819.

When the dictionary is finished it will be presented to the Sydney Mitchell Library where it will be preserved under the title of "The Argot" with the author's identity hidden under the pseudonym of "Thirtyfive."

"Thirtyfive" is a well-educated man convicted of a capital crime for which the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and who has served 10 years in jail.

"Thirtyfive's" distinguished predecessor in the practical study of criminal argot in Australia was James Hardy Vaux who came to New South Wales as a convict early last century.

He found solace in studying the linguistic habits of his fellow jail-birds and embodied his research in a dictionary of criminal "flash" or slang which is one of the most important in the Australian language and which anticipated the first produced in the United States by many years.

Checking Possibility Insecticides Hazard

TORONTO, March 21 (CP). — The Ontario Health Department is investigating the possibility that new insecticides used to spray fruits and vegetables present a "health hazard."

Dr. J. T. Phair, Deputy Health Minister, told the Toronto Board of Health by letter Tuesday that his department was particularly concerned about the danger of spraying certain vegetables such as cauliflower, Broccoli and cabbage.

While the insecticide could be removed from most fruits by thorough washing, this might not be the case with some vegetables, he said.

Has Amnesia Spell During Fight

NORTH BAY, March 21 (CP)—E. B. Murphy, 69-year-old North Bay retired business man, on trial in Supreme Court charged with murder of his wife, was subject to amnesia spells intermittently since 1933, the defence claimed Tuesday.

The defence claimed that Murphy was in an amnesia spell when he allegedly beat his wife to death with a hammer in their home Monday, Feb. 5.

On the witness stand, Murphy said he met his wife in the kitchen that Monday with a "wild look" in her face. She accused him of "keeping another woman."

She attempted to attack him with a hammer. He attempted to wrest the hammer from her. They scuffled. He didn't remember anything more until he regained consciousness prostrate on the floor of the kitchen with his head resting on one hip of his wife who was dead.

Dr. H. E. D. Lowrey and Dr. K. Y. Sinclair both said that Murphy had been subject to intermittent black-out occurrences since 1933.

The Commons adjourns today until April 2.

Venereal Disease Increase In U.S.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP) — In spite of the new quick cures, venereal disease is rising again in the United States.

One reason is war preparations. Another is cuts in federal money for fighting syphilis and gonorrhea, whether the rapid cures assist by increasing temptation is not clear. The rise is a recent reversal of the downward trend since the Second World War.

Quick cures have taken away the immunity to syphilis which many persons got under the old treatments. The immunity did not come from the medicine, but from the long time a person had the disease, a year or more while taking the cure.

Today syphilis is treated in eight days with penicillin. If the case is early, it usually is cured. But the patient is not immune to further infections of syphilis. As a result, for the time, clinics are receiving people who come in with reinfections.

Gonorrhea cures are so rapid that it is theoretically possible to acquire a new case every week. The repeaters actually do not wait long.

The American Social Hygiene Association is receiving reports from many state and city healthy authorities of a rise in both kinds of venereal disease. Part of the rise shows up around military training camps, just as it has in all wars.

The greatest worry is about reduction in staffs, due to cuts in federal money made by the bureau of the budget, for the sake of economy. The cuts total more than $4,000,000 since 1948, and if present plans carry through will be down another $1,000,000 by 1952.

On the records the United States has today twice as much syphilis as in 1919 and nearly three times more gonorrhea. But the statistics may be misleading because in 1919 many cases were not reported.

What is Canada's Largest Flesh-Eater?

The Orca, or killer whale, is Canada's largest carnivorous mammal.

Strange as it may seem, it is true. This mammal is thought to live entirely on the flesh of seals and other warm blooded creatures. The diet of most other whales is comprised of certain types of tiny marine life.

Nothing is stranger than nature . . . and nothing is more enjoyable. We must all help protect it by promoting conservation within ourselves, and amongst others.

B.C. Legislature Urged To Sell On Gold Market

By The Canadian Press

A free market for gold would launch the west coast on the greatest mining boom in its history, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald told the British Columbia legislature Tuesday.

Executives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) had requested the government to go on record as favoring a policy of Canada selling 40 per cent of her gold on the world's premium market.

They said gold miners face difficulties getting increased wages because of the fixed gold price—about $35 an ounce.

Recent aid under the emergency gold-mining act was not sufficient, but if Canada got $42 an ounce on the premium market for 40 per cent of her gold, mine operators could make concessions.

Mr. MacDonald said the question of control over gold prices should be investigated, adding that other divisions of B.C.'s mining industry are experiencing the most active and prosperous period in history.

Plan Unworkable

In Nova Scotia, Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said government proposals for municipal rent control are "completely unworkable — completely impractical." He told the legislature the rental bill, which received second reading, was "not a serious attempt" to solve the problem.

The Prince Edward Island legislature gave second reading—approval in principle—to a bill which will permit action against a man who deserts his family in that province and moves elsewhere in Canada. Attorney-General W. E. Darby explained the legislation was similar to that already existing in Ontario and Nova Scotia.

A CCF resolution in the Saskatchewan legislature urging further wheat payment to western farmers under the five-year pool and the British-Canadian agreement was supported Tuesday by Liberal Leader Walter Tucker. The resolution urged $48,000,000 as a return of the subsidy paid by producers on domestic wheat, plus a "further substantial payment" in addition to the $65,000,000 already promised by the federal government.

The Alberta legislature unanimously approved a resolution urging the federal government to prevent upward adjustment of freight rates on Alberta coal shipped to Ontario. Special counsel J. J. Frawley is being sent to Ottawa to press the case against a $2.35-a-ton increase proposed by the railways for April 1.

The Manitoba government will undertake capital expenditures of $28,450,379 in the 1951-52 fiscal year, Premier D. L. Campbell, provincial treasurer, disclosed in tabling estimates in the Manitoba legislature. Largest expenditure will be final instalment of $8,000,000 on the $23,500,000 Pine Falls power project.

Clear 2 Bus Drivers Of Stealing Money

BRANTFORD, March 21 (CP) —Two Brantford bus drivers were found innocent Tuesday of stealing from their employer, the Brantford Public Utilities Commission.

Magistrate R. J. Gillen dismissed the theft charges after saying he frowned on the procedure used to obtain evidence.

In each case Pinkerton detectives testified they had paid money to drivers on the Brantford-to-Paris buses and received no tickets and that the money had not been registered on the vending machine.

Found innocent were William Evans, charged with the theft of $4, and Thomas Weller, accused of theft of $2.

Noted Composer Carpenter Not Optimistic For Music

CHICAGO (AP). — Composer John Alden Carpenter, who recently marked his 75th birthday says the immediate future of American music and creative art of any kind is not bright.

He explained in an interview that "the state of the world at present is so disturbing that it is not a good period for the creative artist."

The artist must "get peace in his soul and not be afraid" in order to create, said the man who has been called America's first "impressionist" and acclaimed as one of the United States' most respected and best known composers

Before he left Chicago to spend the rest of the winter in Florida, the thin, slightly crippled composer said he is working on two compositions One is a novel piece for cello with a background of women's voices The work was suggested by the cellist Gregor Piatigorsky.

Unusual Subjects

Unusual music subjects and methods are not strangers to Carpenter. A baby buggy, a comic strip and an office building are among the objects that have inspired him.

He broke into the musical world as a publisher composer shortly after the turn of the century with some songs. In the 1920's he reached the peak of his popularity with such compositions as "Adventures in a Perambulator." Carpenter says he got the idea for this unique piece while on a train between Chicago and New York.

Also very popular were "Krazy Kat," taken from a cartoon, and "Skyscrapers," a ballet produced by the Metropolitan Opera Company in 1926.

Part of Jazz

Carpenter readily concedes that his music is programmatic and was "activated by pictures and poems." Among the works he set to music are those of Verlaine, Yeats, Lanier, Tagore, Barnes, Sassoon and Oscar Wilde.

He was known as one of the first to use American jazz as a part of serious music. Carpenter explains: "I felt early interest in American music and jazz is very definitely a part of American music." He added humor can and must enter into good music and his music shows humor.

Early in his musical career Carpenter was greatly influenced by the French impressionists, particularly Debussy and Ravel. In later years, however, Igor Stravinsky gave him the most inspiration.

Carpenter emphasized that to create most art today the artist must have a means of income. He stoutly contends that a business career need not interfere with musical composition, painting or writing.

HONORED — Dr. Gerhard Herzberg, director of the physics division of the National Research Council, has been appointed a fellow of the Royal Society. Only 16 Canadians have been so honored.

Free-For-All

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP) — The Senate engaged in a three-hour, verbal free-for-all on the Anglo-Canadian wheat contract Tuesday and a block of eastern Senators said they will try to vote down the government's payment of $65,000,000 to western wheat farmers. Supplementary estimates, containing the $65,000,000 vote, are due to reach the Upper House shortly before Easter adjournment today and there will be no time for debate then.

Italians Bolster UK Labor Supply

LONDON—(CP)—Italians with no previous experience of mining are being brought to Britain to relieve the manpower shortage.

The men, aged between 16 and 31, start arriving in April. They will go first to an educational centre to learn English and then to a residential centre for preliminary instruction on how to mine coal.

Up to 20,000 Italians are expected to be available for foreign labor, but Belgium is expected to bid strongly for these recruits. In the past Italians have preferred to work in Belgium or France for language and other reasons.

There now are nearly 700,000 miners in British pits, including 8,000 Poles and 5,000 other foreign workers. British mining unions have always been opposed to recruitment of men from outside Britain, but a steady drift from the pits has convinced them replacements are necessary.

In the last year Britons were leaving the pits at the rate of about 700 a week, although the trend is reported changing following recent pay increases in the industry. Coal stocks have been near the danger level since December.

New Zealanders Out To Destroy Rabbit Menace

AUCKLAND, N. Z.,—(CP) — New Zealand is fighting a large-scale war on rabbits which it is hoped will result in a permanent increase in meat exports. If the rabbits could be eliminated it is estimated that several million more lambs and sheep could be exported annually.

The rabbit poulation is estimated at more than 50,000,000. In terms of sheep carrying capacity this represents an annual loss to the country of about $11,000,000. In some years more than 20,000,000 rabbits have been destroyed, but they continue to thrive.

A major problem has been that when prices were favorable, rabbiters—and some farmers on badly-infested properties—have tended to engage in rabbit farming, deriving a substantial income from the skins and carcasses and leaving sufficient rabbits to breed for the future. When rabbiters have been paid on the basis of the number killed, the same tendency has been evident.

As well as causing great loss in stock-carrying capacity, rabbits have also seriously damaged vegetation, causing grave erosion in some areas. This loss is perhaps the most serious of all, as the damage is in some cases irreparable and progressive.

New Approach

A Government-appointed Rabbit Destruction Council to direct the attack on the pest on a national basis, is now approaching the problem on a new basis.

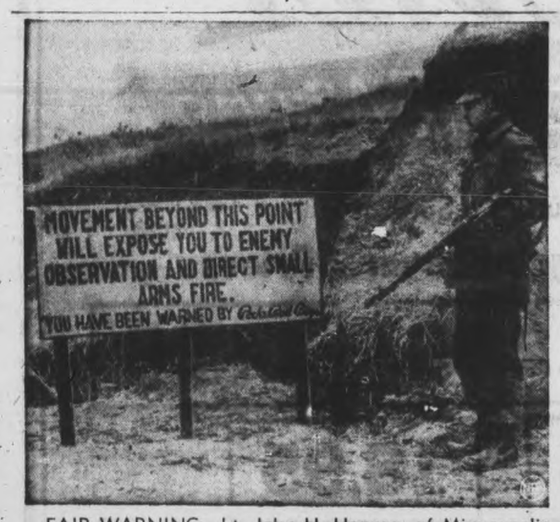
It is trying "killer" methods, aimed at wiping out the rabbits in their warrens without worrying about recovering the carcasses. This would result in a loss of revenue from exports of skins and carcasses, but the council is convinced that a far greater gain would result from increased mutton and lamb exports.

It is testing methods of killing by large-scale spreading of poisons and fumigating of warrens, and also of paying workers on a different basis from the number of carcasses produced. Incentive schemes include extra payments for good work in ridding areas completely of the pest, and for work in difficult country.

The new policy will require larger direct payments from farmers to finance the work, and also by the general taxpayer in Government subsidies.

London Police Seek Another Flannelfoot

LONDON, — (CP)—Police in the London area are on the alert for a thief they know as Flannelfoot II.



They believe he models his tactics on the original Flannelfoot, named for his practice of tying cloth about his feet to muffle footsteps. Flannelfoot died in prison some years ago after carrying out an estimated 2,000 robberies.

Police said the man they are after now follows Flannelfoot's old technique of a series of raids in one district. He tends to strike almost in rotation and the sleuths hope to catch him by keeping careful records of robberies attributed to him.

Since last October, Flannelfoot II is believed responsible for thefts at Ealing, Dagenham, Clapham, Balham and Hornchurch, all in or near London.

MINUTE RICE

Surprise-quick . . . Surprise-easy

CHICKEN RICE SURPRISE

1 package Minute Rice
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 can (10 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
Chopped pimiento (optional)

• Combine Minute Rice, milk, salt and pepper in saucepan. Mix just until all rice is moistened. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat, uncovered, fluffing rice gently once or twice with a fork. (Do not stir.) Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes. Add chicken soup and pimiento; reheat. Makes 4 servings.

Serve this tempting Chicken Rice Surprise with mixed vegetables for supper — and experiment with the many, many time-saving dishes you can prepare with Minute Rice. Desserts and main courses, luncheon and supper menus, can be made more exciting, more exotic with miracle-easy Minute Rice. Keep a package of Minute Rice handy.

House Rehashes Arguments On Wheat Price

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)—The House of Commons rehashed the lengthy arguments of a week ago over the controversial Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement in the main debate of Tuesday.

The debate sprang up on study of an appropriation to finance the payment of $65,000,000 which the federal government proposes to make to prairie farmers.

The Senate pitched into the controversy on a bill amending the Canadian Wheat Board Act and a block of eastern Senators declared their intention to vote against the $65,000,000 payment.

In the Commons, J. L. Gibson (Ind.—Comox-Alberni), expressing his opposition to a western "commando raid" on the federal treasury, moved that the amount be reduced to $1—a parliamentary device for killing the item. He protested on behalf of taxpayers who would foot the bill.

He won support from George Fulford (L—Leeds), who said there was nothing to show that the prairie farmers were "hard up." Their bank savings never had been higher.

East Collected

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, explaining that the payment was being made because the wheat producers had expected more money under the agreement, reported that $727,000,000 was paid out in federal subsidies to agriculture between 1939 and 1949. Much of it went to eastern farmers.

John Charlton (PC—Brant) said the eastern wheat producers and other agricultural producers in Canada had a legitimate claim for government assistance.

Mr. Fulford said if the argument that western farmers were entitled to more was carried to its logical conclusion then a bonus should be paid cheese producers, hog producers, fishermen, gold miners and others.

If other agricultural producers were not going to receive anything he would support Mr. Gibson's motion that nothing be paid the western farmers.

Surprised At Statement

Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort) said he was surprised at Mr. Fulford's statement. Since the war, a total of $13,567,000 had been paid out in cheese subsidies. $10,000,000 of it in Ontario. Other amounts had been spent to help the cheese industry.

A total of $138,000,000 had been paid out over the years by the government to freight assistance on the movement of feed grain from Western to Eastern Canada. More than $50,000,000 of that amount was for grain used in Ontario.

Hog premiums were paid in Ontario and subsidies were paid on maple and other products of the east.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, moved that consideration of the estimate be deferred until the Commons is informed of the principle on which the $65,000,000 is to be paid and the method by which the amount was reached.

Mr. Drew said Mr. Gardiner, having sown discord between the United Kingdom and Canadian governments, now was trying to sow discontent between the east and the west.

Obituary

HARRY P. H. WOODCOCK

NORWOOD, March 21—(ENS)—Harry Perry Hedrick Woodcock, 76, a resident of Norwood for the past eight years, died Tuesday at his home after a short illness. A farmer, he lived in Dummer township most of his life.

He was born in Tweed, son of the late Martin Woodcock and Elizabeth Martin, and his widow is the former Hannah Andrews. Mr. Woodcock was a member of Norwood Pentecostal Assembly.

He is survived by his widow, and five children, Mrs. George Campsall (Edna) of Aurora, James and Cecil of Norwood, Ralph of Toronto and Russell of Hastings.

The funeral will be conducted Friday at his home at 2 p.m. by the Rev. J. J. Shannon of the Pentecostal Assembly. Burial will be in Norwood cemetery.

Wm. McDowall Dies

TORONTO, March 21 (CP) — William McDowall, 97, who introduced clay pigeon shooting into Canada in 1878, died Tuesday. He held the Canadian wing shooting championship in 1887 and 1888. He assisted in equipping the troops that put down the North-west Rebellion in 1885. The Marquis of Lorne was the first of a succession of prominent sportsmen to buy guns and tackle at his downtown sporting goods store.

US Defence Orders

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) —The United States defence department is purchasing up to $100,000,000 worth of equipment in Canada under an exchange buying program of the two countries. U.S. buying in Canada includes naval ordnance equipment, chemicals, railway equipment needed by the army transportation corps and other materials.

Make List Public

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP) —The United States government's secret list of "allegedly-prominent underworld figures" was made public Tuesday night in connection with a new congressional inquiry of racketeers' tax returns. The list included the names of Joe Adonis, Frank Costello, Ralph Capone, Mickey Cohen and Irving Wexler alias Waxey Gordon.

New Housing Subdivision Plan Refused

Flooding In Spring Is Said Cause Of Refusing Request

Application of Braund and O'Toole, realtors, for approval of a proposed housing subdivision south of Chamberlain St. west was withheld by the community planning branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development in a letter read at the meeting of the finance committee of the council Tuesday night.

The reason as quoted was to the effect that the physical features of the property did not recommend it for housing.

"If it was developed under the present conditions, it would be flooded every spring," City Engineer A. E. Chalmers said.

More Suitable For Park

The property was located as being south of Chamberlain St. and between Western and Ford Avenues. The Department suggested that it apparently would be more suitable for a park.

Mr. Chalmers said there was a sewer on Chamberlain St., but there was no sewer on Western and Ford Avenues, and that the sewer on Western Ave. did not extend further south than Chamberlain St.

Comment in discussion was that this letter from the Department was the first correspondence relating to the application to come before the council. It was said to have been referred from the city planning committee to the Department.

The letter was sent on to a subcommittee composed of Ald. P. J. Anglesey, chairman of parks committee, Ald. H. F. Waddell, chairman of property committee, and Armar Butcher, superintendent of parks, "to look into the advisability" of the property being considered for public park purposes.

The property was said to be owned by James F. Dun.

HOW DO YOU KNOW WHEN IT'S SPRING? Well, the calendar says it is; it came in at 5:26 this morning. Our woolgathering artist, with his ear-flaps still down, has dreamed up some other signs . . . Ah! Spring has come to Peterborough! Temperature, night low 15, noon 25. At 1:30 in the afternoon, thick snow falling, driven by a crisp west wind. On Charlotte St., at noon, a farmer's light delivery truck with chains on its back wheels. The south side—south, mind you—of St. Paul's steeple still covered by Monday's snow. Armour Hill on the skyline completely white. Yes, Spring has come to Peterborough, and it's only three days to Easter!

Hospital Help Press Governors For Union Deal

Civic hospital employees are pressing the Board of Governors to conclude a collective agreement with them as an organized local of the National Organization of Civic, Utility and Electrical Workers.

The union claims about 90 of 120 eligible workers. The unit includes kitchen and laundry help, ward aides, male and female cleaners, male orderlies, cafeteria help and maintenance men.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Board on March 15 the decision was reached that the Board didn't wish to enter into a collective agreement with the union, but would be willing to meet an employees' committee to discuss "matters of general interest."

Want Collective Agreement

After a special meeting of the employees Tuesday night T. F. Stevenson, national secretary-treasurer of the union, wrote to the Board asking them to meet the union committee to discuss terms of a possible agreement.

"The employees still desire a collective agreement with the Board for a term of one year," said Mr. Stevenson. "We wish to draw to the attention of the Board that the citizens of Peterborough, who are the actual employers of civic employees, are chiefly employed in general industry, and a great many of them are organized in bona fide trade unions."

"As it has been admitted by the Board that the employees have a perfect right to belong to a trade union, it should also follow that they have a perfect right to have a collective agreement which sets forth the working conditions and wage rates which can be expected for a year."

According to Section 81 of the Labor Relations Act a municipality may pass a bylaw declaring its employees outside the provisions of the Act.

The union wants a schedule of rates generally higher than those approved by the Board, retroactive to December 26.

No Warm Weather Easter Is Weatherman's Forecast

Spring is here. But, b-r-r-r, it's chilly outside.

Spring officially arrived at 5:26 a.m. EST, but it didn't bring any balmy breezes. Instead, most of Canada was blanketed by snow and temperatures generally were below freezing. No spring relief was in sight.

The weatherman wasn't too happy about the Easter weekend, either. "There'll be no warm weather," he said.

Near-zero temperatures and widely - scattered snowflurries were predicted for most of Ontario, Quebec and the prairie provinces. Temperatures ranged from 23 above in Edmonton to 28 in Toronto, 24 in Montreal and 18 in Quebec.

It was warmer in southern British Columbia and the Maritimes.

Vancouver temperatures ranged from 40 to 54 above. In Halifax a high of 38 was forecast; Yarmouth, NS, 45. Another exception was in the foothills of Alberta where Chinook winds boosted freezing temperatures into the 40's.

Pump Parts $4.80 Held From Pay

Wages of $4.80 were ordered paid by Victor Fee to his former employee, Joseph E. Paquette, RR 9, Peterborough, by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court today.

A good deal of confusing evidence was heard, but the story which came out was something like this:

Paquette took a water pump he had assembled as a rebuilt pump to Havelock to install it. He tried it, and it didn't work so he took it out and put back the old pump.

A few days later he went with Fee to a pump company in Toronto with the pump he had brought back from Havelock along with another pump taken from Havelock.

Paquette was to stay and watch the pumps being repaired so that he could learn to repair them himself. The two pumps were repaired, with all new parts put in them.

They were taken to Havelock and installed. Fee said he then learned for the first time that one of the pumps they had taken to Toronto was one that Paquette was supposed to have fixed.

Quit Work

In an argument over the affair, Paquette quit work and in a few days received a statement of wages owing to him and a cheque for the amount.

Deducted from the wages was $4.80, the price of six new blades for the pump. Fee said he had charged Paquette for them because he had been in charge of the pumps in the Toronto repair shop.

He said that Paquette himself had installed new blades in the pump. But in Toronto, these blades were taken out and replaced by other new ones when there was no need for the replacement.

Pump Parts

Paquette said he told Fee about having to take out the repaired pump from Havelock and Fee knew it was one of the two taken to Toronto for repair. He also said that the parts of the one he had watched being repaired in Toronto were all old. He knew nothing about the parts in the other pump.

Fee said Paquette also owed him $70 on a car Paquette had taken out and wrecked. Magistrate Philp would not allow this claim because it was not listed in the statement given to Paquette when he quit.

The magistrate ruled that the liability for the new parts being installed unnecessarily in the pump rested with the Toronto firm, not with Paquette. On those grounds he ordered the $4.80 paid and assessed Fee $5.50 court costs as well.

Says Parked Trucks Endanger Traffic

Police will be requested by the council to enforce both the city traffic bylaws and the Highway Traffic Act in front of Canada packers plant, George [illegible].

Ald. Harold Rehill said at the meeting of the finance committee Tuesday night that a recent $400-damage mishap probably might have been avoided if the simple precaution of setting out warning flares had been taken.

It was said that big trailers are sometimes left in front of the loading platform on George, and when the overhead lights are off northbound traffic is endangered.

The committee is recommending to the council that the police be asked to make the truck owner comply with the bylaw requirements.

Grant Leave To Appeal Bylaw Ruling

Charges Under Bylaw Adjourned To April Until Appeal Hearing

Leave to appeal Judge J. A. McGibbon's ruling upholding the city bylaw governing the hours during which service stations can stay open in the city, was granted to T. J. Carley KC, by Mr. Justice Laidlaw of the court of appeal in a chambers hearing on Tuesday.

Mr. Carley is representing John A. Russelle, service station operator, and Thompson Bros., also owners of a service station.

Mr. Russelle has been bucking the city bylaw for two and a half years. His first attempt failed on a decision by Judge S. L. Smoke who upheld the city bylaw.

Mr. Russelle was again prosecuted last fall. The case was first heard by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, of Port Hope. He dismissed the charge against Russelle, finding that the bylaw was invalid because it was discriminatory and did not follow the petition on which it was based.

Bylaw Upheld

The city, represented by Alex L. Elliott KC, appealed Magistrate Baxter's decision and the appeal was heard by Judge McGibbon of Lindsay. He reversed the magistrate's decision and upheld the city bylaw.

Mr. Carley then sought permission to appeal Judge McGibbon's decision.

This morning in police court the five charges against Russelle, one against Thompson Bros., one against Vincent Crebar and one against Harry Tudhope, were all adjourned to April 25.

It is hoped by then the appeal will have been heard and charges can be heard with a final decision reached on the validity of the bylaw.

Alderman Asks To See Tenders

Ald. J. E. Gillespie sharpened a fundamental of the Council's responsibility in a minor incident at the meeting of the Finance Committee Tuesday night.

City Clerk Outram supplied the members with copies of a list of certain furnishings, with the prices, for the new city hall — tables, chairs, and so on. Presumably the sheets recommended acceptable selections from competitive bids. It is understood that this information was prepared by Mr. Outram and Mr. Ronald Winter, the Council's consultant on various matters pertaining to the planning and building of the city hall.

Like to See Tenders

Said Ald. Gillespie: "It may end up just the same as these recommendations, but I would like to see the other tenders."

Mr. Outram explained that a good deal of time had been spent on the bids, and the list was submitted only after careful consideration.

"I have no doubt of that," Ald. Gillespie remarked, "but it is the Council that decides on tenders."

Mr. Outram said it would be an easy matter to supplement the statement with the other bids.

It was agreeable that the amended report list these tenders in group totals. Apparently they were prepared on the basis of selections of furnishings for different rooms.

PLEASANT CUSTOM

The custom of afternoon tea was introduced in England in the 19th century by the Duchess of Bedford.

Main Street Topics

FLOWERS FOR EASTER

A colorful display of bloom has come out of the greenhouses for the season of Easter. They include lilies, hyacinths, daffodils, cineraria, hydrangeas and so on.

ELECTED DIRECTOR

William Hawrelak of Edmonton Monday was re-elected president of the Canadian Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages. Directors elected at the group's annual meeting include C. W. Boorman, Peterborough, and Lorne Prentiss, New Liskeard.

BOTTLING PROPANE

For its propane bottling service, involving selling in pressure containers, Utilities Commission requires approval of the Board of Transport Commissioners, and as a preliminary, approval of the city council. That assent was recommended to the council Tuesday night by the finance committee.

LICENSE AT LAST

Finance committee of the council recommended Tuesday night that Harry Goodman, proprietor of National Motors, used and new cars, Hunter St., east of Aylmer St. be granted a license. The motion by Ald. Norman Graham was seconded by Ald. Herbert Young. It was said that Mr. Goodman had been operating for a considerable time without a license.

DIRECTOR OF RESCUE

City Engineer A. E. Chalmers was recommended Tuesday night by the finance committee of the council for appointment as assistant director of rescue in the civil defense organization. He was proposed in a letter from Herbert I. Bradburn of the defense committee.

TEACHERS GET $300

A $300-a-year increase was awarded to 200 Oshawa school teachers Tuesday. The boost is retroactive to Jan. 1. The new agreement calls for an additional $200 increase Sept. 1 this year. The school board set a maximum of $4,900 a year for heads of departments and $4,800 a year for specialist teachers.

WANTS EXTRA HELP

Suggestion from City Clerk Outram that another girl be engaged for his office staff was referred by the finance committee to the council Tuesday night. Mr. Outram informed the committee that two girls as temporary help worked a total of 164 days in his office last year. They were paid $1,188. Mr. Outram said that the work of the clerk's department had expanded to such an extent that an additional girl was required.

Belling The Cat

Finance committee of the council had a "belling the cat" interlude Tuesday night as they considered tactic rather than strategy in getting Tommy Hughes off his lot on Monaghan Road south.

Mayor Swanston said decisively he certainly had no intention of going down to call on Mr. Hughes. Ald. Norman Graham said something about having been conked once by him, and that was enough.

Remote kinship in the automobile business appeared to be pointing to Ald. James Gillespie. He's in the selling and servicing end of the automotive business. Mr. Hughes is at the antipodal, as operator of a car wrecking lot.

"For that matter," said Ald. Gillespie, "I wouldn't mind calling on Tommy."

In that facetious spirit of planning of approach to putting foot on the land the Board of Education needs for a new Collegiate Institute, Ald. Harold Rehill was dragged into the heroic frame, but seriously arrangements were left with Mayor Swanston for necessary action when the time fixed by Judge Smoke for Mr. Hughes' getting out runs out apparently at the last hour of today.

Car Licence Deadline Causes Queues

People were lined at the Chamber of Commerce door early this morning to obtain their 1951 car and truck licence plates. These were late comers for the deadline for driving with 1950 licence plates was Tuesday night at midnight. A number of cars along the main streets today still carried the old plates.

For the past two days there has always been a waiting line from 9:15 a.m. until 4:45 p.m., averaging about 50 people at least. Tuesday afternoon the office closed the door at 4:15, and shortly after 5 the inside waiting line was cleared. Some office workers didn't leave until well after 6 p.m.

One Set a Minute

James Fraser, manager, said today that the officer is issuing license plates at the rate of one set a minute, better than the Toronto offices. A staff of six is working from 9:15 a.m. until 5 p.m. with one taking the cash and two typing, the others relieving.

Work has been hindered by people pestering the office with inquiries when the deadline is and others asking for special favors. Another holdup is people failing to fill out the old licenses adequately and wasting time when at the counter. Some people have sent their children down for plates, but have forgotten to sign the licenses. These the office cannot accept.

On Monday the average wait in line lasted about an hour and 15 minutes. Tuesday the waiting time decreased to one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Today car drivers waited at least a half-hour.

Since January 1 the office has issued 9,347 car plates and 1,509 truck plates. The first plates issued started at S5851 and ended in that series at S9999. Another group started at U11 and now is up to U5210. The truck series opened at C59751 and is now up to C61260.

Chief John W. Thompson's comment on whether police would punish offenders was: "Last night at midnight was the deadline."

Electrical Fixtures Cost City $15,968

A firm bid of $15,968.88 for the electrical fixtures for the new city hall was reported to the Finance Committee of the Council Tuesday night by Marani & Morris, architects, Toronto. The original estimate was $14,000 "prior to the calling of tenders." Grant & Loucks have the subcontract for the electrical wiring and equipment.

An additional seven fixtures, whose designs have not yet been "finalized" are estimated to cost $400, subject to price at the time of delivery.

Mayor Swanston explained that it was only recently a firm price could be obtained on the electric fixtures. The difference of $1,968.99 was recommended for payment to the contractor in a motion by Ald. Herbert Young.

10 Men Nominated Sales And Ad Board

Ten members of the Sales and Ad club were nominated to be elected to the four vacancies on the club's board of directors. The nominating committee chairman, Blain Till, announced the names at a meeting of the club Tuesday night.

The ten were: Russ Baer, Lionel Browne, Bert Cowan, Percy Dallin, Ken Dalrimple, Bill Jones Art Lewis, Jack Monteith and Clifford Vincent.

The election will take place at the April meeting of the club.

William Hickey was welcomed as a new member to the club.

Citizens' Deputation Ask Bd. Of Education To Rent Queen Mary Hall To Theatre

Undertake To Ensure No 'Nuisance' Will Give Grounds For Injunction; Board To Discuss With Three Next Week

Chances of the summer theatre again being held in Queen Mary auditorium were revived Tuesday night after a citizens' committee met with the Board of Education and undertook to see that the theatre's operation would not be a "nuisance." Twenty-seven interested citizens crowded into the board room to hear Ross Thompson, chairman of the committee, read a brief asking the Board to reconsider its decision not to rent the auditorium to the Peterborough summer theatre.

Several others, representing organizations interested in drama, also spoke. Among them were Peter McCombe of the Peterborough and District Drama Festival Assoc., Michael Sadlier, director of the summer theatre, T. J. Allen of the Recreation Commission's music and drama committee, John C. N. Currelly, Robertson Davies, Hubert Sills, of the Town Planning Commission, and Dr. R. G. Magee.

At the suggestion of Board member W. B. Gordon, the citizens' committee agreed to name three of their number to meet with the Board early next week to go into all relevant matters.

Frank H. Jobbitt, chairman of appointments, told the citizens' committee that the meeting was just a hearing. According to the Board's constitution, a matter that has been decided cannot be reopened until the next regular meeting, and even then a two-thirds majority of the members is required.

No Authority to Recommend

The appointments committee did not have authority to make recommendations to the Board on this matter, Mr. Jobbitt added.

(The controversy began when the Board received legal advice that the parking problem, noise and other disturbances late at night and on Sundays, could leave them open to an injunction on the grounds that the theatre in that exclusively residential district was an "actionable nuisance." Complaints had been received from C. L. Upper, 602 Hopkins Ave., and a number of other residents. The Board decided to accept this legal advice and offered the summer theatre the PCVS auditorium instead.)

The citizens' committee argued in their brief that if the conditions that suggest a nuisance were removed there could be no injunction—or it would not be upheld in court if it were taken out. And if fear of an injunction were removed there was no other stated objection by the Board to the summer theatre's use of Queen Mary auditorium.

Three Proposals

To eliminate any nuisance to residents in the Queen Mary district the committee made three specific proposals:

1—"We are prepared to see that a police officer is on duty at the summer theatre each night of its operation, to see that no car is parked in such a way that it destroys property, may create a hazard, or obstructs a driveway.

2—"We are prepared to see that the north door of the auditorium is not used, so that the audience enters only by the main door, and that scenery and properties are taken into the theatre and removed by the west door.

3—"We are prepared to see that no work is done in the theatre of a noisy nature after evening performances or on Sundays."

"If these things are done, what nuisance can there be?" asked Mr. Thompson. "And if there is no nuisance, what possibility could there be of an injunction?"

Mr. Thompson said the citizens' committee at the hearing was not composed solely of residents in the Queen Mary school neighborhood, nor just citizens interested in theatre.

"Principle Involved"

"We represent a large number of people who feel that a principle respecting the use of public property is involved in this discussion, and who are anxious that what is their own should not be closed to them."

He asked for an assurance that the matter of renting the Queen Mary auditorium will be raised at the next regular meeting of the Board, and that the meeting will be held in a place large enough to accommodate the number of people who will be anxious to attend it.

Mr. Sadlier defended the conduct of the summer theatre group during the 1950 season.

He said the Board had demanded a "very stiff contract" that included the posting of a $500 bond against possible damage and defacement to property. And there

FOUND GUILTY as the second accomplice of J. Albert Guay, who was hanged for Quebec's airline time-bombing that cost 23 lives, Mrs. Arthur Pitre is sentenced to be hanged July 20. Her brother, Genereux Ruest, the other accomplice, is also to go to the gallows.

Sugar Rationing Unjustified British Magnate Declares

LONDON— (CP) — Lord Lyle of Westbourne, President of the powerful Tate and Lyle sugar empire, has told the people of Britain there is no justification for further rationing of sugar.

In his presidential address at the annual meeting of the company, Lord Lyle declared sufficient supplies were available from commonwealth and domestic growers to meet normal demands. Rationing, he said, could be abolished immediately without expenditure of dollars.

He suggested that the government was continuing sugar rationing to hide the rising cost of living.

The price to the housewife for her weekly ration of 10 ounces per head, came to five pence (about seven cents) a pound, against seven pence to the manufacturer.

If the price were raised to the housewife the cost-of-living index would rise, while a reduction to the manufacturer would entail an increase in the subsidy, borne by the taxpayer.

On Horns of Dilemma

"The planners are on the horns of a dilemma," Lord Lyle said. "Their easy way out is to do nothing—sugar is to remain on the ration."

Reviewing the company's operations, he reported a turnover for the year of £84,000,000, representing a gross profit of £3,400,000. This was approximately £370,000 above last year's figure.

Exports at 670,000 tons had been a record for the company. This volume, about 200,000 tons higher than the preceding year, involved trade with 55 separate countries, at a value of £29,000,000.

Referring to a proposal to nationalize the British Sugar Corporation, which controls sugar beet operations, Lord Lyle said: "I cannot see what good this step is going to do anybody. But if it comes about, we shall not fear competition with a state-owned section of our industry so long as the competition is fair and aboveboard."

ESKIMO NUN — Canada's first Eskimo nun, Naya Pelagi, recently took her vows at Chesterfield Inlet on the west shore of Hudson Bay, 225 miles south of the Arctic Circle. Sister Pelagi—Naya means sister—is a member of the Grey Nuns Order. She is only 20 years old.

To Investigate Backlog

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)— Leopold Langlois, parliamentary assistant to Postmaster-General Rinfret, promised Tuesday to investigate reports that a backlog of mail is piling up in the Hamilton post office. He told L. E. Leonard (PC—Brant-Wentworth) he had not heard about the reported backlog.

Says Shortage Of Sulphur Hits Newsprint

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP) — R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said today that a current shortage of sulphur, used in producing sulphite paper pulp, will have a major impact on the industry.

The situation has produced further problems for the giant mills which, he said in a statement, have made Canada the world's leading newsprint producer.

Percentage curtailment of supplies will be based on a period during which, at times, the mills were operating below capacity. And the general level of sulphur inventories at the mills is below normal.

Canada imports all its sulphur from the United States. Of the total imports, some 80 per cent has gone to the pulp and paper mills.

"Sulphur producers in the United States have already informed our mills of a 15- to 20-per-cent curtailment in shipments which will be based on their consumption over the 12-month period ending October, 1950," said the Fowler statement.

Below Capacity

"During part of this period, the pulp and paper industry of Canada operated at below capacity.

"Since the middle of 1950, the industry has been operating at capacity and is currently operating at a rate substantially above the level of the base period. In addition, substantial increases in capacity have taken place.

"Thus the sulphur shortage will be considerably greater than any percentage reduction in the supply would indicate."

The industry, meanwhile, has been "actively pursuing alternative sources of sulphur."

"A number of these are promising, but they will take time to develop, possibly 18 to 24 months. An obvious method of obtaining more sulphur consists in roasting pyrite, of which there are many deposits in Canada.

"But obtaining adequate supplies of sulphur from this source involves obtaining a suitable supply of pyrite, boxcars to move the ore, the necessary roasting equipment and the priorities for its construction."

New Evidence At Murder Trial

SARNIA, March 21 (CP)—The murder trial of 54-year-old Joseph Magines took a new turn Tuesday night as Gerry Philippond, next door neighbor of Magines, told the court he saw Magines strike two blows at David Edouard Houle less than an hour before Houle was found dead on the floor of the Magines' shack. Magines is charged with Houle's murder.

Philippond, testifying through an interpreter at a night session of Supreme Court, said the blows were struck during a drinking party he attended in the Magines' shack on the evening of Dec. 28.

The witness admitted, however, he had been very drunk at the time and could not say just what the weapon was or where the blows landed. He told the court he had been sitting with his head down and just raised his head in time to see the blows struck. He left the shack almost immediately afterwards.

Philippond's evidence came during an evening session of court called by Mr. Justice D. C. Wells after an all-day session at Lambton county court house.

Earlier evidence by medical witnesses had established that Houle's death was caused by a heavy blow at the back of the head.

Joseph Chevrier Dies

CORNWALL, March 21 (CP)— Joseph E. Chevrier, 82, father of Transport Minister Chevrier, died here Tuesday following a long illness. A former mayor, reeve and councillor, Mr. Chevrier operated a grocery store and later a coal and wood business for more than 50 years.

Doctor Questions Fluorine Benefit

TORONTO, March 21—(CP)—The long-term benefit of adding fluorine to water supply to curb tooth decay was questioned Tuesday by Dr. Gordon Jackson, Toronto's health officer.

He said investigation has revealed a wide diversity of scientific opinion about fluorine and added that he prefers to wait for definite conclusions before recommending that it be added to water here.

There had been cases where decay was curbed by fluorine in early years but developed more rapidly than normal in later life.

Experiments in Brantford, Stratford and Sarnia in Western Ontario have shown the effectiveness in reducing decay in teeth of younger children, and Hamilton is considring going ahead with the addition to its water supply of one part fluorine to 1,000,000 parts water.

Urges Heart Clinics Built In Ontario

TORONTO, March 21 (CP). — Establishment of heart clinics in major Ontario centres was urged Tuesday night in the Legislature by John W. Hanna (PC-Huron-Bruce).

He said heart disease accounted for 14,788 deaths in Ontario last year while cancer killed 6,004. Large sums were being spent to fight cancer and find its causes, but comparatively little was spent on heart disease.

Camerons Get Birthday Gift King Colonel-In-Chief

WINNIPEG— (CP) — The King finally has become Colonel-in-Chief of Winnipeg's Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada.

For many years officers and men of the regiment were proud in the belief His Majesty was their Colonel. But in 1949, they discovered otherwise.

In that year Maj.-Gen. Sir James Drew, Colonel of all Camerons, visited Winnipeg. Lt.-Col. D. J. Gillespie, commanding the Winnipeg Camerons, asked him for an autographed picture of the King in his uniform as Colonel-in-Chief.

The general told him the King was not Colonel-in-Chief of the Canadian regiment. But he suggested the Canadians could petition the Governor-General to ask the King to assume the title.

Col. Gillespie lost no time. He forwarded the petition early in 1950.

Early this month His Majesty's acceptance came through. It coincided with the anniversary of the founding of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Canada by Lt.-Col. R. M. Thomson in 1910.

"A wonderful birthday present and a boost to the pride of the regiment," said Col. Gillespie. "Ours is the only regiment the King has adopted in Canada since 1939."

The Camerons originally were raised in Scotland in 1793 as the 79th Regiment of Foot. When Queen Victoria became the regiment's first colonel-in-chief in 1873, she granted it the title of "Queen's Own."

The parent regiment saw action at Alexandria in 1801, Salamanca in 1812, Balaklava in 1854, Khartoum in 1898 and Johannesburg in 1900.

The Canadian outfit saw its first action at Kimmel Hill in 1916. In the Second World War it fought at Dieppe and in the European campaign.

THREE-DAY VIGIL — Lining 20-foot snowdrifts beside their stranded Winnipeg to Calgary train are passengers who were stranded near Oyen, Alta., for three days. They are watching rescue crews dig out an escape route over the fields. Snow on the level averaged 8 inches to two feet but freak winds piled up the drifts along the right-of-way.

Costello Won't Discuss Bank Account

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—Racketeer Frank Costello, stubborn from first to last, refused again Tuesday to tell Senate crime probers how much money he's worth.

He first balked at the question last Tuesday, the first day he was a witness, and this Tuesday—the next to last day—he refused again on what he termed constitutional grounds.

His attorney was allowed to argue in a written brief due by Monday that Costello has the right to refuse. If the argument fails, the big-time racketeer faces a contempt citation by the Senate.

Costello came back to the hearing after the committee spent most of the day listening to William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York, who admitted knowing Costello, whom he called a sinister influence on Tammany Hall. O'Dwyer now is U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

Knew 14 Leaders

Costello, enlarging on his influence in Tammany Hall, conceded he knew 14 Tammany Hall leaders. The democratic Manhattan organization is made up of 42 district leaders, plus 42 co-leaders.

Costello testified Monday he pulled strings in 1942 to make Michael Kennedy leader of Tammany. Kennedy died in a plane crash in 1949.

The committee must wind up its work before its life expires at the end of the month. But Senator Herbert O'Connor (Dem., Md.) said he would talk with other Senators about extending the committee's life.

Costello took the witness chair after State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi brought Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's name into the record for the first time.

Corsi testified he heard from "my investigators" that Impellitteri accepted political backing from underworld character Thos. (Three-Finger Brown) Luchese. Impelletteri won election as mayor last fall as an Independent Democrat. Corsi was defeated Republican candidate.

Belmont Girls' Club Finish Work

HAVELOCK, March 21 (ENS)—The Belmont Girls' Club met at the home of its leader, Mrs. Clarence King, on Monday evening to close their season's work.

Eight costume slips, made under the direction of Mrs. Edward Barker and Mrs. Alfred Althouse who were in charge of the project "Being Well Dressed and Well Groomed" were packed for shipment to Peterborough where they will be exhibited on Achievement Day, March 31.

Mrs. Clarence King and Mrs. Edward Bowen have completed a 12-year unit of service with the club and for this they will receive a pin from the Department of Agriculture and a gift of silverware from the local club. Each year, any member completing a 12-year unit will be honored in the same way.

A garden club is being planned to include members of the club who have not had a three-year term under the gardening project and any others who care to join.

Father And Son War Paralytics

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Canada's only paralyzed veteran who is also the son of a paralyzed veteran is a quadraplegic—a man paralyzed from the neck downwards.

He is Lorne (Bing) Cosford. He broke his neck with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in the Second World War.

His father, Arthur Cosford, also suffered paralyzing wounds while serving with the Patricias. His came in the First World War.

Lorne Cosford lives in Winnipeg with two other wheel-chair veterans. He has lost nearly all body movement control, with the exception of his two arms. Even his hands were paralyzed.

Develope New Aid

Recently he has had a new aid. A plastic "glove" was developed at Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital. The device, which fits over wrist and thumb, has a slot running across the centre, enabling the patient to insert such things as knives, forks, spoons, a comb, pencil, or even an electric razor.

The prosthetic services division of the Department of Veterans' Affairs at Deer Lodge Hospital here. Lorne was the first quadraplegic to be fitted with the appliance.

The link with the Patricias runs strong in the Cosford family. Lorne's brother, Russell Cosford, is serving with the regiment now in Calgary.

Unknown Soldiers

LONDON, March 21 (Reuters)—Almost 150,000 "Unknown Soldiers" who fought and died with British and Commonwealth forces in the Second World War are lying in unmarked graves on former battlefields. The Imperial War Graves Commission, in its annual report issued today, estimated that of the 500,000 Commonwealth fighters who lost their lives in the war, 353,000 graves had been regisered. The others had no known graves.

To Decide Issue

SEATTLE, March 21 (AP).—The next 30 days will decide whether natural gas interests can get 190,000 tons of steel for a pipeline from Alberta to the Pacific North-west, N. Henry Gellert said Tuesday. Mr. Gellert, president of the Seattle Gas Co., said in a speech that he regarded natural gas for the north-west as "inevitable."

Accident Victim

KINGSTON, March 21 (CP)—Charles James Phillips, 66, painter at the Ontario Hospital in nearby Portsmouth, died Monday night of injuries suffered n a motor accident. Both legs were broken and internal injuries received in the accident Sunday on Highway No. 2 east of Odessa.

NIHILIST PROPAGANDA?—Leslie Wismer, C.C.F. member of the Ontario legislature, takes a close look at two busts in the Toronto Art Gallery he classed as "nihilist propaganda." The subject came up when the legislature was considering a $6,000 grant to the gallery. Mr. Wismer objected to the acquisition with public funds of "Woman's Head," by Picasso, left, and "Head of a Woman," by Matisse. The pair cost the gallery $1,936.73. "These things are hideous," said Mr. Wismer. "These people (the Art Gallery) are using art and the taxpayers' money to assist nihilism in destroying democracy and Christianity."

Good Friday Breakfast On Special-Purpose Menu

Orange Juice OR Grapefruit California Style
(see notes)
Baked Eggs (see notes) OR
Eggs Benedict (see notes)
Hot Cross Buns
Orange Marmalade
Coffee

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

You probably have served grapefruit California Style. For those who have not you merely loosen the sections from the membrane, running your sharp pointed knife around each section. Clip out the centre pithy bit with scissors. Between each section slip a very thin slice of banana. At centre place half of a maraschino cherry. This needs no sugar.

✧ ✧ ✧

Baked Eggs

Sprinkle one-half to three-quarters cup of soft crumbs in bottom of generously buttered medium-sized baking dish. Break into it six eggs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and paprika. Carefully add 1 tablespoon cream for each egg; pour it down the sides of the dish. Bake eggs at 325 deg. Fahr., standing dish in another larger dish coitaining boiling water. It requires about 20 minutes to bake the eggs "medium done." These may be done in individual custard cups, they may be dotted with butter on top if desired.

✧ ✧ ✧

Eggs Benedict

This is the egg dish that is well-known for its popularity in a famous men's club. It is popular with women too—two of which are Marianne and her Mum.

Toast slices of bread cut into rounds from large slices of white bread. Butter them. Fry slices of sweet pickled back bacon or smoked bacon or smoked ham and place these on the buttered toast. They should fit. On the bacon or ham place a perfectly poached egg. Over all pour perfectly made

✧ ✧ ✧

Hollandaise Sauce

(This is the never-fail type so do not hesitate to make it.)

Two egg yolks, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne pepper, ½ cup melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Beat the yolks until very thick and lemon-colored. Add salt and pepper. Then add 3 tablespoons melted butter, a little at a time, beating constantly with the beater. Beat in slowly the rest of the butter alternately with the lemon juice. The beating process makes an emulsion of the yolks and butter. This may be made ahead of time and reheated over lukewarm water while stirring. Never heat it above lukewarm though.

✧ ✧ ✧

Eggs Leo

(This is an egg recipe you may want to try for Easter breakfast.)

Cook side bacon until golden. While still hot curl one slice around the inside of each section of a muffin pan. Drop 1 teaspoon chili sauce in each. Break in an egg. Sprinkle egg with salt and pepper and top with 1 or 2 teaspoons grated cheese. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 15 minutes. Run knife around edge to loosen and invert on hot buttered toast.

Of Interest to Women

What's Right

A child is talking to you, about something he is enthusiastic about.

WRONG: Don't bother giving him your undivided atention, since he is so carried away with what he is saying he probably won't notice that you are thinking about something else.

RIGHT: Look at him and give him the same interested attention you would an adult, for a child is quick to sense when a grown-up is not really listening to him.

UK Women Ask More Controls

LONDON, March 21 (Reuters) —Women members of the Labor Party are demanding more government controls to keep down the cost of housekeeping.

Nineteen resolutions and amendments seeking reimposition of wartime price fixing have been put forward for the national conference of Labor women to be held next month.

Not one suggests relaxation of any existing control.

Several resolutions ask for strict control of selling prices for specific items — fish, rabbits, fruit, vegetables, sheets and towels.

One sign of the times comes from the women of a London suburb. Obviously speaking from hard experience, they urge the government to "conduct a survey into the size of the modern child as a guide to clothing and footwear manufacturers, who seem unaware that the post-war child is bigger in every way than the pre-war child."

It is the Labor government's proud boast that the stunted, slim children of pre-war days are no more seen.

MOVIE COLUMN

Hayden Says He's Getting Last Chance

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 21 (AP) —Sterling Hayden claims he now is getting his third and maybe last chance in the movie business.

Actually, I don't think his plight is as desperate as that. He is one of those tall, rugged types who seem to be indestructible in movies. But Hayden is one of the most self-analytical of actors, and he berates himself for not having secured his film position before now.

He got his first chance shortly before the war. He rose from obscurity to appear with his future (and now ex-) wife, Madeleine Carroll, in two films, "Virginia" and "Bahama Passage."

"I sloughed the whole thing off" he admitted. "I didn't even read the scripts through, just learning the lines on the set before the scene started."

Went To War

Hayden went off to the war with no regrets about leaving the movie business. A lot of people didn't expect him to return to Hollywood, but he did. This time he had a new attitude. He was eager to learn and to work. But now the opportunity was lacking. His studio, Paramount, gave him little or nothing to do. Eventually he was released.

Then came Hayden's second chance. He was picked to play the lead of the hoodlum in "Asphalt Jungle." It was a prize role in a prize (although not commercially successful) film.

"But I missed on that one, too," he remarked. "I did some of my best work in the picture but my performance was awfully uneven."

Despite his modesty, Hayden was a big enough hit to perform a rare feat in the movie business: he returned to a contract at his former studio, Paramount. But another stalemate ensued. During his six months there, he was given only one role.

When a loan-out to Republic was suggested, Hayden squawked. He got his second release from the studio.

Now he has embarked on his third big chance, a starring role in "Skid Row." When I lunched with him, he was a battered bum, with a bruised face and a stubble beard.

"But this character in the picture isn't always a bum," he explained. "The role is the deepest I've ever had. If I can beat it, I'll be in good shape. Lord knows, I'm not going to get many more chances."

St. James YPU

St. James United Church YPU met Tuesday evening in the primary room. The evening started with a sing-song led by Bill Piercy, then the meeting was turned over to Walter Dixon who conducted the worship service. Jeanne Bull read the lesson and president Marian Lee gave the prayer. Miss Betty Piercy gave an address on faith. The evening ended with recreation and lunch after which everyone joined in a friendship circle.

✧ ✧ ✧

George St. YPU

George St. United Church met Monday evening in the Sunday school auditorium. President Lloyd Starke led in a sing-song with Shirley Starke at the piano. The worship service was conducted by the citizenship convener, Hazel Wilson in which a film was shown, "The Universal Declaration of Human Rights." Mae Telford offered prayer and read a poem and a short story. Margaret Duncan read the scripture. Lloyd Starke conducted the business meeting which was followed by recreation led by Bruce Annis. Refreshments were served by the citizenship group.

✧ ✧ ✧

Trinity WMS

Trinity United Church WMS met Tuesday with President Mrs. Legon in charge. Mrs. Gordon Powell, secretary, read the minutes and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Charles Spearin. Mrs. Wade asked for a donation from the members towards the supply material to be sent to overseas missions. Mrs. Legon welcomed guests of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary and the Woman's Federation. Theme of the worship service was "The War for Love and Peace." Mrs. H. T. Rehill gave a reading and Mrs. Edmondson led in prayer. Mrs. T. Curvin favored with a solo, accompanying herself on the autoharp. Mrs. Legon introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church, who gave a fine Easter message. Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Perry's group.

Friendly Group

Members of the Friendly Group of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met Tuesday evening in the Guild room. Mrs. J. E. Hill, leader, was in charge of the meeting. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. F. W. Brockley who also offered a prayer. The minutes and correspondence were read by Mrs. A. Jones and the treasurer's report by Mrs. T. W. Findley. The guest speaker was Mrs. James Dutton who gave an interesting address on "The Great Women of the Bible." Mrs. Hill notified the group of the number of roses and bowls that had been sent to the sick and shut-ins, and expressed the appreciation of the group to all who had taken part in the program. Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Brockley and Mrs. C. M. King assisted the social committee in serving refreshments.

Grace Church WA

Grace United Church WA met Tuesday in the church basement with the president, Mrs. G. Close in charge. Mrs. J. Bailey was in charge of the devotional period. The treasurer, Mrs. E. McKinstry gave a good report. The visiting committee reported 15 sick calls made during the month. Plans were made to present a church play in the church in May, and also to have a pie social April 13. The conveners will be Mrs. G. Todd and Mrs. W. Harrison. Mrs. D. L. Montgomery gave a report on the initial meeting of the Mission Band and stated that 41 had attended. Mrs. H. Corner sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. McKintry. Mrs. E. W. Rolland was pianist for the evening. The Rev. E. W. Roland was guest speaker and gave an inspiring Easter message. Mrs. Todd moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Rowland, Mrs. Corner and Mrs. Bailey. Lunch was served by Mrs. W. Harrison, Mrs. H. Hudson and Mrs. Todd.

Lots of Girls Want To Join Armed Forces

OTTAWA, March 21—(CP)—Any number of girls are willing to jump into uniform at the word "go" from the Defence Department. But not many former service women are interested.

That's what the department has learned since it began filing away queries six months ago from potential women members of the army, air force and navy.

The navy reports "as many as five a day" and the RCAF says it's getting "hundreds of letters." The army considers the general reaction "encouraging."

But Canada's 48,000 women veterans of the Second World War aren't among the enthusiasts. A departmental spokesman predicts that any revival fo the women's services probably will start with "an entirely-new crop of girls."

Age Factor

Age, too, may be a contributing factor. It's six years since the last members in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, the RCAF (Women's Division) and the Wrens, received their discharges.

"Most queries are from girls in their teens and early twenties," the spokesman said.

Both the RCAF and navy report the girls aren't seeking special jobs or commissions. They appear willing to take whatever is offered.

Stenographers, clerical workers and switchboard operators are among those looking for spots in the army. Cooks and waitresses also have inquired, but persons in these trades "don't indicate that they want similar employment in the army."

Nothing Yet

The navy is receiving inquiries from single girls in the civil service. Many other potential applicants live in small towns scattered throughout Canada.

Several inquiries received by the RCAF are from women who think recruiting already has started. However, the girls must wait and see what happens.

Reorganization of the women's services is a hush-hush matter with the Defence Department. However, there have been casual hints by officials that the recruiting target of 115,000 by 1954 includes women.

Officially, Defence Minister Claxton has told the Commons that the matter of recruiting is under consideration by the government.

UK Meat Ration Rouses Women

LONDON (CP). — British housewives are on the warpath again over the handling of the country's meat supplies.

Limited to a meagre weekly ration of about 12 cents worth of meat per person, they were aroused by recent disclosures that certain varieties of tinned meats were being exported to the Argentine and Canada of all places.

Their dander flared up again following publication of reports that heavy shipments of prize-winning domestic sheep were being sent to Poland.

William Wiltshire, a member of a Holborn export firm, said more than 1,000 sheep already had been shipped from farms in Kent and Lincolnshire, with more to follow.

The Polish buyers, he said, insisted on getting the best grade sheep raised in Britain, and it took the shippers nearly three months to fill the initial order. The sheep included many of the leading prize-winners at fairs held throughout the country.

Appeals have been made to the authorities to halt further shipments until Britain's critical meat shortage problem has been resolved.

Chapter News

PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER

The Peter Robinson Chapter met Tuesday evening at the YWCA with the president Mrs. H. Baker in charge. The chapter was presented with a scroll in recognition for work done for the navy. Miss Doris Burgess, welfare convener, reported several children outfitted with shoes and some fitted with skirts and sweaters. It was announced that the annual municipal meeting would be held March 28 at the YWCA. It was voted that post war parcels be sent this year as usual. Also sewing and knitting are being done. Plans were made for the rummage sale to be held March 31 with Mrs. Robert Gamble and Mrs. W. Jeffries in charge. The guest speaker was Miss Seymour Rouse who gave an interesting address on Ireland, its history, landscape, people and customs. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stan Brown and her group. The April meeting will take the form of a pot luck supper with Miss Mary Greer in charge.

Latest Corsets Excite Interest Of UK Women

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP).—With an eye to the new slim silhouette, the women of Britain are taking a sudden, sharp interest in corsets —and finding the line generally satisfactory.

At a fashion show in a west-end hotel, well-cut, medium-priced foundations demonstrated how a skilfully-cut brassiere and corset can disguise unwanted bumps and bulges without the old heavy boning and taping.

There are corsets and corselettes for big busts or small, for narrow hips, large hips and "spare-tires." For the tall girl there are long corsets, for the dumpy girl short corsets and for those who are short or long waisted, there are corsets to match.

A new brassiere was modelled by five mannequins to show how, with variation of cup-fittings and sizes, one brassiere can fit successfully anything from a 32 to a 40-inch bust.

All these garments now are procurable on the home market, with nylons as the No. 1 fabric.

Reasonably Priced

"Today's choice is the best ever," said one Regent street store manager. "At one time women who wanted good foundations had to spend large sums and long hours in being fitted. Now they can go into any store and get the right garment off the peg, at a reasonable price."

Most big British stores have special fitting rooms and trained assistants to advise on the best fitting for the figure concerned.

"There is still too much Victorianism in this country regarding women's wear, bosoms and busts are just being recognized here," said a woman fashion expert at a meeting of the Textile Institute.

"But now they are, we want good designs," said Margaret Disher and Leonora Curry who were bringing faults in design to the notice of the institute.

Miss Disher called attention to brassieres that looked fine on a shop counter, but when worn sagged in a week, or less. She then spoke violently on the faults of panties that split at the seams after washing—"whether they are 4s 6d. (68 cents) rayon or 12s 6d. ($1.88) nylon."

Amps Association Proves Success With Tag Service

TORONTO,—(CP) — Lost any relatives or car keys lately?

If so, get in touch withthe War Amputations Association of Canada. Their tag services here do wonders.

An example was a Toronto man who never lost his car keys but had trouble with two small wandering nieces. He wrote to the key service which supplied two big, shiny tags with the girls' names and phone numbers. They haven't been lost since.

The main job of the service is returning lost keys. Since 1946 the business has been greatly enlarged. Tags now go out to registered car owners in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Last year 1,129,395 of these tags were purchased by Canadian car owners. And 1,709 sets of lost keys were returned to their owners.

James Parsons, manager of the association who lost his left arm in Belgium in the Second World War, says they come up gainst a poser once in a while.

One Toronto man was so pleased witht he return of his lost car keys that he asked the tag service to track down his wife "who has run away from me."

"Unfortunately," Parsons replied, "we don't make tags for wives."

Mrs. Calvin Reynolds is a patient in Civic hospital, Peterborough. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Orme Miller, Pontypool, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Mansell Wright.

The sympathy of this community is extended to Mr. Harold Thompson in the sudden death of his sister, the late Mrs. Evelyn Cooke. Mrs. Cooke was one of two killed late Friday night in a car accident on the outskirts of Bowmanville. She was well known in this community where much of her early life was spent. The funeral was held in Newcastle on Monday.

Mrs. Christine Muir of Manvers Station is in Civic hospital, Peterborough, and reported as progressing favorably.

Coons-Windover Vows Pledged At Buckhorn

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday by the Rev. J. Cathcart at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Buckhorn, when June Florence, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Windover, became the bride of Rodger William, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Coons, Lakefield.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a navy gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Miss Jean Hall who wore a grey suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Groomsman was Mr. Keith Matthews, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Robert Gillespie and Mr. Harlyn Coons.

Miss Mary Nichols played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. B. Hall who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "We'll Walk Together."

The reception was held at the bride's home. Following the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Coons will reside in Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

Mulish Man Should Be Handled Like A Donkey

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to the most stubborn, contrary man on earth. How can you get along with a husband with that kind of disposition? I have tried gentleness, patience, fighting, being mean myself, but nothing does any good.

DISGUSTED WIFE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, one would like to say that the best way to treat a contrary man is to bat him over the head with a coffee pot, but unfortunately women lack the physical strength to enforce such an argument against contrariness. Besides which, our effete civilization discourages such primitive means of family discipline.

Dorothy Dix

All that is left, then, for the woman who is married to a man with a mulish disposition is to treat him as she would any other donkey who hasn't sense enough to do what is right and proper, but who has to be cajoled along the way he should go.

Let Him Suggest It

Begin by letting him think that he has suggested everything that you want to do. If you want to have the parlor papered in green instead of purple, don't rashly say that you are going to have green or your donkey will put his foot down and declare for purple. On the contrary, gently and insidiously suggest the idea of green paper and, when you perceive that the time is right, ask him what color he would prefer to have the parlor papered. He will say green and berate you for not having thought of it yourself.

Avoid all arguments as you would the pestilence. An argument with a contrary man is like a mordant that sets a dye and makes it indelible. If he says black is white, let it go at that and he may forget what opinion he expressed and recognize white for the color it is. But if he once commits himself that black is white, he will stick to it to the end of time.

Of course, the less sense a man has the more amenable to flattery he is and the easier he is to work, so there is nothing for the woman who is married to a contrary man to do but to get busy with the salve and plaster him over daily with fulsome compliments.

If she tells him how big and wise and strong and wonderful he is and how she defers to his judgment in every particular, he will eat out of her hand and she may do with him as she will. Some women can do this, some can't. Some do not think it worth while and, as a matter of fact, it isn't worth any sensible woman's trouble to humor such childish weakness, for such a man makes her very, very tired.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been married for fifteen years and have two lovely children. I have always been a good and faithful wife and mother, a thrifty and economical housekeeper and have done my duty the best I knew how. But in all the time we have been married my husband has never taken me anywhere for pleasure. When he is home he always nags me about how much money I spend. He never gives me any extra money for clothes. I have to pinch the household money for weeks to get a pair of shoes. He always swears at me and calls me terrible names. He has never brought me a gift of any kind. And just these little things mean so much to a woman. What should a wife do under these circumstances?

DISCOURAGED

ANSWER: I don't know what she can do except qualify, as you are doing, for a place among the saints and martyrs. Many a one has been canonized for less suffering than the woman endures who has to go through a lifetime of suffering the insults and neglect of a husband who regrets being tied down by marriage and who takes out on his wife his discontent and his selfish fury at having to spend on his family the money he would like to spend on himself.

If a woman has money of her own, or if she is childless, or if the man has property out of which a decent alimony can be wrung, the wife can, of course, leave a husband who mistreats her. But in a case like yours where there are little children to be considered and where the husband has nothing but his daily wage, to break up the home would only be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire and making a bad matter worse. You could not possibly earn enough to support yourself and your children.

DEAR MISS DIX: My parents are divorced and both of them have married again. I am staying with my mother and stepfather. If I stay with them this summer, I will not be able to wear shorts, to use cosmetics and go to dances, as they are very religious. If I go to my dad and stepmother, I will be able to do whatever I please, but my father drinks. At which place would you advise me to spend the summer. I am a girl of 16.

PUZZLED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You seem to have an embarrassment of riches in parents. You would probably have a gayer time with your easy-going father and stepmother, but your stricter mother and stepfather would be better for your soul.

6—In Memoriams

CLYSDALE—In loving memory of my father, Albert Clysdale, who passed away March 21st, 1946.
Gone dear father, gone forever,
Too far away for speech or sight,
But thy memory shall linger forever,
No matter how long the night.
—Sadly missed by Margo and Bud Cooper.

DRURY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Drury, who passed away March 21, 1945.
To one we will never forget,
His absence to us is a sorrow,
His loss we will always regret.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

HAYES—In loving memory of Walter M. Hayes, who passed away March 21, 1945.
From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved,
He is borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above,
No one knows how much we miss him
None but aching hearts can tell:
Lost on earth, but found in heaven—
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of our dear grandson, David Lawrence, who was killed two years ago today.
Two years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by Grandma and Grandpa Mahood.

7—Cards of Thanks

May I express my deepest gratitude to the attending doctors, nurses and sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital for the wonderful care I received during my recent operation; also those who sent flowers and fruit.—Mrs. R. B. Nichol, Roseneath.

Mrs. William T. McElroy and family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their many friends, relatives, neighbours, for acts of kindness and messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes extended to them in their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a dear husband and thanking the Rev. H. B. Herrington for his comforting words.

Find Armstrong Guilty On One Charge

Marvin Armstrong, Smith township, was found guilty of one charge of false pretences and not guilty of another charge in police court Tuesday afternoon.

He was originally facing 21 charges, 11 of forgery and 10 of false pretences. The forgery charges were all dismissed Tuesday morning. One other false pretence charge was also dismissed and he was found guilty of one other false pretence charge.

The score now stands at 13 dismissals and two convictions, with six yet to go.

Guilty On Grocery Cheque

He was found guilty of false pretences in giving R. H. Tranter, Burleigh township grocer a cheque signed by his mother, Mabel Armstrong, made out to M. Armstrong for $25.

At the time, said Gerald Royds, Imperial Bank accountant, there was $15 in Mrs. Armstrong's account.

Mr. and Mrs. Tranter said Armstrong assured them that the cheque was good.

Armstrong took the stand and testified that he too thought it was perfectly good. He thought there was about $350 in the account. However the cheque bounced.

J. C. N. Currelly argued that the charge which originally dated the offence as taking place Jan. 23 and amended to Jan. 27, was laid on the first date because it was on that date Armstrong had really cashed the cheque. It would then follow, that the cheque, dated Jan. 27, had been a post-dated cheque and there could be no conviction.

He also said Armstrong had made deposits to the account and had good reason to think the cheque would be honored.

Bearing of Other Cheques

After examining details of the deposits and other cheques that were passed by Armstrong about the same time, the magistrate found that Armstrong could not reasonably expect that the cheque he gave to Tranter would be honored.

Another charge of false pretences was dismissed when the man who cashed the cheque, Arthur W. Gilders, Smith township service station operator, testified that the cheque dated Oct. 28 was given to him by Armstrong Oct. 19.

Courts have held many times before that no one who gives a post-dated cheque can be convicted of a charge of false pretences. The finding has been that the post-dated cheque is really a promise to pay the money in the future, but at no specific date. Therefore the person passing the cheque cannot be found guilty of false pretences, since he can still say he will pay it some time in the future.

Citizens' Deputation

were other restrictive conditions.

The theatre group had complied with these conditions, he said, and he was surprised that if any difficulties arose at that time they weren't made known to him.

No Noise After Midnight

"There was no noise or disturbance at any time after midnight during the summer," said Mr. Sadlier. "We were out of Queen Mary auditorium by midnight and the door was locked every night but one."

In a routine week-night check he had never seen any cars blocking Mr. Upper's driveway.

"I am prepared to do absolutely anything to see that there is no public nuisance there," he said. This year he would give an undertaking to have the back door locked at all times, except during performances when it would have to be open to comply with fire regulations. Loading and unloading will all be done in the rear quadrangle in the centre of the schoolyard.

James Wharry, in a letter to the Board, said that he had offered his barn on Middleton Drive for the second year to Mr. Sadlier and his associates so they could have a place other than the school ground to build and paint scenery.

The summer theatre director said he understood that Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd., had offered their property on McDonnel St. as a parking lot.

Mr. Currelly described this as "a solution to the parking problem but not a happy one." People dislike walking several blocks from their parked cars, he said.

Mr. Sadlier said the collegiate auditorium might be used one or two weeks early in the summer but it could not take the place of the Queen Mary auditorium.

The stage is better at Queen Mary and as the seating capacity is less it is more "intimate." The larger collegiate auditorium could not be filled, he said, and the loss of intimacy would affect the attendance. He also said it was too hot there in midsummer.

"Wasn't the auditorium at Niagara Falls bigger than the collegiate one?" asked Mr. Jobbitt.

"Yes sir," replied Mr. Sadlier. "But we didn't have the same success in Niagara Falls that we had in Peterborough."

Peter McCombe, speaking for the local Drama Festival Association, declared the Queen Mary auditorium the only one in Peterborough suitable for most amateur groups.

The seating capacity of the collegiate was beyond the ability of an amateur group. The place could never be filled. He said the acoustics were inferior and there was a lack of intimacy and public amenities.

Summer Theatre Important

Many of those interested in amateur drama in Peterborough had never seen a professional production of a play, said Mr. Mr. McCombe.

He made a general plea for Queen Mary to be made free for dramatic groups.

"Retain the summer theatre as a permanent cultural adjunct to Peterborough," he said.

"Amateur theatricals have never been refused," observed Mr. Jobbitt.

Mrs. Herbert Young had a solution that would involve city council's co-operation.

"I understand from the Mayor that, if the Board of Education requests the Council to re-zone the Queen Mary auditorium as a Civic Centre with parking restrictions, then Council will, in all probability, pass it."

Re-zoning Requires Hearing

G. Wilson Craw said if this was re-zoned as a civic centre it would require a hearing before the Municipal Board. But Hubert Sills of the Town Planning Commission said that all schoolgrounds were zoned as "density 3". And this would permit the Queen Mary auditorium to be converted into a civic centre.

Mr. Currelly said it was his understanding that there was "one reason and one reason only for the Board's original decision and that was the fear of legal action being taken."

"It wasn't fear of litigation," said W. B. Gordon. "But the Board didn't want to enter a lawsuit that might be unsuccessful, and thus waste the taxpayers' money."

Mr. Jobbitt then asked if the committee had tried to get to the source of the complaint. Mr. Thompson said yes.

"Mr. Upper was approached by one member of the group and he (i.e. Mr. Upper) said he had never threatened an injunction and was only interested in having the area defined."

His original letter was addressed to the Town Planning Committee but was passed on to the Board of Education. There it touched off the controversy that is still not ended.

"Why didn't you send it to the city council?" Mr. Craw asked Mr. Sills.

Mr. Sills said that he was not speaking for the Planning Commission at Tuesday night's hearing, but it was a case of determining who was responsible for looking after the complaints.

A Hot Potato

He conceded that it was "a hot potato" and he intimated that the Commission was glad to get rid of it.

"Just passing the buck," commented one of the Board members.

Mr. Currelly said most of Mr. Upper's complaints seemed based not on the summer theatre's operations last year, but rather the year before. He said that the theatre group would alleviate the situation even more this coming summer.

"Would the Commission recommend a by-law for one-hour parking in that area," Mr. Gordon asked Mr. Sills.

Mr. Sills replied that the Commission had thought of it but dismissed this solution as the residents of the area would be equally affected. They couldn't park for more than an hour in front of their own homes.

K. S. Wightman and Mr. Gordon said that Queen Mary schoolgrounds are under repair and cannot be used.

Mr. Davies said that Canadian drama, like several other Canadian institutions (including the railways), needed subsidies to keep going. The summer theatre has been running for two years and the results so far have been very good. It has been financed in a sound way.

"If you are subsidizing the summer theatre to some extent," said Mr. Davies, "the majority are right with you in doing so."

"The Board subsidized the theatre the first year and last year they were about $25 ahead," said Mr. Craw. "But the question in my mind is: why should the Board of Education do the subsidizing? The city council could take it from the general tax rate instead of the board having to assess public school supporters."

"That's a matter between the Board and the city," commented Dr. Magee.

Mrs. Paige Rowell turned to Mr. Sills and said: "I don't see why the Commission sent this letter on to the board."

Mr. Sills repeated that the objections were matters only the Board could deal with.

"Oh no, parking has nothing to do with the Board," replied Mr. Craw. "The letter should have been sent to the city council."

Dr. Ralph C. Honey, chairman of the Board, re-iterated the Board's stand that the summer theatre was turned down because of legal advice.

The casual use of the auditorium for educational and amateur use is not considered by the courts the same as a running commercial venture.

He also thought that it would be a poor spectacle for the Board to be engaged in extensive litigation with the resulting poor publicity.

Children's Aid Completes 37 Adoptions

Thirty-seven adoptions were completed by the Peterborough Children's Aid Society during February—an increase of 11 as compared with this month last year, Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, stated Tuesday. This information was included in Miss Young's report to the board of directors at their meeting.

The society made 327 visits during the month and held 154 office interviews. Family cases totalling 176 and 181 children in foster homes were under the supervision of the society in February.

"Delinquency of children, insufficient clothing, non-support, marital problems, inadequate supervision and physical care of children and separation were the problems presented," explained Miss Young.

The society attended 25 hearings in Family Court, seven of which were in regard to juveniles. Approximately $486 was paid through the society's office for maintenance of wives and children.

Miss Young told the board that for one family psychiatric services were required, but not available. "Such services are needed quite often, but usually we can be of some assistance," she stated. "In this one situation our services were of no assistance to the family."

At the end of the month five children were in the Children's Home, 64 were in boarding homes, 74 were on adoption probation and 104 were total wards.

Outlives Pallbearers

VICKSBURG, Miss., March 21 (AP).—Kimball Ferguson outlived 12 of the 24 men he had chosen to be his pallbearers. Nine years ago Ferguson left a letter with a funeral home naming the pallbearers he wished to serve at his funeral. Ferguson, 80, died Monday. Twelve of the group died before him.

Execute 1,000 Chinese

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 21 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist defence ministry today said more than 1,000 persons had been executed publicly by the Chinese Communists in Kaoyao, 50 miles west of Canton. It said another 1,000 had been put to death in Tsingtao, North China seaport, and more than 19,000 others arrested there. There was no confirmation.

Buckaroos Sign Recording Job

Well-known for their western and old time music, Jim Byrne and his Radio Buckaroos, a musical quintet, have signed a five-year recording contract with the Maple Leaf Recording Company in Montreal. This is Peterborough's first musical group to break into this field of commercial entertainment.

Already the Buckaroos have cut two discs featuring Canadian western and old time music, several sides by Peterborough composer, Frank Hamon, also pianist with the group.

All four numbers, Western swing style, the records have been sent to 150 radio stations across the country. Further records will be made in the near future, a group of square dance tunes featuring Jim Byrne as the caller.

Pianist Frank Hamon's tunes are catching the old time and western music fans across Canada and the United States. His selection, Guitar Polka, has been recorded by Slim Watson and other groups. Several top dance orchestras such as Russ Morgan have used the tune on radio programs, heard through national broadcasting companies. He is contracted with a large song-writing company.

Locally Jim Byrne has been playing this type of music for the past 20 years.

The quintet have been together for the past three years and are former members of the Red River Ramblers and the Dixie Rythm Boys. The group includes Frank Hamon, piano; George Simmons, violin; Paul Primeau, drums; Vic Fothergill, bass violin; Paul Konkel, guitar; Jim Byrne, master of ceremonies.

Oppose Princess Paying Pope Visit

LONDON, March 21 (Reuters). —Ardent Protestants today asked the King to prevent the proposed courtesy visit of Princess Elizabeth to the Pope and avoid "an affront to national sentiment."

Princess Elizabeth, now in Malta, is to visit Rome with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, from April 11 to April 24.

In a letter, O. T. Taylor, secretary of the Protestant Alliance, said news of the visit would be flashed round the world as "papal propaganda of the greatest value."

Millions of Britons would be filled with "surprise, perplexity and profound sorrow" at the thought of such a visit, he said.

Name Ald. Burrows Associate Director

City Council did not realize prior to Tuesday that it had representation on the Peterborough Exhibtion Board. Now, it has two associate directors. One of them is Ald. H. T. Rehill who was appointed from the board when he resigned after election to the council.

Meanwhile the board is requesting city and county councils to appoint one of their members to act as associate directors. Ald Arthur Burrows received the nomination of the finance committee for that additional post.

No Answer From Reds

NEW DEHLI, March 21—(AP) —India has asked Russia if she can help ease India's food crisis by supplying grain but has received no reply, Food Minister K. M. Munchi told parliament today. Answering a question, Munchi said official inquiries were made by India through the Russian embassy here to learn what "quantities of food grains the USSR will be prepared to supply India and the terms."

Check Railroads

PRAGUE, March 21—(AP)—A group of Soviet railroad experts arived Tuesday to advise on the installation of safety devices on Czechoslovak railroads similar to those used in the Soviet Union. Their visit is in accordance with provisions for scientifc and technical co-operation in the Czechoslovak-Soviet trade agreement.

Plasma Substitute

NEW YORK, March 20 (Reuters).—A British-made substitute for blood plasma will shortly be made in the United States, T. C. Usher, managing director of Dextran Limited, of Darlington, England, said today. Usher said it is not a substitute for whole blood but it is being widely accepted in cases where plasma is called for. It now is being supplied to British and American forces in Korea.

LONDON, March 21—(Reuters) —Prime Minister Attlee went into a London hospital today for a general medical check-up. He was treated for a duodenal ulcer three years ago and has recently been suffering some discomfort after eating.

Port Hope Panthers Wallop Milton 12-3

PORT HOPE, March 21.—Taking a five-goal lead in the first period, Port Hope Panthers shellacked Milton Co-Ops, 12-3, here in the third game of the best-of-seven series in the OHA Junior C semi-finals. Port Hope leads the series two games to one.

Close to 1,200 fans watched as the Panthers outplayed the Co-Ops but had difficulty beating Chuck Terry in the Milton goal.

Don Goody, Japper Wilcox, Jon Fisher and Bernie Flesch each bagged two goals for the winners. The two Vaughan brothers, Bill and Doug, figured in Milton's three counters.

Lone casualty came in the first period when Jon Fisher suffered a broken nose in a collision with one of his teammates.

Leaps From Window Child Escapes Flames

STELLARTON, N.S., March 21 —(CP)—A 10-year-old girl jumped Tuesday night from the second-storey window of her flaming home with her three-year-old sister in her arms.

The girl, Shirley Deagle, suffered burns, bruises and possible internal injuries but her sister, Jean, was uninjured. Four other children escaped. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Deagle, were not at home.

Shirley was cut off before she could get downstairs. The fire was believed to have started while one of the children was lighting an oil stove.

Joseph T. Tully

Funeral service with one of the largest attendances in the district was held on Tuesday at the Comstock Funeral Home for the late Joseph Thomas Tully of Otonabee township who died suddenly on Sunday at his residence. He was 41 years of age and a former director of the Holstein-Friesien Association of Canada and a prominent cattle breeder in Central Ontario.

The service was conducted by the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church and pal-bearers were Earl Huston, Donaid Deyell, Stanley Wood, James Matchett, Dave Wilson and Charles Huffman. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Drinks Whisky, Drowns

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21 (AP). — Authorities said four boys drank a half-pint of whisky Tuesday shortly before one of them was drowned in a pond. They said the 8-year-old boy took his father's whisky and shared it with his friends, then fell into the water as the quartette tried to climb into an old boat at the water's edge.

Valedictorian, 66

HOBOKEN, N. J., March 21—(AP).—Mrs. Rose La Porta, 66, a great-grandmother, was named valedictorian of her class Tuesday at Hoboken Industrial School. Mrs. Laporta said she waited until her seven children were married and had set up their own homes before she went back to school. She completed a three-year course in flower making.

Back In Service

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21 — (AP).—The Essex-class carrier USS Hornet was placed back in active service Tuesday. The 27,000-ton vessel, veteran of 14 months fighting in the Second World War, will sail to the east coast for modernization.

Phoney Receipt Given Employer

A "drunken spree" was blamed by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, when Allen O'Brien, a tea salesman, gave a phoney receipt for $4 to his employer and collected money for it.

As a result, O'Brien was charged with false pretences. He pleaded guilty in police court Tuesday and was placed on suspended sentence for one year.

Bertram Hooey, his employer and manager of the Ocean Blend Tea Co., Peterborough branch, said the night of March 13, O'Brien phoned him and reported that he was stuck in the mud and asked what to do.

Hooey told him to get a tow into town. He said he suspected from O'Brien's voice that he had been drinking and told him to bring the truck directly to him. But O'Brien and the truck didn't arrive.

The next morning he went to a garage and found the truck unlocked and about $384 worth of tea missing. A little later he met O'Brien and told him to turn in his money collections.

With the money, O'Brien turned in a garage bill for $4 and was allowed to deduct that amount from the collections he owed the company.

Later Hooey learned that the garage operator had issued no such bill and had not towed O'Brien The garage operator said he had handed O'Brien one of his bill forms to make notes on while he was phoning the manager.

Believes Solution

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP) — Samuel Bronfman, chairman of the National Conference for Israel and Jewish Rehabilitation, Tuesday night said the united Israel appeal objective was "the outright solution of a world problem which has troubled mankind for centuries." In an address at the opening of the Montreal campaign of the appeal, he said the establishment of the state of Israel was "one of the most ambitious programs ever undertaken by philanthropy."

TV Hits Theatres

DETROIT, March 21 (AP). — Owners of movie theatres here told the city council Tuesday that television may force the closing of half Detroit's 181 theatres within two years. TV already has made inroads of 50 per cent in attendance at theatres, Iriving Goldberg, spokesman for the group, said.

Highest Payrolls

WASHINGTON, March 21 — (AP)—Government payrolls — federal, state and local—last October reached the highest today for any month in United States history. The total outlay was $1,527,900,000 and 42 of every 1,000 Americans were on the pay lists, the census bureau reported yesterday.

U.S. Soldier Killed In Brawl With Mob

TOKYO, March 21 Reuters) — One American soldier was killed, two wounded early today in a brothel-district brawl with a mob of Koreans. Many Koreans live in Japan.

Some 200 Japanese police were called out to quell the riot. They made 82 arrests.

Japanese police said nearly 100 Koreans surrounded, stabbed, stoned and beat six United States soldiers in a dark street. The mob fled when police arrived.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters slapped a blackout on news about the brawl and did not release names of the dead or wounded.

The Tokyo public prosecutor told reporters he believed Koreans had provoked the disturbance to "commemorate" riots in the same district last year.

British General Sees Stalemate

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, March 21—(AP)—Lt.-Gen. Richard Nelson Gale, director-general of training in the British army, tonight said Chinese Communist forces will not gain the initiative in Korea.

However, he added:

"In a war of this sort there is always the possibility of a stalemate, considering the limitations on operations of the United Nations troops and the resources and manpower and depth of the enemy."

Gale told correspondents that U.N. forces are slowly and methodically pursuing their own course.

"They are not being tempted to go too fast or too slow."

Gale, concluding an unofficial visit to British troops in Korea, said the Reds retain depth and reserves and their withdrawals are well conducted, but——

"Allowing credit to the enemy and granting him local successes I don't see why we should fear him regaining the initiative."

Hounding Tactics Of Conservatives Antagonizing Many Supporters

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 21 (CP) — A Conservative plan to hound the Labor government until its members are "absolutely hysterical" appears to have antagonized moderate opinion.

The effect of the new Tory tactics has been to win a certain sympathy for the Socialists. At the same time, Liberals and Independents show an increasing tendency to criticize the Conservatives on these grounds:

1. The campaign has resulted in a series of all-night sittings which embitter party feelings and tend to bring parliament into disrepute. One Liberal spokesman said it is "almost criminal" that such conduct should take place against the threatening background of international events.

2. Parliamentary overtime menaces health.

3. If the Consevatives succeed in toppling the government, are they so sure they are ready to take over themselves? The Liberal Manchester Guardian said editorially it's about time the opposition gave a little thought to what it is going to do when and if it takes over.

Just Mockery

The Independent Times said that if parliament is kept in an uproar it would be a mockery of the national duty about which it said Conservative leader Winston Churchill had spoken so eloquently in a party political broadcast.

There is said to be some uneasiness even among Conservatives. Anthony Eden, deputy party leader, is thought to have opposed the plan for wearing labor down by filibusters and delays. Christopher Hollis, an influential Conservative member, has expressed doubt in a speech whether "harassing for harassing's sake" will bring the government down.

Perhaps the mainspring behind the Tory technique is a group of youthful and highly-regarded back-benchers, who believe that labor is making mistakes in business and other fields which a Conservative administration would forestall. Their strategy is simple: keep the House sitting as long as possible by tabling a series of "prayers" on any convenient subject. Prayers are exempt from the standing order which normally marks the end of parliamentary business at 10 p.m.

East Kootenay Seeking New Iron Smelter

FERNIE, B. C., — (CP)— A campaign for an iron smelter in East Kootenay, launched by the Fernie Board of Trade is based on four major points.

East Kootenay is midway between markets in Alberta and on the British Columbia coast. It has the available iron ore, the "best metallurgical coke in Canada" and limestone close at hand.

The points in favor of the smelter were put forward by K. N. Stewart, long a busines leader in the Fernie District, in a resolution endorsed by the board.

Support of the Asociated Boards of Trade of Southeastern B. C. is sought.

Fernie claims the East Kootenay fulfills basic requirements for an iron smelter "better than any other location in B. C."

Oil and gas are bringing new expansion to Alberta and the Western provinces, and B. C. industry is growing day by day—both need steel, the board said.

While East Kootenay lacks large deposits of hematite or magnetite ore, there is a deposit of hematite at Kitchener. The chief source, however, would be the iron sulphide tailins from a concentrator at Kimberley, at present a "waste product."

One of the main requirements in blast furnace operation—a good grade of metallurgical coke—is produced from coal seams in Michel and Fernie.

"The report of the Dominion Government Coal Commission states that Fernie and Michel have the largest deposits in Canada of coal suitable for the production of a metallurgical grade coke," the board said.

Order Crime Inquiry For Ontario

Frost and Jolliffe Stage Row, Check-up Promised

TORONTO, March 22. (CP)—A hot, angry sitting of the Ontario Legislature wound up late Wednesday night with a surprise announcement by Premier Frost that he will call for a select Committee of the House to investigate the administration of justice in the province. The premier, angered in a bitter clash with the CCF, made the statement just before the House adjourned for an Easter recess. He said that when it resumes next Tuesday he will move the appointment of the committee to investigate law enforcement in Ontario with particular emphasis on Windsor.

Chief participants in the sharp exchange were Attorney-General Dana Porter and CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe who described attorney general as "cowardly," after which Mr. Porter demanded a retraction on the threat that he would leave the House and force disciplinary action.

The debate reached a climax after Mr. Porter asked why the CCF Leader had not carried out his promise, made last December, that he would demand a Committee of the House to investigate administration of justice in Ontario. Mr. Porter said Mr. Jolliffe had made the promise in a speech outside the Legislature.

"Evading Issue"

When the CCF leader replied that his December remarks were followed by government action in Windsor, where a new police commission was appointed, the Attorney-General accused him of evading the issue.

Finally, the Premier stepped into the fray and said:

"I'm just about ready to move the motion which the opposition leader said outside this House that he was going to do but which he has failed to do."

Mr. Jolliffe said he would not oppose such action.

"Then," said Mr. Frost, "I'll just call your bluff—I will move the appointment of a select committee to go into this matter."

"Hold on a minute," shouted Mr. Jolliffe. "Are you moving a committee to probe Windsor? I've said tonight I think Windsor is no worse than elsewhere. What I demanded in the throne-speech debate was an investigation of the administration of justice generally. With that I will agree."

"And that is what we will give," Mr. Frost replied. "You've asked for it so now you can have it. We'll go into the whole Wind-

Strong Opinions!

PARIS, March 22. (AP)—Strained tempers after an all-night session in the National Assembly led today to a dispute in which a deputy knocked one of his colleagues unconscious. Both of the deputies are from Algeria. The two men were having a heated discussion about a rejected amendment to the controversial election law when Mohamed Bentaieb struck Francois Quilici. Quilici, flattened on the bench, was revived after several minutes.

Patrol Shoots Way Out Of Red Ambush

TOKYO, March 22 (AP). — An American tank-infantry patrol with mine-hunting engineers today shot its way out of a Communist ambush less than three miles from the North Korean border.

The tanks were moving up one side of the Pukhan river north of Chunchon and the infantry were plodding along the opposite bank when the Reds opened fire.

From high ground they poured machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire on all sides of the patrol.

The tanks pulled back to Chunchon, carrying the wounded.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, disclosed that it was U.S. 1st Cavalry troops who occupied Chunchon Wednesday.

In the air, American Sabre jet fighters probably shot down a Russian-built MIG-15 jet and damaged another over northwest Korea.

An estimated 6,000 Reds were reported dug in six or seven miles north of Chunchon.

The bulk of the Communist troops, however, appeared to have pulled back north of Parallel 38.

But in the west, the Reds appeared to be digging in for a desperate stand in South Korea.

Field dispatches said some 60,000 Communist troops manned western defence positions in depth for 15 miles south of the border. These included two divisions of the Chinese Third Field Army, idle since the Hungnam action in December.

An Allied tank patrol ran into a hot fight Wednesday on the approaches to Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

The thrust north of Chunchon was the closest announced Allied approach in force to the old border between the Communist north and the Republican south during the current drive.

Patrols may have crossed the boundary.

Will Screen Seamen For Security

Great Lakes Men Must Carry Labor Dept. Cards

OTTAWA, March 22. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today announced that seamen serving on Canadian ships on the Great Lakes are to be screened for security.

The Prime Minister told a press conference that the Government had created the new regulations today under the Emergency Powers legislation recently passed by Parliament.

As a protection against sabotage all seamen serving on ships of Canadian registry or ownership on the Great Lakes will have to carry "seamen's cards" issued by the Labor Department.

The Canadian screening program, the Prime Minister said, will be conducted in co-operation with United States authorities, who already have clamped down marine security restrictions.

The Prime Minister indicated the possibility that the security measures might be extended to seamen on foreign ships going up the Great Lakes.

Asked whether this would be done, he replied:

"We intend to make navigation on the Great Lakes secure, and we shall be considering all aspects with a view to making that situation secure."

However, he added, foreign vessels "are not affected by the regulations I am announcing today."

Mr. St. Laurent also said, under questioning, that he had no announcement to make on whether the regulations will be applied to shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

When a reporter asked if the intention was to protect the vital locks on the Great Lakes against Communist sabotage, he replied:

"We do not want sabotage. We want assurance that this will not occur and that there will be no undue interference with the service on the Great Lakes."

Collazo Loses Plea

WASHINGTON, March 22. (AP)—Oscar Collazo today lost his plea for a new trial and will be sentenced to death April 6 for killing of a policeman in the Nov. 1 shooting in front of President Truman's Blair House residence. In denying a defence motion for a new trial, US District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough said: "If ever a human being on the face of the earth had a fair trial, this defendant did."

Strike Spreads, France Cancels Army Leaves

PARIS, March 22 —(AP)—France today cancelled leaves for all army and police personnel as a strike halted 80 per cent of the country's trains.

Those on leave were ordered immediately to rejoin their units, or the nearest unit they could find. Premier Henri Queuille, as interior minister, ordered the action after a series of conferences with ministers and labor leaders concerning the country-wide strike wave, which appeared to be spreading.

Workmen in the nationalized gas industry, who went on strike in Paris Monday, extended their stoppage today to Lyon, Rouen and Reims. At Bordeaux there was no garbage collection this morning.

Food supplies, including fish for Holy Week, continued to reach the great Paris market by truck and efforts were being made to keep a few trains running on the main lines.

Upsets Tourists

But Easter traffic from abroad was seriously threatened.

Faced by a call for a general railway walkout, issued by the non-Communist and predominantly Socialist force Ouvriere, the government:

1. Requisitioned (drafted) "several thousand" key railway personnel to stay at their jobs on the government-owned rail system or face heavy fines and jail terms.

2—Set in motion a pre-arranged network of truck and bus services to replace as far as possible threatened loss of rail transport.

3—Promised to establish a new national minimum wage applicable to rail employees as well as to other workers in nationalized concerns. A decision on this was set for Friday.

The rail workers, like other striking unions, are asking higher pay.

The Force Ouvriere strike call directly affected 65,000 of the country's 430,000 rail employees. However, 300,000 members of the Communist-dominated Confederation General du Travail were expected to follow.

Daley Calls Special 2 p.m. Parley

Say Union Ready To Sign Separate Agreements

TORONTO, March 22. (CP)—A. F. MacArthur, International representative of the striking Milk Drivers' Union, said today the union is ready to sign a separate agreement with any distributor who is ready to accept the union's terms.

MacArthur made his offer a few hours after the union halted all milk deliveries in the Toronto area when it failed to reach an agreement with the Toronto Milk Distributors Association in all-night negotiations.

A difference of $6 a man separated the two parties when negotiations were broken offf.

Labor Minister Daley and Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer of the Ontario Labor Department, called a meeting of representatives of both sides for 2 p.m. today.

1,000,000 Without Milk

The strike cut off the milk supply of more than 1,000,000 residents of Toronto and its suburban area.

It began quietly at 5 a.m., when pickets were thrown around the four Toronto dairies that employ non-union drivers. None attempted to maintain its delivery schedule.

There were reports of minor incidents in outlying districts, where community dairies which considered themselves unaffected by the dispute were confronted by pickets of the Milk Drivers' Union (AFL).

At Thornhill, seven miles north of the city limits, pickets stopped local drivers on their rounds and the Thornhill dairy abandoned its routes.

A similar union attempt to stop deliveries failed at Richmond Hill, 12 miles north of the city. The union withdrew its pickets when Provincial Police intervened after the horse and wagon of a local driver were seized.

Jury Acquits Edward Murphy In Wife's Death

NORTH BAY, March 22 (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury late Wednesday acquitted Edward B. Murphy, charged with the hammer-slaying Feb. 5 of his wife Bella H. Murphy, 69.

Murphy, former North Bay businessman, also 69, slumped slightly on his bench in the prisoner's box and bowed his head for a minute or so when he heard the verdict.

"I think your verdict is a very just one," Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, presiding judge, told the jury.

The defence claimed Murphy was attacked by his wife who had a hammer in her hand and who said: "You beast, you are keeping another woman."

Murphy was alleged to have been hit on one thumb by the hammer and then started to wrest the hammer from his wife. He said he remembered nothing after that until he recovered consciousness prostrate on the floor with his head on one hip of his dead wife.

She had been struck several blows on the head with some weapon, presumably the hammer, and died of a brain hemorrhage caused by a fractured skull.

In a 1½ hour address to the jury earlier Wednesday, Mr. Justice Gale said that if they found Murphy to have been in a state of semi-consciousness or "blackout" when Mrs. Murphy was slain then they must acquit him.

He added that a verdict of acquital would also be necessary if the jury accepted Murphy's plea of self-defence and if the jury was satisfied that no more force was used than was necessary for his own protection.

Ask Prayers For Five Nuns

HONG KONG, March 22 — (Reuters)—The Hong Kong Standard, Chinese-owned morning newspaper, called today on churches of all denominations to offer prayers at Easter for five Canadian nuns recently arrested by the Communists at Canton.

The newspaper said the Canadian nuns and others were "bravely carrying the torch of truth in a land darkened by evil forces."

The nuns were arrested for alleged negligence in the care of babies in an orphanage attached to the convent of the Immaculate Conception.

The Standard says that even if Communist allegations of high mortality at the orphange were accepted, "it does not follow that the deaths of these unwanted babies may in any way be attributed to human negligence."

20 Hurt On Liner During Bad Storm

HALIFAX, March 22—(CP)—The liner Atlantic arrived here today and crew members told of a raging Atlantic storm in which one woman was killed and some 20 passengers treated for minor injuries.

Mrs. Claire B. Donaldson, 68, of Salem, Mass., died from concussion after she stumbled and fell while the ship was thrown about in mountainous waves Monday night, the ship's doctor reported.

The Home Lines Ship, en route from Lisbon to New York via Halifax, was buffeted continuously during the six-day crossing.

Uganda Recalled To Service Will Be Renamed 'Quebec'

OTTAWA, March 22. (CP)—The Navy announced today that the cruiser Uganda, in mothballs for some years, is going to be placed back in service early next year and renamed the Quebec. That means Canada will have one cruiser called the Ontario — now sailing to Australia—and one name Quebec. The navy said the King has consented to the change in name. The Uganda or Quebec, a 9,500-tonner, will become a training ship, the same role as that now filled by the Ontario.

Prior to her re-commissioning from the reserve fleet on the West Coast, she will undergo extensive refit at Esquimalt, BC.

Originally a Royal Navy ship, Uganda was built by Newcastle-On-Tyne, England, and was commissioned Dec. 17, 1942. She took part in the Sicilian and Salerno actions in the Italian campaign and in September, 1943, was hit by a rocket bomb off Salerno and badly damaged. Following repairs and modernization, she was recommissioned as the first Canadian cruiser of the Second World War, under Capt. (now Rear-Admiral) E. R. Mainguy.

Lots of Action

The Uganda was despatched to the Pacific theatre. She joined the British Pacific fleet in March, 1945, at Sydney, Australia, and in April took part in naval operations centering around Okinawa. Early in May she took part in the naval bombardment of Sukuma airfield on Miyako Jima.

In mid-June she worked with a British naval force bombarding Truk. For this operation the force commander transferred his flag to the Uganda to lead the Truk attack. In mid-July of the same year she was with a combined British and U.S. naval force which carried out attacks on the Japanese home islands. The following month the Uganda returned to Esquimalt.

27 Die In Crash

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, March 22—(AP)—A Colombian Airlines Lansa plane crashed near the village of Hatoneuveo in the Bolivar department Wednesday, killing 27 persons.

The plane was on a regular flight from Bogota to Barranquilla. Search parties arrived on the scene Wednesday and found all aboard had been killed.

Howe To Handle Defence Work

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent today announced the appointment of Trade Minister Howe as Canada's new Minister for Defence Production.

He said Canada will post Sidney D. Pierce, 50, to Washington with the rank of Minister. He will look after defence production matters there.

Mr. St. Laurent said Max Mackenzie, 45, will move over from the Department of Trade and Commerce to become Deputy Minister of the new Department of Defence Production and will be succeeded as Deputy Trade Minister by W. F. Bull, 47.

The Prime Minister added that he and Mr. Howe are going to Bermuda to spend the Easter holiday together and that Works Minister Fournier will be Acting Prime Minister in their absence.

Protest Attacks On U.S. Army Trains

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 22 (AP)—United States authorities formally protested today to the Russians against "attacks by German nationals" on American military trains crossing Soviet-occupied East Germany to Berlin.

The six incidents complained of, as outlined in a letter from Maj.-Gen. George P. Hays, deputy United States high commissioner, ranged from a bullet shot into a coach to demonstrations by groups of east zone Germans singing anti-American songs and throwing propaganda leaflets aboard trains.

Hays asked his Russian counterpart, I. Semitschastnov, that the Russians punish the Germans responsible for the attacks and prevent a recurrence.

LONDON, March 22 —(CP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw, a pioneer socialist who hated taxes, left an estate valued at £367,235 ($1,101,700), but reckoned after debts and taxes at about £121,014, his will and an accounting disclosed today.

The 14-page document directed that part of the money be used for promoting a 40-letter alphabet which was one of the Irish wit's pet projects.

Shaw died last November at the age of 94.

His net estate, after settlement of all outstanding obligations, was £301,585. Estate taxes totalled £180,571.

Shaw's will directed his executor to "institute and finance a series of inquiries" to determine:

1. The number of people speaking and writing the English language in the current 26-letter alphabet.

2. How much time could be saved by substituting Shaw's alphabet, in which each of 40 symbols would stand for a sound.

3. "The loss of income in British and American currency" from using the old alphabet instead of Shaw's proposed one.

Shaw also asked that a phonetic expert be hired to translate his play "Androcles and the Lion" into the new alphabet, "assuming the pronunciation to resemble that recorded of His Majesty our late King George V and sometimes described as northern English."

He asked that copies be made of the play in his alphabet and in the standard 26-letter alphabet, with the versions side by side, page for page. These copies were to be presented "to public libraries in the British Isles, British Commonwealth, American states north and south and to national libraries everywhere in that order."

Shaw ordered that no rights to his writings or plays should be sold "which irrevocably binds them for more than five years." In dealing with such rights the trustee should not be bound strictly by money considerations, "it being my desire that he shall give due weight to artistic and public and human considerations to the best of his judgment and counsel."

Russia Refuses Return U.S. Ships

WASHINGTON, March 22 — (AP). — Russia told the United Statts flatly Wednesday that it refuses to consider returning 670 US vessels obtained under lend-lease during the Second World War.

State Department negotiators reported the Russians accused the US of violating a promise to sell the fleet to the Soviet Union.

In a note presented at Wednesday's session of the lend-lease talks, the Soviet Government also took the position that the US does not need the merchant and naval ships in its accelerated defence program, as it claims. The note said the US has sold surplus ships to several South American and other countries recently.

The US negotiators made it plain in talking to reporters that they would not accept the Russian refusal. They indicated they would renew their demand that the vessels be returned immediately. A formal demand was served on Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panpushkin February 7.

As for violating an agreement to sell the ships, the State Department spokesmen said, Russia knows that the offer of sale was conditioned on a prompt and satisfactory over-all lend-lease settlement.

Talks aimed at settling Russia's $19,800,000,000 account have limped along for nearly five years —and a settlement is still beyond the horizon.

Indian Tribe In B.C. Adopts Young Skater

VANCOUVER, March 22 (CP) —Andra McLaughlin became Princess Sesak Yela-ann Wednesday night to the throb of tom-toms and gained the support of the Squamish Indian tribe, her people now, in a fight to climb to the figure-skating pinnacle.

The blonde teen-ager from Colorado Springs, Col., who placed seventh last month at the world figure skating championships in Italy, was baptized a full-fledged Indian—the first time a British Columbia tribe has bestowed this honor on a white woman.

Appropriately enough, her Indian name means "Travelling Feather" and wherever she goes on this continent the great network of Indian tribes will be asked to assume responsibility for her welfare.

The action—which the Indians say is sacred enough to give her dual citizenship — stems from what her father and they term "discrimination" against her in the figure-skating world.

When the North American figure skating championships open this weekend in Calgary, Andra won't be among those contesting the title because she hasn't the necessary endorsement of the United States Figure Skating Association.

Set $15,000 Bail

SUDBURY, March 22—(CP)—Bail was set at $15,000 each for three men charged with the armed robbery of two Canadian Bank of Commerce employees on March 9. The figure was set by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe when the trio, J. Marcel Tremblay, 24, and Clifford, Tremblay 26, brothers, and Jack Prefontaine, 24, made a brief appearance in city court.

Lords Worried Over Emigration

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters) —Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former Governor-General of Canada complained Wednesday night in the House of Lords of the "terrible" decline in emigration from Britain to Canada during the last few years.

Currency restrictions, which prevented the British settler taking more than £1,000 ($2,950) in instalments of £250 a year, acted as a blight, he said.

The restriction barred the skilled man whose savings were more than £1,000. It also barred the tradesman and the craftsman who wished to set up a business of his own, and the small family unit who wanted to emigrate and buy a house.

Lord Ogmore, undersecretary for Commonwealth Relations, interjected that in some cases the treasury allowed the £1,000 to be taken out in a lump sum.

Bows To Bull

TORONTO, March 22. — (CP) — Ronald Marquis, Sunderland, plowing champion and cattle breeder, sprawled into the sawdust of the auction ring Wednesday knocked over by a nervous bull which was being put up for auction at the Ontario Cattle Improvement Association auction. He was not seriously injured.

Mayor Charges $55,000 Gift Commissioner To Resign

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Water Commissioner James J. Moran said today he would bow to Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's demand that he resign his $15,000-a-year lifetime job because he allegedly accepted $55,000 from the head of the uniformed firemen's association.

The mayor's demand was made Wednesday after John P. Crane, head of the association, told the Kefauver crime committee under oath that he gave the money to Moran, then first deputy fire commissioner, so he'd be on "our side."

Moran had denied in testimony before the Senate committee that he ever received any money from Crane.

Moran was appointed to his lifetime job as Water Commissioner by his old friend, former Mayor William O'Dwyer, just before O'Dwyer resigned to accept the post of U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

Crane told of the Moran gift immediately after he testified he gave O'Dwyer $10,000 in cash in October, 1949, as "evidence of support" by the firemen.

O'Dwyer, in two days of testimony before the committee, earlier had sworn that he never got any money from Crane.

He said he repeated the denial Wednesday before a New York county grand jury investigating the uniformed firemen's association.

The Grand Jury which questioned O'Dwyer previously quizzed Crane about $135,000 of the association's funds reported missing. A fireman for 13 years, Crane lost his job when he refused to explain the withdrawal of the big sum other than to say that it went in cash "to good local friends."

Crane said the $10,000 was to back up the firemen's pledge to support O'Dwyer in his successful 1949 campaign for re-election.

Police Believe 6 Stole Stone

GLASGOW, March 22—(Reuters)—Scotland Yard today was working on the theory that six conspirators carried off the Coronation Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey Christmas Day and seven others were in the know.

Two detectives who have just completed a nine-day investigation here are believed to have built up a complete picture of how the Stone was removed and where the job was planned—probably in Glasgow itself.

The detectives, Inspector Owen McGrath and Sgt. John McDougall, who have been interviewing university students supporting Scottish home rule, think the stone was kept in London for a week after being taken from the Abbey and then transported to Scotland by car. It is believed to have passed through several hands since then.

Oliver Brown, one of the leaders of the recently-formed Scottish National Congress, said today the Stone had been removed from the place to which it was originally taken, "as a safety precaution."

Big 4 Deputy Talks Continue Indefinitely

PARIS, March 22 (AP). —The Big Four deputy talks may continue indefinitely an authoritative source said today, unless someone takes the bold step to end them.

The other alternative, the source added, would be agreement of an agenda for a foreign ministers' meeting. However, little or no progress is being made toward that end in the talks that began here March 5.

The deputies met again today after a session Wednesday described by a western spokesman as a complete loss as far as results were concerned.

Won't Permit Rents Rise In Ontario

Appoint Committee To Review Law For Changes

TORONTO, March 22.—The Federal rent control machinery in Ontario will be taken over completely by the provincial government when Federal direction ends on April 30, Attorney - General Porter announced Wednesday in the legislature.

Federal controls now in effect under the wartime leasehold regulations will be continued by Queen's Park with two advisory committees, one from the legislature, the other headed by a judge, to study the regulations for possible changes.

Though it was widely reported the provincial government would freeze rents for three months while new regulations were drafted, the bill brought in Wednesday by Mr. Porter leaves controls the way they are, for the time being at least.

Should Ottawa decide to retain controls—an unlikely move at this late date—the Ontario bill is so worded that there will be no clash in authority.

Administration of the new act will be under the direction of a cabinet minister but Premier Frost has declined to say just who will do the job. Rumor favors Travel Minister Cecile or Welfare Minister Goodfellow.

Use Federal Law

The act embodies the federal wartime regulations now in effect, without actually listing them, and provides that anything done under those regulations will be deemed to have been done under the provincial act.

Powers held by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in administering controls will be transferred to the provincial cabinet, enabling it to make new regulations and amend or throw out old ones.

Before federal controls expire and the province takes over, changes may be made in federal regulations by the cabinet.

Mr. Frost said a special committee of the House would be named to review the rentals regulations and to suggest changes. It will likely begin sittings within a few weeks, after the current session has ended.

At the same time, another advisory committee, consisting of a judge, as chairman, and landlord and tenant representatives, will study the old regulations and the effect of any new ones that may be made by the cabinet.

In controlled housing units in Ontario, present regulations dealing with maximum rents, evictions and such will still be retained. Rentals boards now in operation will be taken over by the province and will continue to hear grievances from landlords and tenants.

May Send Inspectors

In smaller centres, where rentals boards no longer sit, inspectors may be sent by the provincial authorities to consider complaints, Mr. Porter said.

Most of the housing which is still under control is situated in the larger centres. Mr. Porter said. He said the government was particularly concerned about maintaining equitable rentals standards in Toronto.

The bill was brought in Wednesday the last day before the Easter recess, so that MPP's might have a chance to study it fully over the five-day holiday.

Though such a measure was forecast in the throne speech Feb. 1, the government had held it back in the hope that the federal government would reconsider its year-old decision to get out of the rent control field.

Similar legislation has already been enacted in Quebec and Saskatchewan and will likely be provided in the remaining provinces within the next month.

In introducing the bill, the attorney-general said that Ottawa's wartime system of housing and rentals controls was probably the best possible means of meeting the economic demand for housing and limited materials to provide it.

More Shortages

To the housing shortage, a carryover from war years, had been added the threat of war, with its resultant stepped-up war production and material shortages.

"Limited supplies of materials for the building of new houses and the tendency toward attracting even greater populations into the industrial centres, are the obvious conditions with which we are faced," Mr. Porter said.

"Taking all these factors into consideration, this government has come to the conclusion that rent controls in some form are still necessary and may continue to be required for some time if widespread hardship is to be prevented."

The rent control system now in force, Mr. Porter told the House, had developed several types of inequity—both to tenant and landlord. Adjustments would likely be needed if the Provincial Government was to arrive at an equitable scheme of controls.

A single statutory formula could not be applied all over the province, he said, because economic standards and real estate values varied. Therefore, the government faced the necessity of constantly reviewing the leasehold regulations and altering them to suit prevailing conditions.

Special Committee

In order to keep in touch with members of the House and public feeling between this session and the next, the government had decided to appoint a special committee to sit when the House is not in session and review regulations now in force, suggest changes or new regulations.

The judge's committee would keep the regulations constantly under consideration, probably moving about the province to gather information on their operation.

Mr. Porter said later that the staffs now employed as temporary civil servants in the Federal government's rentals offices in Ontario would be hired by the Provincial government on the same temporary basis. He said it was hoped it would not be necessary to add many more to the existing staff.

Hastings Barber Found Dead In Shop

Ever J. Pettigrew, 66, a barber in Hastings for 35 years, was found dead in his shop by his wife early today. He had lit the oil burner and the hot water heater when he was stricken.

The first person to notice something wrong was his 11-year-old daughter Mary Gertrude. She had attended mass at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, where her mother is organist, and then she went to the post office to pick up her father's business mail.

When she got to the shop she noticed the blinds were down and there was no business activity. His car was parked outside. She returned home and told her mother.

Mrs. Pettigrew investigated and found her husband dead in the back of the shop. She called J. Stanley Steveson, reeve of Hastings, who has a general store next door.

Coroner Dr. W. W. Baker of Campbellford was called and he pronounced Mr. Pettigrew dead.

Besides his wife he leaves four boys and two girls. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mass Funeral Held For Seven Victims

BRANTFORD, March 22—(CP)—The bodies of seven children who perished in a fire on the Six Nations Reservation near here were buried Wednesday following a simple service at St. John's Anglican Church on the reservation.

The charred and unrecognizable bodies of the children were found after the fire Tuesday at the foot of what had been the staircase of their home. Six of the dead were children of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Henry and the seventh was Arthur Crawford, 16, a cousin.

Schoolmates of the victims were pallbearers.

sor situation at the same time and we hope you'll get what you've been asking for. You'll get more than you've asked for or bargained for. Having defaulted on what you promised to do, we'll do it for you."

Also involved in the clash was Gordon B. Ellis (CCF-Essex North), a Windsor constituency. Mr. Ellis, a member of Windsor city council, had opened the debate during consideration of the Attorney General's Department estimates when he asked whether Attorney-General Porter would say what jurisdiction he held over law enforcement in Ontario "in light of the situation in Windsor."

The House also gave final approval to a bill setting up a new four-man milk control board to set maximum retail milk prices in Ontario. The board immediately went into action and in its first public hearing it approved an interim half-cent-a-quart increase to 20½ cents in the price of milk delivered to homes in Toronto. Store price remains at 20 cents.

When the house adjourned, it had approved $64,191,600 in estimates for government spending on the Attorney-General's Department, insurance, public works, travel and publicity and health.

In the Jolliffe-Porter exchange, Mr. Jolliffe said Mr. Porter had been "too cowardly" to make a statement on law enforcement after being asked for one Feb. 7 during the budget debate.

Mr. Porter demanded a withdrawal but withdrew his demand later when Mr. Jolliffe refused and after Harry Nixon (L-Brant) suggested that the speaker be called in to rule on the statement. T. L. Patrick (PC-Middlesex North) was chairman during the debate but charges and counter-charges made his attempts at keeping order impossible at times.

The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario will be given power to govern training and regulation within its own profession, under a bill introduced earlier Wednesday by Health Minister Phillips.

At present the health department regulates training and registration of nurses in the province.

The bill also provides the right of appeal to the Ontario Supreme Court for nurses refused registration or renewal of registration.

Provincial grants to any swimming pools owned by municipalities or school board, under the Community Centres Act, was provided in another bill.

Under the present act, pools to be eligible for grant must be located in the immediate area of an athletic field or community centre. This provision is lifted by the proposed amendment, provided the pool is owned by the municipality or school board.

Another bill approved the plan of the Law Society of Upper Canada to provide free legal aid to needy persons. Introduced by Attorney-General Porter, it will ratify creation of a "legal aid fund" by the society. It also provides for remission of court fees in such instances.

No provincial government assistance can be given toward renovating the Muskoka Lake steamers to bring them up to safety standards, Travel and Publicity Minister Cecile told the Legislature.

Prices Continuing In Narrow Path

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — Prices continued in their narrow and mixed path as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Trading was almost at a standstill as trading continued at its extremely slow pace of recent weeks.

Industrials firmed with gains and losses limited to fractions. Paper, steels, utilities, constructions, textiles, refining oils, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of gains in the groupings.

Base metals were mixed. United Keno Mill, Quemont, Hudson Bay, Labrador and Noranda were higher.

Western oils were slightly higher with the western oil index of selected stocks at a new peak since it was first compiled in 1934.

Golds were mixed in continuation of their recent sluggish trading. Senior producers tended downward while junior producers were about balanced.

Dewey Signs Niagara Bill

ALBANY, N. Y., March 22 — (AP). — Governor Thomas E. Dewey signed a bill today authorizing the New York State Power Authority to promote the public development of hydro-electric power in the Niagara River.

Dewey, at the same time, renewed his charge that a "remnant of federal bureaucracy" is blocking New York's plans to develop St. Lawrence River power jointly with Ontario.

Two years ago the Power Authority proposed an $800,000,000 program for state development of hydro-electric power in the St. Lawrence and Niagara Rivers. New York's share of the cost was estimated then at more than $500,000,000.

There are no power development facilities on the St. Lawrence. Existing facilities on the American side at Niagara Falls are privately operated.

Dr. N. McClure Freed By Reds

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — After several weeks of detention by Chinese Communists, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace McClure of Toronto, United Church of Canada missionaries, have been released.

United Church headquarters here has received word that the missionaries, detained in Kongmoon, South China, have arrived safely in Hong Kong.

Dr. McClure had been superintendent of a hospital in South China and was a medical official with the Ontario government before going to China.

Rt. Rev. Dr. Jesse H. Arnup, secretary of the Board of Overseas Misions of the United Church, is still awaiting word of other missionaries said to be held by the Communists.

Eight To Preach Easter Service

Eight ministers will take part Friday in a three-hour Good Friday service under the auspices of of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough. The service will be held in Knox United Church from noon to 3 p.m.

Theme of the service will be "The Seven Words." Order of the service is as follows: Invocation, the first word ("Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do"); second word (Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise); third word (Woman, behold thy son; son, behold thy mother); fourth word (My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me); fifth word (I thirst); sixth word (It is finished); seventh word (Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit).

Ministers taking part are (following the above order), the Revs. H. G. Douglas, F. W. Craik, R. Dargan, W. Leaton, A. A. Mathews, C. G. Boyd, M. J. Aiken, Major C. Everitt.

Gambling Ring Cleared $750,000 In 1949—Carroll

WASHINGTON, March 22 — (AP)—James J. Carroll told Senate crime investigators today a $20,000,000-a-year gambling operation in East St. Louis, Ill., produced around $750,000 gross profit in 1949.

Carroll, for many years a St. Louis odds-maker with a national reputation, said the East St. Louis operation was carried on by John Mooney and Michael Grady.

He acknowledge he had been associated with Mooney and Grady and said he got $110,000 in one year for "advice" and "financing." Carroll did not say what year that was. His lawyer had declared earlier that Carroll now is retired from the betting business.

Carroll denied he ever received police protection or discussed protection with police officials.

Carroll's session with the crime investigators brought two points where questions were raised as to whether there was conflicting testimony.

One was about his relations with bookmaker Frank Erickson of New York. He denied he did business with Erickson or that they were members of a country-wide "betting syndicate."

He also said he does not know New York racketeer Frank Costello or west coast gambler Cohen.

It was brought out then that Erickson testified to another Senate committee last April that he did business with Carroll.

Daley Calls

Union Co-operates

The union co-operated with the Toronto Milk Distributors Association to ensure deliveries in cases of emergency.

Hospitals and other institutions received their regular supplies. Customers urgently needing milk were instructed to telephone their dairy in order to obtain delivery.

The dairies were caught with a day's supply of milk on hand when the strike began. Unless normal deliveries are resumed by Friday, it will be converted into butter. Jack Houck, secretary-manager of the Milk Distributors Association, said no further milk shipments will be accepted until the strike ends.

The last point at issue was retroactivity of a $3-a-week salary increase agreed upon by both sides. It was learned that before the discussions broke up in a huff, the union and operators had been within two weeks of settling the dispute over the effective date of the increase.

An early-morning check with larger Toronto dairies indicated the shutdown was effective. In most cases the workers were sitting around doing nothing. The union has indicated it will not place picket lines around Toronto's 70-odd dairies unless they attempt to operate with non-union labor.

The striking workers include inside dairy employees as well as milk drivers, and their idleness cripples all dairy operations.

Pledge Support

The workers have been assured of support from the dairy union's international headquarters, and D. J. Buchanan, Toronto president, has said that other types of union drivers in the city, including those delivering coal, laundry and bread, and taxi drivers, have pledged not to handle any delivery for the struck dairies.

The matter of wage increase was settled late Wednesday night after the newly-constituted four-man Ontario Milk Control Board granted the Toronto dairies permission to increase the price of milk delivered to houses half-a-cent a quart to 20½ cents. Store milk was to remain at 20 cents.

Fortified with this price boost, the dairies agreed to pay their 1,700 employees the $3-a-week increase in salary recommended by a conciliation board.

Union Holds Out

But while the union held out for the increase in salary to be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1950, the date the last contract expired, the employers refused to offer more than the majority report of the conciliation board which suggested it be dated from March 1 this year.

The Ontario Legislature meanwhile rushed through the bill setting up a new four-man milk control board with powers to set maximum retail milk prices throughout the province.

The bill, which provided for the price freeze, was given final approval Wednesday afternoon. Within an hour the board, headed by Judge A. B. Currey, held its first meeting, a public hearing at which the Toronto situation was considered.

The board decided there would be no change in the price of milk sold in retail stores but permitted an interim increase of half-a-cent a quart in milk delivered to homes. This meant that store milk remained at 20 cents while delivered milk could be boosted to 20½ cents.

The board ruled that the increase would stand only until April 15. Between now and that date special investigations will be held to consider the Toronto situation.

Depends on Investigation

If the investigations show the price increase is necessary, the increase will remain in effect. It was assumed the price could be increased more if it was found to be justified. However, if it is found that the increase is not justified milk will revert to 20 delivered.

Judge Currey said the board had taken the threatened Toronto milk strike into consideration in reaching its decision. He said it was up to the dairies to prove their case for a milk-price increase and added that the board would meet here a week from today to review the 1950 financial statements of Toronto dairies.

Jack Smith and Harold Freeman, barbers on Simcoe St., began their 32nd year in partnership Wednesday. They have been in the same building on Simcoe St. ever since combining their efforts.

COUNTY ESTIMATES

County council will sit March 29 and 30, Warden Peter Pearson has announced. Highlight of the session will be the drawing up of estimates. The deficit at Civic Hospital will also be discussed.

OFFICE CLOSES MONDAY

To allow the Chamber of Commerce office workers to complete their records on licensing, the office will be closed Monday to the public. Pressure of the recent rush for car and truck licence plates has caused a backlog in the record work. The office will be open Saturday until 12:30.

WORST OVER

The annual rush for car and truck licences at the Chamber of Commerce died off today as only six people were in line when the office opened. Jim Fraser, manager, said he expects the worst is over for this year and they can now forget about the licence rush period until next year.

FALG AT HALF-MAST

Branch 52, Canadian Legion, is flying its flag at half-mast today in respect for Mrs. Joseph Mills, wife of the late Lt.-Col. Joe Mills of the 57th Regiment, who died Wednesday. For her activities with the regiment and the Legion she was known as "the mother of the 57th and sweetheart of the Legion."

Naval Association Names Committees

The Peterborough Naval Association Wednesday night drew up its committees for the year. It was also anounced that the year's first social event would be a ladies' night sometime in May.

Following are the executive appointments: Ron Teasdale and Art Armstrong, entertainment; James Brown, membership; Don DeLong, publicity and advertising; and Cec McClennan, constitution and by-laws.

Earlier in the month Fred Kiff was elected president for 1951; Art Peeling, vice-president; Robert Graham, secretary; and Harry Brown, treasurer.

Dr. Kathleen Buck Dies In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y., March 22 (AP)—Dr. Kathleen L. Buck, a physician here for 55 years and a former president of the Women's Medical Society of New York State, died on Wednesday night.

She was head of the obstetrics department of St. Mary's Hospital for 25 years before her retirement because of illness three years ago.

A native of Lindsay, Ont., Dr. Buck graduated from Trinity College, University of Toronto.

See Good Year For Canadian Fish In U.S.

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP)—A Canadian trade official said Wednesday that Canada's fish trade with the United States shows "great promise" for 1951.

But an American fisheries official—another speaker at the sixth annual meeting here of the fisheries council of Canada—was far from optimistic about the outlook for the U.S. fishing industry.

"With economic conditions in the U.S. continuing as they are, the outlook for the future shows great promise for increased trade," said M. B. Bursey, Canadian trade commissioner for fisheries in New York.

"Canadian fish enjoys an enviable reputation for high quality This is especially true of the frozen varieties and is due in part to our proximity to fishing grounds."

But Charles E. Jackson of Washington, general manager of the National Fisheries Institute of United States, said institute officials "very frankly fear the future of our industry under price control."

Envy Canada

Mr. Jackson said those engaged in the fisheries industry in the United States "are envious of Canada for the very sensible attitude of your government in this business of price controls."

He warned that "organized labor is definitely changing its previous position on reciprocal trade" and opposition was growing in the U.S. to "unlimited imports." Canada last year supplied the bulk of the 66,000,000 pounds of fillets imported into the U.S.

Francis Millerd, Sr, of Vancouver, was elected president of the council at the conclusion of the meeting. Vice-presidents were: R. E. Walker, Vancouver; Carl F. Kolbe, Port Dover, Ont.; W. Munden Allan, Montreal; C. E. Desourdy, Montreal; H. W. Welch, Fairhaven, N.B.; Ronald G. Smith, Halifax; A. H. Monroe, St. John's, Nfld.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, March 22 —(CP) —The American dollar today opened at 4 23/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Wednesday's close. That is it took $1.04 23/2 Canadan to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92¼, up 1/16.

Leaves For Washington

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., March 22 (Reuters)—Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to the United States, left for Washington today aboard the Queen Mary after a two-week visit to Britain for talks with the government.

Little Strife Noted In N.S. Labor

By The Canadian Press

With the Quebec Legislature already prorogued, activity in all other provincial legislatures subsided today before the approach of Easter recesses.

The British Columbia Legislature adjourned Wednesday and will resume sessions Tuesday, along with most of the other provinces which are expected to adjourn today. Saskatchewan returns Monday.

In Halifax, Labor Minister A. H. MacKinnon, tabling the Labor department's interim report, told the Nova Scotia Legislature it revealed a year of almost strife-less industrial relations in that province.

The Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously approved a resolution asking the Federal Government to pay farmers at least $48,000,000 as a return of the subsidy paid by producers on domestic wheat.

A uniform October election day each year for Alberta's seven cities was approved in principal by the provincial legislature in Edmonton in the largest single piece of legislation ever brought before the Alberta House. It is designed to give the cities a uniform charter.

In the Manitoba Legislature, a CCF want-of-confidence motion, charging the government with failing to make proper provision for civil servants' salaries, was defeated. The motion came on second reading of the supply bill.

Throngs Celebrate Iranian New Year

TEHRAN, Iran, March 22 (AP) —Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi drove through cheering throngs to Gulistan Palace today to receive greetings on the Iranian new year from public officials, foreign diplomats and religious leaders.

Although martial law was declared two days ago in this capital as a result of the assassination of Premier Ali Razmara March 7 and parliament's ticklish decision to nationalize the British-run oil industry, there were no signs of troops in the streets.

Only blue-coated police lined the route of the young ruler's trip.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD—The King's Police and Fire Services Medal for Gallantry was awarded posthumously to R.C.M.P. Constable Alex Gammon, who died of bullet wounds while attempting to avert a bank holdup in Montreal last May. The medal was presented in Calgary to his widow by Mayor Don Mackay. Gammon's slayer, Thomas Rossler, was captured in Montana after a nation-wide hunt and later was hanged in Montreal.

Cobourg Hydro Boost Unlikely

COBOURG, March 22 (ENS) — There is little fear of a rate increase for Cobourg electric consumers, the Public Utilities Commission were told at their regular meeting here by E. G. Gurnett, regional manager.

Earlier it was felt that increased power cost might make a rise in the consumer rate necessary but a generally improved financial situation in the local utilities makes a rate boast now unlikely.

There was a profit of $9,611.92 in the utilities system during the past fiscal year, and of this $8,456.65 surplus was achieved in the electric department, and the balance in the water department.

Present accumulated reserves held by he local utilities total $45.000. This was accumulated during the war years when scarcities curtailed expansion. From these reserves will come the funds to finance a $25,000 street lighting program.

Mrs. Mary Rice

The Rev. James Greenan celebrated requiem mass Wednesday for Mrs. Mary Rice at Immaculate Conception Church. Mrs. Rice died Sunday in her 78th year in Detroit, Michigan. Graveside prayers at St. Peter's cemetery were recited by the Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan. Pall - bearers were Harry Pluard, Jack Sweeney, Joseph Gainey, John Driscoll, Richard Rice and William Hauser.

Took Part In Gold Rush, Now 91

MARMORA, March 22—(ENS) —Thomas Anderson who occupies part of the old Bellview Hotel at Bonarlaw attained to his ninety-first birthday today.

"Smart for his years" is a phrase that can be applied to him as his faculties are well preserved. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Anderson and claims Marlbank for his native village. A widower for many years, he had devoted much of his early life to logging and mining. He was one to participate in the Yukon rush of 1898.

He also was a market gardener for some years in Hope. B.C. He has resided in the Bonarlaw district for approximately 20 years. He has one brother, Peter, residing at Queesboro and one sister Mrs. Annie Neal, resident of Oshawa besides several nephews and niecese in Rawdon and Marmora township.

In Making Turn Responsibility On Driver

Fred Revoy, 24, 107 Aylmer St., crashed into a car turning left across Charlotte St. into Frederick Ave., but he was not guilty of careless driving, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, ruled in police court Wednesday.

He said the person making the left turn assumed responsibility that he could do so in safety. Evidence had to be very strong against the person who crashed into the driver turning left, before the responsibility could be shifted onto him.

The evidence against Revoy was not strong enough, the magistrate ruled.

The charge arose out of an accident involving a truck driven by Revoy and a car driven by Mrs. Thomas P. Cooke, 612 Park St., about 11.30 p.m. Feb. 20.

Mrs. Cooke testified she had stopped her car against the north curb of Charlotte St. directly opposite the end of Frederick Ave. to let off two passengers.

She intended to turn south into Frederick Ave. across Charlotte St. She waited while two cars passed going east and one passed going west. She then looked back and saw the lights of a vehicle approaching from the east about a block away. She started across.

The rear end of her car was on the center line of Charlotte St. when her car was struck and ended up on the lawn of the house on the south-west corner.

Minor Injuries

The five people in her car, including herself, received minor injuries. Her car was damaged on the left side from the only door on the left side back toward the rear.

"How long have you been driving?" W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, defending Revoy, asked Mrs. Cooke.

"Sixteen years," Mrs. Cooke replied.

"You must have started when you were very young," Mr. Fair observed.

"Thank you," said Mrs. Cooke.

James Gilders, 272 Townsend St., was a passenger in the rear seat on the right. He said he saw the Revoy truck approaching and saw the lights bob up and down as it crossed a small rise in the road where St. Thomas St. entered Charlotte St. He placed the distance of St. Thomas St. from Frederick St. at 50 yards.

No Skid Marks

The three other passengers in the car were Mrs. Gilders, Miss Doris Lee, 217 Prince St., and Miss Elsie Brombie, 98 Prince St.

Constables John Morrow and Douglas Farthing estimated the distance between the streets at about 100 yards to 120 yards. There were no skid marks on the wet pavement they said.

Revoy said in his own defence that he was only about 18 or 20 feet behind the Cooke car parked at the curb when it suddenly shot out in front of him and hit his truck on the front right corner. He said Mrs. Cooke made no sign that she intended to pull across the street.

Easter Thank-offering Held At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 22 (ENS) —Mrs. H. R. Edmunds and Mrs. William Sedgewick entertained the Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church in their home Tuesday evening. It was the Easter thank-offering meeting. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Lawrence Winslow. She was assisted by Mrs. T. Wideman who read the poem, "If I Forget". Mrs. Arnold Fallis was at the piano for the hymns.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, was in the chair for the business period. The roll call and minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Betty Lunn. Mrs. Ernest Powell gave the stewardship secretary's report.

Final arrangements were made for the open meeting to be held in the church April 17, when the film on Japan, "Fujita," will be shown. Members of the mission band are to conduct the worship service, and the afternoon auxiliary the closing. CGIT and Trail Rangers groups are to do ushering and take up the collection.

Mrs. T. Wideman displayed the dozen towels and wash cloths which the circle is donating to a hospital in Africa.

The chapter of the study book on "Education" in "the Church Re-enters Japan" was given by Mrs. Bruce Ingham. Those who assisted in putting on a skit about work in three girls' schools situated in Kofu, Shiguoka and the Azabu school in Tokyo, the women's christian college and Kwansei Gakuin university were: Mrs. David Lunn, Mrs. Bruce Dawson, Mrs. Ernest Powell and Mrs. Arnold Fallis.

Supper hostesses were: Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Mrs. Arnold Fallis and Mrs. T. Wideman.

Good-Bye To The Port Hope Line?

One recommendation in the Royal Commission on Transportation report which was given to Parliament last week should catch Peterborough and district's eye. It is that greater freedom be allowed the railways in abandoning unproductive lines. The C.N.R. has been trying to close the Peterborough-Port Hope line for years. This year it is on the verge of being successful in closing the Millbrook-Port Hope end of it. The Department of Transport and legislative regulations covering the closing of existing lines are complicated and strict, and not without political liens. This is amply shown by the fact that the C.N.R. has not yet succeeded in closing the unprofitable line. But if this Royal Commission recommendation is accepted by Parliament, we expect to see the line go. Not only the Millbrook-Port Hope end of it, but perhaps the whole thing, right up to Lindsay.

* * *

This newspaper has opposed the abandonment of the line for varied reasons frequently expressed. We may point out additionally that if the recommendation on making abandonment easier is accepted, other recommendations in the report should be accepted, too. The Commission suggested various ways by which other economies could be made, and changes of methods whereby operations now unprofitable could be made to pay. It also saw no reason why the railway companies should be barred from highway trucking. We believe that, with the developing importance of this part of Ontario, and a sufficiently active feeder system, the Port Hope-Peterborough line would be not the dead loss it now is.

Pro Patria Mori

It may be sweet and good to die for one's country, but when death comes to one in public service who still had the vigour of youth and whose capacities can ill be spared, the hearts of compatriots are laden with rue. R. G. Riddell was 42 when he died suddenly last weekend. He had been taking a three-day respite from his duties at Lake Success as Canada's permanent delegate to U.N. He was one of the group of brilliant men still young in years who have not only grown up with the Department of External Affairs, but made it and Canada's foreign policy admired abroad.

Gerry Riddell, a Manitoban who held an I.O.D.E. Scholarship in Oxford, returned to this country to teach at the University of Toronto and, since the middle war years, to serve with the Department of External Affairs. He died in this service. Tributes have been paid his work and character by political leaders, by associates at U.N. and by his Minister, Mr. Pearson. He had a high sense of duty, great skill and perseverance in negotiation, and a penetrating, practical mind. He could translate his high ideals in terms of people and policies. His warm humanity made him many personal friends and, as an ambassador of high rank, he gained many friends for Canada. Gerry Riddell worked vibrantly, cheerfully and earnestly for Canada and sacrificed his life in doing it.

Unrest In Spain

It is some time since reliable information regarding the situation in Spain has reached us; we were not, however, inclined to believe Franco's assertion that his country was "an oasis of peace and order" in an otherwise chaotic Europe. The strikes in Barcelona last week were symptoms of a deeper unrest which could mean a serious outburst against the administration.

The reasons for unrest in Spain are the traditional ones—poverty and oppression. It is generous to estimate the present value of the peseta at four cents; agricultural workers are getting from five to seven pesetas a day, and they work about 100 days in the year; the average wage of a city worker is 24 pesetas a day. What this means may be judged from the facts that a loaf of bread costs 18 pesetas in Barcelona and 13 in Madrid; a litre of olive oil—the staple cooking fat—costs between 34 and 40 pesetas.

The poverty of the farmers and the artisans extends to the white collar workers; those who are able to do so combine three or four jobs in order to get a poor living. What wealth and luxury there is can be enjoyed only by a tiny proportion of the population.

The Church in Spain appears to be as closely allied with the government as ever, and anti-clericalism is reported to be on the increase; education and propaganda—increasingly difficult to distinguish from one another—are clerically controlled. It is interesting that many parish priests, particularly in the north, are warning their bishops of the danger to the Church in association with the present regime; specifically, more than 200 Basque priests recently addressed a new bishop, warning him of growing anti-clericalism in their parishes, and these same northern priests are publishing clandestine pamphlets hostile to the Franco regime.

Some steps have been taken to relieve the discontent among influential classes. Schoolteachers have had a 38 per cent. salary increase, which lifts them from near-starvation to mere poverty; the police have had a 30 per cent. raise, and the civil service 20 per cent. But such increases cannot do much in a country where poverty is common and extreme, and where 50 per cent. of the national budget is for the armed services. It is not surprising that the army's chief task is to act as an internal security force.

Hitch-Hiking And The Immortal Soul

For some days we have been pondering the serious words of the Rev. H. G. Fores, Rural Dean of Welwyn, in Hertfordshire. He has written: "The person who starts on a holiday with the expressed intention of getting free lifts everywhere is planning a holiday beyond his means and at the expense of someone else. These folks go hitch-hiking through life and somewhere they cherish a hope that they will similarly hitch-hike into heaven."

We agree with the Dean about earthly hitch-hiking; of the heavenly hitch we dare not speak. Nobody minds giving a lift to somebody they know, to people walking on country roads who are going short distances and look as if a lift would be welcome, to children going to country schools—to anyone, in fact, whose purpose is clear. But motorists are setting their faces against the deliberate spongers—the well-dressed people with luggage, who stand by the roads grinning and waving a saucy thumb. Motorists feel no urge to pick up gangs of lads who wave for a ride with an air which combines proprietorship, impudence and menace in equal parts. Motorists steer clear of girls who giggle and wriggle by the roadside, hawking their blowsy charms for a free ride.

Motorists feel as they do because it is often dangerous to pick up hitch-hikers. But far more often it is because they have found hitch-hikers to be bores, or smokers of stinking cigars, or nosey-parkers—in short uncongenial people. And motorists feel, with justice, that most of the people by the roadside are leeches, planning a holiday beyond their means at somebody else's expense, as the Dean very rightly says. And undoubtedly they will try to get into Paradise for nothing, and on somebody else's gasoline, if there is any cheeky way of doing it.

Deer Hunting With Bow And Arrow

Archers have asked that they be given a special week in advance of the regular deer-killing season to go out and hunt with bow and arrow without running the risk of stray gunshot. They seem to feel that they are more expert than the men with the hunting pieces. That may be so. Nevertheless the Peterborough Humane Society, in concert with other Humane Societies, looks with disfavour not only on a separate week for archers, but any deer hunting by the archaic or artistic (whichever way you wish to term it) method of the twanging bow-string and the swift arrow flight.

The Humane Society, which exists primarily to prevent cruelty to dumb animals, seems to put less faith in the skill of archers than the archers do themselves. Or perhaps they feel that an arrow is not a sufficently deadly weapon and that injured animals will not get the quietus from an arrow alone. Do they forget that the long bow was the principal weapon of English soldiers, and used with memorable effect at Crecy, Poitiers and Agincourt? Of course, the English were not under any legal compulsion to be kind and not cruel to the Frenchmen.

Toxophilites aver that hunting with bow and arrow is a clean sport and the arrow efficient. In this century an arrow from an 80-pound bow has been shot 462 yards but this was done by a man named Ingo Simon, in France by a Turk who had become a naturalized Englishman. Few Ontario archers possess his qualifications.

Hunting with the bow is practised by all savages; was the sport of royalty in mediaeval times, and is now the pastime of reasonably civilized urbanites. In 1926 some of the latter, lion hunting with bow and arrow near Nairobi (Africa) killed seven with the arrow only, but also proved that a charging lion must be stopped by some other defence, a rifle, for instance.

If this matter is merely a question of skill, diplomas in archery could be issued in place of a gun licence, and then, to prove the point to the satisfaction of Department of Lands and Forests people, the Humane Society, and the hunters with shooting-arms (who do not like arrows whizzing by their ears in the woods), we suggest that the orthodox hunters and the archers have it out in an old-time duel of champions—at fifty paces. A Humane Society Inspector could act as referee.

The Festival Of Britain

by NIGEL GOSLING

A HUNDRED years ago—three years after what seemed the stormy revolution of 1848—Great Britain expressed her confidence in the future by organizing a huge exhibition in London. This year another gesture of the same kind expressed the same confidence.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are big differences, though, between the Great Exhibition of 1851 and the Festival of Britain (May to September). The great wonder of a hundred years ago was the change brought about by the industrial revolution; the majority of the exhibits in the great glass building put up for the occasion—the Crystal Palace—were machines and machine-made goods from different parts of the world. Today the emphasis is different. The value of machinery has become a commonplace and we know its limitations only too well. This time it is the spirit behind them which is the hero of the occasion—the spirit of Britain.

✧ ✧ ✧

OBVIOUSLY this is too big a subject to be confined to a single exhibition ground. Every town, every village makes its own contribution to this intangible yet positive reality, and that is why the Festival is to be celebrated in every corner of the country. From Lands' End to John O'Groats there will be a chain of celebrations. Each place will display in its own way its own particular speciality, whether it is a collection of pottery, a parade of pipe-bands, sheep-dog trials, or simply a bonfire and sports on the village green. Wherever the visitor stays this summer he will find himself in for something special, though naturally the principal exhibitions will be in the capital.

✧ ✧ ✧

A CELEBRATION on this scale cannot be planned overnight, and preparations have been going on for four years, ever since the Lord President of the Council announced the Government's decision to hold the Festival. Countless committees have been set up and meetings held until every activity has been covered, every district included.

✧ ✧ ✧

LONDONERS have been watching with interest (and sometimes anxiety) the progress of their exhibition site. A large stretch of the South Bank of the Thames, in the loop between the Houses of Parliament and St. Paul's Cathedral, has been cleared of its warehouses and old buildings and laid out with pavilions and gardens. The huge new Concert Hall and the fantastic Dome of Discovery rise among a variety of smaller buildings. A new seven-span bridge across the river will enable visitors to walk straight from the West End into the grounds. It will be something new in exhibitions—quite different from a Trade Show. No industry or manufacturer will be able to book space; every exhibit—from railway locomotives to lobster pots—will have been specially chosen as the best of its kind to illustrate a particular of a single theme.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS theme is simply Britain's contribution to civilization. It springs from the two roots, the material resources of the land (and sea) and the character of the people, and the site is divided into halves illustrating these different elements. Those with a taste for science, industry and technical inventions will naturally linger in the first section, while less expert visitors will be able to wander round the more "human" displays in the other half and get a concentrated impression of how the ordinary Briton lives and thinks and works and plays.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN he is surfeited with all this, the visitor can step into a "waterbus" and chug up the river to the Festival Pleasure Gardens. There, laid out along the spacious river-bank of Battersea Park, he will find among the fountains and flower-beds every conceivable kind of entertainment—concerts and ballet, music-hall and bands, dancing, boating, a miniature railway, a large Amusement Park, and of course a variety of restaurants and cafes. At night the river will reflect fireworks and illuminations and a thousand twinkling lights along the bank.

✧ ✧ ✧

MORE serious recreations will be catered for in a series of art festivals right through the summer. Performances of music, drama, ballet, opera, and films will be given all over the country, ranging from the world-famous international Edinburgh Festival to folk-dancing in a Welsh castle. Galleries in dozens of towns will be showing outstanding exhibitions of painting, sculpture and craftsmanship. There will be special displays for book-lovers and special services will be held by the Churches.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR many visitors from overseas, however, the country itself will be more fascinating than all these attractions. The rich green pastures of the south, the wild hills of Wales, Scotland with its lakes and mountains, will be making their own silent contribution to the Festival—for they too are part of the spirit of Britain.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

THE MISSUS

Having accumulated a tidy nest-egg the old farmer went to a lawyer and said he would like to make a will.

"I'll leave all my brass, house and stock to my good wife," he said.

"Certainly," said the lawyer. "What is your wife's name?"

After thinking for some minutes the farmer had to admit that he couldn't remember it.

"Well, go to the door and shout upstairs as if you were calling her," suggested the lawyer.

Hobbling to the door, the farmer opened it, and roared up the stairs. "Missus! Missus!"

SERVICE

Sandy was awaiting his turn in the barber's shop, when he noticed a card announcing: "Shaving 50c and 75c."

"Why do you have two charges for a shave?" he inquired of the barber.

"Just a matter of service," came the reply. "You get a bandage with the 75c shave."

WOULD BE HANDY

"You ought to get married."

"I have wished many times lately that I had a wife. She'd probably have a sewing machine, and the sewing would have an oil-can, and I could take it and oil my office door. It squeaks."

Letters To The Editor

CORRESPONDENCE SUSPENDED

Will our readers please take note that we shall not publish any more letters relating to the Summer Theatre during the period from now until April 12, during which the Board of Education is reconsidering its decision. No more letters on this topic can be accepted and the number which we have on hand will be returned to their writers.

EDITOR.

THERE ARE AUTHORITIES TO HANDLE PROBLEM

Sir: A too hasty decision on the question of the Summer Theatre may halt the progress our City has made in the matter of community enterprise.

Queen Mary School has been accepted as an established centre for education since its opening. The site itself was annexed from the township at a time when Monaghan Road or the "Boundary" was the edge of the city. The architecture of the school was so designed that it fits into what is now a very desirable residential locality.

The building of an auditorium at Queen Mary accomplished two things. It provided an assembly for school classes and much needed facilities for community entertainment. The day is long past when the modern school closes at four o'clock.

The City has progressed in other directions. It has created a Town Planning Commission as well as a Special Traffic Commission. These Boards have been set up for definite purposes. If there is an honest effort of co-ordination between the Board of Education and these special Commissions, there should be no misunderstanding whatsoever as to the accommodation for parking and other necessary details.

The writer does not condone for one moment any wilful damage or unlawful trespassing. These matters can be well handled by the proper authorities.

It is hardly necessary to say that the present Board of Education is well able to administer the affairs of the schools. This, of course, includes the renting of their two auditoriums to desirable parties. They should have no hesitation in consulting with the other special boards in order that our citizens generally may enjoy the full use of these public buildings.

Let us progress with the times.

A. PITCHFORD.

PETERBOROUGH'S GROWING CULTURE

Sir: It irks me to break a hard and fast rule of never under any circumstances writing letters to the editor.

This silly fracas over the Summer Theatre has reached the proportions of the proverbial snowball rolling downhill. In no sense of the word, is the Summer Theatre strictly a Peterborough activity. It belongs to the district and the antagonism against it is resented even into the surrounding territory.

Proof of this is that for two years the Lindsay Recreation Centre has taken an enthusiastic bus load of patrons to the plays on Friday nights. We never once have had to cancel a trip but, on occasion, we have had to disappoint people for whom we had no room.

Another point that those encased in the snowball should remember is this. In the past two years Peterborough has become synonymous with a growing culture. Only those who reside outside your city can fully realize, sometimes with a little envy, the fine type of publicity you continually are receiving. I would not be going too far to say that the Summer Theatre has rather dimmed the glory of Quaker Oats and C.G.E. in the press.

Peterborough is fortunate that Lindsay, at the moment, has no suitable accommodation for such a project.

Of course, in due time, the bottom of the hill will be reached and the snowball will disintegrate and you all will settle back to enjoy the Summer Theatre again. Surely this nonsense will work itself out. The accommodation in the Queen Mary School cannot, in any way be called an auditorium. It is strictly a theatre and a credit to the people who worked for it but, if there has been an error, it is not found in its being used for the purpose for which it was constructed but rather its location in a restricted area. That cannot be corrected now and its worth surely overshadows the exaggerated inconvenience.

Yours truly,
FULTON C. STEWART,
Secretary, Lindsay Recreation Committee.

CITY MILK CONTROL

Sir: I was very much interested in your editorial in Saturday, March 17, 1951, under "Ontario Milk". In your last paragraph you say "The problem is with us yet, unless artificial changes are made".

May I suggest that Ontario cities do the same as a number of the larger cities in southern United States have done; run and control their own dairies, with deliveries to the trade only and let the customer buy the milk at the counter the same as any other article of food. This cuts down the price of milk about 8c per quart.

Yours very truly,
CECIL R. ANDERSON.

Havelock.

THANKS

Sir: May I send my thanks to your paper and all your readers, who have so kindly sent me papers and letters of your city, the city I knew and loved as a little girl and never forgot.

Yours sincerely,
EMILY GARNHAN.

Sidcup, Kent, England.

DISTURBING THOUGHT

Sir: In the issue of Tuesday I notice an advertisement offering employment to a girl between the ages of 18 and 20. "Must have three years' High School education and be able to write legibly and spell."

Is this intended as a joke, or are our schools really producing students who after three years' of High School education are unable to write and spell?

I hope someone can reassure me on this point as I have a child at school.

Yours truly,
ROSA DARTLE.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his wife's mother laid, and sick of fever. And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: and she arose, and ministered unto them. When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick. (Matt. 8: 14-16.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place: and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them. And he said unto them, I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent. (Luke 4: 42, 43.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And it came to pass afterward, that he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and the twelve were with him. And certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils, and Joanna the wife of Chuza Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance. (Luke 8: 1-3.)

HARD TO REMEMBER

He was, to put it mildly, a trifle conceited.

"I'll bet you have been out with fellows who were worse looking than me," he suggested to his girl friend.

There was no reply.

"I said," he repeated, "I'll bet you've been out with worse looking fellows than me."

"All right—all right—I heard you the first time," she snapped. "I'm just trying to remember?"

Jr. Theatre Captures Trophy

KINGSTON, March 22—(CP)—The Ottawa Drama League's Junior Theatre Wednesday night won the Senator Rupert Davies trophy—major award—in the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival for its production of "Pinocchio."

The junior theatre—only completely youthful group competing—won the prize for the best full-length play in the festival.

Adjudicator Robert G. Newton said he found the production delightful and a "real piece of theatre." He announced the award following the festival's final play, "Dark Harvest," by the Brockville Theatre Guild.

Bruce Schwerdfager, who played Gepetto in Pinocchio, was named best actor in the festival.

Another Ottawa performer, Dorothy Burnett, was named best actress for her performance of Alma Winemiller in the Ottawa Drama League's production of Tennessee William's "Summer and Smoke."

The Fulford Shield, given for the best one-act play, was awarded to the Perth Thespain Society for its production of "Mae and the Atom," by Vancouver's playwright Eric P. Nicol.

Presentation of a Canadian Drama Award was made to Michael Meiklejohn of Ottawa by Dr. William Angus, chairman of the Regional Festival committee, in recognition of his productive work in fostering amateur drama groups and productions during the dast 15 years.

Mr. Newton commended the Brockville Theatre Guild performers, and the Canadian playwright for "Dark Harvest,' for their sincerity but, he said, neither the play nor the production quite came off."

Animal Stars Taking Over At Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 (AP)—The movies are going to the dogs. Also the cats, rabbits, mules, horses, monkeys and other assorted animals.

Never have four-footed actors been so prominent in films.

Of course, animal stars are not new in the movies. Rin-Tin-Tin, Strongheart and Tom Mix' horse Tony were stars in their own right years ago.

The modern animal era began with Lassie, the famed Collie and female impersonator who works for MGM. Estimates of the dog's annual income have ranged from $50,000 to $200,000.

Big Hit

MGM can also thank animals for its biggest hit of last season. Although Deborah Kerr and Stewart Granger got top billing, it was generally agreed that the wild beasts were the principal attractions of "King Solomon's Mines."

Universal-International is another studio active on the animal front, particularly in the supernatural division. First came "Francis," the loquacious mule which seems destined for an endless string of sequels.

Then came the six-foot rabbit which made no appearance but was much in evidence in "Harvey." And the ill-fated Bonzo, which died in a fire a couple of days before the premiere of its starring epic, "Bedtime for Bonzo." The chimp's demise hasn't dissuaded the studio. It is reported hunting a successor to star in "Bonzo Goes to Yale."

Dog-Man Switchie

Now comes the topper. U-I will shortly film "One Never Knows," in which Dick Powell will play the reincarnation of a dog. Yes, that's correct. And Powell's counterpart will be portrayed by Flame, which boasts of being a sixth-generation descendant of the famed Strongheart.

It has long been a Hollywood axiom that animals and children are surefire scene-stealers. Now it appears that such thievery will be largely limited to the animals. There is not one topflight child star under contract to any of the studios.

ARTILLERY SPEAKS—UN artillerymen prepare to fire more rounds at enemy hill positions on the central Korean front. Heavy pounding by Allied artillery has slowed down enemy traffic.

Establish Equal Pay For Same Status

BELLEVILLE, March 22 (CP) Starting with the school term next September, Belleville public school teachers who attain the same qualifications will be entitled to the same maximum salaries as high school teachers.

This was approved Monday night at a special committee meeting and the decision was confirmed later by the Board of Education.

The Board also voted to establish the same salary scales for men and women teachers, in line with the Ontario legislature's equal-pay-for-equal-work legislation.

Discover Body

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — A hand sticking out of the sand on the shore of Lake Ontario led police Wednesday to the body of Herman Fink, 60, missing from his home here since Feb. 7. There were no marks indicating foul play, and police said they thought the body was washed ashore.

Honor Oldest Member At Hastings WA Meet

HASTINGS, March 22 (ENS)—Miss Della S. Plant entertained members of St. George's Anglican WA at a birthday party to honor Mrs. J. Dainard. Mrs. Dainard is the oldest member of the WA and those present extended to her their good wishes, with their gift of a richly colored cineraria. Everyone had been asked to bring one of their baby pictures, and this contest was won by Mrs. C. M. Baker, who had a perfect score. There was a special birthday cake made by the hostess.

Churches Approve First Pension Plan

LONDON, Ont., March 22 (CP) The first pension plan in the Independent Baptist Churches of Canada, a plan which one delegate said might split the church, was approved at first sessions of the annual conference of the Fellowship of Independent Baptist Churches of Canada here Wednesday.

Some churches or pastors might not be able to pay their share for the $40-a-month pension plan and this "would split us into two groups," said one delegate.

Churches are to pay 60 per cent of the premium, the pastor 40 per cent. The plan will provide $40 a month pension at the age of 65 with a $4,000 insurance plan in case of death before 65.

Attempt To Settle Car Plant Tie-up

WINDSOR, March 22 (CP).—Officials of Chrysler Corporation of Canada and Local 195, UAW-CIO, met late Wednesday in an attempt to end the tieup in the passenger car plant. About 3,000 workers have been idle for two days.

Neither party would comment on the outcome of the meeting.

Monday afternoon, said a company statement, 25 workers in the body paint division of the plant, declined to continue working, stating paint fumes in the plant were dangerous and harmful to their health. When they quit, the company was forced to close down the entire plant.

A company statement declared that conditions under which these particular men work are the "most modern in the industry." This is disputed by the union.

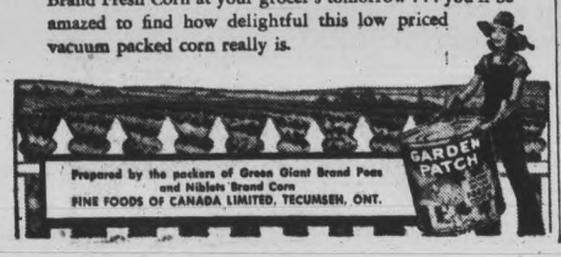
Raise Parcel Rates

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — Higher parcel post rates in Canada were announced Wednesday by the post office department. They go into effect April 2. The new rates are based on a sliding scale which takes into account the weight and distance. The increases vary from five cents on a one-pound parcel being sent within a 20-mile zone to $1 on a 25-pound parcel sent the maximum distance in Canada.

To settle Date

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday in the Commons that following the Easter recess he will be glad to discuss the selection of a date for debate on defence matters. The Easter recess will end April 2.

Paying Patient



LONDON, March 22 (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee went into a hospital Wednesday for treatment for a possible ulcer. Although he helped father Britain's national health service, he is a paying patient. That means he will have a room to himself in the government-operated hospital.

NO WASH, NO WIPE TONIGHT!
NEW DREFT DOES BOTH AND DISHES SHINE

ALL YOU DO IS RINSE
even pots and pans glisten!

YOU DON'T WASH . . . Instead of washing dishes just let them soak in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes. Dreft floats grease and food particles away. Your hands barely touch the dishwater. All you have to do is rinse the dishes, giving a swish of the cloth where needed, and presto! They're done!

YOU DON'T WIPE . . . New Self-Washing Dreft leaves no dishwater film. It washes dishes and glasses so clean, they shine —even without wiping.

YOU DON'T SCOUR . . . Even pots and pans soak clean. Dreft's amazing "float-away" action gets under grease . . . lifts it off. Then grease rinses away . . . without scouring.

BEAUTY TIP! New Dreft is so mild, and your hands are in water so little, it leaves hands beautifully white and soft!

Y-Knots Down The Gaels In Cage Play

Running and shooting wild for 49 points in the first half, the Y-Knots trampled the Golden Gaels Wednesday night 63-25 in the men's basketball at the YMCA. The Normals edged the Hi-Y boys in the first game 29-25.

Vern Butcher had a field day along with Ted Curtis in the Y-Knots-Golden Gaels game in the first half. Butcher drifted in no less than 1 field baskets and a foul shot for 21 points and Curtis seven field baskets for 14 points. Bob Jameson added six points, Ken Batchelor seven and Pat Doherty one. Doug Galvin topped the Gaels' effort of 21 points in the half with nine points while the others went to Ryan, Finn, Quinlan and Feeley.

The Y-Knots cooled to only 14 points in the second half with Batchelor leading with three field baskets. Farley dropped in the two Gaels' baskets.

Butcher finally ended with 23 points and was followed by teammates, Curtis with 16, Batchelor with 13 and Jameson with 10. Doug Galvin topped the Gaels with nine.

A Slim Lead

Points by Hamblin, Morrison and Grant in the first quarter gave the Hi-Y a slim one point lead, 8-7, over the Normals. The teachers-to-be points were made by Shram, Bellamy and Battersby. The Normals turned the score in the second quarter to tie the game at 15-all at the half when Bellamy and Battersby each notched four points. Gandy, Hurle and Morrison accounted for the Hi-Y scores.

The Hi-Y quintet slumped enough in the third quarter to allow the Normals to outscore them 8-3 to take the game lead 23-18. Schram opened again along with Battersby and Almey in the quarter for the Normals. The Hi-Y boys ralled in the fourth with Grant, Gandy, Morrison and Outram all scoring for seven points but they only edged the Normals 7-6. Schram and Bellamy counted the six points necessary for the Normal win.

Hi-Y's Morrison led the scoring with 11 points but was closely followed by the Normal's Schram with 10.

Lineups — First Game—Normals (29)—Schram 10, Bellamy 9, Battersby 8, Waite, Almey 2, Foster.

Hi-Y (25)—Grant 4, Gandy 3, English, Hurle 2, Morrison 11, Outram 2, Hamblin 3, Prest.

Second Game—Y-Knots (63)—Butcher 23, Jameson 10, Curtis 16, Doherty 1, Batchelor 13.

Golden Gaels (25)—Galvin 9, Ryan 4, Finn 4, Allen, Quinlan 2, Farley 4, Feeley 2.

Watson-Flanagan Team Up Against O'Toole And Hi Lee

In answer to the request of many fans a tag team wrestling match has been arranged for next Tuesday night at the Brock Arena.

The team of Whipper Billy Watson and Pat Flanagan will take on the duo of Hi Lee and Tommy O'Toole. Team bouts are always popular and this one should be no exception. Whip and Pat are two of the greatest competitors and team wrestlers in the game, while Lee and O'Toole are notorious roughhouse matmen and pay little attention to ring ethics. An explosive, action-packed bout is assured.

Also appearing on Tuesday's card in the semi-final will be the sensational Indian grappler Chief Suni War Cloud. The Chief, who is a colorful matman, will hook up with one of the most hated wrestlers to appear here, Wee Willie Davis. And how the fans will love it if Davis gets a pasting.

Popular Bill Stack opens the show taking on Kaye Bell.

Neill's-Lindsay Triumph To Open Series

Neills, undefeated in the girls' city league basketball, downed the Nurses Wednesday night 51-39 in the first game of the two-game points-to-count series for the senior championship. Lindsay Merchants finished strong in the second half to win by one point, 28-27, from Blacks in the first game of the two game series for the intermediate championship. The return games will be a week from Friday at the YWCA.

Foul shots by Marian McKee, Reta Nayler, and Rosie McInroy combined with a basket by Carol Ferguson gave Blacks the edge in the first quarter 7.5. Marj Owens and Shirley Alger accounted for the Merchants' points. Black continued to hold the two-point lead, 14-12, at the half as Nayler, McInroy, Ferguson and Marilyn Vint tallied seven points in the second. Shirley Meath with four points and points by Alger and Owens kept the Merchants close.

Both teams added nine points in the third quarter as the Blacks quintet continued with the two-point margin. Carol Ferguson dropped in three baskets and Mary Knox, a foul shot and a basket for Blacks. Lindsay's Isobel Green, Owens, Alger and Meath counted the nine.

Shirley Alger and Marj Owens slipped in baskets for Lindsay in the fourth but three successful foul shots in three attempts by Donna Copp gave the Merchants the margin required to win. Points by McKee, Nayler and Ferguson for Blacks weren't enough to catch the Lindsay quintet.

Blacks' Carol Ferguson edged Lindsay's Shirley Alger for the scoring honors by one point with 11.

Had Margin

Neills kept a slight margin in scoring in all quarters of the senior game. Jean Vass, Joan Dunk, Grace Poast, Polly Stewart and Wilma Byers all combined for Neills' 10 points in the first quarter. The Nurses' six points were scored by Anita Davis and Jean Bell. Nurses returned stronger in the second quarter but were edged 17-15 on the scoring as Polly Stewart sank eight points to lead Neills. This time the scoring on the Nurses was well distributed with Joan Plunkett Bev Pringle, Anita Davis, Barbara Deyell, Joan Smith, Pat Martyn and Betty Jaquith all scoring.

The third quarter margin held by the Neills on the scoring was only one point, 9-8, as Jean Castle, Polly Stewart and Jean Vass sank the ball. Joan Plunkett and Bev Pringle continued to lead the Nurses.

Joan Dunk, Dorothy Callan and Jean Vass contributed 15 points to the Neills' cause in the final quarter to outscore the Nurses again 15-10, to give them the 12-point edge to carry into the second game. Bev Pringle led the Nurses throughout with three baskets while Joan Plunkett and Jean Bell had a basket each.

Scoring honors in the senior game were divided between the Nurses' Bev Pringle and Neills' Jean Vass, both with 15 points. Joan Dunk and Polly Stewart, both of Neills, had 11 points each.

Lineups—Senior Game—Neills (51)—Vass 15, Callan 5, Dunk 11, Freeman, Poast 3, Smith, Stewart 11, Byers 2, M. Callan, Castle 4.

Milt Schmidt Chosen Best Bruin Player

BOSTON, March 22—(AP) — Bruins' captain Milt Schmidt, an outstanding candidate for National Hockey League all star honors, has been chosen Boston's outstanding player of the season.

Result of the voting by hockey writers was announced today and only Schmidt and defence player Bill Quackenbush, another all-star candidate, received votes for the Elizabeth C. Dufresne trophy.

Schmidt, veteran centre from Kitchener, is a four-time winner of the award presented annually by an anonymous donor in memory of a late hockey fan.

The presentation will be made by Tom Fitbgerald, Boston Globe hockey writer, before Sunday's game against Toronto, the final home encounter of the season.

Douro Takes Title

WARSAW, March 22 (ENS)—Douro defeated North Dummer 11-2 here to capture the bush league title. North Dummer scored the first goal from the stick of F. McCracken, aided by Dafoe. F. Moher, B. Moher and C. Sheehan then counted for Douro, the latter also getting an assist. In the next period, F. McCracken got another for Dummer but C. Leahy and J. O'Grady hit the mark for Douro, B. Moher helping on one. The last period saw K. McClure count for North Dummer, with Moher and C. Leahy going on a Douro rampage to tally three apiece. The losers drew seven of the 11 penalties. Teams:

North Dummer: C. Parcels, M. Little, K. McClure, F. Little, K. Clysdale, A. Bell, I. Lonsberry, P. Little, G. Hampton, Batten, Dafoe.

Douro: F. Keating, B. Moher, J. O'Grady, C. Sheehan, Moher, G. Sheehan, C. Leahy, F. Moher, B. Heffernan, D. Sheehan, J. Heffernan, E. Leahy.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's Hockey Night again at the Arena, an 8.30 touch. Oshawa Bees play the Oddfellows in their fifth OHA junior "B" group final, a best-of-seven serial. Each team holds two victories and this is a highly important one for both tonight. A local win will put 'em in a swell spot, requiring then but one more victory and meaning Oshawa would have to take its two remaining games. A local loss would put Bun Kingdon's crew on the spot, though; so they'll be hustling plenty. After their neat victory last start in the Motor City, the signs indicate a Peterborough win tonight on home ice. But it'll be a hot battle all through between these hustling junior playoff team.

* * * * * *

Sylvester (Vep) McMahon, a Peterborough chap who has lived many years in Detroit, drops a line: "Playoff time again and of course I am still for the Wings or, as Toronto calls them, the Red Rascals. Sure was sorry to hear of Jack Godfrey's accident. He has had bad luck as far as hockey is concerned. He was badly hurt in Windsor coming up away back. There's been a lot of comment on Mr. Campbell's ruling on Richard the Marvellous. That might have meant the playoffs for Boston or New York. I don't think the Lindsay-Ezinicki offence was any worse. Here are a few clippings which might help you settle a few arguments with the boys as Stanley Cup playoffs come up."

* * * * * *

Always A Wing Fan

Like McMahon, we're a Red Wing fan from away back. Saw them play at home far more often than we saw the Leafs in Toronto. Right back to the time they played as Cougars one winter while the Detroit Olympia was being built. So we'll go along with them again to retain their Stanley Cup (as well as the NHL title) against the Leafs who will likely meet 'em in finals. Just bull-headed enough to bet a few bucks, too. An office co-worker, Dave White (from Toronto), took us once in a Leafs'-Wings' bet and afterwards remarked: "You know, I win quite a few bets like this against guys who'd sooner bet against Toronto than use their better judgment." It could be.

* * * * * *

Anyway, the clippings referred to are the usual press ballyhoo at playoff time. A sob sister tells of some of the Wings' pet superstitions. Norris and Adams have a fit if they walk into a room and find a hat on the bed. Tommy Ivan switches from string tie to bow to change luck. Most of the players prefer to mend nicked sticks than use a new one, and some refuse to change any wearing equipment so long as they're winning. Won't even lux their sox in case the luck is washed out. And so forth. There's a big piece complete with figures, claiming Gordie Howe the greatest right-winger in NHL history. They can't be very far out, at that. However, let's not get too Stanley Cup conscious just yet.

De-Feather That Ball

Of interest maybe to the many badminton players here is a report that a satisfactory substitute for the present ype of "bird" or shuttlecock is in the making and will be ready for next fall. A plastic job with seven or eight times the life of the present bird, at the same cost. Badminton birds without feathers will be really new but could answer a lot of difficulties and attract more players. The best feathers for this game used to come from Czechoslovakia but that's pretty much out now, and other types of feathers haven't proven satisfactory. Too dead and causing too many flight variations in a fast game. Dozens of birds are tossed out in tourney play as unsuitable. The new plastic ones might well be the answer.

PCVS bantams breezed through the Bowmanville boys 38-7 here yesterday to take the lakeshore basketball title by 71 points on the round. Doug Ash led the way for Coach Temesy's squad and the team proved worthy champs. The juvenile PCI-ers are off for St. Kitts today toting an eight-point lead in their OABA semi-final series. If they win it, they'll stay over to tackle the Western Ontario finalist for the provincial crown this week-end. In YW girls' finals last gloaming, Neill's downed the Nurses 51-39 in the senior playoff while Lindsay squeezed out a 28-27 verdict o'er Black's in the intermediate game. Return games of the goals-to-count series will be Mar. 30, a week from tomorrow. The junior girls have yet to play, and the YM boys are still at it in hoop action.

CALGARY, March 22—(CP)—Some 30 top-ranking figure skaters from all parts of Canada and the United States will be on hand here this weekend for the North American figure-skating championships.

The meet, generally regarded second in importance only to the world championsips, is slated to get under way Friday at the Glencoe Skating Club with compulsory school figures in both the men's and women's divisions.

J. Platt Rolls High

J. Platt rolled a nifty high three of 912 this week in the Major Bowling League and also had high single of 346. Edgewater led teams with a fine 3646 pinnage and leading single game of 1331. Six points each were taken by Post Office, Kingsmen, Edgewater, Bickell and Cherney's over Kaw., Deaf, Hunt's, Modern Wonder and Bassell's. The others were 4-2 wins respectively by McLeod, Campbell's, E and B, Plaza, Calvert, Mongraw and Wade's over Selkirk, Crowley's, Odeon, Wood, Caccavella, McWilliams and Parkway.

Good scores were rolled by: D. Coughlin 344, E. Post 300 (849), Jake Wade 310 and 307 (838), D. Tripp 308, G. Walton 308 (849), B. Frost 305, J. Platt 300, A. Caccavella a triple of 795, J. Goodson 772, C. Signorotti 763, H. Gordon 738, A. Whiteside 735, H. Mowry 727, A. Heckman 715, E. Reynolds 712, M. Julian 700.

Teepees, Gens Stave Off OHA Elimination

By The Canadian Press.

St. Catharines Teepees and Oshawa Generals scored desperation victories Wednesday night to stave off elimination from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A play-off race.

Playing at home, St. Catharines outclassed Guelph Biltmores, defending champions, 4-1 to tie their quarter-final series 2-2.

Generals staved off a third period attack by Windsor Spitfires in Oshawa for a slim 5-4 decision and also tied that quarter-final 2-2.

Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros, already in the semi-finals, now await the outcome of deciding games to be played Friday night. Generals will face Spits in Windsor while Guelph play host to St. Catharines.

In the OHA major final at Hamilton Wednesday night the Tigers scored a goal in the first, another in the second and hung on through a wild third period for a 2-1 victory over Toronto St. Michaels Monarchs that tied the series at a game apiece.

They Score

Ab Conick scored the first Tiger goal at the 19:19 mark of the first period and the second Hamilton marker came off the stick of Tom Smelle only 22 seconds after the middle session had begun.

Jack Meldrum scored the only Toronto goal with a slap shot from close in during a scramble in the third period.

Third game of the series best-of-seven final is scheduled for Friday in Toronto.

In the junior game at St. Catharines, team captain Wayne Brown opened the scoring for Teepees on a pass from Buddy Boone in the first period. A couple of minutes later he set up Boone on the goal which made it 2-0.

A solo effort by Jim Robertson and a blueline drive by Frank Martin accounted for other St. Catharines goals. Herb Dickenson got Guelph's goal.

Four major penalties and two minors were handed out in a wild second period which was marked by a free-for-all.

At Oshawa, Herv Dejordy got two goals while Ted O'Connor, Alex Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski were getting one each for Oshawa. Martin Zorica, Earl Johnson, Eddie Joss and Elmer Skov tallied for Windsor.

Oshawa had a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period, made it 4-2 in the second and then got one while the Spits were getting two in the third.

B. Pogue Rolls 354

Tigers took all points over Corvettes this week in the YMCA senior girls' bowling circuit. Commandos, Glengarry's and Lucky Strikes each took two from Aces, Bombers and Hurricanes. Shirley Heckman had high three of 723, followed by Betty Pogue with 720, D. McArthur 711, Mary Gimblett 694, Joan Alexander 655, Mary Flaherty 628, Dot Martin 624, E. Storey 622 and T. Hewitt 610. Betty Pogue rolled high single for the night and the season to date with a nifty 354 effort. She was followed by S. Heckman with 287, D. McArthur 266 and 254, M. Gimblett 262, Betty Castle 250, J. Alexander 253 and 238, Ethel Stanbury 237 and A. Reid 237. Tigers had top pinnage of 3,028, with Aces hitting 3,010 and Commandos 3,004. Aces hit high single of 1,250.

With three weeks of the schedule left, Aces lead with 49 points. Commandos are next with 47, Lucky Strikes and Glengarry's each having 34, Tigers 31, Bombers 30, Hurricanes 29 and Corvettes 22.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Lionel Conacher played the last game of his 12-year National Hockey League career 14 years ago last night as a defenceman with the Montreal Maroons. The Maroons beat Detroit 5-1. Conacher, all round sports great, was recently named Canada's best male athlete of the half-century in a Canadian Press poll.

PCVS Bantams Get Crown In Lakeshore Cage Group

Sparked by Doug Ash the PCVS Garnet and Grey bantams neatly swept the Lakeshore district collegiate basketball championship Wednesday night at PCVS. Coach Zolton Temesy's youngsters ran tarouga the Bowmanville High bantams easily for a 38-7 win, to total 71 points to Bowmanville's 20 in the two-game points-to-count series. Last Friday night in the lakeshore town the PCVS quintet won the first game 33-13.

Ash was Johnny-on-the-spot throughout Wednesday night's game and his teammates fed him continually. With fast breaks up the floor to catch floor-length passes and with close in work the smallest player in PCVS basketball ran up 26 points with 10 points each in the first and fourth quarters, two in the second and four in the third. Harry Carleton who lead the scoring in the first game with eight points led the PCVS passing attack to the shifty PCVS forward and sometimes deprived himself of points to allow Ash to tally.

Strong On Defence

Defensively Al Foote was strongest as he controlled the backboard by grabbing Bowmanville field attempts which were well off the mark throughout the game. Terry Roberts and Brian Turner were other defensive standouts as well as leading the offensive play up the courts.

Bowmanville were outclassed by the more experienced PCVS team and seemed to be lost on the long, narrow floor. Bowmanville's floor is much smaller and has a low ceiling. The higher PCVS ceiling threw the Bowmanville quintet off in their shooting and they scored only two field baskets.

All PCVS basketball fans believed that Ash was the smallest player in the lakeshore basketball until they saw Markle of Bowmanville. This tiny player topped the lakeshore team with four points and was their outstanding ballhandler.

Starts It Off

Ash opened with a corner shot but Cameron scored shortly after with a foul shot for Bowmanvile. Carleton started the PCVS quintet on a scoring rampage while Brian Turner and John Boorman watched the backboards. Ash scored four baskets in a row, mostly by breaking quickly up the floor and taking floor-length passes. Boorman and Carleton closed the scoring in the quarters at 16 for PCVS. Little Markle dropped in a foul point for Bowmanville.

Markle's early drive in the second quarter netted Bowmanville three points on a foul shot and a breakaway basket. But PCVS kept piling up the points with Foote, Ash and Roberts sinking the ball from closein. Bowmanville's Colwell opened the third with a long drifter for their final points. Ash completed passing plays with Davis and Carleton for four PCVS points to make the score read 26-7.

With his teammates helping him Ash broke away in the fourth for 10 more points, Roberts adding the other basket. Most of Ash's points came from fairly close in. His opening play for a basket was executed perfectly, taking a rebound under the basket and then looping the ball in with a hook shot.

Bowmanville (7) — Colwell 2, Hooper, Cameron 1, Markle 4, Coverly, Vine, G. Richards, Stacey, Abrams, A. Richards.

PCVS (38)—Ash 26, Carleton 4, Boorman 2, Roberts 4, Turner, Foote 2, Gallagher, Baptie, Davis.

Haliburton Huskies Tie Sutton In Overtime

NEWMARKE, March 22— Sutton Greenshirts and Haliburton Huskies duelled through 10 minutes of goalless overtime to settle for a 4-4 tie here in an ORHA Eastern Ontario senior championship game. The best-of-five series now stands at one win for the Huskies.

After being down 3-1 at the end of the first period, Sutton spearheaded by George Holborn's two goals, came back to earn a tie. John Learoyd and Bill McLaughlin shot in singles for the Greenshirts. Albert Dart, Glen Dart, Jim Henry, and Buck Baker were the Haliburton goal-getters.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Johnny Peirson of Boston, whose tally late in the third period gave Bruins a 6-5 victory over Chicago.

Gerry Couture of Detroit whose seventh goal of the season helped the Wings knock New York out of the playoffs 4-1.

Al Rollins of Toronto, who scored his fourth shutout of the season as Leafs blanked Montreal 2-0.

Sault Crushes Sudbury 8-1

NORTH BAY, March 22 (CP) —Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds qualified Wednesday night to meet South Porcupine Porkies for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior championship, pasting Sudbury Miners 8-1.

It was a sudden-death encounter—the climax of several days of bitter argument between Sault officials and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association. Greyhounds took the original series with Sudbury 4-2 but the entire semi-final playoff round was thrown out when Sault goaltender Louis (Boofy) Casola was ruled ineligible on a residence stipulation.

After first refusing to play a sudden-death encounter on neutral ice in North Bay Monday, Sault agreed to a sudden-death tussle Wednesday night. In order to play, Greyhounds officials had to post a $450 fine levied at them by the NOHA for expenses involved in making arrangements for the game.

Andy Theriault was the lone Sudbury marksman to beat young Walter Maich, replacing Casola.

Say Lethbridge Good Club, But Not A-1

By MICHAEL O'MARA.

LONDON, March 22 (Reuters) —Lethbridge Maple Leafs, now fighting to add the Winston Churchill Cup to their newly-won world hockey title, are a good hockey team. Fans here and in France still are not sure just how good.

Lot's face it. The Westerners —aided by a high-scoring trio from Kitchener — retained the global crown against six other teams in Paris that were not as tough competition as the champions would have met in their intermediate League in Canada.

Some European teams showed good hockey ability. The Swedes, with their crisp criss-crossing passes inside the blue line, strict positional play and well-schooled shooting ability, were dangerous.

The Swiss— high-flying speed boys with a swashbuckling rush and a prayer — also took some beating.

The American team—a lacklustre commercial outfit from Lewiston, Me.—was a disappointment. Not since before the war has the United States been so weakly represented in world hockey.

Discard Them

You can discard Norway, Finland and Britain. The last two are just learning the game; and maybe the Norwegians will never learn it.

The net result was that in Paris Palais des Sports last week the Lethbridge squad had only two teams to beat—and beat each 5-1 without ever looking like losers.

The way they won was not always impressive. The Leafs were chance-wasters. They carried 90 per cent of the play and scored only about half the goals they should have registered.

Where they were superior to the fledgling competition was in their go-ahead, non-stop drive. They won through power and stamina rather than cunning. They played the puck for 60 minutes, never backed away from a check, never quit skating.

Not Liked in Paris

Paris fans did not always react kindly. If a Leaf raised his stick above his knees he was booed. The teams the Leafs beat always got the lion's share of support.

But the Parisians tried to be fair and when "O Canada" blared over the loudspeakers for the final time Saturday night as Hec Negrello accepted the World Trophy, the thunderous ovation the Leafs got made up for the silences that had greeted their 62 tournament goals.

Lethbridge had retained a title won here last year by Edmonton Mercurys without ever being pushed to the limit.

How do they stack up compared with Edmonton? Off the ice both teams were respected for their gentlemanly behavior. On the ice, railbirds who watched both tournaments generally agree the Mercurys were a shade the more dangerous club.

The Kitchener line — Mickey Roth, Billy Flick, and Dinny Flanagan—helped a lot, as they did last night when they figured in four of the goals as Canada whipped the United States 5-0 in the Churchill tournament opener.

Leafs Publish List Of Eligible Players

TORONTO, March 22—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday issued a list of 25 players eligible to play for them in the National Hockey League playoffs.

Eight of the players, five forwards and three defencemen, will be called up from Pittsburgh Hornets, ousted from the American Hockey League playoffs under an eligibility ruling.

Included in the list are 17 forwards and eight defencemen. Goalies are not listed.

Following are the players:

Forwards—Ted Kennedy, Max Bentley, Cal Gardener, Joe Klukay, Danny Lewicki, Flem Mackell, Howie Meeker, Tod Sloan, Sid Smith, Ray Timgren, Harry Watson, Bob Hassard, Ray Hannigan, Chuck Blair, Johnny McCormack, Phil Maloney and Rudy Migay.

Defencemen — Jim Thomson, Gus Mortson, Bill Juzda, Fern Flaman, Bill Barilko, Frank Mathers, Hugh Bolton and Tim Horton.

Major Leagues Lose 44 Men To Armed Forces

NEW YORK, March 22—(AP)—It may have escaped general attention in recent weeks, but major league baseball players regularly are being called into the United States armed services.

Wednesday's induction of Preston Ward, Chicago Cubs first baseman, pointed up that since last September, some 44 players either have or soon will don Uncle Sam's uniform.

Paul Petitt, the 19-year-old $100,000 bonus pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, received notice yesterday to report to Los Angeles March 30 for his physical examination.

On Thursday Erv Palica, Brooklyn's right-handed pitcher who sparked the Dodgers' late-season drive last summer, was ordered to report for induction March 30.

Ward's induction makes a total of 23 National Leaguers in the service. The American League has 21.

Of the 16 major league clubs, only Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators have not lost any players. Most of their players are over the draft age.

Pitching standouts who will be missing come opening day next month include Art Houtteman, Detroit, Eddie Ford, New York Yankees, Curt Simmons, Phillies; and Johnny Antonelli, Boston Braves.

Others include Del Crandall, Brave catcher; Danny O'Connell, Pittsburgh shortstop; outfielder Dick Kokos and second-baseman Owen Friend of the St. Louis Browns.

Canada Direct Wins 2 Heats

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — Canada Direct, owned by E. Birth of Smiths Falls, and driven by Wilmer Hillock, defeated one of the best fields of trotters and pacers when he chalked up wins in both heats of the featured fifth event at Dufferin Park Wednesday.

In the first heat he was sent to the front approaching the half mile pole, saved ground while being held in light restraint and in the home stretch extended his advantage to win easily.

Canada Direct was a sharp factor in the early part of the second heat, moved steadily to the leaders, took command in the front stretch then continued on nicely while setting the pace and was under pressure in the stretch drive to hold Mac Bingen safe.

The fourth race and secondary feature was won in straight heats by McSilk, owned by Wells and Hess of Morrisburg, Ont., and driven by Percy Robillard.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe of Detroit retained his leadership in the goals, assists and points departments in the National Hockey League Wednesday night, despite the fact that all clubs were active.

Howe has 42 goals, one more than Montreal's Maurice Richard who went without a point against Toronto, 43 assists and 85 points. Richard is second with 64 points, 23 of them assists.

Detroit's Sid Abel and Boston's Milt Schmidt each tallied once Wednesday night to remain tied in third place with 61 points.

Hiawatha Wins Loop Title Against Keene

If resident of the Park—Chamberlain streets area were wondering what made the ground shake between 8:30 and 10:30 Wednesday night, the reason was that the Otonabee Rural Hockey league's final game was played at the Civic Arena. This league is better known as the "blood and thunder" circuit.

Hiawatha swept the final series for the Otonabee Council trophy, awarded annually, from Keene with a 4-3 win for the third straight victory in the best of five series. They won the first game 8-5 and the second 7-0.

Both teams lived up to the thunder part of the name Wednesday night but only a little blood was drawn. With Hiawatha having but a one-goal lead, 3-2, at the end of the second trouble started to brew early in the third. Sticks flew high. Tempers flew high. Feet went high on trips. And several goals were scored to add to the excitement.

Goalie Good

Keene fans were low in the first after Heafield rammed home two goals within 30 seconds at the four-minute mark and followed up with a third for the hat trick at 17:02 by pushing the puck into an open net. Keene's hopes rose with a minute to play when Houle drove home a screen shot from the blueline.

Keene's goalie, Jack Mackness, kept their hopes alive in the second when he turned back Heafield, B. Cowie, G. Cowie and N. Paudash on what seemed to be sure scoring plays. Then a period of ragged hockey followed which was ended with a breakaway by Bill Brown for Keene. He blasted a shot between the defenceman's legs just inside the blueline and nicked the corner of the net. His rushes from therein sparked the Keene team.

Hiawatha's goalie rose to his glory early in the third as Keene pressed to tie the score. MacDonald turned aside attempts by Brown several times. But Hiawatha rallied and Heafield led a rush down the boards. He passed to G. Selaby who passed in front to L. Selaby who wacked the puck into the open net.

While two Hiawatha players were in the penalty box, Kempt broke loose, pulled MacDonald out of the net and passed to Nelson who slipped the puck into the open net. That goal ended the scoring.

After the game the trophy was presented to the Hiawatha team by James McCarthy, president of the league.

Lineups—Hiawatha—goal, MacDonald; defence, Thompson, Anderson; centre, Paudash; wings, B. Cowie, D. Musgrave; alt., Heafield, G. Selaby, L. Selaby, E. Musgrave, Howard. G. Cowie.

Keene—goal, Mackness; defence, Brown, McCarthy; centre, Coones; wings, Houle, Whalen; alt., Renwick, Foley, Adamson, Nelson, Kempt, Gall.

Remember When—

Boston Bruins won their first National Hockey League championship 22 years ago tonight by defeating Montreal Maroons 3-2 for their third straight win of the play-off series. Bruins went on to defeat New York Rangers for the historic Stanley Cup that year.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

In Cincinnati, world heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles disclosed Wednesday night that he has been married since Dec. 30, 1949, and that he has been a father since last Feb. 13.

He said the wedding with Gladys Cartrell, 24, of suburban Madisonville took place more than a year ago but he declined to say where the ceremony was performed.

Charles said he first met his wife in 1945 shortly after he was discharged from the army.

Asked why he had kept the wedding a secret so long, Charles said:

"Well I just thought it was best —being an athlete and everything."

At Philadelphia, George Chenier, Canadian champion from Toronto, was halted in his bid for his third straight victory in the Ralph Greenleaf pocket billiards tournament Wednesday. The Canadian was defeated 125-55 in 13 innings by Joe Canton of Watervliet, N. Y.

Paul Petitt, 19-year-old $100,000 bonus pitcher for Pittsburgh Pirates, received notice Wednesday to report for the armed services physical examination March 30.

Petitt, a southpaw, will get about 30 days grace if he passes his physical examination.

Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker, said Wednesday that he will ask the New York State Athletic Commission on Friday to recognize the winner of a bout between National Boxing Association champion Johnny Bratton and Kid Gavilan of Cuba as world welterweight champion.

The IBC hopes to stage such a match on either May 18 or 25.

Boucher Offers Quit Rangers

NEW YORK, March 22 (CP)— Frank Boucher has put his job as manager of New York Rangers on the line.

Fulfilling a promise made last December, the veteran of 25 years with the Ranger organization told a reporter Wednesday night that since the Blues failed to make the National Hockey League playoffs he will offer his resignation to Madison Square Garden Corporation, owners of the Rangers.

The Rangers faded from the Stanley Cup playoff picture Wednesday night when Detroit Red Wings handed them a 4-1 defeat and Boston edged Chicago 6-5.

Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden, was not available for comment today. However, last December when informed of Frank's statement he said the affable 49-year-old Boucher had done nothing that warranted criticism. Probably Kilpatrick's opinion has not changed and Boucher's resignation will not be accepted.

Laprade Loss Felt

When Boucher made his resignation statement to reporters last December, he said he felt the Rangers were a team which should make the lucrative post-season play.

However, the loss of Edgar Laprade was a severe blow to the Broadway Blues. The star centre from Port Arthur, suffered an injured leg Jan. 17 in a game with Boston and hasn't played since.

"That, more than anything else cost us the playoffs," Boucher said.

Boucher has served the Rangers as star centre—playing between Bun and Bill Cook—scout, farm coach, coach and manager. He took over as coach in 1940 and became manager in 1946 when Lester Patrick became a vice-president of the Garden.

Trained Mothers

VANCOUVER (CP)— Medical health officer Dr. Stewart Murray and his assistant Dr. George Elliott said on return from a civil defence conference at Ottawa that every mother should learn first aid work. They believed women in a future war would be called on heavily for emergency work.

Even trotting horses will have their hall of fame.

Trustees of the Trotting Horse Museum, Inc., at Goshen, N. Y., Wednesday announced the purchase of William H. Cane's elaborate Good Time Stable to house the newly-established "Hall of Fame of the Trotter."

Work will begin immediately to transform the stable into a museum so that at least part of it will be ready for the public by July 1 to coincide with the grand circuit race meeting at historic Good Time Park.

Cane, who built the stable in 1917, has staged the Hambletonian trotting classic at Good Time Park in Goshen for many years.

Officials of the newly-formed Ontario Rugger Union took issue Wednesday with a British sports writer who suggested that that sport "could not be said to flourish" in Canada.

John Allibam, secretary of the Ontario Union, which was formed March 6, said the six teams which founded the Union have played a regular schedule for some years, and that the Union expects to field eight or ten teams this fall.

Bruins Make Playoffs Leafs Blank Montreal 2-0

By MEL SUFRIN, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Boston Bruins have qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs, something they missed last season when they wound up in fifth place.

The Bruins entered the charmed circle Wednesday night when they defeated the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 6-5 while New York Rangers were being eliminated by Detroit Red Wings 4-1.

Last season it was the other way round, New York finishing fourth and Boston fifth.

In Wednesday night's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal Canadiens 2-0 in a game which considerably tightened the race for the Vezina Trophy.

The four teams to participate in the post-season playoffs are Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and Boston. The only thing in doubt now is whether Montreal or Boston will finish in third place, thus qualifying to meet Detroit.

New York, striving hard to keep in the running, outshot Detroit in the last-ditch struggle but goalie Terry Sawchuk, the Red Wings' candidate for the Vezina Trophy, was a big factor, turning aside 36 shots to 24 for Chuck Rayner.

Slim Crowd

A slim crowd of 5,837 watched Buddy O'Connor give New York a 1-0 lead in the first period. But that was all, as George Gee and Gerry Couture tallied for Detroit in the second and Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay added two more goals in the third. Gordie Howe got an assist on Lindsay's goal to add to his record-breaking season scoring mark.

The one goal allowed by Sawchuk was just one more than got by Al Rollins in the Leaf nets at Toronto. Each team has two games left to play, and Sawchuk has only a one-goal advantage on Toronto's combination of Rollins and Turk Broda in the campaign for the Vezina Trophy.

It goes to the goaltender playing the most games for the team with the fewest goals against it during the season. Rollins has played the most games for Toronto, which has had 137 goals scored against it this season. Sawchuk has played all Detroit games and has allowed 136 goals.

Last of Schedule

The Montreal-Toronto game, witnessed by 13,417 fans, was the last between the teams in the regular schedule. Montreal failed to win a game in Toronto all season and managed to defeat the Leafs only twice in Montreal.

Sid Smith and Gus Mortson scored for Leafs in the second period as Toronto gave Rollins airtight protection. It was the fourth shutout for the Toronto rookie.

At Boston a crowd of 8,094 gleefully watched Johnny Peirson score the winning goal just as it was announced that New York had been defeated.

The tie-breaker came in the 17th minute of the final period after the lead had see-sawed several times.

Bill Mosienko got two goals for the Hawks with Pat Lundy, Don Morrison and Steve Black getting the others. Milt Schmidt, Pete Horeck, Vic Lynn, Eddie Kryzanowski and Peirson scored for the Bruins.

MOH Addresses Norwood H & S

NORWOOD, Mar. 22. (ENS)—The March meeting of the Norwood Home and School was held Monday evening in the public school room.

The president, Mrs. Gerald LaBrash, opened the meeting with the singing of "O Canada" with Mrs. Burtt at the piano.

It was decided to give a donation toward the school sweaters. Mr. Sinclair explained the educational week program that will be put on at the April meeting. Election of officers for the following year will take place at the meeting.

Mrs. Gordon Stackhouse, program convener, then took charge. Mrs. Perrin Rork gave two instrumentals "To A Wild Rose" and "A Song." The Rev. R. D. Duncanson introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health in Peterborough.

Dr. Kelly spoke on Public Health or preventive medicine. Dr. Kelly explained a county health unit, in which members of the association are keenly interested. Dr. Kelly answered several questions put forth by the members.

A vote of thanks was expressed by Mr. K. Trumpour on behalf of the Norwood Home and School Association.

The following served lunch: Mesdames Stanley Fisher, Gordon Rothwell, Donald Paxton, Charles Fredericks, Allan Baker, Roy Cromie, W. H. Hudson, Stanley McMillen, George Bourne and Charles Rose.

Magistrate Explains Family Court In H & S Speech

BRIDGENORTH, March 22 — (ENS)—Magistrate W. R. Philp of the family court in Peterborough was guest speaker at the March meeting of Bridgenorth Home and School on Tuesday evening. In his address he explained the different acts and the ways by which the court works.

He said that Home and School organizations were one of the organizations responsible in obtaining a family court in Peterborough district. The family and juvenile court is set up, maintained and paid for by the municipality. It has two major divisions, adult and children, and in the adult division tact is necessary in dealing with the individual problems.

The Children's Protection Act is an act whereby children are brought before the court to find out if there is a neglected child in the home. The Deserted Wives and Children's Maintenance Act and the Criminal Code also come under the adult division.

Magistrate Philp went on to say that in the Juvenile Act, punishment is not the aim of the court, but rather to find out the causes of the trouble and to rectify it as far as possible. Lack of parental interest, lack of supervision, broken homes and the feeling of neglect were four of the reasons given for the necessity of the family court.

Mrs. E. Blewett, president, presided in the chair and welcomed the many members and guests present. A report on the two series of films shown recently was given by Mrs. W. G. Ray. B. Patterson, principal of the school, spoke for a few minutes and displayed pieces of art and paper animals made by the children and announced that the school would be having a series of films in the school after Easter.

A reading, "You Can't Buy Teachers," was read by Mrs. M. Hutchinson, parent education convener. Mrs. J. Johnson gave a humorous recital of "The Newer Discipline."

The president announced the official opening of the new school would be held on Thursday evening, April 5th. Also free medical examinations for all pre-school children who will be starting school in September will be held following the closing of the school in June.

The Rev. D. P. Morris thanked Magistrate Philp.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Cocks and her committee.

Roseneath Pair Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Halstead, Roseneath, were feted by their friends, neighbors and relatives at their home on Tuesday, the occasion being their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Halstead is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hargreaves Halstead of Haldimand township and Mrs. Halstead, nee Jessie Brown, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of Alnwick townsnip.

They were married at the manse at Bethesda North by the Rev. James Ross, Presbyterian minister, March 20, 1901. The bride wore a beige wool suit that she still has in her possession. In a reminiscent mood the bride and groom recalled they drove to Bethesda North with a horse and cutter and it poured rain all the way there and back on the 20 mile drive.

They have one son, William Halstead, who with his wife and their three daughters, Mary, Marsha and Karen reside on the homestead with his parents one-half mile north of Roseneath village.

Mrs. Halstead is a life member of Roseneath Women's Institute and an active member of the WMS of the United Church.

Mr. Halstead was a former member of Alnwick township council and an active member of Roseneath Agricultural Society. They were members of the former Presbyterian Church and now Roseneath United Church.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Halstead were at home to their friends. Receiving the guests with the bride and groom of yester-year were their daughter-in-law Mrs. Wm. Halstead and Mrs. J. W. Pacey, a sister of the bride. The guest book was in charge of a niece, Mrs. Earl Thackeray.

Mrs. Halstead wore a dress of aqua blue printed silk with a corsage of yellow carnations. Mr. Halstead wore a white caranation in the lapel of his coat.

Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. Charlton Grigg and Mrs. Flex McMillan.

A. J. Campbell called the gathering to order and the following program presented: Mrs. Harold Mouncey and Neil Adams sang: "I Will Love You" and "May the God Lord Bless and Keep You"; readings by Mrs. A. J. Campbell and Mrs. Lorne Thackeray; Misses Mary Halstead and Carol McMillan sang: "Mocking Bird Hill."

Charlton Grigg read an address and a tri-light floor lamp and a purse of money were presented on behalf of the gathering. Appropriate replies were made by Mr. and Mrs. Halstead who also received a number of personal gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Leach, Fenella, who were celebrating their 56th wedding anniversary that day, were included among the guests.

Among the guests from a distance were: Mrs. William Nill, Mr. Dan Nill, Cavan; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stinson, Bobcaygeon; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch, Mrs. Alex Brown, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen, Warkworth, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCracken, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. William Mouncey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mouncey, Cobourg; Mrs. J. A. Fanning, Mrs. Harold Harper, Mrs. Elderidge Sherwin, Mrs. Percy Macklin, Mrs. Beecher McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Leach, Fenella.

Included among their congratulations was a letter from Dr. F. G. Robertson, MP, House of Commons, Ottawa, and a telegram from Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada.

Historic Plow

BRANDON, Man. — (CP). — Articles which will form the basis of a historical museum here were presented to the Earl Oxford Junior High School. They include a plow brought from Pictou County NS, in 1897. which was used to turn the first sod between Portage La Prairie and the Rocky Mountains.

YPU Entertain District Groups

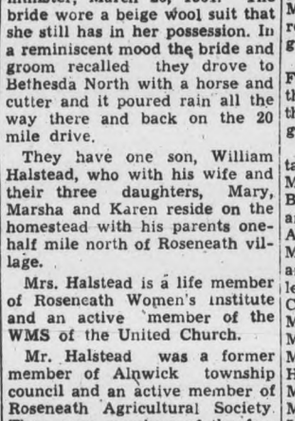
COLDSPRINGS, March 22 — (ENS) — On Tuesday evening Coldsprings YPU entertained Elizabethville and Plainville YPU's. There were about 60 in attendance.

The highlight of the evening was a debate, "Resolved that the warm-hearted blundering man has done more for the world than the frigid wise man." This was given by Mrs. Herbert McKinley and Mrs. Allan Linton supporting the affirmative while Mrs. Eldred Lean, and Mrs. Allan Bowman upheld the negative. Miss Annie Moffatt spoke on the value of debating.

The Elizabethville young people had charge of the worship service; they put on slides of "Jesus and the Crucifixion." After the worship service, Plainville Young people had charge of recreation. Lunch was served by Coldsprings YPU.

Mrs. Effie M. Rylott Campbellford Burial

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22 — (ENS) — Funeral services were conducted from Bennett's funeral home in Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon for Effie Marie Thompson, 71, widow of Wm. J. Rylott. The Rev. Beare, of Springbrook, officiated.



Mrs. Rylott was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Thompson, of Springbrook. She married Wm. J. Rylott 48 years ago. He died three years ago. In her later years she resided at Healey Falls, but prior to that she lived in Belmont, Rawdon and Marmora townships. She attended the United Church.

Surviving are three sons, Wilson of Campbellford, Joseph of Seymour township, and Gordon at home; one daughter, Mrs. Albert Hay, of Petherick's Corners, two sisters, Mrs. John W. Wallace of Campbellford, and Mrs. Andrew Hay of Hoards Station. One brother, Wilson Thompson, lives in Marmora township.

Burial was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Fete Warkworth Couple

WARKWORTH, March 22 — (ENS) — The neighbours and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hermiston and family met at their home Monday evening for a farewell party prior to their leaving for their new home in Warkworth. During the evening Will Johnston read an address to Mr. and Mrs. Hermiston and Mrs. David Greenly presented them with a silver tea service on behalf of the friends gathered there. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hermiston replied.

GETS COMMAMND—Col. E. M. D. McNaughton, a former Montrealler and son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, has been named commanding officer of the 1st Field Regiment, RCHA. A Second World War veteran, he has been chief instructor at the artillery school at Shilo, Man.

VON Budget Totals $14,950 Nurses Make 1,034 Visits

The estimated expenditures for 1951 for the Peterborough branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses total $14,950—$150 more than the actual expenditures in 1950. These figures were released in the presentation of the annual budget by president Wilson Gemmell at the board of directors meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The estimated receipts for this year total $14,870.

The biggest item on the expense list is the salary estimate of $9,800. Two other substantial estimates amounts are automobiles repairs, etc., at $1,000, and advertising and publicity at $450.

A letter from J. E. Girven, containing his resignation from the board was read. President Gemmel expressed the regret of the board and also appreciation for Mr. Girven's period of 10 years service as a member of the board.

A motion was passed that two representatives, to be named at a later date, be sent to the 53rd annual General Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Victoria Order of Nurses of Canada to be held in Ottawa April 25 and 26.

Posters entered in the VON poster competition were displayed by Miss Mary Ross, nurse-in-charge. Miss Ross explained that the winning posters would be announced in the near future for entry in the national contest April 1.

1,034 Visits

The VON nurses made a total of 1,034 visits to 255 patients during January and February, Miss Ross told the board.

In a breakdown of these figures, Miss Ross explained that 564 were bedside visits of which 200 were to indigent patients. Visits to 27 mothers on their return from the hospital totalled 49. These visits were made for the purpose of demonstrating infant care.

Educational visits totalled 371.

"The VON is a part of the Public Health program wherever it is established and as such gives an educational service," Miss Ross explained. "This type of visit is given without charge. Included in this group, we have the prenatal visit and the follow up weekly visit to the mother and baby until the baby is six weeks old."

In a comparison of the two months with the same period last year. Miss Ross stated that there was an increase this year of 10 patients in the chronically ill group making a present total of 48 patients in this group. The cancer patients reveal an increase of three.

A total of 11 patients with flu, three with pneumonia and one with measles were treated. Nine patients returned from hospital and still in need of nursing care were treated.

House Dust Aggravated

BRONCHITIS

"From time to time I suffer, especially in cold weather, from asthma and bronchitis," writes Mrs. D. Lavigne, Noelville, Ont. "Certain foods, and even dust, bring on an attack. I begin to wheeze, gasp and fight for breath, and soon I have a racking bronchial cough. It was fortunate that I learned about RAZ-MAH. When I take RAZ-MAH I know I can count on quick relief from wheezing, gasping and coughing!"

Let RAZ-MAH relieve you of the coughing and fighting for breath of Bronchitis. Also for Asthma and Hay Fever. Get RAZ-MAH at druggists. 60c, $1.25. R-46

Deficit Down

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP)—Canadian National Railways System Wednesday reported net operating deficit of $596,000 for February, compared with a net operating deficit of $1,357,000 for the corresponding month last year. Operating revenues totalled $43,352,000 compared with $36,765,000 in February, 1950, while operating expenses amounted to $43,948000, compared with $38,122,000 in the same month last year.

Public Works Dept. Said Like Kindergarten

TRENTON, March 22 (CP) — Mayor Kenneth Couch said Wednesday Trenton's public works department is run like a "kindergarten."

The comment came during a special meeting of town council, called to look into the dismissal of 28 works department laborers for alleged inefficiency. The men were let out Tuesday and were reinstated Wednesday.

The dismissals came after citizens complained that laborers were loafing on the job.

Stamp Exhibition

TORONTO, March 22 (CP).—Plans for an international stamp exhibition in Toronto September 21-29, to commemorate the 100th anniversary of government-issued postage stamps in Canada, were announced Wednesday by the Canadian Association for Philatelic Exhibitions. The Governor General Viscount Alexander and Lieutenant-Governor of each province are patrons of the exhibition.

New Approach

TORONTO, March 22 (CP). — W. H. Temple (CCF-Toronto High Park) veteran temperance campaigner, Wednesday night suggested a new approach to the problem of office drinking parties at Christmas. He suggested that Attorney-General Porter send "several of his burliest officers" to office parties and "throw the managers in jail for Christmas."

Demands Resignation

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Mayor Vincent Impellitteri Wednesday night demanded the resignation of water commissioner James J. Moran and threatened to suspend him unless he resigns. He gave him until noon today to get out. Impellitteri said his action was prompted by disclosures before the Senate Crime Committee.

North Rhodesia Described At WMS Meeting

MARMORA, March 22 (ENS)—A graphic picture of Northern Rhodesia, where with her husband, an engineer, she was resident for a number of years, was given the WMS of St. Andrew's Church by Mrs. W. A. Wall, of Deloro, at the open meeting held in the church parlor Tuesday afternoon.

The speaker said Africa is a country which calls to you. In the town in which the Walls resided, 850 miles south of the equator, the white population was 3,000 as against 30,000 native population. It is a planned town. White women have native boys to do the work about the house.

The ant hills are a creation to be contended with—many being as high as small mountains. Roads have to be blasted through them to shorten mileage and of that material a certain amount is used for road surfacing elsewhere. Speaking of the flora of the country, she added that white ants are especially fond of carnations. Through having a sub-tropical climate, the country is unrivalled for bananas and pears and other fruits. The tree ripened bananas taste so much nicer, said the speaker, than those with forced ripening. The houses are all of brick with schreened-in verandahs.

Mrs. Wall showed carved ornaments made of various woods peculiar to the country, grasses and ivory. For the polishing of the wooden ornaments, the boys resort to shoe polish. For the ivory works of art, they use their hands.

Native girls are seldom seen in the homes of the white population. They are not dependable and therefore do not make good help. Despite this, they do practically all the hard work about their own homes.

Some tribes do not believe in raising twins and will kill one of such. Other tribes again favor the arrival of twins.

Many foods that serve the diets of folk on the American continent are procurable in Northern Rhodesia, and the white population favor powdered milk because native cattle are not TB tested.

Sewing machines and bicycles are treasured by the native boys, so much so that two or more will pool resources to get a bicycle.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. G. D. Young and thanked by Mrs. H. W. Sabine.

The regular business of the branch was transacted prior to the address. Prayer was offered by the president, Mrs. E. C. Prentice. A scripture reading was given by Mrs. E. Post. Following the reading of a poem, "Love Means Adventure," Mrs. Barlow offered prayer.

A letter was read from the Havelock WMS inviting the members to a special service in Havelock United Church April 1, when Dr. Elda Daniels, missionary from Korea, is giving the address. It was disclosed that Mrs. Gordon Jarvis is organizing an Evening Auxiliary. Mrs. F. Trennum took the count of Missionary books read by the members since the last meeting while Mrs. Grace Park secretary reported four stranger and eighteen sick calls being made by members. The president mentioned that the Mission Band was one of the 35 out of the total of 68 Mission Bands in the Presbyterial which received an award for their past achievements. Mrs. F. Trennum made the presentation of a fine quilt for the bale that is to be packed.

WILLIAM O'DWYER witness before the Senate Crime investigating committee in Federal Courthouse, New York, recently, uses his hands freely as he gives lengthy testimony on crime conditions in New York city while he was district attorney in the borough of Brooklyn. O'Dwyer, now U.S. ambassador to Mexico, flew to New York to appear before the committee.

Teach Boys How To Cook

PARRY SOUND (CP).—Transposition of the sexes is being carried out to a limited degree at the Parry Sound High School.

A series of "turnabout" classes is making efficient housekeepers of the boys and dexterous mechanics of the girls. Boys are learning to swing a mean skillet and girls are taught how a lathe and plies are used.

Boys are learning how to bake, make a good cup of coffee, sew and take over the washday chores if their future wives are ill or insist on a holiday. Girls are finding out what makes a faucet leak and why an ironing cord burns out. They will be able to cope with minor household repairs in case the man of the house is unavailable or just sulking.

The turnabout classes originated last year when a home economics teacher wanted to teach her students how to take care of such things as blown-out irons and fuses. The idea was carried one step further so that both boys and girls could benefit from increased knowledge in basic household needs.

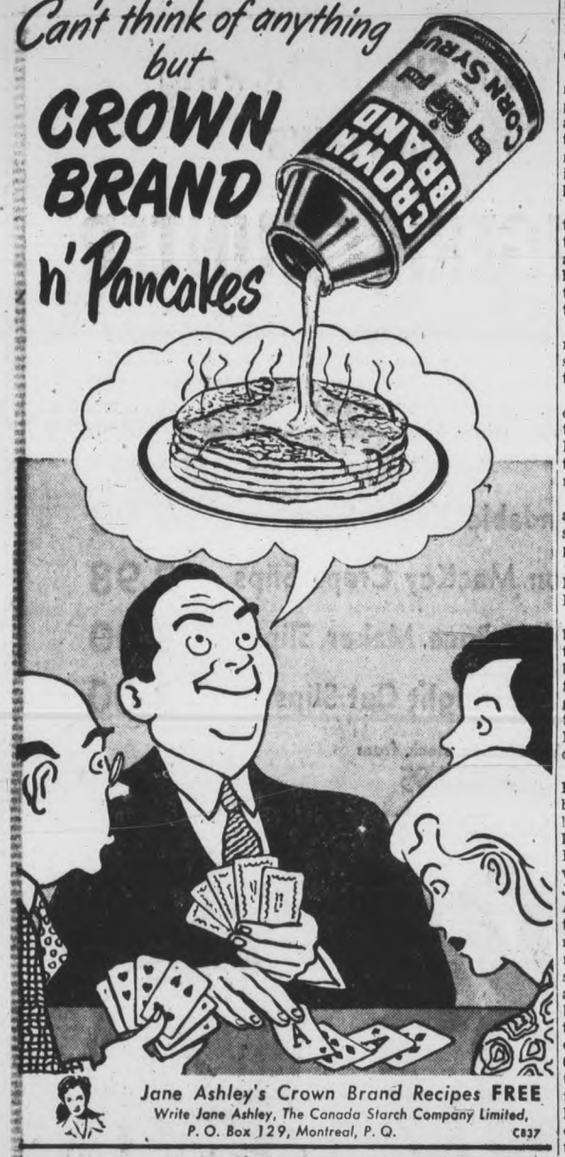
Mission Worker Speaks At WMS

HASTINGS, March 22 (ENS)—On Sunday evening the WMS of St. Andrew's Church held a joint meeting for the three churches. The Rev. J. M. Ritchie was in charge of the worship service. Mrs. C. Dodd, president, led in prayer.

Mrs. J. M. Ritchie sang a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple." The junior choir sang a missionary hymn. Mr. Ritchie introduced the guest speaker, Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary of WMS of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Miss Walker showed slides of the basic work in India and also of the mission school in Western Canada, where at the present time Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rusaw are "doing a great work." Mr. Rusaw is a Hastings boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rusaw, of R.R. 4, Hastings.

After the service, the guest speaker and Mrs. Ritchie, the executive of the WMS, Mr. and Mrs. Rusaw and family and friends were entertained and served tea and refreshments.



Peterborough Native Dies In Winnipeg

Edward Melville Wilson ,61, of Winnipeg, died March 16 in Winnipeg General Hospital. Born in Peterborough, the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wilson, he lived in Manitoba 42 years. He was employed in the maintenance department of the Manitoba Telephone System until retirement in 1945. He served overseas with the 101st Winnipeg Battalion.

Surviving are his wife Phyllis, three sons Leonard, Lawrence, and Edward (Ted), one grandson, all of Winnipeg; two brothers, Roy of Milwaukee, Wis., and Norman, Ottawa. Funeral service was held in Winnipeg last Monday, with the Rev. J. Burton officiating.

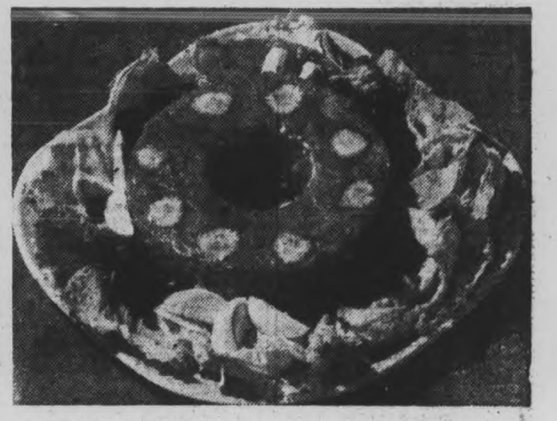
Libby's SAUERKRAUT IS ONE OF THE MOST HEALTHFUL VEGETABLES YOU CAN EAT!

Science is finding out some remarkable things about that ancient food—sauerkraut. For example, sauerkraut contains the same kind of lactic bacilli which is found in yogurt, buttermilk and sour milk, all of which are well known for their wholesome properties.

Sauerkraut has all the beneficial properties of cabbage in a more easily digested form, and it is more valuable as a food. It actually increases appetite. A favourite for centuries because of its pleasantly stimulating flavour, science has discovered that it is among the most valuable of preventive and corrective foods. Sauerkraut not only rates high in food value, but is one of the most healthful and economical dishes you can buy.

A FAVOURITE FOR CENTURIES because of its pleasantly stimulating flavour, sauerkraut richly deserves its new-found popularity. It is delicious eaten raw—just as it comes from the tin, makes a wonderful salad or baked dish. And—housewives, take note—a hearty serving costs less than 5c.

WHEN COOKING sauerkraut always use a saucepan with a tightly fitting cover. This safeguards against loss of vitamins in cooking.



USE JUICE when serving sauerkraut. When Sauerkraut is served dry, the useful lactic acid content is diminished.

SAUERKRAUT AND FRANKFURTS—In heavy skillet or frying pan, put one can of Libby's Sauerkraut, including juice. Top with one pound of Frankfurts. Cover tightly. Bring to boiling point. Turn down heat and simmer for 7 minutes. Serve as in picture, garnished with tomato slices and dill pickles. Serves 4.

SAUERKRAUT AND SPARERIBS—Brown two pounds spareribs in heavy skillet or frying pan with a little fat. When well browned, remove from skillet. Place undrained sauerkraut in skillet. Top with browned spareribs. Cover tightly. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about one hour, or until ribs are fork-tender. Serve as shown, garnished with green pepper slices. Serves 4.

SAUERKRAUT CUCUMBER SALAD—Soften two tablespoons gelatine in half cup cold water ten minutes. Bring one can Libby's Tomato Soup to a boil and dissolve softened gelatine in it. When cool, add two cups Libby's Sauerkraut; 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion; 2 frankfurts, sliced penny-wise; ¼ teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon paprika. Slice cucumber in thin rings and place in bottom of mold. Fill with tomato sauerkraut mixture. Chill. When ready to serve, turn out on lettuce leaves. Garnish with lemon wedges, hard-cooked eggs and olives. Serve with mayonnaise.

HELD BY REDS—Chinese Communist authorities in Canton have arrested a number of Canadian nuns, most of them from Quebec on charges of being responsible for the deaths of 2,000 children in an orphanage operated by the Sisters of the Immaculate Conception. This photo, taken in 1948, shows Sister Alphonse du Redempteur, superior of the orphanage and one of those arrested, caring for a new-born Chinese child. Ottawa officials say the charges are propaganda, but attempts to free the group have been unsuccessful.

Farmers Get $65,000,000 Despite Senate Protest

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP)—The federal government will pay $65,000,000 to Western wheat farmers despite the objections of some members of the Commons and Senate.

The majority in the two Chambers, amid the customary rush surrounding a pre-Easter adjournment, voted Wednesday to authorize the payment. But the Senate, in its vote, made history.

Senator Norman Lambert (L, Ontario) sponsored a motion to "strike out" the wheat payment. He said the move was the first time in history that the Upper Chamber had attempted to reduce a government supply bill.

The $65,000,000 was part of a bill covering an additional $201,000,000 in government expenditures for the 1950-51 fiscal year ending March 31. It will be paid Western farmers in final settlement of the five-year wheat pool operated while Canada filled a 600,000,000-bushel contract with the United Kingdom. The contract was filled last July 31.

The payment will work out to about 8.3 cents a bushel for wheat delivered during the 1945-1950 period. Some members have felt that the farmers should receive more; others that they should receive nothing.

Supported By Liberals

Senator Lambert's motion was defeated by a vote of 27 to 8. He was supported by seven other Liberals—all from the east.

In the Commons, the vote was 83 to 21, in favor of the payment. The vote was a standing one in committee of the whole House.

In such divisions no record is kept of those who voted or how they voted. Most of the Liberal, CCF and Social Credit members supported the payment. The Progressive Conservatives, a scattering of Liberals from Ontario and J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) voted against it.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, both said they felt the amount was inadequate, but, the government having decided to pay $65,000,000, they wanted it to reach Western farmers as soon as possible.

The votes put an end to what was easily the "hottest" issue of the session which began Jan. 30. Settlement of the Anglo-Canadian contract and the amount to be paid farmers was debated for more than eight days in the Commons. The Senate debated the issue for two days.

With the wheat issue settled—at least for the time being—members of the Commons moved to the Senate to witness the Royal assent of bills adopted since the session started. Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin of the Supreme Court of Canada acted for the governor-general, Viscount Alexander.

The Commons then adjourned until April 2; the Senate until April 5.

Defence Bills

Major pieces of legislation in the bills enacted into law were those connected, directly or indirectly, with the government's $5,000,000,000 three-year defence program.

One measure provides for establishment of a new department of defence production to guide the arming of the defence forces. The department, to be headed by Trade Minister Howe, will have broad powers to require industrial plants to turn to defence production.

This first segment of the session featured a series of important government policy announcements.

For example, Defence Minister Claxton bared the details of the government's plan to spend $5,000,000,000 on defence, both at home and by way of aid to overseas, allies, during the next three years. This includes the posting of Canadian fighter squadrons overseas.

Finance Minister Abbott announced that the government plans, by legislation to be brought down later, to continue subsidy assistance to the country's gold mines.

Five Youths Given Reform Terms

Terms From Two To Seven Months For Break-in Charges

Sentences of seven months, five months, two of three months and one of two months were imposed today on five city youths who pleaded guilty to a total of 17 charges connected with city and district breakins.

Kenneth Meeks, 17, 332 Euclid St., was sentenced to seven months definite and two months indefinite. Paul Thompson, 18, 125 Hazlitt St., was sentenced to five months definite and two months indefinite. These sentences will be served in the Ontario Reformatory.

Claude Johnston, 17, 276½ Oxford St., was sentenced to three months in county jail. Clair O'Brien, 17, Swanston St., and Douglas Johnston, 650 Armour Rd., were both sentenced to two months in county jail. All were placed on suspended sentences on similar charges three weeks ago.

City police added five charges involving Meeks and Thompson to the ones already facing them.

Th new city charges cited offences dating back as far as last June. They involved breakins into the Lions Club canteen in the Riverside ball park in August, the Boys' Town canteen in June and the Quaker Oats club house in February.

The charges against the youthful gang involve a whole series of breakins. Apparently they graduated from stealing chocolate bars from canteens to breaking into service stations and stealing tires.

Thompson said they took nothing from the Lions Club canteen and Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clarke said he had only the verbal statements of some of the boys as to what, if anything, was taken.

The detective also said the youths were told when they appeared three weeks ago in court that if there were any other offences they were connected with, it would be better if they told about them. And at that time they volunteered nothing.

Not Warned

Douglas Johnson said he was not warned as the detective said. Detective Clarke said it could have been possible that he was missed because there were 17 boys mixed up in the affair and all were questioned.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, K.C., said that it would only be fair to point out that the offences they were now appearing on were all committed before the ones they were convicted of three weeks ago.

The Rev. Benjamin Morwood, minister of Mark St. United Church, said he knew Thompson's family and said his training at home had been good. He said youth were today growing up in the most difficult period any generation had had to grow up in.

Glorifying Outlaws

He said society was flaunting the law in gambling and sweepstake betting and the newspapers were glorifying those people who took part in the illegal activities.

William Johnston, father of Claude, said he never thought he would find his son in court under these circumstances. He said a gang of boys called on his son every Friday after he arrived home from work and he had asked them to stay away without success.

Mrs. John H. Meeks, mother of Kenneth Meeks, said that up until last spring, her son had never been in trouble. He attended church very regularly. But for some reason, she did not understand he seemed to change his habits.

Patrick O'Brien, father of Clair O'Brien, said his son had never been in trouble and he was greatly surprised to suddenly find his son mixed up in the affair.

Mrs. George Johnson said her son Douglas had been an extremely good son and had joined the Canadian Army, but she had had him discharged because he was too young.

"I wish I had left him there," she said.

Ronald Stewart, 17, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into the Boys' Town canteen in July 1949. He was placed on suspended sentence for two years because he had no record.

Two other youths who had pleaded guilty to taking part in one of the gang's escapades, were previously given suspended sentence.

CCF Meeting Claims Credit For Milk Control Changes

TORONTO, March 22. (CP)—The CCF party today claimed credit for bringing about Government moves to change the Milk Control Act and the Farm Products Marketing Act at the current session of the Ontario Legislature. Miller Stewart of Lindsay, president of the CCF Ontario section, told the section's 17th annual convention that amendments introduced by CCF members last month prompted the Government to bring in its own legislation for changes. Later, in committee discussion of the milk bill, the Government's original proposal to have a single price arbitrator was changed to enable the entire board to act as arbitrator.

"Never has an opposition had so profound an effect on the laws of this province as has the opposition you elected in 1948," Mr. Stewart said. "Opposition members have shown that an alert opposition can be a constructive, active force in our government."

Morden Lazarous, Ontario CCF secretary, told the convention:

"It is likely that there will not be more than one more session of the Ontario legislature before an election is called."

Presenting the CCF provincial council's report, Mr. Lazarous said:

"Despite federal government inaction, effective steps to solve the housing problem, to build health services; to improve our social and educational institutions, should have been taken long ago by the provincial Conservative government.

"Unfortunately, this government makes a virtue of doing very little in a very agreeable way."

Charge Man, 33, In CNR Breakin

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22 (ENS)—Roger DeFoy, 33, of Toronto has been charged with breaking and entering by Chief Constable George H. Hardy of Campbellford, after the accused was picked up by Detectives Norman Smith and Alvin Sproule of the Toronto police force, on information suplied by Chief Hardy.

DeFoy is said to be one of the two men wanted for the attempted robbery of the CNR express room at the local railway station early Sunday morning. Chief Hardy traced the ownership of the vehicle used through the license, and notified Toronto police. They picked up the truck and the wanted man and wired the Campbellford chief.

Chief Hardy, together with Constable George Foster of Belleville, a CNR railway policeman, went to Toronto to bring the prisoner back here. He was lodged in the county jail in Cobourg where he was charged and remanded for trial at a later date.

Members Heard Most Pleasing Annual Concert

The standard of the Members' Concerts of the Community Concert Association continues to improve, and the institution of the Members' Concert fully justifies itself. The quality of the performance given in the PCVS auditorium on Wednesday evening is the best possible evidence that Peterborough is itself a musical city, and not merely a city which imports music.

The two groups of pianoforte solos played by Faye Schwartz were pleasing and promising. She has a great deal of technical dexterity, and time and experience will give her a fuller, richer tone. She was heard to best advantage in Grieg's "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen"; the boldness of her rhythm and the colourful manner with which she treated this piece—simple in effect, but full of subtleties—showed that she was an artist to be watched in the years to come.

Miss Lorna Stewart's voice is not yet large enough for the PCVS auditorium, and she was wise not to force it. Size of tone will come with time; quality of tone must be developed from the earliest essays in singing, and in several of her songs Miss Stewart let us hear that she has some charming contralto notes, particularly in her middle register. She was most successful, perhaps, in the long, quiet aria from Gluck's "Orfeo," the contemplative quality of which suited her voice. She was accompanied by Gwen Craw, skilful and unobtrusive, as always.

The Searles Trio, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Searles and Mr. Gabriel Tatrallyay, played Beethoven's trio No. 4, Opus 2, with excellent understanding and spirit. It is a fine thing to have a trio of this quality in Peterborough, and it is to be hoped that they will be heard often in works of this kind. To establish a true musical culture in a city it is necessary that a great deal of music be heard and that, if possible, some particular phase of music be heard fully. If the Searles Trio can give us the great trios of Beethoven, Schubert and the other masters of this form, they will perform an invaluable service.

A quartet of members of the association sang under the direction of Mr. Christopher Gledhill; they were Mesdames Perry and Spenceley, and Messrs. de Noble and Dawson. They gave thoughtful renditions of four works from the madrigal school, of which Richard Edwards' "In going to my naked bed" was perhaps the best, as well as the most difficult. It is an admirable thing that much of this music of the polyphonic kind is being brought to Peterborough listeners; the musical education of too many students begins with Bach, and it is well for them to know that there were great masters before him.

The quartet also sang two Shakespeare settings, a bad one by German and a good one by Moeran, and two very pleasant arrangements by Mr. Gledhill, the first of which was "I will give my love an apple," and the second a French-Canadian song "Mary, the Virgin, sings." Let us hope that we may hear more of Mr. Gledhill's works in this field, and that this excellent quartet will not disband now that it has made a fine first appearance.

The concert was well attended and the audience was warm and generous in applause. R. D.

Put Husband In Jail Paid $18 Fine

Threatened To Shoot Wife, Posts Bond $200 To Keep Peace

LINDSAY, March 22 (CP)—An attractive, 20-year-old Toronto woman appeared in court here Wednesday to assure the freedom of the man she accused of trying to kill her.

Mrs. Joyce Mitchell came to pay $18 court costs for her husband Lloyd. He had been arrested last Saturday on his wife's complaint.

Lloyd was freed but instructed to post a $200-surety to keep the peace. He left court without thanking his wife for putting up the court costs.

Pleaded Not Guilty

The accused, the 30-year-old laborer who lives with his father near Eagle Lake and Haliburton village, pleaded not guilty to a charge of threatening to kill his wife on March 17. His wife, who had laid the complaint took the stand for the Crown's case. She said that she had been married for three years and had separated from her husband last fall. She stated that since their separation she had not seen her husband until the day of the alleged offense as she had been living in Toronto. She told Magistrate Gee that she had come to Eagle Lake to a friend's home for the weekend and had previously written her husband's sister saying that she was going to be at Eagle Lake and suggesting that she (his sister) tell him that she wished to talk to him while she was in the Haliburton area. She told the court that she had planned discussing a divorce action.

Mrs. Mitchell related that she had been sitting on the edge of a bed combing her hair and talking to one of the men of the household when her husband had come to the Eagle Lake home. .Se said her husband had taken a couple of drinks from a bottle that was in the room and had asked his wife to come back and live with him. She had refused and in the course of the argument she claimed that she had been slapped. She said that her husband left then and returned again shortly before dark. This time he suggested that she go into Haliburton with him. Again she refused and she testified that this time he had said, "I'll kill you." She said that after he walked out of the house, she locked the door and glanced out the front window and saw the accused in front of the house about 40 feet away from her. She swore that he was holding a rifle and was in the process of opening the lever when she shouted a warning to the rest of the house and she and her friends rushel into the cellar. Later she heard someone trying the door. Finally she concluded, she heard the taxi that had brought her husband drive off and she called the Provincial Police.

Denies Wife's Evidence.

Mitchell took the box and promptly contradicted most of the evidence given by his wife. He denied striking his wife and added that she too was partaking of the liquor in the house. He said that he had returned to visit and had borrowed a rifle to take to his farm. He said that he had also bought a box of cartridges. He said that before going home he had decided to go to a bootlegger in the Eagle Lake district and had dropped in to see his wife for the second time that day. He said that his wife had again refused to accompany him anywhere and he had then proceeded back to Haliburton.

In considering the case, His Worship wondered why accused did not bring the taxi-driver to court to substantiate his story. He also wondered what motive the accused had for borrowing the gun and carrying it around with him before he was ready to go home. He found him guilty as charged and asked his wife what she wished done to her husband. She said that she was anxious about her personal safety and would be satisfied if the accused could be bound over to keep the peace. Accordingly the accused was bound over for one year for $200 to keep the peace.

Havelock Woman Breaks Hip 2nd Time

HAVELOCK, March 27 (ENS)—Mrs. Charles Roberts was rushed by ambulance to Peterborough Civic hospital late Tuesday afternoon with a broken hip suffered in a fall. Mrs. Roberts slipped as she stepped from her bedroom into the hall at her home. This is the second time in several years that Mrs. Roberts has broken the same hip. Her condition is reported as fair.

MRS. JOSEPH MILLS

Mrs. Mills Dies, Civic-Minded Women's Leader

One of Peterborough's most prominent women, Mrs. Emma Louisa Mills, died Wednesday in hospital. She was the widow of Lt.-Col. Joseph Mills and had lived 68 years in Peterborough.

In World War I, her husband and two sons, Major Albert Bruce Mills and Samuel Victor Mills, went overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Force. In World War II, four grandchildren served in the armed forces.

Mrs. Mills was a life member of the Local Council of Women, the Red Cross, a charter member of the Churchwomen's Association of St. John's Church, of the 57th Chapter IODE.

She was past president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, former chairwoman of the Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pension Board, and a former member of the board of the Well Baby Clinic.

She was a recipient of the Coronation Medal given at the time King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were crowned.

Born in Sandhurst, Ont., she was the daughtr of the late Henry Parker Clarringbold and Susannah Amess.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Basil D. Hall of Peterborough, and two sons, Major Albert Bruce Mills, of Peterborough, and Samuel Victor Mills of Montreal; three sisters, Mrs. W. E. Conway of Bracebridge, Mrs. A. P. Young, Bath; Mrs. Ira White, Bishopric, Sask., and one brother, H. A. Clarringbold of Buffalo.

Also surviving are three grandchildren, Major James D. Hall, of Picton; M. Louise Hall, Toronto; Mrs. L. A. Craig, London, Ont.; and four great-grandchildren, Peter, Sallie and Gwendie Hall, of Peterborough, and Jamie and Gillian Craig of London. One grandson, Captain James F. M. Hall, was killed in action in World War II.

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church will conduct the funeral service at the church Saturday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery. The body is resting at the Comstock Funeral Home.

Key Clubs Plan To Meet In City

About 250 delegates are expected to attend the fourth annual Key Club convention being held in Peterborough March 31 and April 1. The delegates will come from cities and towns in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

Speakers at the convention will be the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, James Wharry, and District Governor Ralph Steele.

All business meetings in the two-day convention will be held at the collegiate and meals for the delegates will be at Legion Hall. The Key Clubs are sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs.

IUE Applies To Labor Board For Bargaining Rights For 3,500 Of CGE Workers

Rival Left Wing UE At Present Is Bargaining Agent—Second Bid For Certification In Past 16 Months

Local 524, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) today announced that it has applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for bargaining rights on behalf of the 3,500 productions workers in the Peterborough works of the CGE plant. The rival left-wing United Electrical Workers is the present bargaining agent. The anniversary date of its contract is March 27. It is the second bid for certification by the IUE in the last 16 months.

Issues Statement

The committee in charge of the IUE campaign in Peterborough has issued the following statement:

"An application today filed with the OLRB proves conclusively that IUE enjoys the support of the production workers in the Peterborough works. We have enrolled a majority of these workers in the ranks of the IUE, an affiliate of the CIO and the CCL.

"We are completely confident that a labour board vote in the plant will show that a large majority of these workers wish to be represented by a union which is a part of the Canadian and American labour movement—the movement which expelled UE.

"It is significant that within the past few weeks, when the failure of UE to obtain any kind of satisfactory contract settlement became evident, there was sharply increased support for IUE. The CGE workers in Peterborough have not had an increase in take-home pay since June, 1948, and they are thoroughly disgusted with prolonged delays.

The committee said it was hoping for an early hearing before the OLRB, and it was confident that a secret vote conducted by the OLRB "will prove the support which IUE enjoys in the Peterborough works.

"The opposition we have met in this campaign," continues the statement, "has been the opposition to a properly conducted vote."

After the ousting of the UE at the CIO convention in the fall of 1949, the right wing of the UE broke away and formed Local 524, IUE, under the leadership of John G. Morton. At that time the union was negotiating on the 1950 contract.

Battle Obscured Issue

The battle between the two factions temporarily obscured the contract issue. Early in December 1949 the IUE applied to the OLRB for certification and a hearing was set for January 4.

Then in an unprecedented move the OLRB continued its hearing in Peterborough by interviewing more than 50 witnesses in the Empress hotel. There was a controversy over the validity of rival cards filed with the board.

The UE charged fraud on the part of the IUE. And the IUE denied this and counter-charged that it was being denied a vote though it represented a majority of the production workers.

IUE Rejected

After reserving judgment the OLRB rejected the IUE's application.

During the last few months the IUE has intensified its campaign to sign up members, and today—seven days before the deadline—announced it had a majority and had applied for certification.

This time, say the IUEers, things are going to be different.

Budget Reduced $2,500 In City For Recreation

Adjustments were made Wednesday night in the Recreation Commission's budget to the city council cutting its appropriation from $19,500 to $17,000. This cut means that the budget had to be reduced to $21,000.

In January the commission approved of a budget of $23,500. The city's share of this was to be $19,500 with other receipts such as a grant from the provincial government, a surplus from last year and estimated small receipts bringing the total to $23,500.

In 1950 the commission received from the city $17,789; the budget for the year totalled $21,085.

The commission decided Wednesday night to abandon the boxing club which has operated for the past two years thus saving $200. The club opened the year with 35 members but lack of leaders (two leaving the area due to transfers) has curtailed activities.

Another $200 item will affect swimming. This sum was sliced from the swimming budget of $1,200. This cut means that there will be no supervision at the Riverside swimming beach along the Otonabee river. Last year $895 was spent on swimming.

Two items were reduced by $500, the playground account and the grants to organized clubs such as minor lacrosse and baseball. Last year the commission granted $1,075 to these organizations. The playground expenses which amounted to $5,258.65 last year were set at $5,000 this year.

Another $200 was saved when the commission ruled out an annual report. The remainder of the $2,500 is made up in $25 and $50 reductions which affect nearly every item on the budget.

Sealing Industry Making New Comeback

By The Canadian Press

His eyes are dark and trusting. His temper is sweet and kind and his ways are peaceful. But he has one fatal weakness—his fur is valuable. He is a seal, and for him death is likely to come early.

Hunters now are prowling over ice floes in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and farther north. The annual voyage to the "front" got a shot in the arm this year from increased prices for seal oil.

Although the industry is a far cry from a century ago, when Newfoundlanders sent 100 ships to the hunt, it is likely to bring more revenue than in recent times. In view of well-remembered reverses, the operators are not getting on thin ice with early predictions. When only five ships operated two years ago, the yield was more than $500,000.

This year, 11 Newfoundland vessels and six from Nova Scotia are at the ice and report substantial catches. Several of the vessels are almost ready to head for port with the first cargo.

Killed By Thousands

Seals are killed by the thousands as they congregate in herds on the ice floes. The fact that their oil and skins are valuable is well known, and in recent years there has been speculation that their meat can also be salvaged.

Tons of the veal-like meat go to waste on the floes each year. Only some of the paws, or "flippers" are brought home. These are regarded as a delicacy in Newfoundland and command high prices.

With the application of modern methods to sealing, it is possible that the industry will make a permanent comeback. At least one of the ships now processes the seal oil as the skins—with with their fat-like lining — are taken aboard. Apart from the monetary return from the hunt, it provides seasonal employment for hundreds of Newfoundland's fishermen.

THAT'S THE IDEA—To the great amusement of two Korean youngsters, Pte. Frank Hardy of Toronto and Welland, Ont., a member of the P.P.C.L.I. makes unsuccessful but cheerful attempts to explain the favorite delight of Canadian children. It's only a cone-shaped paper and a snowball, but the youngsters seem to get the spirit, if not the idea.

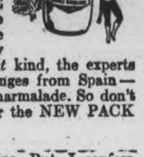
Strengthen Rails

THE PAS, Man (CP)—Heavier trackage is being laid south of The Pas to handle the gradually increasing wheat shipments over the Hudson Bay railway, Mayor H. F. Bickle told the town council.

Election Bill Gives Soldiers Vote

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — An active service election bill, which will enable Ontario soldiers to vote in a provincial election wherever they may be stationed, was introduced in the legislature Wednesday by Attorney-general Porter.

Each active service voter will be entitled to a vote for a candidate in the electoral district in which he lived for a least 30 days before enlisting.



Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS
A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, March 22nd — Spring makes us women long to get out of dusty, rusty Winter clothes into something light and gay and definitely becoming. And even on a rainy March day, we can be smart-as-you-please in a LOU RITCHIE RAINMASTER! . . . Just wait 'til you see the "Rainmaster" trenchcoat — smart rain or shine — smart Spring and Fall! Made with matching linings and hymo interlinings to help keep its trim shape. Style 777 at $29.95 . . . the "Rainmaster" of fashion-wise corduroy is a coat you'll love and live in this Spring! Choose it in your favourite colour — Rust, Green, Grey, Wine or Navy with a beret to match! The Lou Ritchie "Rainmaster" . . . Style 710 . . . just $35.00.

Now That Everyone's Had Their Share of eating health foods to "Look Younger and Live Longer" — here's my suggestion. Why not go to your grocer's and treat yourself to something you really like and enjoy — something that sets your appetite a-soaring and a-singing at breakfast time! Now's the time to do it. For the NEW PACK of freshly-made WAGSTAFFE PURE SEVILLE ORANGE MARMALADE has just come in. So first thing tomorrow — you can enjoy the fresh-made goodness of marmalade made from tangy Sevilles imported from Spain. (That's the very best kind, the experts say.) Yes, Wagstaffe has imported real Seville oranges from Spain — and captured their sunny flavour in this delicious marmalade. So don't wait until it's all gone. Ask your grocer today — for the NEW PACK of Wagstaffe Pure Seville Orange Marmalade!

My Favourite Cabinet shows off my favourite china. But, I confess, until I started using WINDEX SPRAY on the glass doors . . . the china didn't show off very well! Windex is the one cleaner that removes every smudge of grime . . . that doesn't leave hard-to-get-out powder dust in corners . . . in fact, Windex is the only cleaner that really leaves glass completely sparkling clean! It's quick . . . it's easy — spray it on . . . wipe it off — that's all! It pays to use Windex for all windows and mirrors — it costs so little — buy the 20-ounce refill bottle. For best results . . . use sparingly . . . and spray your troubles away in jiffy-quick time with the one-and-only Windex Spray!

Whether You're Blonde, Redhead, Or Brunette, you'll want to guard your hair against premature greying. And I know just the thing! . . . that amazing new NESTLE COLORTINT that keeps greying hair your special secret! Nestle Colortint lasts through three shampoos, yet lathers out when you want it to. It hides every greying hair with such rich, youthful colour . . . makes you look years younger! Nestle Colortint is more than a rinse — but it's not a dye — that's why it looks so gloriously natural. Comes in 10 enchanting shades . . . you can choose the exactly right shade to glamourize your hair colour — 6 capsules for just 39c! And to highlight the beauty of your hair — there's wonderful NESTLE COLORINSE. It rinses in — shampoos out — gives your hair gorgeous colour and sheen, 6 rinses — just 35c!

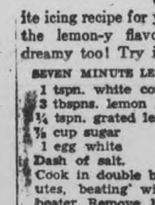
Sue Takes Over when dishes are to be washed with that grand new C-I-L SPONGE! She loves it — and no wonder! For those C-I-L Cellulose Sponges are soft as velvet when wet—such a pleasure to work with! Their square shape makes it easy to clean inside glasses, pots 'n' pans — and they float. No fumbling around in the bottom of the dish-pan! What's more — they're sanitary as can be — so easy to keep clean! Ask for C-I-L Sponges — at department, drug, variety, grocery and hardware stores. There's a handy size for every purpose — including the special 10c "dishwashing size"! And be sure to look for the C-I-L label. It's your assurance of quality!

I Could Grow Lyrical about this delicious food . . . I'm really thrilled about A.B.C. SALMON! First of all — it's economical, for A.B.C. Salmon is cooked and ready-to-serve from the tin . . . there's no waste — every last luscious bite is good to eat. And it's versatile — so many good dishes (casseroles — salads — sandwiches) with A.B.C. Salmon as the Star. For a real taste treat, I urge you to try A.B.C. Pink or Keta, wonderfully tasty and economical in all kinds of dishes. And you'll love succulent A.B.C. Sockeye . . . deep, bright red sockeye . . . luscious in salads and marvelously flavourful served in a hot dish! A.B.C. Salmon is so very simple to prepare . . . so completely delightful to eat . . . I'd suggest you try it soon!

Something For The Youngsters to make and to eat . . . both with equal enthusiasm! Yes, JELL-O PUDDINGS are so easy to make — so completely delicious when they're made that they're fun from beginning to end! And that's not all! For Jell-O Puddings are an ideal way for your children to get more milk nourishment. So serve them often! . . . Creamy-rich Caramel and Butterscotch Jell-O Puddings—satin-smooth Vanilla—full flavoured Chocolate . . . and the tempting Jell-O Tapioca trio . . . Orange Coconut, Vanilla and Chocolate. Jell-O Puddings take just five minutes to prepare and they're wonderfully economical!

I'm Really Pleased . . . and you'll be, too, when you've discovered what I've discovered! . . . How to avoid high meat bills and yet give the family the good meat flavour they crave! It's not magic — it's BOVRIL! Yes, beefy-good Bovril is still the same reasonable price . . . and it's chuck-full of the mouth-watering flavour of good roast beef. Add its savoury beefiness to soups and stews — make rich, brown Bovril gravies — drink Bovril (piping hot) on cold days . . . in fact, any time you crave the flavour of good meat, you can enjoy the beefy-goodness of budget-wise Bovril! Ask your grocer or butcher for Bovril Cordial, Concentrate or Cubes next time you're shopping.

Margie's A Wonder . . . the way she cooks with shortcuts on time and long-cuts in flavour! I confess I'm still licking the dish as I sit in her kitchen writing out her favourite icing recipe for you. You'll love the lemon-y flavour . . . looks so dreamy too! Try it . . .



SEVEN MINUTE LEMON FROSTING
1 tspn. white corn syrup
2 tbspns. lemon juice
¼ tspn. grated lemon peel
½ cup sugar
1 egg white
Dash of salt.

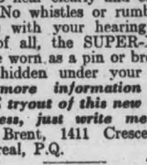
Cook in double boiler 6-7 minutes, beating with whirl-type beater. Remove, beat again and spread on cake.

And do use fresh, juicy SUNKIST LEMONS always!

Because They're Trim As A Seam — because they make a placket that fits as flatteringly as the fabric itself, I always insist on LIGHTNING SLIDE FASTENERS for my suit-skirts and dresses! Yes, there's a Lightning Fastener in just the right size for every weight of material — for heavy tweeds or feather-light chiffons. Choose the size according to the material, then see how that Lightning Fastener tucks away in the seam of your dress or suit — flows with the fabric so flexibly that no one knows it's there! No worry about wrinkles or bulges — and no awkward "sticking" either! For all Lightning Slide Fasteners lock where they stop! Yes, a Lightning Slide Fastener is my First Choice for positive wearing satisfaction in clothes I home-sew or buy!

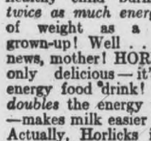
Here's A Dish with a High Popularity Quotient! . . . Just try it some night soon and see how pleased the folks will be! Like so many popular dishes, it's made with one of the luscious Heinz Condensed Soups — HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP . . .

SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT SAUCE
½ cup chopped onion
3 tbspns. bacon drippings
½ lb. ground beef
1 10-oz. can Heinz Condensed Cream of Tomato Soup
1½ cups water
1½ tspns. salt
Dash pepper
1 10-oz. pkg. Spaghetti
Grated old Canadian Cheese

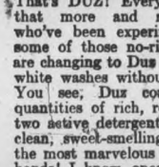


Brown the chopped onion in bacon drippings until soft. Add beef and cook until brown. Add Soup, water and seasonings. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Cook Spaghetti and drain. Serve the sauce over the Spaghetti and sprinkle with cheese. Serves 3. 1 cup sliced mushrooms may be added if desired.

Are You Letting a lack of knowledge about feminine hygiene cast a shadow over your marriage? Wise wives who want a completely satisfactory method of feminine hygiene use ZONITORS. Zonitors are effective . . . greaseless, stainless, snow-white vaginal suppositories that are powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues. And they're so very dainty and convenient to use! Ask your druggist for Zonitors tomorrow . . . and write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.—for a free booklet giving frank facts on feminine hygiene. It will be sent to you in a plain wrapper.



Aunt Ignie Tunes In . . . she's right up with the latest programmes . . . her deafness is no longer a handicap. Since she started wearing her new ACOUSTICON "SUPER-X-EAR" she has joined in all the conversations. This wonderful electronic miracle is as tiny as a wrist-watch . . . wear it with the proper Acousticon receiver . . . and it really helps you to hear clearly and comfortably. No whistles or rumbles interfere with your hearing — and, best of all, the SUPER-X-EAR can be worn as a pin or brooch or even hidden under your sleeve. For more information or a FREE tryout of this new aid for deafness, just write me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.



There's Magic In Numbers . . . and, there are numbers of almost magical things you can do with a new FRIGIDAIRE FOOD FREEZER! Things like having an untold variety of foods ready to serve any time of the year! The Frigidaire Food Freezer is big, too — holds over 300 pounds of frozen foods. It's beautifully styled by Raymond Loewy, all steel and finished in sparkling white durable Dulux. Has convenient utility shelf, counter-balanced top, interior light, famous Meter-Miser mechanism. And of course, like Frigidaire Refrigerators and Frigidaire Electric Ranges it has the General Motors-built dependability of all products that bear the "Frigidaire" trade-mark.

Ballerina Or Bobbysocker . . . which uses the most energy? At first thought, you'd pick the ballerina — for many, many hours of hard, strenuous labour lead to that perfection you see on the stage. Yet—amazing as it seems—a child at play burns up more energy than a hard-working adult! Yes, research shows that a normal, healthy child burns up almost twice as much energy per pound of weight as a hard-working grown-up! Well . . . here's good news, mother! HORLICKS is not only delicious — it's an extra-energy food drink! It practically doubles the energy value of milk — makes milk easier to digest, too. Actually, Horlicks is a balanced food made from full cream milk, plus nutrients of wheat and malted barley. Your whole family will love it — so ask for Horlicks tomorrow — at your favourite drug or food store.

Tub 'Em, or put them in a washing machine — no matter how you wash your clothes, your hands are in water a great deal of the time. That's why it's important to use a soap that's kind to your hands — as well as effective in cleaning your clothes. That's DUZ! Every day I hear that more and more women who've been experimenting with some of those no-rinse chemicals are changing to Dus . . . for white, white washes without red hands! You see, Duz combines great quantities of rich, real soap with two active detergents — gives you clean, sweet-smelling washes and the most marvelous care for your hands! I know, once you've tried it, you'll agree that Duz does Everything — beautifully!

Looking For A Treat? Here's one you can't afford to miss! For just a few pennies a serving, you can have a main dish for four that's so quick and easy to prepare . . . KRAFT DINNER! In every package of "Kraft Dinner" you'll find two mouth-watering ingredients . . . a special, fast-cooking macaroni and grated cheese for mellow, cheddar cheese flavour. So good and so easy to prepare . . . takes just 7 minutes to cook! Yes, "Kraft Dinner" is an ideal "emergency" dish . . . off the shelf — into the pot — onto the table! I'd suggest you ask your grocer tomorrow for this delicious macaroni-'n'-cheese combination. It's nutritious too — the whole family will love "Kraft Dinner"!

Here's A "Beauty Treatment" for old clothes and furniture fabrics that's a wonder! First step is TINTEX COLOR REMOVER. Subtract old, drab color with it — then add new color with ALL-FABRIC TINTEX TINTS AND DYES. And Tintex does offer you such a glorious choice of color for your home . . . such fashion-wise shades for your clothes! For your Spring wardrobe you'll like the lovely Tintex Orchid (Lavender) and Old Rose and Navy Blue, of course — the classic color for Spring. Yes, All-fabric Tintex comes in fashion's favourite colors — at your drug, department or variety store. Costs just 35c a package . . . and it's absolutely "fool-proof" when you follow the instructions on the package!

C. A. Raps Free Soap Coupons

OTTAWA, March 22 —(CP)— The soap coupons which occasionally appear in housewives' mail have drawn criticism from the Canadian Association of Consumers.

The C.A.C. wants to know whether householders like this policy of soap companies "giving away cash value coupons at the same time as they raise the price of their products."

In its March bulletin the Association says that if customers continue to cash these coupons "they make this form of advertising valuable to the manufacturer." Its says " you receive your cash bonus when you make your purchase, but the manufacturer recovers that cash from you and thousands of other buyers through increased sales at prices which cover the cost of premiums."

The C.A.C. said that if consumers disapproved the system they could discourage it by ignoring the coupons.

—Those Labels—

Many women mistakenly believe that the term "choice" on the labels of tinned fruits and vegetables indicates the top quality. Here's an explanation of the standard labels:

"Fancy quality"—the canned food is as nearly perfect as possible. It has been packed from sound, clean fruits or vegetables of perfect maturity. It is relatively free from blemish, is of good color, uniform size and packed in a clear liquid.

"Choice quality"—there is a slight variation in size, color and maturity, but the goods used must be sound and clean

"Standard quality" — products must be of good quality but not necessarily of the uniform size required in the highest grades.

Fish For Salad

The Fisheries Department offers some suggestions about how to buy fish. Frozen filelts (no bones) should never be defrosted before cooking.

In buying fillets and steaks allow about one-third of a pound for each serving. Cleaned or dressed, allow about one-half pound for each serving; whole fish, about one pound for each serving.

These are suggested salads:

Flaked lobster, diced pineapple, apple, celery, mayonaise and lettuce.

Flaked whitefish, peas, cucumber and tomaco sliced, dressing, lettuce.

Flaked cod, sliced or chopped egg, diced celery, dressing and lettuce.

Flaked salmon, diced pineapple, dressing and lettuce.

Sardines, diced beets and potatoes, sliced eggs, dressing and lettuce.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"Talk About Quick Getaways, Eh, Pal?"

What's Right

You are about to tell a story, but think you should first warn your audience: "You can't really appreciate this without knowing the people involved."

WRONG: Explain that, and then go ahead with the story, even though none of your audience does know the personalities involved.

RIGHT: If it isn't a good story unless your audience knows the individuals it is about, and they don't know them, don't bore them with the story.

VAST HARBOR

The harbor of Sydney, Australia, has a water area of about 21 square miles.

Woman Prospector, Expert In The Use Of Explosives

TORONTO —(CP)— Mrs. Viola MacMillan of Toronto, known as Canada's No. 1 woman mining prospector, has learned to be an expert with dynamite and blasting caps.

She says that if you know what you are doing and take all the necessary precautions, it's just as safe as puttering around the kitchen.

Mrs. MacMillan began her prospecting career 25 years ago and has been re-elected president of the Prospectors and Developers' Association for the eighth consecutive year. She is the first woman to hold this post.

It was a trip to Canada's north country with her husband, to investigate some gold claims, that turned her into a prospector. She doesn't go along just as a cook, either. She does her share of cooking but is able to do any task required in prospecting that the men can do.

While in the field Mrs. MacMillan's wardrobe consists mainly of shirts, breeches and high rubber boots. Real bush clothes are the thing. In the city her taste runs to simple well-tailored clothes with no frills.

Her work schedule takes her into the mining areas from April until November. She and her husband have been reasonably successful over the years. Mrs. MacMillan says fortunes can still be made but the odds are against such luck. At present she and her husband are busy with a base metal mine in British Columbia.

Returning from her first holiday in years, a Florida vacation of several weeks, she feels that Canada is on the verge of big mining developments. In the last two years more new ore deposits have been discovered than ever before.

Ordinarily Mrs. MacMillan doesn't feel that she needs a vacation. She says the work she does is her idea of a holiday.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Baked Ham For Easter Becomes Traditional Dish

Permission is herewith granted to anyone reading these words to give me the merry old blast if I am ever caught complaining about the price of meat again.

Last week I was talking to a gentleman from England who was answering questions we were peppering at him about the meat ration in England.

Each person is allowed eightpence-worth per week.

He was the smiling kind who would not let a peep out of him if the meat ration was cut to nil.

In the typical make-the-best-of-it fashion he asked if we knew there was a paper shortage too. Since we didn't, he said: "We can cope with that too. We save our match boxes and when we go to the butcher shop we take along a match box to carry the meat home in!"

With all of the casualness in the world I decided to write a mouth-watering article on baked hams for Easter dinner this week. But after that conversation the whole idea has lost some of its savour. I feel a little bit like a hog myself.

Some of our readers are dubious about the ready-to-eat hams that are in the butcher shops now. Their fears are without foundation for there is a very strict law about these. The law requires that a ham that is labelled ready-to-eat be smoked in a smokehouse until it reaches an internal temperature of 148 deg. Fahr. The packers work on the safe side and smoke them to an internal temperature of from 153 to 155 deg. Fahr.

If you buy a ham labelled "ready-to-eat" it only requires reheating through if you want it hot. If you want it cold you simply slice and eat it.

If you want to reheat and glaze it see the glazing instructions in the recipe below. A ready-to-eat ham requires about 1 hour of baking at 250 deg. Fahr. if it is not very large, to heat it.

Tenderized hams are not ready to eat. They should be boiled or baked 20 minutes to the pound. If not boiled, and ham is only baked, bake at 250 or 300 deg. Fahr. about 18 minutes per pound with additional time after glaze has been spread on.

Savoury Baked Ham

Cook ham covered with water and with lid in simmering water until tender, allowing 25 to 30 minutes to the pound—the longer time being for a very large ham. With very sharp knife cut off the rind and score the fat surface in squares or diamonds. Pat over this surface the following mixture: 1 cup brown sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon mustard. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes or until surface is golden brown.

Or sprinkle brown sugar over fat surface of ham and as it browns spoon a little of the drippings or cider or canned pineapple juice over.

Or use honey instead of brown sugar.

A whole clove may be placed in centre of each diamond or at each diamond corner.

Note: When a large bone-in ham is baked the tiny bone at the end of the ham may be easily pulled out.

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 9 OUT OF 10 SMOKERS WHO TOLD US SMOKING DISCOLOURED THEIR TEETH?

HERE'S HOW TO REMOVE SMOKE STAINS FROM YOUR TEETH

If you are like 9 out of 10 smokers, you'll say smoking discolours your teeth. And here's what to do about it. Get yourself a tube of Iodent No. 2+A toothpaste today. It is made for smokers and people with teeth hard-to-bryten. Start brushing your teeth twice daily with this Iodent No. 2+A after meals. It will remove the smoke smudge or stains safely, surely and quickly. You will soon recapture your sparkling smile.

AMMONIUM COMPOUNDS in IODENT May Mean Less Tooth Decay

Iodent contains Ammonium Compounds and kills those trouble-making germs which cause mouth acids. To give your teeth the greatest protection against cavities, teeth should be brushed after eating with Iodent. Do this every day and your chances for having fewer cavities are good. But remember, the time to prevent new cavities is before they start. Don't give those mouth acids a chance to eat into the enamel protection. Brush them away after every meal with Iodent.

Opera Pleases Music Lovers

A musical treat was enjoyed by Peterborough opera lovers who took advantage of the one day presentation of the moving picture adaptation of Gounod's opera, "Faust and the Devil" at the Centre Theatre Wednesday.

The opera revolves around the well known plot of Goethe's work of the aged scholar Dr. Fautus selling his soul to the devil in exchange for youth and the various adventures that ensue. Although lacking in the color and dramatic appeal of the live opera the movie adaptation made up for any deficiency with the fine quality of its musical presentation—both vocal and orchestral.

Technically the picture was good and the fine music suffered little on the sound track.

Additional enjoyment was provided with two shorts included in the program. The first was a photographic interpretation of Ravel's "Bolero" with the composition itself as the background music. The second, entitled "Steps of the Ballet" was an informative film setting forth the requisite preparation for the performance of a ballet.

Music Teachers Hear Examiner

Mr. F. G. Wharram, principal of the Leaside branch of the Royal Conservatory of Music and an examiner for the conservatory, conducted a group of mock examinations before a capacity audience at the meeting Monday evening of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association.

The purpose of these examinations was to illustrate examination procedure to piano pupils, parents and teachers.

The candidates for these unofficial examinations were Allan Muir, grade 2; Brian Cherney, grade 4; Sharon Shaw, grade 6, and Terry Northrop, grade 8.

These mock examinations were conducted in the same manner as regular examinations. They included the various ear tests, sight reading tests and technical work of each grade, and even kept within the time alloted by the conservatory. The audience participated by marking each candidate and comparing their marks with those of the examiner.

Mr. Wharram was introduced by Mr. Donald Kennedy. Mr. Charles Allen thanked the examiner, the pupils and their teachers for their participation.

A short business meeting was held before the program, with the president, Mrs. D. Flett, in charge. Refreshments were served by Mrs. K. Braund and her committee.

Russian Women Pity UK Sisters

LONDON, March 22—(Reuters)—Seven Russian women—some wearing silver fox furs—who have just made a two-week tour of Britain—held a press conference Wednesday night to explain why they are sorry for the women of this country.

Their considered views were given in a printed statement.

"We Soviet women deeply sympathize with British working women who still do not receive equal pay for equal work," the statement said. Then it referred to nurseries closing down, to rising prices, the coal shortage and limited choice of food.

Head of the Soviet delegation was Madame Nadezhada Parfenova, an educationist. Her colleagues included an engineer, a doctor, a research scientist and a teacher.

They answered questions freely—except when one reporter asked whether it was true there were 15,000,000 people in Russian concentration camps.

Said research scientist Nina Javakhashvili: "I find the lie unnecessary to answer." Criminals are sent to labor camps to relearn how to be useful citizens.

The women are touring Britain as guests of the International Women's Day Committee.

HOME AND SCHOOL COUNCIL

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was the guest speaker at the Peterborough Home and School Council meeting Wednesday evening.

Discussing modern man and his predicament, Mr. Boyd explained that the tragic nature of today is an unsatisfied craving for justification. Life is centred around things rather than God. Our morals were given by God, but we have been separated from the giver.

He contended that the mother's duty is to teach children the meaning of Good Friday and also to teach them their mistakes and to admit them.

Mr. Boyd was introduced by Mrs. J. McLeod, religious convenor.

Mrs. J. A. McNeill sang two solos, "Green Pastures" and "I Come to Thee."

Mrs. C. Collins, president, was in charge of the meeting. The devotional period was led by Mrs. G. Reader. Conveners' reports were read by Mrs. D. Boucher, health; Mrs. W. Nelson, radio; Mrs. D. Rostoky, parent education; Mrs. D. Reynolds, leadership training.

Mrs. Rostocky announced that the final course in family living will be held in the Public Library, April 2-4.

Refreshments were served by Confederation Home and School Association.

Hope To Foster Ballet Interest

TORONTO— (CP) — Bernadette Carpenter, noted dancing teacher, has leftr for Western Canada where she hopes to establish co-operation between ballet circles of the east and west.

The trip is sponsored by the the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association and will take her to centres from Winnipeg to Victoria.

While enlisting support for the 1952 Canadian ballett festival, Mrs. Carpenter will also explain for interested westerners the background of the Canadian National Ballet project now under consideration.

Sponsors of the plan brought Celia Franca, English dancer-choreographer, to Canada recently. She is making a survey and the project will be proceeded with if she advises that a national company is possible.

A native of Lethbridge, Alta., Mrs. Carpenter is a member of the national executive of the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association.

WOMAN WARDEN — Mrs. Maud Watt, of Rupert's House on James Bay, is the first and only woman game warden in the province of Quebec. She carries badge No. 1944 and received her appointment last winter in recognition of her work among the Cree Indians in Quebec's north. Mrs. Watt carried out the idea of her late husband, a Hudson's Bay Company factor, in getting a beaver sanctuary established. Before that the beaver population had almost disappeared and the Indians were facing hard times. Now they are comparatively wealthy. Under Mrs. Watt's guidance, they are building frame cottages, have erected a community hall and are trapping more beaver year after year.

Woman Warden Fairy Godmother To Cree Trappers

QUEBEC, March 22—(CP)—Far to the north, at Rupert's House on James Bay, Quebec's lone game warden has a territory larger than any other 10 wardens in the province.

But this is a lesser distinction. Badge No. 1944 is worn by Warden Maud Watt, first and ony woman game warden in Quebec.

The honor and recognition were well earned. On the death some years ago of her husband, a Hudson's Bay factor, Mrs. Watt pressed to a successful conclusion his idea for a beaver sanctuary.

At that time beaver were so scarce they no longer figured in the fur harvest of some 300 Cree Indians settled there. Those were hard times for the Crees. Now the country is rich in beaver and the Indians buy government bonds. They have a sawmill and are building frame cottages to replace their skin and canvas huts.

Always interested in the welfare of the Indians, the late factor Watt told them establishment of a sanctuary would allow beaver to multiply and the harvest in time would again be good.

The Indians were convinced. The Hudson's Bay Company and the federal government didn't think much of the plan then.

Convincing Talker

Mr. Watt fell ill but his wife travelled overland to Quebec and her talk was convincing. The sanctuary was set up in the Crees' trapping territory, which is all in Quebec.

In a few years the fast-disappearing beaver population had grown to 15,000 and each brave was allowed to trap a certain number. The beaver continued to multiply and the Indians' annual take has been allowed to increase accordingly.

After her husband's death Mrs. Watt continued his welfare work among the Indians. With her help, the Crees began bringing in lumber from the nearest supply point, Moosonee, Ont., 80 miles across the bay. Indian labor and money looked after building the frame cottages and the big community hall that would be the envy of many centres to the south.

The hall has a large dance floor, radio, phonograph, pool tables and also a modern bakery.

The Crees swear by Mrs. Watt, and last winter came the official recognition of her work. Hon. Camille Pouliot, Quebec's minister of Game and Fisheries, named as Game Warden the woman who has done so much for the Indians and now has adopted a little Cree boy as her son.

Marriage For Security Is Idiotic

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a girl accept marriage for security even though she isn't in love? I am a girl of 24. A man is urging me to marry him. He has a good job and could support me comfortably. I like him, but I do not love him. I actually smother when I think about marrying him. I wonder if I could stand living with a man the remainder of my life of whom I have tired even now? I may never have another so good a chance to marry. I may never even fall in love. My decision now will mean my future, but how can I do the sensible thing when I don't know what the sensible thing is? And if it is the sensible thing to marry this man, how can I force myself to do something my heart isn't in? LOU

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is not the sensible thing to marry a man you don't love. It is the most idiotic thing you can possibly do, because it is taking a step that is absolutely certain to bring you nothing but misery. It is taking a gamble at happiness in which the dice are loaded against you and in which you haven't a single chance of winning out.

Some Excuse in Past

In the past, when there were no gainful occupations open to women, there was some excuse for a woman marrying to get a home and bill-payer. Marriage was not only her meal ticket, but it was her card of admission to society and the only way she could attain a life of dignity and interest.

But that is all changed now. Any girl of 24 who is as intelligent as you evidently are, can make her own living and she can live a full, free, interesting existence. She can come and go as she pleases. She can have her own home, if she likes. She can be popular in society and meet people among whom she may find the man who can give her both a home and the love she craves. I think that any girl who sells her youth and her chance at love for the sake of a little present security makes a foolish bargain.

Make no mistake about marriage. It is a hard job at best, and nothing but love can gild it and make it worth while. And don't forget that if you marry a man you don't love, the man you could love is likely to come along when it is forever too late.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very much in love with a young man whose wife died less than a year after their marriage. Upon her deathbed she made him promise that he would not marry again. He feels bound to keep this promise, although he loves me very much. We have now come to the place where we must marry or break, and he intends to go away and try to forget me. What should I do? DESPERATE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It does not seem possible in this practical and sophisticated age that any young man would let a promise wrung out of him by the stress of a deathbed scene wreck the happiness of his whole future life. So I am inclined to think that your boy friend doesn't want to marry you and is using that as a camouflage behind which he is making his getaway.

If, however, he is sincere in his protestations of affection and is giving you up because he promised his wife that he would not marry again, he is showing more sentiment than sense. He must know that such a promise is far better broken than kept, and that the sacrifice of the happiness of two lives should not be made on the altar of a superstition that there is something peculiarly sacred and binding in a promise made to the dead.

In fact, of all promises, they are the ones that there is the least reason to keep because, as a general thing, the dying are not in full possession of their faculties and do not realize what they are asking. Their requests are just the last flare-up of earthly selfishness and vanity, and it is tragic to think that these may impose a martyrdom upon others.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What is to be done about the husband who hangs around the house all day pestering and fault-finding and bossing his wife until he nearly drives her crazy? MRS. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I don't know unless you can get him to join a club, or to play golf, or else shoo him out of the house into some other loafing place. For I take it he has no notion of getting a job that will furnish him with something to do or think about and fill up his time.

6—In Memoriams

BENNETT—In loving memory of my dear husband, Joseph Bennett, whom God called home one year ago, March 23, 1950.
In God's care.
—Deeply missed by his wife, Mrs. Joseph Bennett; also his son Frank.

BENNETT—In loving memory of my dear brother, Joseph Bennett, who passed away one year ago, March 23, 1950.
In God's care.
—Sadly missed by his sister Edith and brother-in-law Dave, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Clement and family.

BENNETT—In loving memory of Joseph Bennett, Uncle Joe, who passed away March 23, 1950.
—Sadly missed by Gladys and Alf and Kay.

FORSYTHE—In loving memory of our only son, Pilot Officer E. B. (Sonny) Forsythe, (425 Alouette Sqdn.), accidentally killed at Tholthrope, March 23, 1945, rest in Stonefall Cemetery, Harrogate, England.
So short a time! In some far land he lies,
Sleeping unending sleep, and alien skies
Lok down up his glory. Life is done,
He was a child but yesterday, our son.
—Fondly remembered Mom and Dad, sisters Frances and Joyce.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
We who loved you, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.
—Sadly misse by son Reg, daughter-in-law Sally and grandson Reggie.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
He was worthy of the name of Father,
He fought life's battle square,
No matter when we wanted him,
We always found him there.
—Sadly missed by son Clayton, daughter-in-law Reta and grandchildren.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear father, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Monadel, and son-in-law Stan Bock.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Sheltered from sorrow and pain,
Safe in God's wonderful keeping,
Until we shall meet him again.
—Sadly missed by daughter Lenore, son-in-law Clifford and grandchildren.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1949.
We lost one with a heart of gold,
How much we loved him can never be told,
Dearer to us than words can tell,
Is the one we lost and loved so well.
—Sadly missed by wife, daughter Aurora and son Henry.

GORDON—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Hosanna Gordon, who passed away March 23, 1944.
Please God forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that our dad was here,
There are others yet I know
He was ours and we loved him so.
Two years ago we had to part
With one we loved with all our heart,
A wound so deep it would not heal,
Only those who have lost, know how we feel,
If we could speak with dad today,
Laugh with him the same old way,
And hear his voice and see him smile,
Then life indeed would be worth while.
—Sadly missed by son Norman and family.

6—In Memoriams

MAHOOD—In loving memory of David Mahood, who passed away two years ago today.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for a while,
God marked him when He gave him birth,
And took him with a smile.
—Ever remembered by Aunt Muriel and Uncle Noble.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of our little grandson, David Mahood, who was killed March 23, 1949.
Two years have gone, no one can tell,
The loss of one we loved so well,
Short and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all.
The blow was great, the shock
We little thought his end so n
And only those who have loved can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
—Lovingly remembered by Grandma and Grandpa Quick and Teddy.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of our beloved son, David Mahood, who died March 23, 1949.
Fondly loved and deeply mourned,
Heart of my heart, I miss you so,
Often, my darling, my tears will flow,
Dimming your picture before my eyes,
But never the one in my heart that lies.
The stars seem dim as I whisper low:
"My own darling boy, I miss you so."
—Sadly missed by Mummy, Daddy, Glenn and Evelyn.

MAHOOD—In loving memory of little David Mahood, who was accidentally killed two years ago March 23rd.
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
—Sadly missed by Aunt Frances, Uncle Keith and family.

RIDDELL—In loving memory of our dear mother, Maud Riddell, who passed away March 20, 1947.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed by son George, Florence and family.

7—Cards of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Mary Hie wish to thank attending doctor, the nurses at the Civic Hospital and nurses and sisters at St. Joseph's Hospital; also to those who sent cards and flowers during her sickness; also for kindness shown by friends and neighbours and for cards and flowers sent during their sad bereavement.

I would like to thank the nurses and orderlies and doctors of the Civic Hospital for their kindness while a patient there. I also would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. T. Nice for their daily visits and thank friends, relatives and neighbours for their visits, cards and kindness also.—Mr. Fred Buck.

Two Kingston Rinks Have Reached Finals

KINGSTON, March 22 (CP).—Two Kingston rinks Wednesday reached the finals of the Kingston Whig-Standard Trophy, main event of the 25th annual Kingston Curling Club bonspiel which ends a four-day meet here today.

Bob Elliott and Jack Sands, finalists last year in the same event, renew hostilities. Last year Sands edged Elliott for the trophy.

Harry Melvin of Kingston was winner of the Seagram Trophy, second event of the 'spiel.

The only out-of-town rink to reach contention, Jim Curtis of Fenelon Falls, was defeated in the Whig-Standard Trophy event by Sands Wednesday in a semi-final match, 12-8.

Windsor Surprised At New Investigation

WINDSOR, March 22 (CP) — This city today reacted with surprise to news that its law enforcement setup faces another investigation.

Mayor Arthur Reaume said he was not sure what a select committee of the Ontario legislature wanted to invesigate in this city. It was announced in the legislature Wednesday night that the committee would probe Ontario law enforcement.

"If it's magistrates, the crown attorney and the sheriff, I don't know of anything that needs invesigation," he said.

Mrs. Gordon Kerr, president of the Local Council of Women, said it was her personal belief that, with a revamped police commission and a new police chief, the city is going through a period of change. She added that she did not know why an investigation is needed here right now.

Confederation Boys Capture School Title

Confederation blanked King George 5-0 to retain the Kinsmen Cup, emblematic of the intermediate championship of the Public School Hockey League. They had played last week to a 2-2 tie after finishing first and second in the standing. Confederation had erased King Edward and King George eliminated Prince of Wales.

Jones had a goal and an assist in the first period and Druery one counter. The latter and Parnell tallied in the second and each aided on the other's goal. Chesney notched a pair in the third with Parnell helping on one. The winners drew five of the seven penalties. Trotter in goal shone for Confederation and E. English stood out for the losers. Teams:

King George—Goal, J. Harding; defence, English, Clark; centre, Pollard; wings, Moffit, Baptie; alternates, Dorrington, J. Harding, Grills, Lamers, Innes, Dixon.

Confederation — Goal, Trotter; defence, Hotston, Jones; centre, Parnell; wings, Druery, Chesney; alternates, Kimball, Moffat, Ferguson, Walling.

Referees, Messrs. Wilson and Lawless.

Newsprint Appeal

CAMBRIDGE, England, March 22 (Reuters) — H. J. Bradley, president of Britain's National Union of Journalists, today appealed to the United States for a more-equitable distribution of newsprint. He told the union's congress here that the United States—with about six per cent of the world's population — consumes 65 per cent of the world's output of newsprint. He was glad that a suggestion that American newspapers "might forgo a few pages of their giant issues . . . in the interests of keeping democracy informed" is being considered "at highest levels."

George Clarke Laid To Rest

The high esteem in which Edward George Reynolds Clarke, general manager of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company, was held, was indicated Wednesday by the large number of local and out-of-town people who attended the funeral in St. John's Anglican Church. Mr. Clarke died Sunday in hospital.

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson spoke briefly of Mr. Clarke's activity within the church, several years serving as the people's warden, and recalled how the Clarke family's pew was always filled with parents, three sons and a daughter.

Archdeacon Robertson was assisted at the church and cemetery chapel services by the Archdeacon C. W. Balfour, also of St. John's Church.

Some of those from outside the city attending were Lloyd Bossence of London, Norman B. Fair, George Earnshaw, Edward Reid and Terry Lewis, all of Oshawa, N. D. Bennett, George Winlow, Reginald Lowman, R. H. Meyers, Harry Ramsay, George C. Gardiner, George Ford, Earl Jarvis, Edward Cross, Wes Harris, Charles and Jack Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. D. Marshall, all of Toronto, Raymond Manbert and William Pinkerton of Oakville, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Marsh of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Smylie of London.

Pallbearers were: W. A. Davidson, D. B. Rogers, Garth Wade, George T. Cheatle, J. R. D. Marshall and Mr. R. Cole. Honorary pallbearers were: R. A. Brown and W. L. Carter, Jr., both of New Hampshire, H. M. McNiven, J. R. Marshall, W. C. Ackerman, A. L. Killaly, W. M. Gemmell, J. A. Jebson, V. Hamilton, Gordon Monkman, S. J. Black, H. C. Sherwood, J. E. Girven, S. G. Payne, A. L. Elliott, K.C., Cyril Lech, H. C. Sootheram, E. E. Estlick, Dr. Russell Morgan, Dr. R. S. Chenoweth, Dr. D. B. Kelly. Interment was at Little Lake cemetery.

Dr. J. A. Sinclair Dies In Lindsay

CANNINGTON, Ont., March 22 (CP) — Internationally known horseman and veterinarian, Dr. James Alexander Sinclair, 86, died Wednesday night in hospital at Lindsay. He had been ill three weeks.

Resident of Cannington, Dr. Sinclair was a judge at many horse shows in Canadian and American cities for more than 50 years.

Hawks Victorious

Hawks defeated Canadiens 4-1 in their peewee game yesterday at Civic Arena. They had been off skates so long that they were awkward and the tilt slow. However both sides passed well with Hawks more effective around the net. Rangers play Bruins today. Druery, Murphy, Stewart and Olmstead scored for Hawks, an assist each going to Druery, Stewart and Mountney. Lustie tallied from Dinsdale for Canadiens. Teams:

Hawks: Smillie, Druery, Scharf, Brown, Beggs, Murphy, Stewart, Chesney, Haig, Olmstead, Mountney, Kimball, Hotston, Tighe.

Canadiens: Beggs, Grills, Harding, Moffat, Baptie, Brisbois, Dinsdale Crough, Lustic, Tetlock, Lloyd, O'Neil, Garvey, White, Anthony, Findlay.

Referees: R. Miller and J. Brown.

Richard James Ward

The Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson officiated at the funeral service Wednesday in St. John's Anglican Church for Richard James Ward, retired manager of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He died Sunday very suddenly although he had been in ill health since before he retired in 1949.

Archdeacon W. C. Balfour assisted Archdeacon Robertson in the services.

Pallbearers for the funeral were: Charles Levine, R. A. Wilson, Dr. Russell Morgan, H. G. Mason, R. B. Arnold and A. M. Schofield. Honorary pallbearers were Hector Turner, Adam Turner, Alex Sollitt, Jmes Mathews, Alexander McFarlane, R. B. Mackay, J. E. Fryer and W. A. Allingham. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Norwood Fair Board Sponsors Fertilizer Project . . . Holstein Club Dinner Wednesday, March 28 . . . A Memory of J. J. Breckenridge . . . Fred McIndoo New Chairman of Poultry Industries Committee.

"East Peterborough Agricultural Society (The Norwood Fair) has initiated a field demonstration for 1951 to prove right on the farms of this district the value of using commercial fertilizers."

That is the opening paragraph of a letter from G. A. Brethen of Norwood, president of the Society which has to its credit the highly successful Beaver Oats Club of 1950. The new project has been undertaken by the directors of the Society under the leadership of Mr. Brethen, and is significant of the purposeful work an agricultural society can carry on for the benefit of its membership and its community.

Norwood last year concentrated its energy on a product of the soil. This season it is getting down to the soil itself.

Mr. Brethen continues the announcement of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society's new scheme as follows:

"This project has the endorsation and support of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the major fertilizer companies of Canada, and many others interested in the growth of bumper crops while at the same time maintaining the fertility of the soil.

"Many livestock owners do, or should realize the importance of feeding grains, hay, or grasses grown on soils up to requirements in nutrients and essential minerals. A few days ago we were asked, 'What effect, if any, has the type of soil on which our food is grown upon the health and development of our people?' During the last world war the US government in getting men for the armed services discovered that in the more newly settled western states seven out of every 10 men called proved physically fit, while in the mid-west or southern states but three out of 10 passed the medical test. Investigation revealed that this extreme variance was due to the fact that the major portion of the food of those in the low test group was garnered from soils that through long years of cultivation and mismanagement had been depleted of those nutrients and minerals essential to health.

Practical Conservation

"A run-down soil grows run-down food. The quality of the food we eat is the chief factor in producing our physical fitness. If our women have goitre, our babies have rickets, our men have arthritis and our girls are anaemic, these disorders are evidences of malnutrition and faulty feeding Well fed soils can, and do, aid in producing a healthy people. To produce greater quantities of higher quality foods for man and beast, the soil must be fed. Because every crop harvested, every field grazed, removes essential nutrients from the soil, the farmers of older Ontario should begin now to deposit more fertility in our soil bank, if we continue to withdraw. Failure to do this reduced many productive and prosperous communities in western Canada, in a few generations, to a worthless dust bowl. From now on every pound of manure must be conserved and put back on the land, every forkful of straw and occasional green crops plowed in, not only to add fertility but to act as a sponge or reservoir to absorb and to hold much needed moisture from dew or rain to provide maximum growth of grasses or grain. In addition commercial fertilizers properly selected and applied will be found an indispensible friend of the man who wishes to make his field more highly productive and at the same time maintain the fertility of his soil.

"During the past 25 years sales of fertilizers in Canada have jumped from 170,000 tons in 1927 to 764,000 tons in 1950 of which 346,568 tons or nearly one-half were bought in old Ontario alone. Of this amount Peterborough county farmers purchased 1,891 tons last year, lagging far behind many other counties in this respect. We note it has recently been suggested to the Examiner by a competent authority 'that the farmers of this district could use 10 times present quantities to their advantage.'

"With these thoughts in mind the East Peterborough Agricultural Society has designed its 1951 feature project to encourage local farmers to become in a practical way better acquainted with the need and profit of supplementing the use of their ordinary farm manure, with fertilizer 'out of the bag.'

"To enter this worthwhile project all that is required is a $1 membership, (if not already a member) your name and address, class Sr. or Jr., size of field, analysis and amount of fertilizer required, and granular or fine. Entries accepted in order received."

Fred McIndoo Elected Poultry Head

Fred McIndoo, of Cavan township, was elected chairman of the Peterborough district poultry industries committee at the annual meeting Tuesday in the YMCA. George Lockington is vice-chairman and Rod Blackwell secretary.

Mr. McIndoo succeeds G. A. Brethen, of Norwood, and the retiring secretary was J. R. Turnbull.

Prof. Ross Cavers, head of the poultry department of OAC, reviewed price currents in the last two years, stressing the stabilizing effect in 1950 of the high quality storage eggs that moved onto the market between the spring flush of production and the fall lapse. This supply as an alternative to a fresh suply between seasons acted as a form of rationing.

Prof. Cavers mentioned as a prospect for this year "that we may have too few eggs in storage." Receipts are down ten per cent from this time last year, and there is some export movement to the United States.

He emphasized the quality of the eggs that were put into and came out of storage last year, rating them as Grade "A" for the first time. Eggs that paid the farmer 32 cents and retailed at 45 cents sold out of storage at 55 cents. The extra 10 or 11 cents allowed for some profit after paying for oiling and grading, insurance interest and storage costs, plus an extra charge for export casing. They were stored for possible export.

Prof. Cavers said the industry had got out of its troubles within a year. "When we lost the British market, we were overstocked with poultry and something had to happen."

Warnings Ignored

Looking back to the beginning of 1950 and the clamor of protests and demands from producers when the bottom fell out of the poultry and egg market, Prof Cavers said there had been warnings to the industry, but they were not heeded. Britain, running out of credit dollars, said she wasn't going to buy any more eggs. A plain intimation of reduced buying was heard in December, 1948. Hon. Mr. Gardiner had used wheat to sell bacon, eggs and cheese, but in that same year he said he would not again try to use a bargain price in wheat as an aid in selling the produce lines.

Even with that information, the number of chickens in the spring of 1949 increased 14 per cent. Producers apparently felt that the Great White Feather at Ottawa would do something. He did try, but it didn't work. Then on December 17, 1949, with the final delivery of eggs to Britain, the price dropped from 42 to 24 cents. With the fall from the contract price to the New York market level, there was some prediction of what was certain to happen, but with reluctance to give it prominence in publication.

"So, we began 1950 with a poultry population capable of producing 100 million to 150 million dozens," Prof. Cavers recalled.

Too Long On "Stilts"

"Our farmers had been walking around so long on stilts (of controls) that they had lost their traditional keen thinking. And it was so nice that warnings made no dent in their wisdom."

That was a long retrospect in Prof. Caver's running fire talk. From that point, he recalled the experience of 1950, more or less on the text that the storage terms and conditions did last year for the industry what the export demand had one.

At the request of Mr. Brethen as chairman, Fred McIndoo gave an interesting resume of his recent interview by radio on phases of management.

In that broadcast Mr. McIndoo could not resort to written script, but gave his answers from the resources of his knowledge.

Thirty or more of the district producers attended the sessions of the annual meeting.

1330 IN QUINTE UNIT

The number of cattle in Hastings county has decreased to 47,000 from the 60,000 counted about a year and a half ago, as reported at the annual meeting in Belleville last week of the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association.

This breeding unit has grown from 70 members in June 1948 to 1,330. At the end of last year membership was 1,276, a gain of 229 members during the year. Confined so far to Holsteins, the unit is buying three or four Shorthorn bulls, and is going into the beef type with about 100 breeders, most of them from Northumberland and Durham.

First service conception rate of 71% was reported by Dr. J. M. McLean, manager of the Quinte unit.

W. P. Watson, Toronto, livestock commissioner with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, complimented the members of the unit in owning a Holstein bull that was reserve grand champion at the Royal Winter Fair last fall. He said there were now six artificial breeding associations in Ontario. They bred 75,000 cows artificially last year. Growth was remarkable but not phenomenal. Greater expansion was expected.

In the six counties from Durham to Frontenac, comprising the Quinte group, there are 164,000 cattle, but only 12,000 of them were artificially bred in 1950. The same survey counted 8,200 bulls. "And that's 7,000 too many," Mr. Watson remarked.

Fred Hubbs of Bloomfield, past president, said the unit now owned 15 bulls whose nearest dams had an average production of 21,722 lbs. milk at 3.89 butterfat. Ross Stevens, vice-president, said the association showed a profit last year, but that had been made possible by the 50-cent service grant from the Ontario government.

Directors of the association are the presidents of the twelve local units including: Kenneth Caskey Tweed; R. E. Drope, Harwood; E. L. Anderson, Campbellford; J. S. Macklin, Cobourg; D. Turney, Brighton; F. H. Hubbs, Picton; Ross Stevens, Bowmanville.

Directors for the Shorthorn breeders are Russell Osborne of Newcastle and John Lean, Cobourg.

ROTARY CLUB SPEAKER

James D. Moore, of Ottawa, pjublic relations officer of the Canadian Boys' and Girls' Club Council, will be the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon here Monday. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore, of Smith. This is the first event of rural interest that may be listed for next week.

Durham Shorthorn breeders are holding their annual sale Monday at Blackstock. They are consigning nine bulls and 23 females. John Baker, of Hampton, is president. Breeders represented in the catalogue include C. H. Mumford, Earl Osborne, Garnet Rickard, Mr. Baker, W. F. Rickard and Son.

CHEESE BOARD TREASURER

The late J. J. Breckenridge of Asphodel was for years treasurer of the Peterborough Cheese Board, salesman for Westwood factory of which he was the leading patron, treasurer of his township, and gave a life time of good citizenship to his community. He had lived in recent years at Hastings.

"He was a fine man" was the tribute of G. A. Gillespie who used to be a buyer on the cheese board. "In all the time I knew him, Mr. Breckenridge sent the largest quantity of milk to Westwood factory." That recollection goes back to the turn of the century.

Other salesmen for county factories, in the great days of the Peterborough board were, James Drummond, representing Keene factory; William Anderson, father of W. A. Anderson, salesman for Shearer factory; Ed Hawthorne for Warsaw factory; Andrew Young for Central Smith; William Hanna of Fleetwood in the Manvers area, and various others. Mr. Hawthorne was chairman of the board for a considerable time.

✦ ✦ ✦

ANNUAL AT MAPLE

Annual meeting of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association will begin at 1.30 p.m. at Maple Tuesday. Voting delegates from this area are Stuart Whittington and Harry Kennedy. Appointed to attend the meeting as representatives of the Peterborough branch are Wellington Sutton, Gordon Staples and Norman McConkey.

Victoria Shorthorn breeders are sending 22 animals to their sale at Lindsay Tuesday at 1.30. Thirteen are males and nine females. John A. Bent, of Omemee, is president.

✦ ✦ ✦

CLUB LEADERS MEET

Morning and afternoon sessions have been planned for the club leaders' training at the Normal School Friday. The junior farmers, who are giving valuable assistance in clubs for boys and girls, will be here from nine counties, from Ontario county on the west to Lennox-Addington on the east.

Speakers will be E. F. Pines, Ottawa, of the Federal Department of Agriculture; A. M. Barr, Toronto, assistant director of extension with the Ontario department; and James D. Moore, of Ottawa. In one respect this is a refresher course for the juniors of Central Ontario who are volunteer aids in the important enterprise of junior club work.

Saturday, March 31, is girls' club achievement day at the YMCA directed by Miss Jean Noble, of Bowmanville, district home economist.

✦ ✦ ✦

HOLSTEIN CLUB DINNER

Major event of the week is the dinner of Peterborough Holstein Club Wednesday evening at Club Aragon. The guest speaker is Monsignor M. M. Coady, of the extension department of St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S.

Thursday at 1.30 p.m. warble fly control inspectors appointed by Peterborough townships are meeting with reeves and other municipal officers at the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

R. H. Graham and Ed Starr of the department and Prof. Baker of the entymology department of OAC will explain the details of policy and practice to the inspectors who will supervise the first campaign against warbles in this county. After the office meeting there will be a spraying demonstration at the farm of Don Deyell south of the city, in Otonabee.

WHEAT CHAMPION

Harry Jackson, of Emily township, won the winter wheat championship at Quinte Seed Fair last week with his exhibit of Dawson's Golden Chaff.

Mel McHolm, of Port Hope, took the barley title with Barboff; Alex Martin, Newcastle, won the oats award with Larain. Potato champion was Milton Weatherilt, of Bethany.

Mr. McHolm was awarded the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' special for most prize money in the open grain classes.

In the junior farmers' seed judging competition, Hastings county team placed second, 30 points behind the Durham winners. Juniors were required to judge and give reasons on two classes of oats, barley, fall wheat, red clover and alfalfa, and identity twenty weeds.

Cameron Clark On O.A.C. Stage

The evry successful production of Somerset Maugham's popular play, "The Circle," was staged recently at the Ontario Agricultural College by the Students' Union Literary Society.

Cameron Clark of Peterborough, second year degree student at the Ontario Agricultural College, makes clear to his wife Lady Kitty, played by Esme Wood (right) of Quebec City, that he does not like people who converse while they play bridge. On the right is Fran Gosnell of Highgate and John Lindley of Burlington.

Mr. Clark is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Clark of Smith Township.

F. B. BLACK FACE BURKE, a purebred Holstein owned by Fox Bros., Guelph, Ont., is now the holder of a Canadian Record for milk production that was broken twice within a month after standing for 18 years. Back in 1933, Banostine Alcartra Norine, owned by E. L. Sweet, Belmont, Ont., established a record of 19,411 lbs. milk in the junior four-year-old class of the 305 day division on twice-a-day milking which was not beaten until less than a month ago when Dora Alcartra, owned by Arthur Millington, Medicine Hat, Alberta, raised it to 19,472 lbs. Now Black Face increased it to 20,077 lbs. milk containing 711 lbs. fat (3.54%). At the halter is Ted Fox.

CHAMPION'S RATIONS

F. B. Black Face Burke, new Holstein champion in the junior four-year-old in the 305 day division has never been hand milked, and is one of 20 cows machine milked by one man without stripping. She has raised the championship mark in her class to 20,077 lbs. of milk on twice-a-day milking. She produced 711 lbs. of fat, her average test being 3.54 per cent. Her best day was 90 lbs. of milk. Owners are Fox Brothers of Guelph.

Charles Fox says Black Face was fed the same as the other cows—a meal mixture of oats, barley, bran, brewers grains and linseed oil cake meal, with her highest day's rations not exceeding 20 pounds. The highest milkers were fed choice second cut alfalfa, and she ate a lot of it. She also had roots and dried beet pulp, and pastured with the rest of the herd in the summer.

Sale Of Dawes Percherons 'Amazing' To Hugh Stewart

Dawes Brewery of Montreal have sold their famous Percheron stallions which were displayed but not in competition at exhibitions and larger fairs across Canada. One purpose of this stud was to improve the quality of heavy draft horses in Quebec. Gilbert Arnold of Grenville, Que., has resold two, and intends to disperse the others as individuals.. Dawes stallions were seen at Peterborough Exhibition and the Kinsmen horse show.

"That amazes me," Hugh Stewart commented to the Examiner today. "It is only last fall that Dawes bought one of the high-class type of Percherons they made famous. If it had been two or five years ago, I might readily understand it, but not now when horses are coming back.

"We are selling an average of 30 a week, of all kinds. Some of them are good farm teams, others for commercial use, such as city delivery, and some are for bush work. I could name Peterborough and district people who have been recent buyers. Here's another example. We have usually had a lull in business in January, but not this year. Demand carried on through the turn of the year. I know people in Montreal who have carried on a big business in horses. Last year they were thinking of closing their stables. Right now they are begging for horses.

"Last week two men from Ottawa and Carleton Place went down to Montreal each to buy a truckload of horses. Instead of finding 300, there were only three available. The story at the stable was that they were catering only to regular customers who had staved with them through the dull times. That night when Tom Miller got back to Carleton Place he telephoned me. I sent him a truckload the next day, and another load since then.

"Demand is right down the line for saddle, commercial, medium and heavy horses. I am saying that because it is true, and not because I am in the business.

"I am specially surprised because when I was talking to Mr. Dawe at the Royal, he did not mention anything about thinking of selling his black Percherons. But, I understand that some of the good men they had working for them have gone elsewhere. That might be a factor.

"Incidentally, Mr. Dawe told me that it cost him more to keep up their advertising billboards than did their big stable. They used pictures of their horses in advertising, but wind and other destruction compelled them to keep a repair gang.

"The fact about the business is that the market has been picking up at a surprising rate. Horses are coming back."

Wins Acquittal Woman Insane

OWEN SOUND, March 22 (CP) —A 26-year-old woman Wednesday was acquitted of murder in the death of her five-months-old son, whose body was found face-down in a bucket of water last Nov. 7.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury ruled that Mrs. Joan Mary Marchello was insane at the time of slaying. She will be held at the Ontario hospital at London, where she has been a patient since the death of her son, Edward.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, who presided at the trial, said the verdict was a proper one.

At Mrs. Marchello's two-day trial, Dr. Charles Gaviller, Owen Sound coroner, said he examined the woman a few minutes after the child's body was found.

"It was my opinion then, and it still is, that she was insane," he said.

C. C. Middleboro, crown attorney, said his task was "unfortunate". There was no question as to the woman's mental condition.

COMPLETE RUIN—Seven children died in this house on the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford, Ont., when fire destroyed the building. Six brothers and sisters, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Henry and a crippled cousin, ranging in age from 18 months to 16, died. Another brother, Marvin, 14, survived when he jumped through a bedroom window and told the others to follow him. A gas stove left on may have started the fire.

Marketing Board Approves Prices

TORONTO, March 22 (CP) — An arbitration board's recommendations on grower prices and terms of contract for 1951 on tomatoes, green peas and sweet corn for processing have been approved by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, it was announced Wednesday.

At the same time the board announced it has approved recommendations of a negotiating committee on prices and terms for sale of asparagus.

This year's minimum price for No. 1 tomatoes will be $3[illegible] a ton compared with $26.85 last year; for No. 2 $22 a ton compared with $16.85, and for ungraded tomatoes, $27 as against $21.85.

The green pea price will be $85 a ton for No. 1 compared with $75 last year and the sweet corn minimum will be $23 compared with $18.75 a year ago.

Grade A asparagus will sell for a minimum of 21 cents a pound, 1½ cents above last year while the price of grade B will be up one cent to 15 cents a pound.

Raise Tuition Fees

EDMONTON, March 22 (CP) —An increase of about 20 per cent in all tuition fees at the University of Alberta because of rising costs was anounced Wednesday by President Andrew Stewart. The increase takes effect immediately. Mr. Stewart said there are indications several other universities across Canada soon will announce similar increases.

Seek Recruiting Plan

HAMILTON, March 22 (CP)—Members of the Hamilton police commission met Wednesday with deputy commissioner Arthur Moss of the Ontario Provincial Police in attempt to find a formula for opening up recruiting for the police force here. Hamilton needs 46 new policemen but is hampered by the rigid physical standards, Mayor Jackson said.

SOLE SURVIVOR — Marvin Henry, 14, was the only survivor from a fire which took the lives of three of his brothers, three sisters and a cousin. The seven children died when fire swept through a house on the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford, Ont. Marvin suffered minor burns and cuts after jumping from a bedroom window. He broke five windows to give the others a chance to escape, but they were trapped.

Turn Cells Into Cozy Bedrooms

VANCOUVER (CP)—The last prison bars in Vancouver's juvenile detention home are due for the scrap heap when workmen convert the last two cells to cosy, chintz-curtained bedrooms.

The change in appearance reflects the change in the attitude toward juvenile detention.

Assistant Superintendent Joe Keys puts it this way:

"You take a badly scared kid who has just been grilled by the police and throw him into a bare room filled with unsupervised toughs and he'll do anything he can to get back at society by making life tough for you."

"But put him in a well-furnished, bright recreation room with plenty to do and he'll think twice before he carves his name on the wall."

Kiwanians in suburban Kerrisdale put 11 months of hard work and $1,500 into the project and found it paid off in scores of young lives filled again with hope.

Loss On Daffodils

VICTORIA, B.C., March 22 (CP)—The 90 daffodil growers on Southern Vancouver Island will lose thousands of dollars this week because their flowers will not bloom in time for shipment to Eastern Canada for Easter. The daffodil crop is normally worth $300,000. Last year the growers lost about $100,000 because of unusually cold weather in March. Only 10 per cent of the crop will be ready in time.

Caught In Ice

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 22 (AP) —The 5,000-ton lakes freighter Perseus became stuck Wednesday in Lake Erie ice one-half mile outside Buffalo harbor. The steamship rammed at an ice barrier for more than five hours before giving up the battle. Nicholson Transit Co., owners, said the Perseus probably will make no further effort to free herself until winds shift and loosen the ice.

25 School Boys Smash Old Civic Hospital Fixtures On $2,000 Spree

City Council Holds Emergency Session Decides To Prosecute, To Ask Parents Pay As Much As Possible

Some 25 primary school-boy vandals have gone on a destructive smashing spree in the old Civic Hospital over the past two weeks, breaking windows, light fixtures, glass partitions, yanking window shades down and strewing broken glass, papers, burnt matches, firecrackers and debris of all sorts throughout the second and third floors of the building. Damage has been unofficially set at about $2,000 in the old hospital which the city owns until June 1.

Thursday afternoon the City Council held an emergency committee session to decide what action should be taken concerning the boys that city police have rounded up. The aldermen passed a motion asking that Chief Constable John Thompson make every effort to prosecute every one of the boys responsible, and that the boys' parents be asked to pay for as much of the damage as possible.

Didn't Know Names

The boys will probably end up in juvenile court. They range in age from eight to 14. The Council acted without knowing the name of one of the boys. They decided that it would be better if they reached their decision without knowing who were responsible. They are pupils of three schools, Queen Alexandra, Queen Elizabeth and St. Anne's.

Mayor Max J. Swanston said damage to public property, including schools, park buildings, exhibition ground buildings and others was getting out of hand, and it was time parents found out where their boys were spending their evenings and what they were doing.

The destruction came to light when a private citizen happened to learn from one of the boys

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH of damage by young vandals to the interior of the old Nicholls Hospital was discovered by the City Police on Thursday. Floors of all hallways and rooms were littered with broken glass, electric light fixtures were torn from ceilings. Propose Return Of O'Dwyer From Mexico

WASHINGTON, March 24 — (AP)—Senator Charles Tobey (Rep., N.H.) proposed Thursday that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee inquire whether William O'Dwyer should remain as U.S. ambassador to Mexico in view of testimony in the Senate's crime investigation.

He also suggested that the life of the investigation committee be prolonged 60 days in order to clean up loose ends of its inquiry. The committee's life is limited to March 31 under present Senate authorization.

Two congressional committees already have asked federal prosecutors and tax collectors to study sharply conflicting testimony concerning O'Dwyer for any evidence of perjury or tax evasion. A leader of a New York firemen's union said he gave the former New York mayor $10,000 in cash. O'Dwyer denied it.

Tobey predicted at a press conference that O'Dwyer's status as ambassador might be brought up before the foreign relations committee, which only a few months ago approved his appointment.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.) of the foreign relations committee said it had no plans to restudy the O'Dwyer nomination, but he declined further comment.

Tobey said the question of whether O'Dwyer should resign is in the hands of the president. He added: "You know what I would do if I were president."

O'Dwyer said this week it is up to his superiors to make any such decision.

2 'Dead' Fliers Have Reunion

SUDBURY, March 24—(SP)—Two "dead" fliers had a chat Friday. They hadn't met since 1944.

As far as Oliver Korpela was concerned his buddy, Lloyd Baines, was long ago buried. Baines figured the same of Korpela.

Both were with the RCAF during the Second World War. Baines was shot down and Air Force officials reported him "missing, presumed dead." Ditto for Korpela, two months later. However, both were captured and lodged in separate prisoner-of-war camps.

Baines learned that his chum was alive when he made a business trip here recently. They arranged the get-together in the town of Kormack, 120 miles northwest of here.

BrokeOpen Guay Case Quebec Reporter Dies

QUEBEC, March 24. (CP)—Edmond Chasse, 64, veteran Quebec newspaperman, often called "French-Canada's best reporter," died in hospital today after a brief illness.

Mr. Chasse entered Ste. Therese de L'Enfant Jesus Hospital a few days ago after reporting the Quebec Legislature session for Le Canada, Montreal daily newspaper.

He underwent two operations and died early this morning.

Last year he won recognition for the Quebec scoop of the half-century. Toronto Men's Press Club awarded him its $400 prize and bronze medal for 1949's best Canadian example of spot news reporting.

The prize-winning story, written in September, 1949, reported that a "mystery woman" had carried a fragile parcel to a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane that crashed Sept. 13 at nearby Sault au Cochon with loss of 23 lives.

Mr. Chasse's report, first published in Le Canada and widely-reproduced, broke open Quebec's infamous airline time-bomb case that brought J. Albert Guay to the gallows and death sentences for two accomplices.

Federal Wheat Settlement Inadequate Coldwell Says

TORONTO, March 24—(CP) — M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, today called the government's $65,000,000 appropriation for western Canadian wheat growers "an inadequate compensation."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the C.C.F. provincial convention here, Mr. Coldwell said, "the rising costs of living and production have created hardships for the Canadian people and disappointments for Canadian wheat producers."

He said the government is making an "inadequate payment to the five-year (wheat) pool, which instead of the expected 5 to 25 cents additional payment to the pool, works out at 8.3 cents (a bushel)."

Mr. Coldwell referred to the agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada on the purchase of wheat by the United Kingdom.

"At the time this agreement was made in 1946, in reply to a suggestion I made in the debate, the minister of agriculture stated that, if the costs of production rose, a compensatory adjustment could be made from the federal treasury to the prairie wheat farmers."

Last May 22, he said, the minister of trade and commerce met Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer in London "where it was agreed Mr. Howe would bring back to Canada an agreed document stating that the agreement had been fulfilled.

On June 5, 1950, Mr. Howe intimated to the House an agreement had been reached. Because wheat growers were "disappointed" that no further substantial payment from the five year pool was to be forthcoming, Mr. Howe returned to England in February, 1951, "in an attempt to re-open a matter which had been settled on May 30, 1950."

Prarie farmers are not "raiding" the federal treasury, Mr. Coldwell said.

"They are asking for compensation that was promised them during the lifetime of the wheat agreement."

Varsity Race Called Off When Oxford Boat Sinks

LONDON, March 24. (Reuters) — The historic Oxford-Cambridge boat race was called off today when the Oxford boat became waterlogged and sank before one-quarter of the winding Thames River course had been rowed. The umpire, Bishop George Wilson, an old Oxford oarsman, declared the event "no race" just before the smooth-stroking Cambridge crew reached the one-mile post. It also was shipping water heavily.

Cambridge was able to row back to shore but the Oxford crew had to swim for it.

A strong wind that whipped up a chop on the rain-swollen river wrote finis to the rowers' hopes. The winners would have gone to the United States to compete against American crews.

Happened In 1912

Providing river authorities approve, another attempt at the race will be made Monday at 2.30 GMT (9.30 a.m. EST). This follows the precedent set in 1912, when both boats sank, and the event was rowed again, ending in an Oxford victory.

It was the first time since 1912 that the race had been called off because of the weather.

Despite the choppy water, the lighter Cambridge crew got away smoothly, drawing rapidly ahead of Oxford, which was soon in difficulties, but Cambridge too was forced to give up before completing one mile of the 4¼-mile course.

The Oxford crew, including their American cox — George Carver of Highstown, N.J.—had to swim to shore from their waterlogged shell.

Have No Accident But Two Killed

PORT ARTHUR, March 24 — (CP)—Two railway crew members were killed Friday, victims of an accident that didn't take place.

The men — engineer T. Lyng Cosgrove, 39, and Fireman Nelson West, 28, were riding in the engine of a Canadian Pacific Railway train at Ripple Siding, 150 miles east of here. They saw a freight train on the same track, and apparently thinking an accident inevitable, applied the brakes on their train and jumped.

They struck icy snow banks and slid helplessly into the path of their own train. Another crewman who jumped with them, John McIsaacs, is in serious condition in hospital at Terrace Bay, Ont. All three are from Schreiber, Ont.

George Birch, also of Schreiber, stayed with the Diesel locomotive. It rolled to a stop two car-length from the freight train and Birch was uninjured.

Report Trio Attempts Enter Costello Apt.

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—Police reported three men, one of them armed, failed to gain entry today to the apartment of gambler Frank Costello, a witness this week at the senate crime committee hearings in New York.

Costello was not at home. He had told the committee he usually kept $40,000 to $50,000 in cash in the apartment, located on the 18th floor of a building overlooking Central Park.

Police said the men forced an elevator operator to take them to the apartment but did not indicate what they wanted.

After failing to gain entry, the three returned to the first floor and fled in an automobile driven by a fourth man.

Argentina Claims New Atom Production

BUENOS AIRES, March 24—(AP)—President Juan D. Peron announced today that Argentina has produced atomic energy by a new method unknown to other countries.

Peron told a press conference that through "thermonuclear reactions" Argentine scientists Feb. 15 obtained the "controlled release of atomic energy."

He said successful experiments took place at the government's atomic energy pilot plant at Huemul Island, near the Chilean border about 850 air miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Christians Ready To Celebrate Easter Day

By The Associated Press

Christians of the old and the new world prepared today to celebrate the Easter miracle of the risen Christ in sunrise services, pontifical masses and pilgrimages to holy places.

A record number of pilgrims attended services and visited shrines in the drought-parched holy land.

In a world beset with anxiety, prayers for peace dominated the 1951 Easter observances.

Churches—both Protestant and Roman Catholic—were crowded throughout Canada and the United tSates Friday for solemn Good Friday services. Stock exchanges were closed in most countries including Canada.

Shops were filled with last-minute buyers of Easter finery in the United States where, unlike Canada, Good Friday is not a statutory holiday.

Eye On Weather

In New York—filled with an influx of visitors—a close watch was kept on weather prospects for the annual Fifth Avenue Easter parade, which will be televised.

In Jerusalem, before the door of the darkened basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, the Easter theme of the rebirth of Christ was enacted with the traditional lighting of "The New Easter Fire." Sparks struck from flint and steel ignited wood and kindling in a brazier which in turn will be used to light ceremonial candles and sanctuary lamps darkened over Good Friday.

The Holy City, crowded with pilgrims, ended its traditional Holy Week services of mourning Friday night and prepared for the joyous Feast of the Resurrection. Pontifical High Mass in the basilica Sunday morning will be attended by diplomats in formal attire.

Thousands made the Good Friday journey in the footsteps of Christ through the winding cobblestoned streets of the old walled city, the storied last journey to Calvary.

Plane Missing Spot Oil Slick

BUFFALO, NY, March 24. (AP) —A civil air patrol pilot searching for a private Cessna plane missing since early Friday reported Friday night he saw an oil slick on Lake Ontario six miles east of Sodus Point.

Wesley Tuxhill of Geneva, NY, said the oil was about 200 yards long.

Authorities said a twin-engine amphibious Albatross plane from the First Air Rescue Service at Westover Field, Mass., would search the scene of the oil slick early today if weather permits.

The missing single engine plane was on a flight from Hartford, Conn., to Detroit, Mich., when it disappeared.

Fire Threatens Block

SARNIA, March 24 (CP)—Fire threatened to destroy the north section of the Front Street business section here today. Breaking out in the basement of a pet shopt shortly before 8:30 a.m., it swept rapidly through the apartments above and into an adjacent knitting shop, while heavy smoke filled adjacent stores and offices. The fire was fanned by a 30-mile-an-hour wind and off-duty firemen were called out to quell the blaze.

MacArthur Offers Talk Peace

Orders UN Troops To Cross 38th If Found Necessary

TOKYO, March 24. (AP) — Gen. MacArthur today offered to discuss peace with the Communist commander in Korea and ordered United Nations troops to cross Parallel 38 if necessary.

MacArthur issued his offer and order as advancing Allied forces stamped out almost the last organized Red resistance south of the border between the Republican south and Communist north.

A Good Friday parachute drop aided in routing the Reds from their last sizable area in South Korea.

"I stand read at any time to confer, in the field with the commander-in-chief of the enemy forces in the earnest effort" to settle U.N. political objectives in Korea and end the fighting, MacArthur said. He issued his statement before he flew to Seoul Saturday on his 14th visit to the fighting front.

On his return to Tokyo, MacArthur told correspondents that he had directed the U.S. Eighth Army to cross the parallel "if and when its security makes it tactically advisable."

Thoroughly Discussed

The United Nations commander said the status of the old dividing line between North and South Korea has been "thoroughly discussed in recent statements from Washington, London and other capitals.

"No further comment would seem to be necessary . . ."

The top commander said "everything goes well at the front."

MacArthur said there was no heavy ground fighting at present and "our troops maintain the initiative and the enemy continues to withdraw."

He said Korea south of the 38th parallel is "substantially clear of enemy forces."

"Everywhere there is a quickening effort at rehabilitation and reconstruction."

War-shattered Seoul, he said, "is beginning to resume some evidences of life."

Car Hits Truck Nurse Killed

OTTAWA, March 24. (CP) — Victim of an Easter weekend highway accident, Margaret Jean Robertson, a Toronto nurse died in hospital here Friday night.

She was fatally injured early today when an automobile in which she was riding sideswiped a stalled truck during a snowstorm and crashed into a tree 18 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Three other people in the car were injured. They are: Lawrence Campion, 21, driver of the car; his mother, Mrs. Mary Campion and a sister, Elizabeth, all of Toronto.

Hospital authorities said the Campions are not severely injured.

His Lucky Day

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP) — Juan Santiago attended a party in Upper Manhattan early today; then went with several others to the roof of the six-storey building to cool off. Police said the 28-year-old seaman wandered a bit too close to the roof ledge and toppled off. On his way down he hit two fire escapes and a clothes line before crashing into a courtyard. Injuries: not even a broken bone.

One Rail Union Orders 65,000 Back To Work

PARIS, March 24 — (AP). — One of France's non-Communist unions ordered its 65,000 railroad workers back to the job today after receiving wage increases from the government.

Another non-Communist union announced, however, that contrary to a government announcement, it had not yet accepted the latter's terms and consequently was not ordering its 65,000 workers back.

The Socialist Labor Federation, Force Ouvriere, accepted the agreement providing for a minimum wage increase of 1,800 francs ($5.15) a month.

The Confederation of Christian Workers said it had not accepted this and would confer with government negotiators again.

Despite this delay, French observers said the end seemed in sight for France's week-long wave of strike, unless the Communists succeed in pushing their adherents on with further walkouts.

Avoid Dealing With Reds

Government negotiators have avoided sitting down with the Communist - led Confederation Generale du Travail, which controls some 300,000 rail workers.

However, the CGT has, thus far, let the non-Communist unions take the initiative in the current walkouts.

The wage increases for railroad workers are said to be applicable to striking Paris transport workers. Representatives of the bus and subway workers are due to confer with government officials during the day.

The government also has given striking gas and electricity workers a 10 per cent increase and non-Communist unions have ordered these workers back to the job.

India's Atomic Pile To Aid Experiments

NEW DELHI, March 24 (AP)—Construction of a small atomic pile for experimental purposes, and for making radioactive isotopes is the immediate object of the Indian Atomic Energy Commission.

This announcement was made in parliament today by Sri Prakasa, minister for natural resources and scientific development.

Reviewing the work of the Indian commission, he said a factory capable of processing 1,500 tons of monazite annually was under construction in southwest India.

B-29 Reports Sighting Liferafts

40 Planes, 5 Ships Search Waters Off Ireland's Coast

SHANNON, Republic of Ireland, March 24. (AP)—Forty planes criss-crossed the cold waters of the Atlantic today in a hunt for a giant United States Air Force transport with 53 persons aboard. They were spurred by a report that "quite a few" life rafts had been sighted in the search area.

Five ships were also steaming full speed for the area about 450 miles west of Ireland.

An NBC broadcast from London quoted the British Admiralty as source for information that survivors already were being picked up. The Admiralty denied it had issued such a report. It could not be confirmed by the U.S.Navy in London or the U.S. Air Force mission at Shannon, either.

Sights Liferafts

A B-29 pilot, in two dramatic radio messages, reported sighting flares, wreckage or life rafts in four different locations in the general search area. His plane was not equipped to drop lifeboats or provisions but several others in the area were.

American, British and Irish airplanes joined in one of history's greatest sea hunts. Aboard the missing plane which disappeared in fog and rain early Friday were Brig. Gen. Paul T. Cullen, deputy commander of the U.S. Second Air Force, and four officers of the strategic air command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

One B-29 pilot returned to rescue headquarters at Shannon saying he had sighted nothing in the area where the wreckage and rafts had been reported. Air force officials said drift or navigational errors could account for the discrepancy.

The pilot who had made the first report had not yet returned to Shannon.

Visibility was good today but the sea was rough. Air force officials feared that survivors might

Army's Guns Encircle Manila

MANILA, March 24 (AP) — The Philippine army drew a circle of steel around Manila today to protect the city from Hukbalahap (Communist) raiders who have killed 21 soldiers and civilians, wounded 11 and kidnapped seven civilians during the last 48 hours.

Thirty-nine Huks have been killed in the same period.

The American embassy warned all United States citizens to seek a place of safety. A similar warning was issued to all foreign nationals by Brig.-Gen. Calixto Duque of the Philippine army.

Approaches to the city were ringed with machine-guns.

Army authorities believe the recent Huk raids are only preliminary moves. They expect a general offensive next week when the Huks celebrate the ninth anniversary of their founding as an anti-Japanese guerrilla band.

Oh, what a blamed uncertain thing
This pesky weather is;
It blew and snew and then it thew,
And now, by jing, it's friz—

Compromise Ends Milk Strike

Walkout Called Off After All-Night Meeting With Daley

TORONTO, March 24. (CP) —Normal milk delivery resumed this morning for the first time since Thursday when 1,700 dairy employees went on strike.

None of the dairies deliver milk on Sunday, but V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said Friday night he thought there would be little difficulty meeting Toronto's weekend milk demands with the Saturday delivery.

The more than 1,000,000 residents of greater Toronto use about 960,000 gallons a day.

The strike, first in Toronto's history, lasted barely 30 hours. It ended shortly before noon Friday when dairy employees voted 787 to 156 in favor of a compromise settlement of their wage dispute with the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association.

Settlement of the $6-a-man deadlock over retroactive pay, which precipitated the walkout, was worked out in an all-night meeting of union and dairy representatives with Labor Minister Charles Daley.

A $3 weekly wage increase was agreed on by both parties Wednesday after the new Ontario Milk Control Board authorized an interim increase in the price of delivered milk from 20 to 20½ cents a quart.

At the outset, dairies were willing to make the boost effective March 1, as recommended by a conciliation board. The Milk Drivers' Union (AFL), however, held out for Oct. 1, 1950.

Compromise Made

During all-night negotiations, distributors set their date back to Dec. 15; the union moved theirs ahead to Dec. 1. The strike began when neither side would bridge the two-week gap.

Under the settlement terms, the men will get back pay immediately to Dec. 15.

Should the board grant the dairies a requested further half-cent increase April 15, the $3 pay increase will be made retroactive to Oct. 1, 1950. If the board turns down the milk price boost, the men will receive $6 each next March 1, making the increase retroactive to Dec. 1.

Mr. Milburn said milk concentrates took up the slack when truckers were unable to bring in the city's supply of fresh milk Thursday. Farmers, meanwhile, held their milk in coolers on their farms or turned it over to processors.

2 inches snow.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at 9:30 a.m. EST today:

Synopsis:

Rain and scattered thunderstorms were general across southern regions of Ontario Friday night. Snow and freezing rain fell in northern Lake Huron and southern Georgian Bay regions and heavy snow and blowing snow was reported in the Sudbury and North Bay districts.

The disturbance that was located over Missouri Friday morning intensified and moved across Lake Huron Friday night as an energetic storm centre. In the wake of this storm cold air from Northern Ontario is pushing southward bringing colder weather with snowflurries to Southern Ontario.

Easter Sunday will be cold throughout Ontario. Some snowflurry activity will likely continue in areas near Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, but elsewhere over the province gradual clearing is expected. Winds which range up to 65 miles per hour near the storm centre will diminish Sunday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Sunday.

Lake Ontario and Niagara regions; Toronto and Hamilton cities:

Cloudy with a few light snowflurries today. Cloudy Sunday, clearing by late afternoon. Colder tonight and Sunday. Winds west 35 today diminishing to 20 this evening, west 20 Sunday. Low tonight and high Sunday at St. Catharines and Toronto 20 and 30, Hamilton and Trenton 15 and 25.

Summary for Sunday: Cold, clearing late afternoon.

Haliburton region:

Cloudy today and Sunday. Snow mixed with freezing rain ending about noon today. Snowflurries beginning this evening becoming widely scattered after midnight tonight. Colder tonight and Sunday. Winds east 25, shifting to west 35 this evening, northwest 20 Sunday. Low tonight and high Sunday at Killaloe 15 and 25.

3 Choirs Give "Holy City"

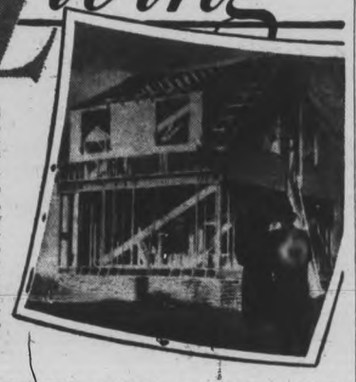
Three United Church choirs combined Good Friday evening under the direction of Harry Northrop to present Arthur Gaul's cantata "The Holy City" in George Street Church. A large audience heard this tuneful sacred work given as a climax to Good Friday devotions. The choirs taking part were Mark Street, St. Andrew's and George Street. Charles Allen was at the console of the organ.

The choral work was impressive and well-balanced, and in some parts movingly eloquent. As may be expected from soloists of the calibre of Mrs. James Goldie, soprano, the solos and part-singing were interpretatively satisfying. Tenor was William Peltz, contralto Mrs. Chester Carson and bass Robert Aspinall.

This work is in the Victorian tradition of anthems and cantatas, whose most notable exponent was Stainer. It has a superficial fluency and makes a direct appeal to religious sentiment. It was first performed at the Birmingham Festival in 1882. Its revival in Peterborough last night was interesting and worthy.

Claims Car Stolen Front End Smashed

Cecil Montgomery, 19 Lisburn St., told police Good Friday morning was a bad one for him. Somebody had taken his car out after he came home from a party and had smashed the front end.



He told Acting Sergeant Claire McGillen and PC V. A. McConnell that he and his wife had visited a Mill St. family Thursday night. He'd taken a few drnks and returned early Friday morning.

The officers looked at the damaged car and found only one set of tire marks leading to where it was parked. Checking the area, they found a hydro pole on Moir St. that had been hit by a car. Moir St. was on the homeward route Montgomery told police he had taken.

Worker Knocked Out

Knocked out when he was unloading rails at the CPR station Friday, Harold Peters, 23, of 185 Dalhousie St., was taken to Civic Hospital. He was released Friday afternoon with bruises to his jaw. The bar Peters was using to unload rails had slipped and hit him on the jaw.

MAKING THE BEST OF Living

By careful planning and saving, this young couple built the house of their dreams with the help of Canada's largest home-loaning institution, the Sun Life of Canada. Furthermore, at small additional cost, they wisely protected their investment with a Sun Life Mortgage Protection policy which, should the husband die before the home is paid for, instantly clears all remaining mortgage indebtedness.

$2,100 Damage, None Injured In 4 Accidents

More than $2,100 damage was caused to cars involved in four accidents on local highways late Thursday night and Good Friday. Slushy road surfaces and poor visibility were contributing factors.

There were no injuries.

Six airmen, stationed at Rockcliffe, narrowly escaped injury Thursday night when their car rolled over in the ditch eight miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28.

The driver, Lawrence H. Orr, was blinded by the lights of northbound motor traffic coming toward him. He ran onto the shoulder of the road and the out-of-control car rolled over in the ditch. Damage to the car was $900.

Provincial Constable J. G. Healey investigated.

Mrs. Kenneth Lowther, 543 Water St., was shaken up severely Friday night when her husband's car rolled over twice on Highway 7, eight miles east of Peterborough.

Mr. Lowther was driving toward Peterborough when the car wheels briefly slipped off the paved surface of the highway. The car went into a spin, crossed the road to the south ditch and rolled over twice, coming to rest on its left side. Damage was $300.

Three cars collided late Friday night on the Indian River bridge causing $750 damage.

Frank Carpenter, 58, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was driving east and he slid on the slushy pavement and collided with the left front of the oncoming car of Harvey Edward O'Neil, 25, Toronto.

Both vehicles received $350 damage. While the drivers were inspecting the damage a third car, driven by Kenneth Irwin, 32, of Bradford ran into the side of the Carpenter car. Police report visibility at that time was nearly nil.

Irwin's car received about $50 damage.

Provincial Corporal Joseph Hanson and Constable J. G. Healey investigated.

Earlier in the day the cars of Russell Martin, 42, Park St., and Thomas Eakin, 23, also of Peterborough, were in sideswipe collision on Highway 7, four and a half miles east of the city.

Eakin's car received $125 damage, and Martin's $50. Provincial Constable Jack McKendry investigated.

25 School Boys

what was going on. He reported it to city officials and police investigated.

Complete List

They soon rounded up what they believe is an almost complete list of boys who took part in the vandalism.

They learned that about two weeks ago some boys broke into the former hospital by climbing up a series of fire escapes to a copula at the top of the main section of the building. They smashed in a window, frame and all.

Once inside, they discovered a set of keys. One of the keys unlocked a side door. From then on they had a field day. Almost every day after school they went into the building. They didn't touch the first floor. Ground floor windows had been boarded up and the hallways and rooms were dark.

Little Untouched

However, on the second and third floors they left little untouched. You can't take a step in the hallways without crunching bits of broken glass. Everywhere you look there is damage of some sort.

Constables Sherman Keliele and Jack Wilson compiled a list of the damage.

About the third floor they reported: "We found the hall floor was littered with broken glass, burnt matches, firecrackers and various papers. . . . On this floor we found 14 broken light shades and fixtures. There were two broken blinds. Broken windows are as follows: four 12 inches by 16 inches, 10 windows 10 by 12 and six windows 20 by 20."

Second Floor Worse

The second floor was worse. The constables reported:

"On the second floor we found that some pills had been scattered on the floor of one room. The hall floor was littered with broken glass, some of which was one-quarter inch thick. The call system for the nurses was smashed. There were firecrackers, papers and burnt matches on the floor. In the maternity section there was one large window 50 by 36 inches, onequarter inch thick, smashed. In one ward the rods for the bed curtains were pulled from the ceiling in two places. One small cupboard door was torn off.

"One large corrugated glass window 30 by 56 inches and one-quarter inch thick was smashed, also several one-quarter inch thick glass shelves. There were 25 window shades pulled down and crampled. There were 20 light shades in the wards that had been smashed."

84 Windows Broken

Eighty-four windows of all sizes had been broken on the second floor.

Damage to the nurses' residence was slight. Two light fixtures on the outside had been broken and one window on the second floor broken.

A little more damage had been done to the Isolation Hospital. Here nine windows were broken, the coal chute doors broken and a screen door broken.

No Houses Close

Although the boys must have made a good deal of noise as they smashed glass, there were no houses close enough for the noise to be heard.

From now on city police will be visiting the hospital buildings from time to time each day to make certain no one else has gotten in.

Officials of the Pentecostal Tabernacle to whom the former hospital is being sold have been notified of the damage. The city is hiring someone to bring in an independent estimate of the price of the destruction.

Members of the council who attended the emergency meeting were Mayor Swanston, Alderman Norman Graham, Dr. Herbert Young, Hugh Waddell, James Gillespie, Arthur Burrows, Harold Rehill and Patrick Anglesey.

OBITUARIES

PATRICIA ELEANOR PATTE

Patricia Eleanor Patte, aged one month and 22 days, died suddenly on Friday at Oshawa. She was the daughter of John W. Patte and Eleanor Kirn. The body is resting at the Comstock funeral home, where service will be held Monday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican church, will officiate and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. STANLEY AYOTTE

Mrs. Stanley Ayotte of Young's Point died suddenly in hospital on Friday at the age of 40 years. She was born in Peterborough, Beatrice Kathleen, daughter of the late Richard Healey and Adella Sullivan, and before moving to Young's Point 18 years ago, lived in the City.

She leaves her husband, one daughter Patricia, and two sons James and Bernard. There are two sisters, Mrs. James Howden (Helen) of Port Hope and Mrs. Emmett Cavanagh (Florence) and two brothers, Leo and Laverne Healey, all of Peterborough. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Funeral will be held from the Anderson Funeral Home, Lakefield, at 9:40 a.m. on Monday to St. Mary's Church where Requiem Mass will be said at 10 a.m. Burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

MRS. LOUISA HELEN LIPSETT

Formerly of Peterborough and visiting here for the past six weeks, Mrs. Louisa Helen Lipsett, Toronto, died Friday in hospital after a long illness. She was born at Bomanton, the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Lockhart and the late Robert Lockhart. Her husband, George H. Lipsett, predeceased her in 1941.

Formerly a resident of Peterborough, Mrs. Lipsett was educated at PCVS and a member of St. James United Church. Recently she has lived in London and Toronto.

Besides her mother, she is survived by a son, George Elwood of Peterborough, sisters, Mrs. George Goodfellow (Irene), Mrs. Lesley Bristow (Muriel), Mrs. James Anderson (Ella) and Mrs. Merlin Raines (Dorothy), brother Fred Lockhart, all of Peterborough, and brother Stanley Lockhart of Toronto.

The funeral service will be conducted Monday at 2 p.m. at the Kaye Funeral Home by the Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

EVER JOSEPH PETTICREW

Ever Joseph Petticrew, 65, of Hastings died suddenly at his place of business on Thursday. He was born in Ireland, son of the late John Petticrew and Rose Black, and has spent all his life in the Hastings district, coming there as an infant from the Old Land.

Besides his wife, the former Gertrude Kelly, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. James Garvey (Rose) and Miss Mary Gertrude at home and five sons, Anthony and Leo of Hastings and Patrick, James and Paul, all of Toronto.

Mr. Petticrew was a well-known barber in the village and was a member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church and of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Funeral will be held from the family residence on Monday to Mount Carmel Church where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at Mount Carmel cemetery.

MRS. JOHN SCOTT

Mrs. John Scott, 75, of Norwood, died on Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earl Hamblin. She was born in the village, Annie Etta, daughter of the late Robert Bedford Stewart and Angeline Thompson, and except for ten years in the West, lived all her life in Norwood. Her husband predeceased her.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Earl Hamblin (Angeline) of Norwood, and Mrs. Ken Irwin (Florence) of Bradford, and three sons, Raymond of Toronto, Max and Roy Scott, both of Norwood. There are two brothers, Walter Stewart of Stewart Valley, Sask., and Frederick G. Stewart, of Blackfalds, Alta.

While living in the West, Mrs. Scott was a postmistress. She was a member of Norwood United Church and of its Women's Missionary Society.

The body is resting at the home of Mrs. Hamblin and funeral service will be held at the Norwood United Church on Monday at 2 p.m. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley will officiate and burial will be at Norwood cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin who died in hospital on Tuesday was held on Thursday at the Comstock Funeral Home. She was the wife of the late William Irwin. The Rev. Kenneth Stewart assisted by Mr. Samuel Woods, officiated and pallbearers were William Miller, Harry, Fred and Bruce Stewart, Andrew Irwin and Charles Hall. A second service was held at Lakehurst United Church, the same clergy officiating, and burial was at Lakehurst cemetery.

Chapter Masons Honor Two Members

Royal Arch Masons from Ontario district joined with members of Corinthian Chapter in welcoming to Peterborough Clarence M. Pitts, Ottawa, the grand first principal of the Grand Chapter of Canada, on Friday night. Chapters in Cobourg, Colborne, Port Hope, Trenton, Oshawa, Campbellford and Lindsay were represented.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a distinguished service medal (the Victoria Cross of capitular masonry) to Robert Starr and a 50-year jewel to ex-Mayor James Hamilton. The presentations were made by the grand first principal and he was assisted by Fred. J. Johnston, Toronto, the grand scribe E.

Robert Starr has for 25 years been a most faithful and enthusiastic member of Corinthian Chapter. He is only the third Royal Arch Mason to receive the award. It is given to the companion, who although never attaining the high office of first principal, has rendered distinguished service to the chapter. Mr. Starr has for years schooled every man who has entered capitular masonry in Peterborough.

James Hamilton has for 50 years been a member of the chapter, and in a short address following the presentation recalled some of the stalwarts at the time he entered masonry.

Four first principals of sister chapters were introduced by C. V. Elliott, the first principal of Corinthian Chapter, and W. H. Brady, Campbellford, grand superintendent of Ontario district. They were: T. J. Burgess, Ionic Chapter, Campbellford; T. F. Riley, Pentalpha, Oshawa; H. J. Cooey, St. John's, Cobourg, and C. P. McElroy, Victoria, Port Hope.

Following the luncheon, the grand first principal was the main speaker. He was introduced by Ross L. Dobbin. In a short but very instructional address he intimated that while craft masonry taught the brotherhood of man, capitular masonry was the rounding out of man's masonic education in teaching the fatherhood of God.

Royal Arch masonry, he declared, represents the culmination of the masonic story. It is the light that is required to complete a true masonic life.

Dr. J. M. McCulloch presented the speaker with a travelling alarm clock. James Girven proposed the toast to the visitors and this was replied to by the grand scribe E, who told of a recent trip to the Yukon where he visited Royal Arch Masons and installed the officers at the Dawson City and Whitehorse chapters.

perish of exposure before rescue.

The five ships rushring to the scene were the two U.S. military transport vessels, the General Muir and the Golden Eagle, the British submarine Thule and the international weather ships Jig and Charlie. Thule, at last report, was only 40 miles away from the spot where rafts were reported.

The Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth, both in the Atlantic, were not likely to be diverted to the hunt. Cunard Steamship sources said the Queen Mary, en route to New York, was beyond the last reported position of the plane—500 miles southwest of the Irish coast. The Queen Elizabeth, on the way to Southampton, would not have reached the area.

Take Lifeboats

A U.S. Skymaster and a B-17 equipped with lifeboats that could be dropped by parachute flew to the scene from the U.S. air rescue station here. A Superfortress was circling the area and directing other craft.

The missing transport—a Globemaster II—was on a flight from the United States to England. It carried a crew of five and 48 passengers.

The Globemaster was equipped with rafts, flares and other emergency gear. It took off Friday from the Limestone, Me., air base and refuelled at Gander, Nfld.

The plane, capable of carrying 220 troops with full field equipment—has a top speed of 250 miles an hour. An Air Force spokesman in Washington said the transport, which last reported its position 800 miles southwest of Ireland, had fuel for eight hours of flight when it vanished. It is a ship of the Second Strategic Support Squadron at Walker air base, N.M.

Three-Country Search

It was a three-country search with American planes being aided by the RAF and Irish aircraft. Other planes were standing by on airfields as far away as Germany.

Gilmour Church Choir Presents Variety Show

A variety concert was held recently by Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church's choir, conducted by Allan B. Mann.

The program consisted of: solos by Misses Elizabeth Mann and Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Mitchell, Arthur Marshall of Peterborough and Roy Wilfong of Bridgenorth; readings by James Jopling; piano solo, Mrs. Harold Lewis; male quartette composed of Wesley Bell, Kenneth Patton, Harold Lewis and Carman Bell; solo by Miss Lillian McGregor; numbers by the Gilmour Memorial Church choir and a choir composed of the Harrison family.

YMCA Is Not Interested Purely Negative Program

Christian training for adult life played just as an important part of the Young Men's Christian Association program as the name implied, Charles Forsyth, general secretary of the YMCA in Peterborough, told members of the Y's Men's Club at a meeting Thursday night.

There were some critics of the Y who ask why was there a "C" in the name. Mr. Forsyth said the YMCA was trying with a well-rounded program to help young boys in their developing years so that they will grow into Christian citizens, mature mentally, physically and emotionally.

The association was trying to help young men successfull through the weaning process from dependence on their parents to independence and reliance on themselves.

Its aim was to develop an organized democratic program in which young men would learn to direct themselves. It was a program in which young men learned tolerance and how to co-operate with their fellows. It taught them appreciation of spiritual matters.

The Y was not interested in a purely negative program. Many people seemed to think that all that should be done with boys was to keep them out of trouble and the way to do that was to keep them off the streets.

Such a negative attitude merely resulted in their doing what they do on the streets inside somewhere, often where they could do it better.

Learns Through Practise

It did no good to have growing boys merely learn by memorizing what the virtues of living were. They could no more learn to live wholesome Christian lives by learning rules than they could learn to play hockey from reading a book. A boy learns through practice. That held good for learning the Christian skills as it did for learning to play a sport. And in both good coaching was also required.

Young growing boys had seven basic hungers that must be met if they were to develop into healthy, all-round personalities. They were: approval, a sense of belonging, a hero to worship, a feeling of independence, affection, sense of worth and adventure.

These basic needs would be met. It depended on the YMCA among others whether they were satisfied, constructively or destructively.

When they were satisfied destructively the community was plagued with juvenile delinquency. In one way delinquency was merely a perversion of the play habit which was the outcome of boys' needs for danger, daring and activity.

Mr. Forsyth was introduced by Woody Roberts and thanked by Bob Bell. Club president Jack Richardson was chairman of the meeting.

MacArthur

There was no immediate Communist reaction to MacArthur's peace invitation. But the answer might be in the heaviest enemy traffic in months moving toward the front.

Strong American, South Korean, Turkish, British, Belgian and Puerto Rican forces pushed north from a new battleline established Good Friday by a huge landing of 3,300 skytroopers at Munsan. The town was quickly overrun and the new line was set up 20 miles north of Seoul.

All Friday night elements of one South Korean and two American divisions poured through enemy-deserted country to reinforce the paratroopers.

MacArthur emphasized that any peace settlement must fulfill "the political objectives of the United Nations in Korea, to which no nation may justly take exceptions."

Enemy Difficulties

He told the Reds that these were reasons, from the enemy standpoint, for ending "further bloodshed:"

1. The Chinese "human-wave tactics"—using sheer masses of manpower—are a failure. (About 185,000 Reds have been killed or wounded by ground action alone since the Allied offensive began Jan. 25.)

2. Chinese Reds on the front are suffering from supply shortages because their supply lines have been smashed by Allied planes and warship guns.

3. Red China "lacks the industrial capacity to provide adequately many critical items essential to the conduct of modern war."

Baby Band Plans Course In First Aid

The Stewart Hall Baby Band decided at its April meeting at the home of Mrs. L. Massey to hold a six-week first aid course, commencing April 4 in the church hall. President, Mrs. Herbert Cardwell, presided over the business part of the program while the devotions were conducted by Mrs. K. Savigny.

After opening the service with an Easter hymn, the scripture was read by Mrs. E. Hubble, a prayer said by Mrs. G. Oliver, and readings by Mrs. R. Field and Mrs. D. Rose. Many members plan to attend the Baby Band mothers' rally in St. James' United Church on April 18.

Cobourg Man Killed By Car

COBOURG, March 24 (ENS) —Walking across King Street Friday night in the rain, 68-year-old John Manchur was struck by a car driven by Claire Hoskin of Cobourg. He was taken to Cobourg General Hospital where he died a short time later from loss of blood and shock. Deceased sustained chest injuries. The driver of the car was proceeding east and Mr. Manchur was on his way across the street towards the town hall. Apparently he didn't notice the car as he stepped right in front of it.

No charge has been laid.

Deceased was born in the Ukraine, coming to Cobourg with his brother Mike, who survives, in 1925. Constable E. Butler investigated.

Red Patch Club Presented With Charter

Some 75 members of the Red Patch club and their friends were present at the Legion Hall Thursday night to see Mayor Max J. Swanston present the club with its charter from the provincial government.

The charter gives official recognition to the club in Peterborough and also to its 40-acre convalescent camp for veterans now under construction at Eel's Creek in Burleigh township.

"This project deserves the support of ever person in the city and county of Peterborough," said Mayor Swanston. "And I hope the people see that the Red Patch club receives sufficient funds to carry on."

Foundation Laid

At present the foundations have been laid for a main lodge, approximately 40 feet square. It will have three rooms—main room, kitchen and storage room.

By the end of the summer the Red Patchers hope to have half a dozen cabins built at the camp. They will be primarily for club members but other veterans will also be eligible.

"A camp like this has been needed for years," commented Mayon Swanston. "Some of the older boys have been ill and burnt out and they have had no place to go to regain their health."

Before the presentation of the charter President Gil Downer showed colored movies of the campsite.

Five other past presidents were singled out by master of ceremonies Mike Gahagan for their work through the years of the club's existence. They were Bob Hendry, Mel Morrow, Al Wade, Harry Kelsey, and Gordon Wyatt.

Tom Mason of Buckhorn entertained with piano melodies and songs.

Frank Peter King

The Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United church, officiated at the funeral today at the Kaye funeral home of Frank Peter King, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd King, R.R. 6, Peterborough. The child died Friday after a short illness. Also surviving him are his brother and sister, David and Joyce Mary. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

HOG PRICES

STRATFORD, March 24 (CP)— Hog prices were unchanged at $34.50 today. Other markets were not reported.

Easter's message

by Evan B. Johnson

As we see lilies blooming Easter Day
We listen to the redbreast's joyous lay;
And in the hush at dawn hear if we will
The message of the Cross upon the hill;
A message that comes to us every Spring,
As to the altar of our faith we bring
The thankfulness men felt back in that day,
The stone before His tomb was rolled away.

"See How They Run" To Play In Bermuda After Collegiate

That it takes all kinds to make an audience, as well as a world, is something the "See How They Run" company is rapidly learning.

The play is the second of The Theatre Series productions to be brought to Peterborough under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club and will play at the Collegiate Auditorium on March 28th and 29th. They have found that the audiences' reactions, and likes and dislikes, vary strongly from town to town, and that in consequence, they must learn to react to a new audience each night. Now they have the prospect of playing to English and American audiences. After the tour of "See How They Run" they will be part of the group going to Bermuda to play from May to November.

The Theatre Series have arranged to present Canadian talent in Bermuda for nine months of each year. The audiences there come under three groups. The Bermudians, the English, and the Americans, and it is a well known fact that their theatrical tastes vary sharply. This will keep them on their mettle. It is a wonderful opportunity for Canadians, and they intend to make the most of it.

PATRICIA ATKINSON young Canadian comedienne has one of the comedy roles in "See How They Run" which the Rotary Club is sponsoring at the Collegiate Auditorium next Wednesday and Thursday

English Farce

Incidentally "See How They Run," an English farce, is considered funnier than "Arsenic and Old Lace," and is the play that the Governor General said was the funniest play he had ever seen.

The company will be basically the same as in "The Wind and the Rain" with the exception of Kate Reid. Kate has gone to New York for six months study with the well known coach Herbert Berghoff, and will not be back until the summer. David Gardner Katharine Hawtrey, and Pat Atkinson and Cal Whitehead will be amongst those appearing.

The play opens in a small English village. The young vicar has recently married a charming girl a Bishop's niece in fact, and a former actress. By decorating the altar for the Harvest Festival the young wife has upset one of the local matrons who has performed this duty for many years. From this simple opening the play moves swiftly, and the fun develops rapidly, and in no time at all the stage is in complete chaos. Galloping in and out of the four doors we have an actor, the actress, a cockney maid (who has seen too many American movies) four men in clergyman attire, one of whom is an escaped prisoner in disguise, and a Bishop who has arrived for a quiet weekend.

Theatre World (London) wrote: "An apt title for an excellent farce of the most envolved kind. Nor is there any offence in this highly amusing play."

Easter And New Life

By NANCY CLEAVER

Joyce Kilmer wrote this of Easter:

"The air is like a butterfly
With frail blue wings.
The happy earth looks at the sky
And sings."

Whatever the weather, Easter is a time of year which appeals to everyone, young and old! This festival is very early this year. The date always falls on the Sunday after the full moon next after March 21st. The idea behind this is that Easter should be celebrated at the Spring full moon At this time of the Jewish "Pascal" moon, Christ was crucified and rose again from the dead.

There are two theories about the origin of the word Easter. One idea which is advanced by Wheatley is that it is likely derived from the Saxon word "Oster" (to rise) and marks Christ's resurrection. But the historian Bede traced the word to "Eostre", a Saxon goddess whose festival was observed each Springtime. The celebration of Easter is centuries old. Saint Ambrose is known to have written an Easter hymn away back in the fourth century.

Easter eggs are no modern innovation. From earliest time the egg was considered by many people (the Egyptians, Greeks, Persians and Romans), as the emblem of new life The Christians borrowed both the name Easter and the egg symbol. Coloring eggs is also an old practice. The Jews boiled the eggs hard and decorated the shells. Possibly in the first place the Christians colored the eggs to represent the colors of the Spring flowers, but later the eggs were mostly colored red, signifying the blood of Christ.

The Easter bunny, like the Christmas tree, is of Teutonic origin. The hare from ancient times has been a symbol of the moon, possibly because it is a nocturnal animal, coming out to search for food at night. The German children were told that on Easter Eve a white hare would visit each home and leave colored eggs for the children. On our continent the European hare has been changed into a rabbit.

Boys and girls are interested in the origin of customs. Little folk love the gifts of chocolate bunnies at Easter time. Coloring hard boiled eggs or empty shells which have been "blown" with harmless vegetable coloring can provide happy times. The directions are easy to follow and most children like to draw their own designs.

This great festival of the Church should be more than a secular holiday with fun and fellowship for everyone Take your child with you to church on Easter Sunday. A boy or girl misses a great deal who does not sit in a family pew with mother and dad and listen to the joyous music and join in the service on Easter Sunday morning

To the Christian, Easter means Christ's Resurrection and the glad assurance that the soul lives on after death. A child's questions about the end of life, whether asked now or on any occasion should be answered Easter is a good time for a mother and father to discuss their own belief about immortality. They should know their Church's teaching and be sure of their own conviction about its spiritual significance of this Holy Day.

"The Easter morn is sacred
For which each verdant spring
Our faith and hope return to us
Whenever robins sing."

Mrs. George Peoples Norwood WA Guests

NORWOOD, March 24 (ENS) —The Women's Association of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. George Peoples.

The president, Mrs. Armar M. Weir, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Gordon Parker and her group were in charge of the program. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. A. McRoberts, and a reading was given by Mrs. R. Doughty. Miss Pauline Weir took the topic on "Shepherd Life in Palestine."

The group served a dainty lunch.

Honor Family

Mr. and Mrs. Elick Brummel of Dummer Township opened their home to their neighbors in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ford and Cameron before they leave for their new home. The evening was spent in crokinole, checkers and visiting. Mrs. Brummel read an address and presented them with a table lamp.

Charge 6,000 Executed

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 24 (AP).—The Nationalist defence ministry charged Friday that more than 6,000 persons had been executed at Saingtan—birthplace of Chinese communist leader Mao Tze-tung. The ministry said the victims were among more than 30,000 placed in concentration camps in Hunan province. The others will be executed "in due course," it added. The agency repeated a previous charge by the defence ministry that more than 1,000,000 persons already had been executed.

Oppose Move

SIMCOE, March 24 (CP).—The Ontario Flue - Cured Tobacco Marketing Association Thursday named a committee to oppose a move by the Elgin Tobacco Growers' Association, seeking to bring marketing under growers' control. A bitter battle is expected before May, when Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy has agreed to conduct a vote on the controversy.

Hint H-Bomb Tests Planned For Pacific

PEARL HARBOR, March 24—(AP). — New atomic blasts being prepared at the Pacific proving grounds at Eniwetok Atoll probably will have a dual aim. The tests conceivably could involve a primitive type of H-bomb.

According to all indications, they will be the biggest ever tried. Strong suggestions point to both "guinea pig" and "field laboratory" type tests this time.

The 1946 blasts at Bikini were an example of guinea-pig tests. Ships and aircraft were exposed to the blasts to see how badly they could be mauled.

The 1948 Eniwetok tests were in the field-laboratory class. Lt.-Gen. John E. Hull, commander of the A-Bomb Task Force, said after those tests that their main purpose had not been to inflict physical damage but to record effects of the explosions with scientific devices.

CGE Announces Two Promotions

C. S. Johnson and C. D. Heath received promotions this week at the CGE. Mr. Johnson was named general foreman of structural steel department and Mr. Heath left that position to join the general superintendent's staff where he will serve as assistant general superintendent.

Mr. Heath learned his trade as a toolmaker after working for a time in the armature department. He served in the First World War. He began his service in the tool room on January 26, 1928. Later he was appointed foreman of the structural steel department. He held that position until 1941 when he went to the Genelco as assistant superintendent and later as superintendent of the Genelco machine division.

Mr. Heath returned to the structural steel department of the CGE in 1945 as general foreman.

Mr. Johnson started with the CGE in 1929 in the armature department as a helper and later worked in the structural steel, cabinet and fractional departments before becoming a fitter in the structural steel. He was appointed assistant foreman and then foreman of the department's sheet metal section.

Why Not Cheap Cash-And-Carry Milk?

Apart from the price paid the farmer for his raw milk, the chief element in the high price of milk to consumers is the cost of putting it into bottles and delivering it door-to-door. Mr. Justice Wells, Ontario Royal Commissioner on milk, said in his 1947 report that "Roughly speaking for a large part of the industry, I think it can be said with some confidence that the cost of delivering milk from the dairy to the consumer is close to 25 per cent. of the total price charged." If a good part of this cost can be done away with, the price of milk should fall, not rise.

* * *

The door-to-door delivery is a convenience to customers, but it is costly. (For one thing, many companies' vans cover the same routes.) It is a convenience which many households can now ill afford. If a quarter of the retail price of a quart of milk can be saved by buying it at a shop and carrying it home, many households—especially those with children consuming three or four quarts a day—will gladly accept a cash-and-carry system. Now in Peterborough all milk costs the same, no matter from which dairy it is got, or whether it is bought at a store and carried home, or picked up on the back porch.

* * *

If a quarter of the price of a bottle of milk is due to delivery costs, why are the dairies not eager to eliminate that cost, and put their milk into shops to sell at three or four cents less? Their profit would still be as great, and the lower selling price—3-4 cents lower—would still allow the storekeepers a profit for handling it. People will not object so strenuously to the high cost of delivered milk is they have an alternative: to buy cheaper on a cash-and-carry basis.

In Belleville and Newcastle, and in various places in the United States, independent dairymen have set up such cash-and-carry methods. These have resulted in savings of between three and five cents a quart. Not all the saving is made because the customers come and get their milk. The independent dairymen have their own pasteurization systems, operating on a small scale and less expensively than big dairies.

* * *

If the larger distributors in Peterborough are not willing to begin cash-and-carry methods of sale, by putting their milk into shops at lower than delivery prices, why should some of the small, independent distributors not take advantage of the cut-price method? Perhaps one reason is that most of these distributors do not have their own pasteurizing plants, and must get their milk processed at the larger dairies. These dairies, if they were unwilling to cut prices, themselves, would certainly not look with favour on an independent man doing it. He might find that he could not get his milk pasteurized. This would put him out of business, since the city health authorities require pasteurized or otherwise certified milk to be sold in the city.

* * *

In his very careful, full report as Royal Commissioner in 1947, Mr. Justice Wells notes this:

> "Very little competition exists between distributors. As a result of the growing stringency of health regulations, including pasteurization and the price fixing agreements in all but the smallest markets of the province, the only way in which distributors to compete is in respect of service to consumers. For all practical purposes the product is standardized, which eliminates competition on a quality basis. Price is fixed and trade practices are uniform".

It is to be hoped that the newly-constituted Ontario Milk Board will exercise its powers in more than price-fixing. It should provide for more competition and less uniformity of trade practices. One variation should be, in the interests of consumers, the institution of cash-and-carry sales at reduced prices.

Spring And Easter Time

The trees to their innermost marrow
Are touched by the sun;
The robin is here and the sparrow:
Spring is begun.

Spring and Easter are linked in legend, song and religion the world over, but there is this difference: the coming of Spring is a date fixed by the sun, and Eastertime depends up the moon. Since the sun moves before our eyes in an annual chronological pattern, Spring begins on March 21st, always; but, though the moon's changes are predictable, they are chronologically fickle, and Easter Sunday (fixed by the Nicean Council in 325 A.D.) comes variously between March 22, which it did in the year 1818, and April 25th, which it did in 1943.

It is rather strange that a festival like Easter, which falls on Sun-day and in which so many attributes derive from the sun—the sun which touches the innermost marrow of trees—should be fixed by the moon. The principal reason why Easter was determined to fall on the first Sunday following the Paschal Full Moon which happens upon or next after the 21st of March, is said to have been to ensure that pilgrims had moonlight for their travel to the great yearly Easter festival centres.

It suits most parts of Canada best when Easter is late. The towns and countryside then can look Easterish, except, of course, around James Bay, in Newfoundland and in other northern places. But this Easter Sunday, early as it is, will probably be sufficiently vernal and warm in Victoria and Vancouver. Even Ontario's Niagara Peninsula responds to the early date. Easter as a Spring festival accommodates itself better to Canada than the formal beginning of Spring. Spring came to these parts last Wednesday with no spring-like song, and it rarely does. The variable date of Easter Sunday gives most parts of this sprawling nation an opportunity to feel spring-like, at sometime or other during a decade.

March 21st is stubbornly unsuited to us; that is the result of over-orderly arrangement mathematically devised:

> 'The earth's axis continually points in the same direction, and if the axis were perpendicular to the plane of the earth's orbit around the sun there would be no change of seasons. But the axis is tilted 23° 27' away from a perpendicular to the orbit, and only in March and September is the axis at right angles to the direction of the sun. In these months occur the equinoxes, when the day and night are equal all the world over. In the north temperate zone the approximate date of the vernal equinox is March 21st. In the south temperate zone, the vernal equinox or beginning of spring is September 23rd.'

It is this sort of cold calculating which can make science the laughing-stock of nature, and calendars the butts of the seasons. The fact is that Spring does not begin in these parts on March 21st. We are better to place our faith in the advent of Spring in Easter, which in some years, if not in this, really brings Spring with it. Thus Easter has in Canada more than most countries the two significances, the Christian one (which is itself, in the Resurrection, symbolic of the rebirth of the year), and the earlier pagan one: the festival of the goddess of Spring.

Let the calendar-tinkerers and the world-calendar makers beware lest they rob us of the possibility of having Easter in real spring weather. It was only in 1928 that the British Parliament passed a permissive statute to bring Easter within the "orderly scope of solar measurement of time" and determined provisionally that the date should be "the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April." This statute has fortunately gathered dust awaiting international consent. It would forever do away with Easters around April 20th when Spring weather is almost certain to help us feel joyously Easterish.

Archibald Lampman wisely did not call his poem "The First of Spring," and fasten it to March 21st, or even an early Easter. He labelled it Hepaticas:

The sleep and the silence are over;
The petals that rise
Are the eyelids of earth that uncover
Her numberless eyes.

A Woman Of Fine Humanity

Mrs. Joseph Mills, the wife of a notable Peterborough soldier and the mother of two other officers, served her adopted city and district with distinction and warm heart for most of the 68 years she lived in Peterborough. She had a devoted interest in the welfare of returned servicemen, and was called the "Mother of the Peterborough Rangers," the unit her husband commanded during the Great War. She visited them and their families, helped them personally over difficulties, and directed them to agencies which would assist them. Her positions as chairman of the Mother's Allowance and Old Age Pension Boards, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion and officer of the Well Babies Clinic indicate the range and directive energy of her humanitarian concern.

In recent years Mrs. Mills's social activities were restricted, though she kept her interest in the work she had done much to organize and direct: with servicemen and their families, with the Local Council of Women of which she had been an executive, and in the political and cultural life of the community. Her death last Wednesday removes from the district a person of fine character and force. Her life work is gratefully accepted, her memory honoured by her fellow-citizens.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Eva Peron is having ten great stone images of her husband made in Italy to adorn a new public building. The choice of material was dictated, we suppose, by the current shortage of brass.

The municipal council of Southport, England, has docked an employee 54 cents in pay because he took time from his work to rescue a drowning man. This was labelled "a question of discipline". Let's hope the offender remembers this discipline next time he sees a civic official going down for the second time.

Diary of Old Jock

by SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Yesterday I read a piece in a newspaper by a man who said that he always wore striped ties, but that he was occasionally put to shame by people for whom these ties had a special significance, and who took him for an Old Etonian or a member of a famous regiment. I laughed heartily and thought that this could never happen to me, for I always wear ties of plain colour or of small patterns. But today I went for a walk wearing a handsome striped scarf given me by my Cousin Sophonisba at Christmas, and keel-haul me for a porpoise if an Englishman I met didn't say, "Aha, an ex-member of the R.A.F., I perceive". When I displayed a lubberly incomprehension, he pointed to my scarf. I informed him that to me it was nothing but a nice square of silk, but I could tell from the curl of his lip that he suspected me of pretending to be a hero of the Battle of Britain. I wish the Long Arm of Coincidence would shorten up a bit.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Was talking to a young man today when I realized, with a shock, that in fifteen years he would be a bore. The young are never bores, though they are sometimes boring, particularly when they talk about themselves. But it does not lie in the power of youth to be a self-sustaining, day-in-and-day-out bore; a man must be at least thirty-five before he can manage that. Youth has a buoyance, a resiliency, which makes it impossible for the young to keep to that dead-level which is the very heart and essence of the bore's craft. The spirits of youth keep bobbing up and down; a bore must be steady as a rock. The eye of youth sometimes lightens; the eye of the bore is glazed with the film of stupidity. There are gloomy bores, and agreeable bores, and eager bores and stuffy bores, but once they have set their course and determined their character, they do not change....This young man, however, was in strict training to become an agreeable bore, and as he seemed gifted in that respect he may achieve his aim before thirty-five, and become one of the youngest bores in Canadian history. And if he does he will be a lesson in what may be achieved by persistent effort.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Put out a lot of empty wine-bottles for the garbage this morning, and later learned that a small boy on his way to school had been attracted by their pleasing shapes and took two with him. These he placed on his desk, and when his teacher asked where he got them, he informed her that they came from Mr. Marchbank's garbage. I would like to think that this led his classmates and his teacher to look upon me as a connoisseur and lover of the subtle pleasures of life, but think it more probable that they regard me as a red-eyed winey. My name may even figure in the lesson on Alcohol as a Poison and Destroyer of Character . . . This evening to a movie called "Faust and the Devil," made in Italy, which I enjoyed greatly, and particularly an Orgy scene, where Faust made genteel and ineffective plays for several girls in filmy frocks. The Devil, meanwhile, sat at a table loaded wtih goodies, but ate nothing save a few grapes. Watching his weight, I suppose. Have not seen an Orgy in a movie since the days of the silent film; they often had Orgies, and they always took the form of a light meal, eaten in the company of jolly girls in a peek-a-boo nighties. I have never been at an Orgy, though I suppose my garbage this morning filled the neighbourhood with dark suspicion.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Business took me to Toronto, and as I stood on Yonge Street this afternoon, waiting for a street-car, a man approached me with a happy smile. He stopped in front of me, rocked on his heels, puffed out a cloud of boozy breath and said, "Well, well, well!" As I am peculiarly attractive to persons in his condition, I feigned ignorance of his presence, but he came nearer, and peeped searchingly into my eyes. "Ain't goin' to speak t'an ole pal?" he said, coyly. "How do you do," I said stiffly. "Cheest," said he, "I wouldna thought ole Jock would gimme the brushoff." "You are mistaken, my good fellow," said I. "Gwan," said he; "you're old Jock Thompson." "No," said I, firmly. He looked at me, and a gummy tear crept sluggishly down one cheek. "Ole Jock," said he, "an' he won't speak t'an ole pal." He took his cigar out of his mouth and prodded me with the wet end of it. "God love yuh, anyway, Jock," he said, and stumbled on, and as he receded I heard him murmur "Old Jock a Judas; Cheest!" . . . I wonder why I am so often mistaken for somebody else, especially by drunks? Do my features in some mysterious way suggest a Universal Friend — a man whom everybody, at some time or other, has known? This is a cross which I bear with very ill grace.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Dropped in briefly upon the annual exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists, and marvelled at the varying techniques and divergent conceptions of art there displayed. Roughly, I judge that every kind of painting known during the past seventy years was represented in this year's collection; many of our artists appear to be living and working in the past. But a few of the newer things were beautiful. I cannot warm, however, to the older school of pictures which represent Canada as a wilderness, coloured by the Creator in shades resembling barn paint, or to that extreme new school which paints menacing tangles of colour ranging between light khaki and deep brown gravy.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Was shocked to learn that there are places in the U.S.A. where it is possible to buy a cheap false television aerial, which you can put up on your house, thereby cozening the neighbours and passersby into thinking that you have TV. Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! What could be more pitiable than the wish to pose as a possessor of an expensive gadget, in order to gain undeserved prestige? What sort of civilization is it where men must have television, or be as the beasts that perish? False hair I can condone, and even approve, for it makes up for a defect in nature. Those other falsies I excuse in those upon whom the noble attributes of our Mother Eve have been bestowed with niggardliness. But a false TV aerial — my gorge rises, my stomach heaves, my imagination boggles, I fall in a faint and a merciful Oblivion engulfs me.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: While I was from home today a man brought a load of sand needed for some cement work; instead of dumping it where it was meant to be he dropped it all in my driveway, making it impossible to put the car away. I presume that it is such thinking as this which makes sand truckers what they are, instead of eminent biologists, respected theologians, or the scented darlings of elegant boudoirs. With a heavy heart I set to work to heave the sand off the drive, and as it was wet I soon found that my heart was giving audible crunching sounds, as though somebody were crushing apples in my breast; my spine developed a hairpin bend and my knees shook; large black specks floated slowly before my eyes, my liver turned completely over, and bells tolled in my skull. The sand, however, was not without interest. In one shovelful I found what I believe is called a garter-belt. Who, I wondered, could have discarded her garter-belt in a sand pit, and why? Was I, all unwillingly, turning over the grave of some fleeting summer romance? And if so, was a sand pit not a somewhat gritty place for extra-mural amours? I shall never know. Crept into the house like a horse with the heaves, and took cordials suitable to my many ailments.

Waters Under The Earth

by JOHN MOORE

I DO not know much about water, but I am learning. When water began to flood my cellar I thought at first, in my ignorance, that it was doing so in defiance of all natural laws. For I live on the side of an extremely steep hill. A stream close to my front door "all night long singeth a quiet tune." My cellar is above the level of the stream. Yet, in apparent disregard of gravity, the water seeps in.

Every few days we pump the water out; stealthily and at first imperceptibly it returns, a mere dampness on the concrete floor which soon becomes what Rupert Brooke's fish prayer for — "wetter water, slimier slime" — and within a few hours is too deep for my shoes, then for my gumboots, then for my fishing-waders; at which stage I ring up once more for the pump.

The pump-men, who are familiar with the element, tell me darkly: "Water is a funny thing." They speak of it as if it were living, personified, Protean, mischievous as Puck. "Once it finds its way in," they say, "bricks and mortar won't keep it out." They pump for an hour, and I notice that when they go away they do not ask for their money. They know too well that they will be back on Wednesday.

The man from the Rural District Council comes to test the mains. He listens to the pipes with a kind of stethoscope clamped on to them, but there is nothing the matter with the mains, no leak, no burst, no coronary thrombosis in these surging arteries of our civilization. In a tone as full of foreboding as that of the pump-men he says: "I have known springs change their courses before now. I have known springs gush up where springs have never been before."

I find this a terrifying thought. Suddenly, and for the first time, I have a vision of the waters under the earth; a network and tracery of runnels like the veins in a gorgonzola cheese, seeping, snaking, bubbling, ever questing and testing for an easier way to achieve the eternal ambition of all water everywhere, which is to find its own level and at last to be still. I see the element now as something cursed as a poet is cursed by the necessity of an interminable pilgrimage towards unattainable contentment.

Perhaps, I think, the Lord God put this burden upon the waters when He created them: Find thine own level, or remain in perpetual motion. But all nature is in flux, and there is nothing static anywhere; so poor Water must go on for ever, seeping, snaking, bubbling, questing, divinely discontented, a sort of Wandering Jew among the elements, damned never to be at rest and never to die.

I have sought in old maps and old memories for the solution of my problem; for water, the experts say, has a memory longer than any of our ancients have, and where it has been before it will surely return again. And indeed it seems they are right; for someone remembers a well which was filled in some fifty years ago, when the house was enlarged. "Underneath your kitchen it would be, just under the sink." And there was a pump, says another, under where the dining-room is now — it stood at the back door before the house was built on to. "But that," they add with unconscious irony, "was before the water was laid on, of course."

✧ ✧ ✧

WATER, like the elephant, never forgets. There were a well and a pump, fifty years ago, and for fifty years the little restless runnels under the hill have remembered this as they ran to and fro, like rats in their burrows, through the galleries they have made between the limestone and the clay. "A well, a well! It will help us to find our own level! If we can reach that old deep well, perhaps for an hour or a day we shall find our own level and be at peace!"

Poor cursed wandering waters under the earth; they have reached the well at last, though they will never find their own level until earth herself is stilled in sleep. And I must pump again, as they used to pump at my back door before — before the water was laid on.

Peron vs. La Presna

(Christian Science Monitor)

If citizens of free nations wish to learn from another of many object lessons in how their freedoms are carved away they will do well to study the suppression of the splendid newspaper, La Presna, by the regime of President Juan Peron in Argentina.

Efforts of employees to resume publication, which has been suspended for a month, resulted not in police protection against toughs who killed one worker and injured others, but in the jailing of 550 local employees.

Though the suspension was due nominally to a strike, the squeeze play had none of the characteristics of a legitimate labour dispute. Now, following the clash of returning employees with the police-supported thugs, the officially favored General Confederation of Labour proposes that the Peron Government take over the newspaper.

This is the doing of a regime whose head still likes to be called president rather than dictator. Yet the methods of political hoodlumism leading to dictatorship are evident. Apparently no such elaborate ideology surrounds Peronism as fired Goebbels' suppression of the free German press or the regimentation of Soviet so-called journalism. But the effect is much the same so far as the people's right to varied and objective sources of information is concerned.

The essence of Peronism seems to be the personal ambition of President Peron and his wife. The methods they have used against La Presna may obtain the semblance and trappings of respect within a police-racked country, but they will command less and less of the respect of the world at large.

How Time Flies

MARCH 24

1921 The Dickson firm of Peterborough takes over the old firm of R. Graham and Son in Lakefield.

D. G. Moloney's tender of $680 for collection of market tolls is accepted.

P. P. Westbye addresses the local branch of the Engineering Institute on the subject of pulp and paper manufacture.

1931 Frances Walker of Peterborough has a $5,000 ticket in the Irish sweepstakes.

Dr. and Mrs. N. D. Buchanan of this city are presently on a Mediterranean cruise.

It is announced that Shiner Johnston will manage the Petes' senior baseball team.

1941 The C.N.R. applies for permission to abandon the Port Hope-Millbrook section of the Lakefield subdivision.

Dr. R. K. Magee is elected an associate member of the New York and Ontario division of the American Urological Society.

The Rev. J. E. Griffith, former pastor of Omemee United Church, accepts a call to Bowmanville.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him: rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily.

And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power: in whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ.

Buried with him in baptism wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead. (Col. 2: 6-12.)

AFIELD

with NICK NICKELS

The best muskrat hunting story likely to come to light during the current open season, March 20 to April 21st, or any other season for that matter, was retold this week over a restaurant counter. It belongs to the Frank-Buck-bring-'em-back-alive sort of yarn and happened this way.

Quskeroatsman Jim Wharry, while driving two of their company's New Brunswick salesmen from the Port Hope train to Peterborough slowed down just north of Bewdley to let a muskrat scamper across the highway. He stopped the car and asked one of the passengers to hop out and catch the beast.

"But why?" asked the stranger.

"We'll take him to a friend of mine at Chemong Lake," said Jim.

So, the man started rat snatching and after a great show of spirit on both sides, the animal was nabbed by the tail and cached carefully away in the car trunk. They drove on, through Peterborough, to Jim's friend's farm at Chemong.

"Got something for you in the trunk," boomed Jim as he drove into the yard.

They opened the back compartment an inch at a time. No rat. There was no rat cringing in the spare tire well, either, but marks in the dusty interior showed where the rodent had wormed its way to somewhere behind the back seat cushion.

A garage man was called into the act. They took out the lower seat cushion. Nothing there. They took out bolts, screws and brackets and the seat back. Still no rat. The only place left was the steel nacelle that is covered by the padded arm rest. And there was Wharry's quarry.

None of them would risk plunging his hand into the hole to haul out the rat so they fashioned a wire snare and lassoed the Thing behind the ears. But this was a delicate operation for they were afraid of choking it as they pulled it out.

"Things were getting beyond a joke," moaned Jim. "The back of my car was in small pieces and it was costing me two bucks an hour, plus."

Finally the rat was retrieved after much gentle tugging. Friendly farmer dropped it into a carton, carted it to a lake marsh and released it.

Asked why he got mixed up in the rat race in the first place, Jim explained that he thought it was primarily a good idea, mixing the famous Rice Lake strain with the Chemong breed and all that sort of thing.

"On second thought," reflected Jim as he was fingering a sizable garage bill, "this live animal trapping is costly business. In future I'll leave it to the experts."

Recent hot bickerings between district farmers and the City about vacating the present market square came to a showdown last Saturday. Farmers were divided into two categories according to a posted sign. Written in large letters on cardboard at the foot of the stairs leading to a church domestic table in the basket market, a sign said "ALL SAINTS UPSTAIRS." Are the sinners to be directed elsewhere?

How Ohions Are Sold On the Kawarthas

The boys who took the Kawarthas district sales booth to the Cleveland Sportsmen's Show are back home again with reports on their successes. And they definitely were successes, according to Jim Fraser.

The total cost of the effort ($1,500) was borne by the resort section members of the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Peterborough. The display was visited by 150,000 people, it was estimated, during ten days time. This works out to one cent per show goer. You couldn't ask for cheaper district advertising than that.

At least six people interviewed said that the Kawartha booth was the most attractive Canadian one there and that it also rated higher than many American displays. This calls for a sincere vote of thanks to the Examiner's staff artist George Cobb who designed the display, 'way back in the winter. And to the untiring persistence and industry of Jim Fraser who sparked the effort from its beginning. I hear attendants Doug Andrews of Bobcaygeon, Bob Garner of the Examiner and El Purvis, did a bang-up job and not forgetting resort operators who pitched in for free, such as Jack and Sally Doherty of Cedar Cove, Rice Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rerick of Forest Hill Lodge, Lovesick.

Information seekers stood six deep a great deal of the time viewing the pictures on the automatic slide viewing machine, the district relief map, Examiner staff potos. Their questions ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous. Some samples:

"How's the fishing going to be this year?" (Everyone asked this one.)

"How often do your railways run in northern Canada, once a week?"

"Don't tell ME where Lakefield is, young man. It's SOUTH of Peterborough, I tell you."

"What sort of accommodation have you up there, resort rates, cabins, housekeeping cottages?"

"Where are your trailer camps located?"

"Is it true that Highway 28 has been let go to pot?"

"Is it true that fishing in the Kawarthas has been closed for the next five years?"

"What shape are your flying fields in?"

"Why didn't the Kawarthas have a booth at our show last year? WE MISSED YOU."

So there you have the general trend of information and misinformation in the minds of tourists. If booth attendants did no more than scotch a lot of ridiculous ideas, their job was well done and very much worthwhile.

Whoever coined the simile "walking on eggs," must have been a young parent whose children were preparing for Eastertide. Eggs to the left of him, eggs to the right of him, eggs all around him, coloured and speckled. Green, red, pink and blue eggs drying in the corners, on kitchen shelves and windowsills. Who could help walking on eggs and with each misplaced step, running up a bill of broken shells and yokes at 60 cents per footstep-dozen?

Progress of Peterborough: LXIII

Millbrook Incorporated 1880, Omemee '74 Bobcaygeon's Importance Grows

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Kawartha Townships And Villages: Some of the decade highlights in the Kawartha district follow: Cavan township council in 1873-4 built a township hall at Millbrook. Millbrook itself was incorporated 1880, and the next year had 1,148 people in 228 families (in 220 houses). At Bethany the old Methodist chapel was replaced by a new one in 1870. The Anglicans, after years of services in Orange and Temperance halls, opened St. Pauls Church (brick) in 1876, with rector Rev. H. Burgess, although the resulting debt was not paid off until 1897. In Ennismore township, St. Martin's Roman Catholic Church (brick) was built 1873-4 and a two-storey brick parish house nearby 1879-80. In 1879 Father Hogan was succeeded by Father Keilty who was the first resident priest.

Lindsay, railway and trade centre, grew from 4,049 people (773 families) to 5,080 (971 families) in the decade. The Merchants Bank opened a branch in 1870 which was absorbed by the Bank of Montreal 1877. New businesses included Spratt and Killen groceries) 1874, Higginbotham (drugs) and Williamson (harness) 1878. Fox and Son took over the Curtin brick works south of town in 1877. In 1873 a stone drain was built at a cost of $5,600 east from the postoffice site along Kent and north on Lindsay St. to the river to drain out wet cellars, but nothing else was done for a quarter-century. The streets were unlighted until Nov. 1880 when the council hung six coal-oil lamps out, four of them on Kent St.

The water supply was even more primitive, depending on pumps and water-wagons. There were a few wooden sidewalks, but the streets were "bare of shade trees," according to Kirkconnell's History. The "Advocate" stopped publication 1870, leaving the field to the "Post" and the "Warder," which changed hands several times. Among sporting clubs were the Victoria Boat Club, organized May 1874, and the Lindsay Curling Club, Dec. 1876. 1878 was an eventful year, with the first exhibitions of the telephone and the phonograph.

Omemee was incorporated 1874 with Reeve Wm. Cottingham. A new Anglican church was built that year, and Rev. W. H. Jones was succeeded by Rev. R. Harris who served to 1881. By 1878 Omemee had 535 people, three churches, four hotels, several stores, high and public schools, two sawmills, a tannery, a foundry, a shingle mill, cloth mill and the "Herald" weekly paper. By 1881 the village was down to 744 people (139 families). Woodville in Eldon became a police village with 500 people in 1878, a year after the "Advocate" weekly paper started.

Fenelon Falls by 1872 had three large sawmills—Smith and Co., Hilliard and Mowry, and Green and Ellis, cutting 18 million feet of lumber yearly. The next year E. D. Hand started the "Gazette" weekly paper. In 1874 the Victoria Railway reached the village, and incorporation followed in 1875 under Reeve J. D. Smith. The town boomed and by 1881 had 1,155 people in 215 families.

Bobcaygeon: In 1870 E. H. Hand started the "Bobcaygeon Independent, Minden & Haliburton Reporter & Midland Counties Herald", a weekly paper which cost $1 a year; in 1873 C. E. Stewart became its publisher; in the last 80 years its name has mercifully been shortened to the "Independent". In 1870 also, work was begun on Christ Church (Anglican) designed by John Belcher, leading Peterborough architect, on land deeded by Thomas Need, Bobcaygeon's founder. The church was dedicated in 1871 by Bishop Bethune and the rectory was finished the next year for Rev. C. W. Patterson, first resident rector. A brick public school was built about 1873.

Bottum's Hardware Store, started in 1875 by Elijah Bottum, is one of the oldest still in the same family. When incorporated in 1877 under Reeve W. B. Reid, the village had 1,000 people, and a brick town hall was built costing $3,000. The leading industrialist was Mossum Boyd, and there were two Boyd sawmills (the second recently built) and Boyd flour mill, Boyd shingle-mill, and Boyd lime kiln; others were Bick's shingle-mill, and carding-mill, Kennedy & Lancaster's planing mill, Edmison's wagon factory, and a tannery. Jas. Green on John St. made spinning-wheels. There were 6 blacksmiths and 4 harness and saddle shops. I. Junkin was postmaster. Hotels were operated by M. McConnell, J. Ritchie, J. Simpson, L. Lafex, A. Nixon, W. Snowden, J. Goulais, and J. Reid, and A. Orr kept a Temperance Saloon.

The streets were improved in wet weather by layers of sawdust from the Boyd mills. Over Little Bob river was a camel-back bridge to allow boats and scows to pass under, while over Big Bob River was a swing-bridge. Elijah Bottum, between seasons as steamboat captain (lv. Bobcaygeon 7 a.m., arrive Bridgenorth 9.30 a.m., lv. Bridgenorth 4 p.m., arr. Bobcaygeon 7 p.m.) operated a covered stage with 4 seats holding 8 passengers (lv. Bobcaygeon 7 a.m., arr. Peterborough 11.30 a.m., lv. Peterborough 1.30 p.m. arr. Bobcaygean 7 p.m., "if the roads are in condition")

The Bobcaygeon paper on Mar. 22, 1878, carried news about the election, and announced "The Bobcaygeon Baseball Club will meet Friday next—Dr. McCamus beams with pleasure at the prospect of biz", indicating that the new sport of baseball was rather exciting. The importance of the village as a settlers' and lumbermen's transfer point is shown by the fact that beside 26 local advertisements in this one issue there were 18 from Peterborough and 14 from villages in Haliburton.

In 1879 Mr. Boyd presented a lot on which the first Roman Catholic church was built, size 46 x 24 ft., of bricks costing $6.40 per M. Priests from Emily and Ennismore conducted the services: 1863-73 Father Coyle, 1874-9 Father Connelly, 1879-82 Father Fitzpatrick. The same year a Baptist Chapel was erected, and the Methodist Church was remodelled. By 1881, neglected by the railways in spite of freely-proffered bonuses, Bobcaygeon found its share of the timber trade declining, and its population down to 750 people in 154 families.

How we may live the faster.

GOOSE

The wild goose is more cosmopolite than we; he breaks his fast in Canada, takes a luncheon in the Susquehanna, and plumes himself for the night in a Louisiana bayou.

—H. D. THOREAU, Journal, 1840

SOYER'S SOUP FOR THE POOR; WHICH HAS BEEN TASTED AND APPROVED BY NUMEROUS NOBLEMEN, MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT, AND LADIES. TWO GALLONS COST ABOUT SIX-PENCE

Two ounces of dripping; quarter of a pound of meat, cut into pieces one inch square; quarter of a pound of onions sliced thin; quarter of a pound of turnips, cut into small dice; two ounces of leeks—the green tops will do, chopped small; three ounces of celery; three quarters of a pound of common flour; half a pound of pearl barley, or one pound of Scotch; three ounces of salt; quarter of an ounce of brown sugar; two gallons of water.

Put the two ounces of dripping into a saucepan capable of holding two gallons of water, with a quarter of a pound of the leg of beef, without bones—(the bones may be also put in, or be afterwards used for stews, gravies, etc.)—cut in pieces about one inch square; put in the onions, and then set the saucepan over a fire, and stir the contents round for a few minutes with a wooden or iron spoon until fried lightly brown. Then put in the turnips, celery, and leeks, cut into small pieces. Stir them with the other ingredients over the fire for another ten minutes; then add a quart of cold water and three quarters of a pound of flour; and the pearl barley, mixing all well together; then add seven quarts of hot water, seasoned with the salt, and brown sugar, stirring occasionally until boiling; allow it to simmer for three hours, when the barley will be tender and the soup ready.

Bishop Cumberland being told by some of his friends that he would wear himself out by intense application, replied, in the words of Bacon, "It is better to wear out than rust out."

Coboconk in Bexley township prospered as the T & N Railway terminus after 1872. On May 16, 1877, a fire starting behind Kay's Hotel wiped out the northern half of the town. The population by 1880 was about 700. Like Victoria Road, a hamlet of 250 people that grew up in the decade where the T & N crossed Victoria Colonization Road, Coboconk flourished on the timber trade, then began to dwindle before 1890. Corson's Siding, another railway hamlet 6 miles from Victoria Road, was nicknamed "Hell's Half-Acre" and was notorious throughout the north country for its dens of iniquity; it may have been only coincidence that Gooderham & Worts, Toronto distillers owned a large timber limit nearby. Kinmount: By the influence of John Taylor of Kinmount, a group of 365 Icelander immigrants were brought to Kinmount in 1874 to work on the Victoria Railway construction and later to settle in the vicinity. After trying to farm on the rocky Burnt River soil and enduring the jibes of the natives (who called them "Eskimos") for a year, and after many diphtheria deaths, the remaining 250 Icelanders in 1875 moved to Gimli, Manitoba. At the junction of the Bobcaygeon and Monck Roads, the village boomed after the Victoria Railway reached it in 1876. William Cluxton, Wilson & Stephenson, Mansfield & O'Leary, and W. Caldwell had sawmills on Burnt River nearby. The Kinmount Sawmill advertised in 1878: "Lumber of all sorts; oats, hay or wheat taken in exchange for sawing." John Goodman operated Kinmount Woollen Mill. W. Brunker had the Victoria Hotel, and Gainer's Hotel was 12 miles up Bobcaygeon Road. By 1880 the village had about 300 people.

Harvey township had several sawmills including Hall's at Buckhorn (Hall's Bridge) at the village lived about 75 people, and there was a hotel, 2 general stores, a post office, a blacksmith, and a wagon works. T. Eastwood built Buckhorn House in 1874. Lakehurst, another hamlet in southwest Harvey, had Griffin's general store (with post office), a township hall, an Orange Hall, a cheese fctory, and a Grange Lodge. John Davis came to Harvey from Eldon in 1872 and built a shingle-mill on Lot 19, Concession 16, then 10 years later built a sawmill. Harvey Council from 1875 on refused to issue any liquor licences, one of the first townships to do so. Burleigh Falls, another little village, had 50 people, a sawmill, and Holmes' Hotel, store and post office, by 1880.

CHICKEN-LICKEN OR HENNY PENNY

(The old English nursery tale, which we print today in recognition of children's share in Easter wo nderment.)

As Chicken-licken went one day to the wood, an acorn fell upon her poor bald pate, and she thought the sky had fallen. So she said she would go and tell the king that the sky had fallen.

So Chicken-licken turned back, and met Hen-len. "Well, Hen-len, where are you going?"

And Hen-len said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat." And Chicken-licken said, "Oh! Hen-len, don't go, for I was going, and the sky fell upon my bald pate, and I'm going to tell the king."

So Hen-len turned back with Chicken-licken, and met Cock-lock. "Oh! Cock-lock, where are you going?" And Cock-lock said. "I'm going to the wood for some meat." Then Hen-len said, "Oh! Coek-lock, don't go, for I was going, and I met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood, and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Cock-lock turned back, and met Duck-luck. "Well, Duck-luck, where are you going?" And Duck-luck said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat." Then Cock-lock said, "Oh, Duck-luck, don't go, for I met Hen-len. and Hen-len met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood, and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Duck-luck turned back, and met Drake-lake. "Well, Drake-lake, where are you going?" And Drake-lake said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat." Then Duck-luck said "Oh! Drake-lake, don't go, for I was going, and I met Cock-lock, and Cock-lock met Hen-len, and Hen-len met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood. and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Drake-lake turned back, and met Goose-loose. "Well, Goose-loose, where are you going?" And Goose-loose said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat." Then Drake-lake said, "Oh! Goose-loose, don't go, for I was going, and I met Duck-luck, and Duck-luck met Cock-lock, and Cock-lock met Hen-len, and Hen-len met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood. and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Goose-loose turned back, and met Gander-lander. "Well, Gander-lander, where are you going?" And Gander-lander said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat" Then Goose-loose said, "Oh! Gander-lander, don't go, for I was going, and I met Drake-lake, and Drake-lake met Duck-luck, and Duck-luck met Cock-lock, and Cock-lock met Hen-len. and Hen-len met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood, and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Gander-lander turned back and met Turkey-lurkey. "Well, Turkey-lurkey, where are you going?" And Turkey-lurkey said, "I'm going to the wood for some meat." Then Gander-lander said, "Oh! Turkey-lurkey, don't go, for I was going and I met Goose-loose, and Goose-loose met Drake-lake, and Drake-lake met Hen-len, and Hen-len met Chicken-licken, and Chicken-licken had been at the wood, and the sky had fallen on her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king."

So Turkey-lurkey turned back and walked with Gander-lander, Goose-loose, Drake-lake, Duck-luck, Cock-lock, Hen-len and Chicken-licken.

And as they were going along they met Fox-lox. And Fox-lox said, "Where are you going, my pretty maids?" And they said, "Chicken-licken went to the wood, and the sky fell upon her poor bald pate, and we are going to tell the king." And Fox-lox said, "Come along with me, and I will show you the way." But Fox-lox took them into the fox's hole, and he and his young ones soon ate up poor Chicken-licken. Hen-pen, Cock-lock, Duck-luck, Drake-lake, Goose-loose, Gander-lander, and Turkey-lurkey, and they never saw the king, to tell him that the sky had fallen!

Fix Up Your Lawn Very Early In Spring

By HENRY PREE
(NEA Service)

Grass starts to grow very early in the spring—therefore, prompt attention will mean a better lawn this summer. First of all, it should have a thorough raking to remove all dead grass, leaves and other debris. Do not start operations, however, until you can walk over the lawn without leaving foot prints.

As soon as the grass shows signs of active spring growth, the first feeding should be made. The systematic use of a balanced fertilizer is absolutely essential.

Grasses must have potash and phosphorus as well as nitrogen, and for that reason the use of ammonium nitrate or any other element which produces nitrogen alone is not recommended. In general, 15 to 20 pounds for 1,000 square feet should be ample.

This application should be followed a month or more later by another. Commercial fertilizer should be applied when the grass is dry. To avoid burning the grass, first rake or broom the lawn to work the fertilizer down to the soil, and then water thoroughly.

Cottonseed meal, soybean meal and tankage are excellent sources of fertilizer, but are usually more expensive than the chemical fertilizers. Lime is not a fertilizer, but a correction for acidity to be mixed with the soil when making a new lawn.

Rolling is done either to firm the seed in the soil after sowing, or to push back into the soil grass plants which have been heaved out by frost action. The ground should never be rolled when wet enough to stick to the roller, as it is likely to pack the soil and result in much injury to the roots. In either case, one rolling with a light roller is all that is needed.

Make your first feeding of fertilizer as soon as grass shows signs of spring growth.

Snow mold—a deadly fungus disease—ever present in the soil—has seriously damaged many lawns this winter. In some cases the grass is dead and remaking of the lawn is the only cure.

Since the total damage cannot be determined until the grass is in actual growth, there is little to be gained by digging up the lawn now. Nevertheless, get busy at once and clean up the lawn, then treat the entire lwn with a good fungicide, procurable at the better garden supply and hardware shops.

The recommended application is at the rate of three ounces for each 1,000 square feet of lawn area. The easiest and simplest method of application is with a sprinkling can, using one level teaspoon of the fungicide to each gallon of water.

One gallon should cover 100 square feet—an area about three good steps each way. Two more applications of the fungicide should be made, one in midsummer and another in late fall.

Gardening Questions

Q—Should the burlap bag which nurserymen tie about the roots of evergreens be removed before planting time?

A—Plants that come from the nursery with the root balls enclosed in burlap should have the material loosened and turn back after they have been set in the hole, but before the fill earth has been placed about them. It has been my practice to loosen the burlap only from plants with solid root balls and only enough to get the burlap down off the plant's crown.

Q—Do raspberries and blackberries require a rich, fertile soil?

A—All plants do better in an enriched soil. The application of manure before setting out the plants this spring will be most beneficial. A second application of manure the second spring will insure a bumper crop.

Oshawa Ahead In Series With The Links

Oshawa Bees came back strong Thursday night to take the fifth game of their best-of-seven junior "B" hockey serial with the Oddfellows by a score of 4-2 before close to 1,500 fans at Civic Arena. The win gives Bees a 3-2 edge in the set with the sixth game in the Motor city tonight.

It was a clean, hard fought battle throughout with Bees making a nice recovery after a sound defeat on home ice in the fourth struggle to regain their better form. Oddfellows on the other hand, though fighting hard all the way, were outlucked on many fine scoring chances as Bees' defence tightened up considerably. Bees played a close-checking game waiting for the breaks and capitalized on such as came their way to good advantage. They were outshot by Links and outplayed by a fair margin, especially in the latter stages.

An Early Lead

Mel Chiroski put his team in the lead early in the first frame when he combined with Etcher on a breakaway at the red line to sail in on Wasson and fire a close hard angle drive to the right corner as play opened fast. Red Robinson fed Dean Wasson a neat forward to the attacking blue line near the three-quarter mark and the latter flew in on Pallister to equalize on a play that brought the crowd to its feet.

Jim Johnson, blond defenceman, who has played well in the series, gave Bees the lead again late in the chapter on another fast breakaway near centre with Haxton when he fired a sharp 12-footer past Wasson from straight out. Play continued at a terrific clip in the second period when penalties hurt Oddfellows no little and Referees Holway and Smith took a roasting from the large crowd as Wyatt, Robinson and Douglas were banished in turn, the latter for no good reason, to cut down Links effectiveness on attack as well as defence. Johnson scored with Wyatt off as he banged in a low blue line drive following a ganging attack as De Gray passed through a sea of legs for a rather lucky one but despite determined attacks by Links, even at full strength, Pallister proved too good behind a closely knit defence. Lawrence scored on a screen shot from a face-off in the home end for the last Bee counter at 14.30.

Fought Hard

Oddfellows fought hard to the finish with all hands digging hard and Dean West gave his team new hope as he fired his 15th playoff tally midway in the third from a close-in scramble but goals were scarce as hen's teeth with Bees fighting like demons to protect their small but welcome margin to the finish.

Hornet Ruling Affects Leafs

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The American Hockey League board of governors may not know it, but the decision they made in Pittsburgh Friday night could have something to do with the outcome of the Stanley Cup playoffs this season.

Owners of seven AHL clubs put Pittsburgh Hornets back in the league playoffs, reversing a ruling of President Maurice Podoloff, who disqualified the team earlier on an eligibility protest.

Pittsburgh is the farm club of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and the Hornets' reinstatement cut eight prospective players from eligibles listed by Toronto for the Stanley Cup finals which start next week.

Leafs were counting on five forwards and three defencemen from Pittsburgh. Now that Hornets are back in the playoffs in their own league, Toronto will have to get along with its 17 regulars.

One player with Pittsburgh is Johnny McCormack, the lean sweep - checking forward who was sent down from Leafs Feb. 1.

A protest that McCormack was ineligible for the AHL resulted in the disqualification dispute.

Reverse Ruling Vote Hornets Playoff Berth

PITTSBURGH, March 24 (AP). —The American Hockey League board of directors Friday night voted the Pittsburgh Hornets a berth in the Calder Cup playoffs after a marathon 9½-hour session.

The action over-ruled an earlier decision by league president Maurice Podoloff.

The AHL head disqualified the Hornets last Tuesday, ruling that St. Louis Flyers were entitled to go into the playoff.

The Flyers protested that Pittsburgh had played an ineligible man. They contended centre John McCormack of the Hornets was obtained from Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League after the Feb. 14 deadline.

Clarence S. Campbell, president of the National League and also head of the central registry, a clearing house for eligible professional hockey players, was one of those present at the day-long conference.

Listed as the prime evidence was an affidavit from Toronto coach Joe Primeau.

Have Affadavit

The affadavit said Primeau called Campbell by phone Feb. 15, several hours before the midnight zero point for changes of team affiliation.

Campbell, said the affadavit, told Primeau that the matter of McCormack's status was okay and to confirm the telephone conversation the next day by telegram.

Telegrams and letters between the Hornets, the Maple Leafs and the league also were introduced as evidence.

Said Podoloff:

"If that evidence had been available last Tuesday perhaps I would have interpreted the situation differently."

Douglas Smith OASA President

BRANTFORD, March 24 (CP). —Douglas G. Smith of Toronto was elected president of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Friday at the 29th annual meeting.

Nearly 200 delegates attended.

The amendment to include peewee clubs in the zone competitions was approved. The delegates rejected a St. Catharines proposal to have smoking permitted on the bench.

Jack Brewe, elected to the executive, extended an invitation to hold the 1952 convention in London. This matter will come under the advisement of the 1951 executive later.

The executive suspended Booth Farley, secretary of the Hamilton branch, for failing to turn over, to that branch, the books of the organization.

Elected: Honorary president, G. C. MacArthur, Toronto; past president, G. C. Campbell, Oshawa; first vice-president, E. Wilken, Hamilton; third vice-president, T. Williams, Owen Sound; secretary, Frank R. Feaver; treasurer, W. L. Alguire, St. Catharines.

Executive: J. C. Brewe, London; J. R. Brush, Sarnia; R. J. Garrett, Simcoe; William Jacko, Kirkland Lake; C. S. Lewis, Toronto; M. H. Reid, Windsor.

Six other executive members are to be appointed by the incoming president.

U.S. Skaters Dominate Events

By HANS GROTTKE

The two-day meet, generally ranked second in importance only to the world championships, is scheduled to end here tonight with free skating and all finals. Compulsory school figures were held Friday.

The visitors, led by defending champion Dick Button of Boston, swept all three top places in the men's section. The four-times world champion racked up 1136.4 points in six events to take a shaky 15.8 lead over runner-up James Grogan of Tacoma, Wash. Hayes Alan Jenkins of Cleveland, Ohio, was third with 1092 points.

Canadians fared a little better in the women's division with Suzanne Morrow placing second behind United States national champion, Sonya Klopfer of New York. Miss Klopfer compiled 1111.4 points to take a meagre 17.3 point edge over the 20-year-old Toronto native.

Third spot in the compulsory school figures, which count for 60 per cent. of a contestant's total, went to Tenley Albright of the Boston Skating Club with 1091.7 points.

A dance competition saw the Winnipeg team of Mary Diane Trimble and David Ross eliminated in a preliminary contest. Only four teams are allowed in the finals.

Elliott Rink Wins

KINGSTON, March 24 (CP).—In an all-Kingston final that ended with a reversal of last year's result, Bob Elliott's rink Thursday scored a 11-9 win over Jack Sands' quartet to win the Kingston Whig-Standard Trophy, top prize of the Kingston Curling Club's 25th annual bonspiel. Last year Sands beat Elliott 8-5.

Manager Pup Curtin of the Petes' senior lacrossers has been a-hustling for the past few months and doing quite a job. Signing Goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton of Owen Sound Crescents — Mann Cup champs — was quite a feat, indeed. Also Curly Mason of that team and big Harry Wipper, St. Kitts' defenceman. Latest word is that he has Jerry Fitzgerald's name on the dotted line again. Playing coach Don Crowe will likely play defence this season and, with one or two more rearguardsmen, including Mick Magee, the Petes should be plenty strong defensively. They'll also do okay on the attack. Several other good seniors want to come here as this looks like the Petes' OLA year.

This item was written by Clayt Browne of The St. Catharines Standard: "Minor hockey head coach Vic Teal calls attention to a fine act of courtesy at Peterborough in the midget opener. Nipper Nash was cut and given first aid, then sent to the doctor for hem-stitching. When the Masons offered to pay, Dr. Ralph Clark said he wished nothing, as Dr. Alec Finlayson had done that for the Petes' grid team here with the Tricolors last fall, and he was only too glad to return the compliment. Hats off to you, doctors." Yes, the docs often do their stuff for free to help athletics along, several Peterborough practitioners being well-known for that.

Merry Matadors Back

Quite a pro grapple attraction coming up next Tuesday at the Brock Arena. A team match headlines the card, Whipper Bill Watson and Pat Flanagan tackling the villainous duo of Tommy O'Toole and big Hi Lee. That'll be legalized mayhem, we'll bet a shilling. They Chief Suni War Cloud, complete with war dress, takes on Wee Willie Davis, the Hollywood villain, in the semi-final. Prelim has towering Bill Stack in against Kaye Bell. Crowds have been growing rapidly in recent mat shows here, and this one ought to really pack the place, as hot action is certain in every bout.

Oshawa Bees buzzed into town Thursday night and swarmed through the local Oddfellows to take a 4-2 win before nearly 1,500 puck fans. That victory gives the Bees a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven OHA junior "B" group finals, sixth game being in the Motor City tonight. And that could well be the last of the IOOF-ers, unless they catch fire as they did on their last jaunt to Oshawa. While the locals weren't just at their peak here Thursday, the Bees played a solid close-checking game, awaiting any breaks and cashing in on 'em fast. Some second-period penalties hurt Bun Kingdon's crew, too. It was a fine tussle, though ending up the wrong way. But tonight's story might be a lot different.

TVL-ers At It Again

High hockey jinks going on at Civic Arena along about 8.30 tonight. It's a TVL final fray and fans know what they're like. The Trenton Taximen took a 5-3 win before a hefty crowd in Bella Villa the other eve o'er Brintons to even their best-of-five finals at a win each. They're at it again here tonight and then back to the Quinte pond on Tuesday, tossing for the fifth tilt if necessary. Brintons won the northern section of the Trent Valley Loop and Trenton won out in the south end of it. These guys hustle all the way and dish up some stirring scraps, both these finals being plenty close and the rest quite likely to be hot duels. Drop around and see 'em.

Sad news came out of St. Kitts on Good Friday. Seems as how two of our clubs meandered down that way Thursday night to clean up in provincial semi-finals, but were cleaned by superior Saints' squads. The midget Marines were thumped 14-2 in the OMHA game as a smart St. Kitts' crew (Ontario champs last year) moved into the finals. Just too strong. Gary Kearns, Bud McDougall, Jerry Frizzelle and Frank McGillen caught the eye with some good work, but they were too small for the fast-stepping and husky homesters. Quite a few fans went from here. But Marines did okay in going so far and holding St. Kitts to a one-goal lead in the opener. St. Catharines cage juves won 54-42 over PCVS to grab off their semi-final OABA series by just four points. A tough one to drop. McInraith scored 14 points and Ash 10 for PCVS.

Marines Lose In OMHA To The Saints

ST. CATHARINES, March 24—Foreign ice and opposition that developed a piping hot streak after wearing the visitors down proved the nemesis of the gamecock Peterborough Marines here Thursday night in the return game of the OMHA midget "A" semi-finals with St. Kitts Masons. The defending Ontario champs took the series in a goal sweep eliminating the Liftlock City by 14-2, which gave them the round on an 18-5 ration. Stratford and St. Kitts now clash for the provincial crown.

Marines were accompanied by six carloads of home fans and the game attracted attention of pro scouts from the larger areas hereabouts. Marines had lots of vocal backing from a fair home crowd who loudly applauded the valor of Petes' starting line who were almost of peewee size. With Gary Kearns as pivot and flanked by Jerry Frizzelle and Bud McDougal, that Pete line skated like scared rabbits and Kearns was one of the team stars along with Frank McGillen, biggest boy on the visiting roster. Kearns' trio skated like mad all night and for 13 minutes of the opener, fans appreciated why the champs only built up a one goal lead away. But for utterly brilliant work on Roger Days' part, Petes would have evened the score and surged ahead but Day was unbeatable on breakaways, close-ins and very lucky on screened shots. That helped to break Marines' hearts when frustrated early as Masons were two short.

It was ill luck for Coach Al Watkins unit, as Masons tossed rubber around like pros and demoralized a sievy Petes' defence that could not cope with Dervish-skating Saints who were here, there and everywhere. Petes' defence let Delahaye down in the clutches and that also contributed to his jitteriness at times.

In the final Brian Turner broke Petes' gooseegg, getting Larry Ball's rebound. Masons were very chippy and both refs tagged them hard. With Bowden off, McDougall tapered off Kearns' setup for Petes' 2nd and final goal.

Marines: Goal, Delahaye; defence, McGillen, Byrne; centre, Kearns; wings, Grizzelle, McDougall; alts., Corbett, Turner, McGrath, Holden, Gardner, Ball, Pearson, Strickland; sub-goal, Ash.

St. Catharines: Goal, Day; defence, Himes, Hope; centre, Norton; wings, Nash, Worchol; alts., Lukasik, Vasko, Stuart, Saliken, Plata, Green, Bowden, Thompson.

Referees — Norman Warner, Grimsby, Frank Chase, Welland.

Omemee Takes First Of Series

OMEMEE, March 24—(ENS)—Omemee Black Hawks again demonstrated their winning ways Thursday night at Woodstock when they won the first of a best-of-three series with Oxford Centre in the final ORHA playoffs. The score was 7-4. Second and thiry game, if necessary, will be played in Lindsay, the second on Wednesday.

Oxford Centre was leading 2-1 at the end of the first period. Bill Parker scored for Omemee early in the play and within the last two minutes of the period Oxford Centre's Jack Wilson and Bob Yeoman with Wilson assisting bagged two goals. At the end of the second it was tied 4-4. Goals for Omemee were by Armstrong, assisted by Jamieson; R. Crawford from Deyell, and F. Parsons unassisted. Les Dickson for Oxford Centre scored twice, first from Wilson and then from Wilson and Yeoman.

The Hawks had it all their own way in the third period. O. Crawford scored unassisted in the first half-minute and within a minute later in the period two were scored by A. Jamieson from F. Parsons and R. Crawford, and O. Crawford from Bill Parker.

Omemee—Goal, Mitchell; defence, B. Crawford, G. Parsons; centre, Parker; wings, Fox, O. Crawford; alternates, Jamieson, Deyell, Armstrong, F. Parsons, Fox, R. C. Crawford.

Utilities Leading

Utilities rolled high pinnage of 3070 and top single of 1070 the past week in the Mercantile Bowling League. Ethel Cochrane's 259 was best in ladies' singles and Verna Hopkins had top three of 662. Frank Worsencroft led men trundlers with a 274 single and 776 triple. Utilities blanked Prudential, and Braund's No. 1 whitewashed A & P. Braund's No. 2 and Loblaw's split evenly, as Lift Lock beat City Hall 3-1, and Austin's took a 3-1 win over Bond's.

Good threesomes for girls were: Kay Curtain, 628; Mary Morton, 578, and Shirley Berwick, 572. Men's were: Gord Leonard, 662; Bob Willshaw, 661; Harold Cawker, 640; Don Riggs, 623; Don Penrose 618, and George Gimblett, 617.

Lol Solman, noted Toronto sports promoter, died 20 years ago today. He built the Mutual Street Arena in Toronto where the Arenas and St. Pats played National Hockey League games in past years, and also built the old Maple Leaf Baseball stadium at Hanlan's Point across the harbor. He was president of the Toronto International League ball club at the time of his death.

Trenton Evens TVL Finals With Brintons

BELLEVILLE, March 24.—The Trenton Taximen evened their three-of-five Trent Valley Hockey League championship series here Thursday night when they defeated the Peterborough Brintons 5-3. The third game is scheduled for Peterborough Saturday night with the fourth back in Belleville on Tuesday.

About 1,300 fans equipped with noise-makers saw the teams stage typical Trent Valley League championship hockey.

The game was a hard fought, clean affair with referees Don Barrett and Red Carsons of Belleville handing out eight penalties —five of them going to Brintons.

The Taximen grabbed a one-goal lead in a sinless first period and added another in the second heat. They increased the lead to three in the third session before Brintons struck back with a pair. Trenton got that brace back and the visitors, driving hard to cut down the lead, popped in their third marker with a little over two minutes to go.

Scored First

Carr drew first blood for the winners early in the first period when he fired home Filion's pass. Jones took Barr's pass in the second, while Berardi was in the hoosegow, and Carr got his second goal of the third to start a driving third period.

B. Anderson sunk the biscuit for Brintons' first score after six minutes of play, and Willshaw added another 30 seconds later. Barr extended the margin on a neat passing play with Beale, who scored five minutes later.

K. Anderson scored Brintons' last goal near the end of hostilities.

Beale, Carr and Johnson went well for the winners, with B. Ridgemand in goal turning in a neat performance. The Andersons and Willshaw turned in good efforts for Brintons, with Byers coming up with a fine job in the net.

The teams

Trenton—Goal, B. Ridgeman; defence, Campney and Carr; centre, B. Johnson; wings, Filion and Johnson; alternates, Jones, Beale, Barr, Scott, Black, Istead, Leavey, Macdonald, Hill.

Peterborough—Goal, Byers; defence, Anderson and Riches; centre, Eakins; wings, Lawson and Richlark; alternates, Reid, B. Anderson, Willshaw, McIndoo, Hoard, Crowder, McCuaig, Berardi.

Referees—Don Barrett and Red Carson, Belleville.

Summary

First Period

Trenton—Carr (Filion) 3.06
Penalties—None.

Second Period

Trenton—Jones (Barr) 16:11
Penalties—Riches, Berardi, Black, McCuaig.

Third Period

Trenton—Carr 4:16
Brintons—B. Anderson (Berardi) 6:10
Brintons—Willshaw 6:40
Trenton—Beale (Carr) 10:50

Brintons—K. Anderson 17:48
Penalties—Crowder, Riches, Leavy, McDonald.

ENGLAND WINS

England Friday night drubbed the U.S. 10-2 in the consolation game for second place for the Winston Churchill hockey cup, won Thursday night by Canada.

In Friday's game the English team, most of them imports from Canada, rode the Americans hard from the start and stayed on top to the finish.

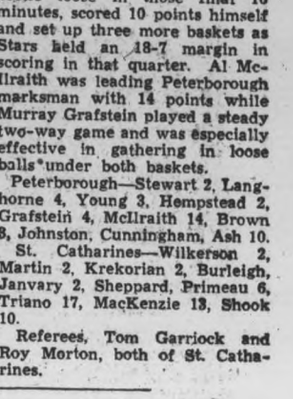
PCVS Juveniles Rubbed Out In Semi-Finals

ST. CATHARINES, March 24—A last quarter drive sparked by Slim Howie Triano gave St. Catharines Stars a 54-42 victory over Peterborough High School here on Thursday night. The 12-point win overcame the 8-point setback suffered by Stars in the opening game in Peterborough and gave them the right to meet Kitchener in the provincial juvenile basketball finals.

Until late in that final stanza Bev Goulding's Peterborough Quints appeared in little danger of losing their round lead. Stars held a slim 15-14 lead on the game in the first quarter, the clubs were tied 26-26 at half time and Stars once again took a 36-35 margin at the three-quarter mark, but were still seven down on the round. Held fairly well in check by a tight Peterborough defence earlier, Triano finally broke loose in those final 10 minutes, scored 10 points himself and set up three more baskets as Stars held an 18-7 margin in scoring in that quarter. Al McIlraith was leading Peterborough marksman with 14 points while Murray Grafstein played a steady two-way game and was especially effective in gathering in loose balls under both baskets.

Peterborough—Stewart 2, Langhorne 4, Young 3, Hempstead 2, Grafstein 4, McIlraith 14, Brown 3, Johnston, Cunningham, Ash 10.

St. Catharines—Wilkerson 2, Martin 2, Krekorian 2, Burleigh, Janvary 2, Sheppard, Primeau 6, Triano 17, MacKenzie 13, Shook 10.



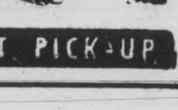
Referees, Tom Garriock and Roy Morton, both of St. Catharines.

Lacrosse Teams Okay 3-Man Commission

TORONTO, March 24 (CP).—Plans for a three-man commission to direct senior lacrosse in Ontario moved a step closer to realization Friday.

A meeting of eight senior lacrosse teams voted 5-to-3 in favor of setting up the commission. Represented at the meeting were Hamilton, St. Catharines, Owen Sound, Mimico, Weston, Brampton, Peterborough and Toronto.

At present senior league affairs are conducted by club representatives under supervision of the Ontario Lacrosse Association. A final decision will be made April 14.



WHIPPER WATSON, above, who will team up with Pat Flanagan against Hi Lee and Tommy O'Toole at the Brock Arena next Tuesday. Fans know what to expect when a team bout goes—barrels of action. The dynamic Indian grappler, Chief Suni War Cloud clashes with villainous Wee Willie Davis in the semi-final. Bill Stack opens with Kaye Bell. A starry card that should pack the Brock Arena.
